DOMINION OF CANADA

REPORT

FOR THE YEAR 1910

WILLIAM D. BOWEN
Archivist General

PRINTED BY THE GOVERNMENT OF CANADA

The Honourable

The Secretary of State,
Ottawa.

OTTAWA, May 20, 1927.

SIR,—I have the honour to submit to you the accompanying report on the work of the Public Archives for the year 1926.

It will be observed that large additions have been made in each of the departments.

The work of the copyists in the Public Record Office in London, and in the Archives des Colonies, the Bibliothèque Nationale and other repositories of historical papers in Paris has made available a considerable amount of additional documentary material to students of the history of Canada.

Two exceptionally valuable collections received during the past years are the papers of the eminent banking houses of the Baring Brothers and Glyn, Mills & Company. These institutions financed many of the most important undertakings in both Canada and the United States, and their papers are a mine of information on the economic and political history of both countries. Access to these papers was gained by Dr. Adam Shortt in 1925. Representations as to the desirability of having these papers accessible to Canadian and American students were made to the head of the Baring house, Lord Revelstoke, who is, happily, related to the families of two former Governors General of Canada, Lord Minto and Lord Grey, to both of whom Canada is largely indebted for the present standing of the Public Archives.

Lord Revelstoke willingly agreed to the Public Archives having the custody of all the papers of these banking houses which related to their transactions in North America down to the year 1871, and notified the Prime Minister to that effect.

Another notable gift is that of the late Earl Amherst of Montreal, Sevenoaks. It is a copy of the Atlantic Neptune, which was a possession of his famous ancestor Jeffrey, Lord Amherst, who received the capitulation of Canada from Governor Vaudreuil, on September 8, 1760. It was presented to Lord Amherst by the author, Colonel DesBarres. There are three volumes in the set, each fourteen inches wide by thirty-four inches in length. The first two volumes contain charts of the sea coasts of Nova Scotia, and the third of the sea coasts of New England. Besides the charts the volumes are enriched by one hundred plates of views along the Atlantic coast. Many of these plates do not appear in any other known copy of this work.

The absence of the appendices, which have usually accompanied the reports of the Archives, is accounted for by the fact that the papers which form the material of these appendices were last year published as separate volumes. The report on the Northcliffe Collection which contained the Monckton papers; the two volumes on Currency and Exchange; and the Catalogue of Pictures in the Public Archives were all published since the last report was issued.

Attention may be drawn to the increasing interest of scholars in the material held in the Public Archives. Many students, American as well as Canadian, spend the whole or a large part of the long vacation in the institution. A large, comfortable room has been furnished for them, conveniently situated between the Manuscript Room and the Library, and the assistance of the staff is at all times at their service.

Criticism has been directed to the delay which has ensued between the publication of the English and French versions of the reports. But this delay is in the interest of scholars as it requires a great deal of time to make a correct translation. A comparison of the early English and French versions of Government publications is sufficient to prove the need of greater accuracy.

It is suggested in future that whichever report is ready first shall be held until the translation is ready. In this way the French and English documents will appear at the same time.

In future, therefore, the Archives will publish a brief report of the work of the department similar to the present one and documents will be published when they are ready in both languages.

I have the honour to be, sir,

Your obedient servant,

A. G. DOUGHTY,

Deputy Minister.

REPORT OF THE PUBLIC ARCHIVES

FOR THE YEAR, 1926

INDEX AND INFORMATION DIVISION

Since the last report, 71,119 cards of the index of manuscripts were typewritten, classified and placed in their respective drawers. The index of the Quebec Gazette was also continued up to the year 1794 and 49,000 cards were added to it. Thirty years of this interesting old paper, the only newspaper published at that time, have now been indexed. 24,000 cards have also been received from our Montreal office, being the index of old registers of baptisms, marriages and burials in that city; the whole making a grand total of 144,119 cards added to our general index.

CLASSIFICATION

MILITARY RECORDS SECTION

The assembling and classification of the old military records in the custody of the Public Archives have been pursued with renewed vigour. The services of two employees of the Department of National Defence have been loaned and the work is proceeding under the direction of the chief of the branch.

I. Correspondence and Military papers of Upper and Lower Canada.

The classification and preparation for an index of the military correspondence and documents of Upper and Lower Canada dating from 1770, are now in progress. There are approximately a thousand portfolios of these documents, which are of great historical value.

II. Old Militia Books of Departmental Records and Registers of Militia.

Books of military records numbering over a thousand volumes, cover departmental records and the activities of the militia, volunteer and permanent forces. Some of these units date back to 1793 and the registers of officers are now classified and ready for reference.

III. Militia Pay-Rolls, Active Militia and Permanent Force.

Over 1,200 portfolios of vouchers have been gone through and all the military pay-rolls extracted therefrom. The classification of these pay-rolls is proceeding; they are being placed in portfolios and are now easy to consult. Many requests are received for verification of services from the Department of National Defence and old militiamen. These pay-lists date back to the year 1811 and cover all Canadian service from the War of 1812-15 to the South African War. They are now in order and ready for reference.

IV. Militia Department—Abstracts and Vouchers.

There are on file about 1,600 packages and portfolios of Militia Department abstracts and vouchers dating from 1898; these are now on the shelves ready for reference.

V. Records of the Great War.

The Department of National Defence has begun the transfer of the records of the Great War. Three thousand files of deceased officers are already in this section and placed in portfolios. It is expected that the balance of about seven thousand of these files will be received shortly.

S. SERIES

The reclassification of the S. Series containing the internal official correspondence of Lower Canada, 1760-1841, has also been undertaken and is now completed.

CUSTOMS DEPARTMENT

The records of the Customs Department, from 1846 to 1867, are now being examined, classified and put into portfolios; they will number about 200.

PUBLIC WORKS

The records of the Department of Public Works covering the years 1844 to 1867, which were transferred to the Public Archives some years ago, have now been sorted and placed in 321 portfolios; they are now ready for reference.

SEARCHES

Applications for information and copies of documents continue to pour in from all quarters. Since the last report, 1,609 searches have been made and they have proved successful in nearly all cases.

MAP AND CHART DIVISION

The total number of maps and plans in this department now exceeds 30,000 items. During the printing of the catalogue in 1912 more than one thousand maps were added to the collections and since that time the total number has more than doubled. Since the last report was published, the number has been increased by 470 maps and 10 atlases. These large acquisitions created a serious shortage of accommodation. Many of the maps and plans received had to be tied in bundles or stored.

Since the publication of the last report, however, the Map Division has been moved into more commodious quarters in the new wing where ample room is provided to classify and catalogue the material.

CLASSIFICATION, CATALOGUE AND INDEX

The classification adopted is geographic and follows the plan in use in the Colonial Office, the Library of Congress and elsewhere. Under this arrangement maps are sorted and classified into general divisions which cover a large geographical area and into subdivisions which cover a smaller area within each of the larger divisions. As an example the maps of Canada are classified under maps of the different provinces, which in turn are grouped under maps of the different cities and districts within each province. Following this classification, which for all practical purposes is now completed, the preparation of a catalogue and index to render the material more easily available for examination, became a matter of urgent necessity. This work is at present being done, more than half the maps having been catalogued and about one-third of the total number indexed. The index contains about 15,000 cards.

RESEARCHES

The applications for information received number 486. They deal with every section of the country from the Maritime Provinces to British Columbia and refer to the Labrador Boundary, the water-power right along the Ottawa river and many hundreds of smaller but vitally important subjects. In connection with these searches 764 photostat copies and tracings of maps were supplied to inquirers.

REPORT OF THE COMMISSIONERS

In compliance with the requirements of section 36 of the Civil Service Act, the Civil Service Commissioners submit their Eighteenth Annual Report, covering the transactions and affairs of the Commission for the calendar year 1926.

EXAMINATIONS

The commission conducted, during the year, over fifteen hundred individual examinations, at which the qualifications of more than fifteen thousand persons were tested.

Among the important positions filled by open competition were those of audit accountants, dairy produce graders, entomologists, archivists, investigators of values, medical officers, inspectors of Indian agencies, timber test engineers, assistant engineers, deputy grain inspectors, junior trade commissioners, inspectors of weights and measures, and inspectors of electricity and gas.

New examinations for postal helpers and immigration officers were devised and have proved very satisfactory to the departmental officials. The standard tests for stenographers and clerks also have been improved.

As in former years the commission has been assisted in its examinations by the services of scientific, professional and business men outside the government departments, as well as by departmental officers. To these gentlemen, whose names are given on page ix, the commission expresses its appreciation. In most cases they served as members of advisory examining boards without remuneration of any kind, and through their active interest the application of the merit system has been facilitated.

APPOINTMENTS, PROMOTIONS AND TRANSFERS

Tables showing the appointments, promotions and transfers made by the commission are shown in Appendix A, in connection with which the commissioners desire to point out that action in such cases is only taken after requisition therefor has been made by the departments concerned.

The tables show that 1,669 appointments of a permanent character were made, including 264 rural postmasters, and that there were 2,947 assignments for varying periods of temporary employment. Certificates were issued also for 1,402 promotions and transfers.

Reference has been made in previous reports to the operations of Orders in Council passed under the provisions of section 11 of the Civil Service Act, whereby permanent status was given to certain employees. Although the commission, in 1924, submitted a recommendation to His Excellency the Governor General in Council that these orders be rescinded, no action has yet been taken thereon and they are still in effect.

VETERAN AND DISABILITY PREFERENCE

The statutory preference in entrance examinations extended to veterans and pensioners of the Great War under section 39 (2) of the Civil Service Act has been faithfully administered by the commission. Of the 1,341 males appointed to permanent positions, 725 were ex-service men. Of the 2,156 males assigned for temporary employment, 934 were ex-service men. In this connection the commission is glad to express its appreciation of the co-operation and assistance which has been rendered by the ex-service men's organizations of Canada.

CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

SEPARATIONS

During the year 1,468 separations from the public service were effected. Of these, 1,092 were from permanent positions, 112 from seasonal, and 264 from postmasterships.

SUPERANNUATION

Under the Civil Service Superannuation Act, the Civil Service Commission is required to report as to whether or not the granting of a superannuation or retiring allowance will be in the public interest. During the year the commission approved of granting annuities in connection with 124 retirements.

CLASSIFICATION

In conformity with its policy of considering the classification of units as a whole, rather than individual positions, the commission has attempted to discourage the submission of single cases for reappraisal, except where there has been a material change in the duties and responsibilities of the position. A certain measure of co-operation has been received from departments, but the commission is still of the opinion that the number of individual cases which it is asked to consider is far too high. Certain departments find it more convenient to submit almost every request for higher compensation for the commission's attention rather than to deal with undeserving applications summarily. This practice results in the waste of much time, as the amount occupied in investigating an unsound case is very often as much as that spent on one of undoubted merit.

With the fixing of establishments in departments, the number of single positions considered is being very greatly reduced. In one department where an establishment was prepared for every branch, some four years ago, there have been very few requests for higher compensation to which the department itself was not able to attend, and the changes which have occurred, except in those branches where a much greater volume of work was being dealt with, have been negligible.

The commission has continued to reduce and combine classes and it is expected that the number will be still further reduced.

SALARY REVISION

The commission has made an intensive study of salary conditions in the Civil Service, both as regards special classes and also the more general salary groups. Much valuable information has been collected, including exhaustive figures from municipal and business organizations in Canada. The commission has received a number of delegations from Civil Service organizations which have had proposals to make on salary revision.

ORGANIZATION

Surveys of a number of branches of departments have been made, either in the course of reorganization or for the purpose of providing a set establishment. Minor revisions in existing establishments have been undertaken, and too great stress cannot be laid on the fact that once an establishment for a unit has been drawn up any future changes can be accomplished easily and expeditiously. In addition to several smaller organizations, establishments have been set up during the year for the following branches of departments:

Immigration and Colonization:

- (a) Commissioner's Branch.
- (b) Pacific Division
- (c) Outside Service—Women's Division.

Interior:

- (a) Geodetic Survey.
- (b) Dominion Lands Branch, Western Division.
- (c) Mining Inspection Office, Calgary.

Marine and Fisheries:

Radiotelegraph Service.

Post Office:

Secretarial Branch, Montreal, P.O.

Public Printing and Stationery—

- (a) Distribution Branch.
- (b) Shipping and Receiving Section.

Whenever a position becomes vacant and is filled by promotion from within the department an effort is made to reduce the organization by the abolition of the junior position rendered vacant by the employee's promotion. The commission has received considerable assistance from most departments in this effort to reduce the cost of operating the service.

Another way in which economies have been effected is by the transfer of positions from units where they are no longer required to branches where the services of additional employees appear to be necessary. This obviates the creation of additional positions.

A survey of the Forestry and Natural Resources Intelligence Branches, Department of the Interior, is now in progress. The work of both these services has increased to a marked extent since they were classified originally, and a general revision of organization and classification has become necessary. An attempt is being made to reduce a large number of classes peculiar to these branches by grouping them in general grades with a broad rather than a specific definition of duties.

OBSERVANCE OF THE CIVIL SERVICE ACT AND REGULATIONS

Section 4 (b) of the Civil Service Act places upon the commission the duty of reporting "upon the violations of any of the provisions of this Act, or of any of the regulations made thereunder." The commissioners have pleasure in reporting that on the whole there has been an improvement in the observance of the law and a steady advance in the spirit of co-operation existing between the commission and the departments.

Attention is, however, called to the following instances in which it is believed a further improvement could be made.

Acting Appointments:

In their last report the commissioners drew attention to the practice, which has frequently been found to exist, of placing officers in vacant positions in an acting capacity for considerable periods of time before asking the Commission to take steps to fill the vacancies either by promotion or by open competition. When the competition is finally held, the temporary incumbent of the position has obviously an unfair advantage over other competitors. The commission accordingly requests that requisitions for appointments or promotions be filed at as early a date as possible, so that when the position in question becomes vacant, there will be no necessity for an acting appointment, but the new appointee will be ready to take over the duties.

Delays in Promotions:

The commissioners have again to refer to the considerable number of complaints which have been received regarding the delays which have taken place in connection with promotions in certain departments. In the great majority of such cases inquiry has disclosed the fact that the delay has been caused by the failure of the department concerned to furnish the commission, with reasonable expedition, with the reports upon the qualifications of the candidates in question, upon which, in large measure, selections for promotion are made. When these departmental reports are furnished promptly and promotions are allowed to proceed without hindrance the result is decidedly beneficial to the public service, as protracted delays and the dissatisfaction and uncertainty which they arouse in the minds of the employees are bound to react against their efficiency and morale.

Delays in the Installation of Appointees:

In certain cases the persons who have been selected and certified by the commission in accordance with the provisions of the Civil Service Act for appointments to vacant positions have not been installed in these positions by the departments without what appears to the commissioners to be undue delay. In some cases no steps have yet been taken to install in office the candidates who, for months past, have been certified therefor, but persons for whose employment no legal authority exists have been placed in office by a department and retained. While departmental conditions in exceptional circumstances may render immediate action in such cases inadvisable, the commissioners are of opinion that when reasonable latitude in this regard has been allowed the persons who have been selected and certified as required by section 43 of the Civil Service Act should be installed in office by the departments concerned without further delay.

Unnecessary Requisitions:

While as a rule departmental requisitions for appointments have been found to be based upon an actual need for the services of additional employees, the commissioners regret to state that in a few cases, rather than accept the person certified by the commission after competition as provided by law, the department concerned has withdrawn its requisition, leaving the impression that the latter has been designed to provide employment for some particular individual rather than to obtain additional and justifiable assistance for the work of the department. Needless to say, the system of open competition prescribed by the Civil Service Act has done much to eliminate the possibility of any extensive practice of this kind.

Probation and Rejection.

Section 13 of the Civil Service Act provides a probationary period in connection with appointments, during which the appointee, if found unsatisfactory, may be rejected by the deputy head of the department to which he has been assigned. This provision of the law has been observed mainly in a spirit of fairness and justice, but in some cases, in the opinion of the commissioners, a reasonable opportunity has not been afforded those assigned to demonstrate their qualifications for the positions in question. It may be noted that out of 1,669 appointments to permanent positions made during the year, only 23 appointees, or less than 1½ per cent, were rejected under this section of the law—an indication of the suitability for their posts of those selected and assigned by the commission. The commissioners realize, however, that even the best examination is only an approximate indication of a candidate's ability to perform certain duties, and therefore urge upon the departments the fullest use of the probationary period, in order that the most satisfactory type of public servant may be selected and retained.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

W. J. ROCHE,
Chairman.

NEWTON MacTAVISH,
J. EMILE TREMBLAY,
Commissioners.

March 23, 1927.

THE REPORT OF THE UNDER-SECRETARY OF STATE FOR EXTERNAL AFFAIRS

The Right Hon. W. L. MACKENZIE KING, C.M.G., M.P., Secretary of State for External Affairs, Ottawa.

SIR,—I submit herewith my annual report upon the work of the department during the past year.

Correspondence by post and cable with the Secretary of State for Dominion Affairs and with His Majesty's Ambassador at Washington, through the Governor General, and with the High Commissioner for Canada in London, the Commissioner General in Paris and the Canadian Advisory Officer, Geneva, has been extensive and increasing. Correspondence with the other Dominions and with consular representatives of foreign powers in Canada is also growing. In most cases, the department serves as a clearing-house, transmitting inquiries and replies to the departments primarily concerned; other questions, falling within the scope of the duties of this department, are dealt with direct.

In relations with the United States, questions affecting boundary waters, the interpretation and enforcement of the Conventions of January, 1924, on the regulation of the liquor traffic and of June, 1924, on the suppression of smuggling, claims for damages, extradition and deportation questions, have been prominent.

In view of the increasing range, importance, and urgency of questions arising with the United States, it was decided that Canada should be represented at Washington by an Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary, and the Honourable Vincent Massey has accordingly been appointed as such representative and will shortly take up the duties of the position.

CONFERENCES

Imperial Conference, 1926.

An Imperial Conference was convened at London in October, the sessions lasting till nearly the end of November. In addition to the representatives of Great Britain, representatives were present from Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, the Irish Free State, India, and Newfoundland. Among the subjects of discussion were the relations between the various parts of the Empire, relations with foreign powers, defence, civil air communication and economic questions, such as oversea settlement, inter-imperial trade, communications, etc. Canada's delegates were the Prime Minister, the Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, and the Minister of Justice, the Hon. Ernest Lapointe.

Assembly of the League of Nations.

A Special Session of the Assembly of the League of Nations was convened at Geneva on the 8th March, 1926, to consider the question of the admission to the League of Germany, Canada being represented by the Hon. R. Dandurand, the Hon. P. Larkin and the Hon. P. Roy. Owing to difficulties arising as to the allocation of seats on the Council, consequent on Germany's admission, it was not found possible to come to a decision in the matter, and her entrance to the League was postponed for consideration at the League meeting in September.

The Seventh Assembly of the League of Nations met at Geneva on the 6th September, 1926; the Right Hon. Sir George Foster, the Hon. P. Roy, and Sir Herbert Ames attended as Canada's representatives. Germany was admitted to membership in the League and to permanent membership in the Council. Rules were adopted for the election of nine non-permanent members of the Council, and resolutions were passed approving the Draft Slavery Convention, regarding the International Economic Conference, Greek Refugees Settlement, and other minor questions.

Conference of States signatories of the Protocol of the Statute of the Permanent Court of International Justice.

A conference of such States was held at Geneva on the 1st September, just prior to the League of Nations Assembly, Canada being represented by the Right Hon. Sir George Foster, for the purpose of considering the reservations and conditions made by the United States with regard to its adhesion to the statute. The conference adopted a final act expressing views which it was considered should be acceptable to the United States and intended to serve as a basis for the replies to be returned to that country by the individual powers to whom it was to be circulated.

International Labour Conference.

The eighth and ninth sessions of the International Labour Conference were held at Geneva, the former from the 26th May to the 5th June, 1926, the latter from the 7th to the 24th June, 1926. At the former a draft convention concerning inspection of emigrants, and recommendations concerning the protection of emigrant women and girls on board ship were adopted. At the latter, approval was given to draft conventions concerning seamen's articles of agreement, and concerning the repatriation of seamen, as well as to recommendations concerning the repatriation of masters and apprentices and in regard to the general principles for the inspection of the conditions of work of seamen. Mr. L. Pacaud, Secretary, High Commissioner's Office, London, and Dr. W. A. Riddell, Canadian Advisory Officer to the League of Nations, were Canada's delegates at this conference.

Passport Conference.

A general conference on the passport regime was summoned by the Council of the League of Nations to meet at Geneva on the 12th May, 1926, in which Canada took part, being represented by Dr. W. A. Riddell, Canadian League of Nations Officer, and Mr. J. Bruce Walker, Director of Emigration for Canada in London. The results of the conference suggested no serious change in Canadian practice with regard to passports.

International Sanitary Conference.

An International Sanitary Conference to revise the International Sanitary Convention of the 17th January, 1912, was assembled at Paris, on the 10th May, 1926, Canada being represented by Dr. J. A. Amyot, Deputy Minister of Health, who received full powers as plenipotentiary, and signed the convention adopted by the conference on the 21st June.

International Geological Congress.

At the 14th International Geological Congress held at Madrid in May, 1926, Canada was represented by Dr. E. R. Faribault, of the Geological Branch, Department of Mines.

Pan-Pacific Science Congress.

On the invitation of the Japanese Government, Dr. H. M. Tory, President of the University of Alberta, was delegated to represent Canada at the Third Pan-Pacific Science Congress held at Tokio from the 27th of October to the 9th of November.

Dairy Congress.

Canada also participated in the 7th International Dairy Congress held at Paris in May, 1926, Mr. W. A. Wilson of the Department of Agriculture acting as her representative.

Third International Congress for Lifesaving and Prevention of Accidents.

This congress was held at Amsterdam from the 7th to the 11th September, 1926. Canada's representative was Mr. A. B. Muddiman, her Trade Commissioner in Holland.

CONVENTIONS

International Convention for the Protection of Industrial Property.

This convention was signed at The Hague on the 6th November, 1925, on behalf of Canada, by Mr. F. H. Palmer, Canadian Trade Commissioner in the Netherlands, as the outcome of the conference of the International Union for the Protection of Industrial Property held to revise the previous convention.

International Sanitary Convention of the 21st June, 1926.

This convention, as revised at the International Sanitary Conference held at Paris, was signed by Dr. J. A. Amyot, as Canadian plenipotentiary, on the 21st of June, 1926.

International Slavery Convention.

On the 25th September, 1926, at Geneva, Sir George Foster, as Canadian plenipotentiary, signed the Slavery Convention which had been approved by the Seventh Assembly of the League of Nations, and the object of which is to give fuller effect to the Brussels Act of 1890, and the Convention of St. Germain-en-Laye of 1919 which dealt with the suppression of slavery.

Labour Conventions.

Draft Conventions (a) regarding the minimum age for admission of children to employment at sea, and (b) concerning unemployment indemnity in case of loss of a ship, adopted at the Second International Labour Conference, 1920; and further draft conventions (c) regarding the minimum age for admission of young persons to employment as trimmers and stokers, and (d) concerning compulsory medical examination of children and young persons employed at sea, adopted at the Third General Conference, 1921, were ratified by Canada, the ratifications being communicated to the League of Nations, and duly registered at the Secretariat on the 31st March, 1926.

Agreement with Norway regarding information as to Lunatics.

By an exchange of notes effected between the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs and the Norwegian Chargé d'Affaires in London, the agreement for the reciprocal notification of certain particulars regarding lunatics was made applicable to Canada as from the 1st August, 1926.

Arbitration Conventions with Denmark and Iceland.

With Canada's concurrence, the Arbitration Convention signed at London the 25th October, 1925, between Great Britain and Denmark, and renewed with Denmark and with Iceland on the 1st May, 1922, was, by treaties of the 4th June, 1926, renewed for a further period of five years from the 4th May, 1926, with the substitution of the Permanent Court of International Justice for the Permanent Court of Arbitration.

Agreement with Portugal regarding Tonnage Measurement.

An agreement was concluded with Portugal at London on the 20th May, 1926, with the consent of Canada, to provide for the reciprocal recognition of the regulations of the two countries relating to the measurement of the tonnage of merchant ships.

Commercial Treaties with Germany and Siam.

It might be noted that under the Commercial Treaty between Great Britain and Germany, ratified the 8th September, 1925, as also under the Commercial Treaty with Siam of the 14th July, 1925, ratified the 30th March, 1926, Canada, though not a party to either, is assured, on terms of reciprocity, of most-favoured-nation treatment for her products.

I desire to express my satisfaction with the manner in which the members of the staff have performed their various duties throughout the year.

REPORT
DEPUTY MINISTER OF LABOUR FOR THE FISCAL YEAR ENDED MARCH 31, 1926

To the Hon. PETER HEENAN, Minister of Labour.

SIR,—I have the honour to submit a report on the work of the Department of Labour for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1926, including statements of proceedings under the following statutes and ordinances administered under the jurisdiction of the Minister of Labour, namely: (1) Fair Wages Resolution of the House of Commons, 1900, (2) Conciliation and Labour Act, 1906, (3) Industrial Disputes Investigation Act, 1907, (4) Government Annuities Act, 1908, (5) Employment Offices Co-ordination Act, 1918, (6) Technical Education Act, 1919, and (7) Combines Investigation Act, 1923.

Information was collected regularly during the year, and statistics were compiled and published, with regard to strikes and lockouts, retail prices and cost of living, wages and hours of labour, fatal industrial accidents, industrial agreements, employment and unemployment, organization of employers and workpeople, and other labour matters.

Much effective work was accomplished, as in former years, by way of conciliation in connection with industrial disputes coming to the department's attention, serious friction between employers and workmen having been removed in many instances through the efforts of its fair wages officers and otherwise. This conciliation work is one of the most important phases of the department's activities, and many industrial conflicts have been averted or terminated as a result of departmental intervention.

While the record as to industrial disputes for the year 1925 is not favourable, one industry alone, that of mining, was responsible for about ninety per cent of the time loss caused by strikes, and this in turn was due principally to a single dispute in the coal fields of Nova Scotia, involving 12,000 coal miners and which lasted for over five months. The annual report for the fiscal year 1924-25 contained a reference to a Board of Conciliation and Investigation established under the Industrial Disputes Investigation Act in January, 1925, to inquire into this dispute. The employees concerned had declined, however, to appear before the board, which, in virtue of the decision of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council delivered a few days previously declaring the Industrial Disputes Investigation Act as it then stood to be ultra vires of the federal power, attempted only a friendly offer of assistance to the disputing parties. The board's efforts by way of mediation had proved to be ineffectual and work ceased on March 6. A settlement was not effected until August 10, 1925, when the men returned to work pending an inquiry by a Royal Commission appointed by the Government of the province of Nova Scotia.

INDUSTRIAL DISPUTES INVESTIGATION ACT, 1907

The present status of the Industrial Disputes Investigation Act is explained in some detail in the first chapter of this report.

With respect to proceedings under the Act, the year was unusual in that the establishment of a Board of Conciliation and Investigation was unnecessary in the case of each of the applications received, and these were four only in number. Working agreements were reached in three of the disputes as a result of renewed negotiations whilst steps were being taken looking to the establishment of boards. In the fourth case, an inter-union dispute being involved, it was held that there was no ground for procedure under the statute.

It may be stated that, while few applications for the establishment of Boards of Conciliation and Investigation were received during the fiscal year ended March 31, 1926, a marked revival of activity in proceedings under the statute is being witnessed during the early months of the succeeding fiscal year, the machinery of the Act having been already invoked in about a dozen cases.

COMBINES INVESTIGATION ACT

Investigations of several applications under the Combines Investigation Act, 1923, were carried on during the year by the registrar or by a specially appointed commissioner, and considerable attention was also given to the many informal complaints received.

The first prosecution arising out of the operation of the Act took place during the year in connection with an alleged combine in the distribution of fruits and vegetables in Western Canada. During 1924-25 a commissioner conducted an inquiry in this case and reported that the evidence disclosed the existence of a combine of jobbing and brokerage houses which was operating against the interests of the Canadian public. Thereupon the Dominion Government, at the request of the provincial authorities and with their co-operation, and urged thereto by resolutions from numerous fruit growers' organizations and other public bodies, instituted proceedings against certain individuals and corporations associated with the alleged combine. Mr. J. C. McRuer, formerly Assistant Crown Attorney for Toronto, was appointed general prosecutor on behalf of the Dominion. The trial resulted in the conviction, on charges of conspiracy, of four individuals and four companies, and in the imposition of fines amounting in the aggregate to $200,000.

The registrar completed his investigation commenced during the preceding year into a combine alleged to exist amongst potato dealers in New Brunswick. His report was to the effect that the evidence established the fact of the existence of various agreements and arrangements resulting in the limitation of competition in the buying, transporting and sale of potatoes to the detriment, or against the interest, of the public. The report and evidence were later submitted to the provincial authorities for such action as might be considered desirable.

Mr. F. A. McGregor, for many years Private Secretary to the Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, was appointed Registrar of the Combines Investigation Act on September 8, 1925. Mr. McGregor succeeded Mr. Harry Hereford, who had performed the duties of registrar since the enactment of the Combines Investigation Act in 1923.

UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF REGULATION

The policy of the Dominion Government during the winter of 1925-26 in relation to unemployment matters was announced in the House of Commons on January 28, 1926, and was subsequently set forth in an Order in Council (P.C. 315) dated March 2, 1926.

Although regarding the problem of unemployment relief as primarily one of local responsibility, and in the second instance the responsibility of the province, the Federal Government indicated its willingness, where distress existed as the result of unemployment and the situation reached a point beyond the control of the municipality, to co-operate with the local and provincial authorities in bearing a share of expenditures for the relief of workers unable to obtain employment or a portion of any increased cost due to carrying on municipal public works during the winter months. It will be recalled that this practice was adopted in the first years of unemployment following the war. The text of the Order in Council of March 2, 1926, is as follows:—

P.C. 315

CERTIFIED to be a true copy of a Minute of a Meeting of the Committee of the Privy Council, approved by His Excellency the Governor General on the 2nd March, 1926.

The Committee of the Privy Council have had before them a report, dated 25th February, 1926, from the Acting Minister of Labour, submitting that representations have been received requesting financial aid from the Federal Government for the relief of distress due to unemployment, and that consideration has been given to the means which would seem best adapted to the relief of cases of distress resulting from unemployment.

The minister observes that the question of unemployment relief is fundamentally a municipal and provincial responsibility, that federal action must therefore supplement municipal and provincial efforts, must be designed on lines permitting close and effective co-operation with and supervision by municipal and provincial authorities, and must be proportioned by the efforts of those authorities.

The minister, having these various points in mind, recommends that the following federal policy of basic principles on unemployment relief be approved:—

1. That, where distress exists as the result of unemployment and the situation has reached a point beyond the financial resources of the municipality, and the municipality having approached the province, and the province makes proper representation to the federal authorities, the Federal Government will contribute one-third of the disbursements made on account of unemployment relief, conditional upon the participation on an equal basis by the province concerned.
2. That, where in certain provinces there are unorganized districts without municipal government in which unemployment exists, and the Provincial Government finds it necessary to administer a system of unemployment relief, the Federal Government will reimburse the Provincial Government concerned to the extent of one-half of such disbursements for relief.
3. It is the desire of the federal authorities that the provisions of this ordinance be interpreted to cover only disbursements for food, clothing and shelter, and, under certain conditions, medical attendance.

The minister further recommends that the Federal Government agree to participate in the cost of work provided by municipalities to relieve unemployment on the following basis:—

- (a) Municipality to bear the normal cost, that is to say, the cost of carrying on the said work in the normal working season.
- (b) Estimate of normal cost to be approved by Federal Government's engineers in the Department of Public Works.
- (c) That Municipal, Provincial and Federal Governments bear equally and jointly the actual cost over the estimated normal cost, thereby encouraging the creation of employment where possible.

The above provisions to be in effect from January 1, 1926, up and until March 31, 1926.

(Sgd.) E. J. LEMAIRE,
Clerk of the Privy Council.

Accounts from the municipalities, which, in accordance with the system adopted, must come through the provincial authorities, had not been rendered at the close of the fiscal year, and the federal liabilities necessarily remained over for the succeeding fiscal year. At the time of writing accounts are only in part to hand, but the total federal liabilities under this heading for the winter of 1925-26, and payable during the fiscal year 1926-27, may be estimated at approximately $60,000.

INTERNATIONAL LABOUR ORGANIZATION

The seventh session of the International Labour Conference was opened at Geneva, Switzerland, on May 19, and ended on June 10, 1925, the delegates representing the Government of Canada being Mr. H. H. Ward, of Ottawa, Deputy Minister of Labour for Canada, and Dr. W. A. Riddell, of Geneva, Switzerland, Dominion of Canada Advisory Officer, League of Nations. Four draft conventions and four recommendations were adopted by the conference. The conference elected a new Governing Body of the International Labour Office for a period of three years, its composition being similar to that of its predecessor, with the exception that, among the representatives of governments, representatives of Argentine and Norway take the place of representatives of Chile and Finland. Mr. Tom Moore, President of the Trades and Labour Congress of Canada, was again chosen as one of the six workers' representatives. Canada, having been in 1923 declared by the Council of the League of Nations to be one of the eight states of chief industrial importance in the membership of the International Labour Conference, of course retains its seat on the Governing Body. Five meetings of the Governing Body were held during the fiscal year, Dr. W. A. Riddell, Canadian Advisory Officer to the League of Nations, substituting in each case for the Minister of Labour as the Canadian Government representative.

As required by the terms of the Treaties of Peace, the draft conventions and recommendations emanating from the annual conferences are in all cases brought by the Canadian Government to the attention of the competent legislative authorities. While certain of the proposals have been regarded by the federal law officers as coming within federal jurisdiction, the majority have been deemed to be within provincial authority and have been accordingly referred to the several provincial governments for attention.

The draft convention limiting the hours of work in industrial undertakings to eight in the day and forty-eight in the week and which was adopted by the International Labour Conference in 1919 was referred during 1924 to the Supreme Court of Canada for an advisory judgment. The decision of the Supreme Court was made known on June 11, 1925, and was to the effect that the subject-matter of the draft convention is generally within the competence of the provincial legislatures, but that the authority vested in the latter does not enable them to give the force of law to provisions which would apply to servants of the Dominion Government or to legislate for those parts of Canada which are not within the boundaries of a province.

The Canada Shipping Act was amended in 1924 with a view to permitting the ratification of four draft conventions of the International Labour Conference relating to the employment conditions of seamen. A proclamation was issued on October 10, 1925, making the amended provisions of the Canada Shipping Act effective as from January 1, 1926. These four draft conventions were subsequently ratified on behalf of Canada and the ratifications registered with the League of Nations.

Two vacancies on the staff of the International Labour Office were filled during the year by the appointment of Canadians. Mr. Norman Mackenzie, a Canadian in attendance at Cambridge University, England, was appointed to the position of Assistant Legal Adviser, and the services of Professor Mack Eastman, of the staff of the University of British Columbia, Vancouver, were secured for the position of Chief of General Studies in the Research Division. In each case the position was advertised in the leading newspapers of the Dominion and the appointment was made by the International Labour Office following a report on the qualifications of the candidates by specially designated judges.

CANADIAN NATIONAL SAFETY LEAGUE

During each of the last three years the financial appropriation of the Department of Labour has contained a grant to the Canadian National Safety League, a private association maintaining a "safety first" campaign throughout the Dominion.

The prevention of accidents through systematized efforts is now recognized as of the utmost importance in the conservation of human life and economic resources. This safety work involves an educational process which has been effectively set in motion in several countries by voluntary organizations working in co-operation with governmental agencies. Other institutions which embrace in their aims the prevention of accidents unite their efforts as a rule with the national safety body.

In Canada the pioneer associated effort to reduce accidents was undertaken in the province of Ontario, where a safety league has been in existence for a period of about twelve years and has been doing effective work in teaching safety principles from the schools up and in all branches of industry. The Ontario Safety League co-operates with all other organizations, public authorities and industrial enterprises engaged in safety work.

As an outgrowth of the Ontario Safety League a national organization was created in 1918, designed to spread safety propaganda to all parts of the Dominion. The objects of the Dominion-wide league, as set forth in its federal charter, are as follows:—

1. To safeguard and protect the public, especially children, from the dangers of automobiles, railroads, street railways, and all other forms of vehicular traffic on the public highways in the Dominion of Canada.
2. To educate the public through schools, churches, literature and all channels of publicity upon matters pertinent to public safety.
3. To minimize the injuring and killing of persons employed in stores, factories, workshops and all departments of industrial and mercantile activity, by instilling into the minds of employer and employee the full meaning of "Safety Always".
4. To co-operate, so far as lies in the power of the league, in preventing the useless destruction of life and property by fire.
5. To advocate and secure possible remedies and preventatives and to assist in the enactment and enforcement of ordinances requisite to carry out the foregoing by means of—
 - (a) Bulletins, education, or any other method of propaganda that may from time to time be considered advisable.
 - (b) To be the clearing house of all information, bulletin service, safety films and all literature bearing on accident prevention work, issued under arrangements to the various provincial leagues.

The Canadian National Safety League planned in 1923 to launch a nation-wide campaign of education in accident prevention work and to inaugurate safety first organizations in the various provinces founded on the model of the Ontario Safety League. The class of work being, in the protection it affords the Canadian citizenship, essentially of a national character and in the national interest, the efforts of the National League met with a favourable response on the part of the Federal Government, which passed a vote at the 1923 parliamentary session providing for financial assistance to the league amounting to $25,000. At the 1924 and 1925 sessions further grants to the league were made of $10,000 in each case.

The executive of the National League reports that since 1923 the organization of the eastern provinces has been completed and a Maritime Safety League now operates in the provinces of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, and Prince Edward Island. In Quebec a provincial safety league has been established, and in Manitoba the league which had been formed in 1920 was reorganized early in 1925.

OTHER BRANCHES OF WORK

The work of the Fair Wages Branch of the department proceeded on the usual lines, 127 fair wages schedules and clauses having been furnished for Government contracts. This brings the number of fair wages schedules and clauses prepared by the department since the adoption of the Fair Wages Resolution in 1900 to 4,273.

The Employment Service Branch of the department continued its efforts without material change. The total number of persons placed in employment during the fiscal year 1925-26 was 408,487, or 67,668 more placements than recorded during the preceding fiscal period. Included in the year's placements were those of 7,688 handicapped ex-service men.

Public interest showed a gratifying response to the Dominion Government Annuities scheme, new contracts issued during the fiscal year numbering 668, as compared with 486 during the preceding period.

The impetus to vocational education occasioned by the federal financial grants to the various provinces under the terms of the Technical Education Act, 1918, was evidenced by further expansion in each province during the year. The outstanding development was the opening of a new printing school in Montreal, which combines instruction in the school with industrial training. Admission to the courses is limited to apprentices in the printing industry, the students alternating a week in the shop and a week in the school. An advisory committee, comprising an equal number of master printers and printing tradesmen, acts in close co-operation with the school board and provincial authorities in determining the policies and programs to be adopted.

The Labour Gazette, the official journal of the department, was issued regularly as in previous years in both English and French, the combined circulation of the two editions averaging 12,037 copies monthly. With the issue of September, 1925, the Labour Gazette completed twenty-five years of publication. During the quarter of a century just closed there has been a gradual increase in the number of subjects covered by the Labour Gazette and in the comprehensiveness of the information supplied. The publication is recognized as an authority on industrial and economic matters, and the statements printed in its pages are believed to be of special value in the industrial world.

The customary annual reports appeared during the year on (1) Labour Organization in Canada, (2) Labour Legislation in Canada, and (3) Organization in Industry, Commerce and the Professions in Canada. Pamphlets in the form of supplements to the Labour Gazette were issued as follows: (1) Wages and Hours of Labour in Canada, 1920-25; (2) Prices in Canada and in Other Countries in 1925; (3) Report of Royal Commission on Coal Mining in Nova Scotia; (4) Old Age Pension Systems Existing in Various Countries. Reprints were made of the article on Strikes and Lockouts in Canada, 1925, which appeared in the Labour Gazette of February, 1926. Four bulletins were added to the vocational education series. A large proportion of the time and energies of many members of the staff was involved in the preparation and publication of these reports, which have a wide distribution and are believed to perform a useful purpose in furnishing accurate information to the public on the important subjects involved.

I have the honour to be, sir,

Your obedient servant,

H. H. WARD,

Deputy Minister of Labour and Registrar of Boards of Conciliation and Investigation

DEPARTMENT OF LABOUR, OTTAWA.

I. INDUSTRIAL DISPUTES INVESTIGATION ACT, 1907NINETEENTH ANNUAL REPORT OF PROCEEDINGS, BEING FOR THE FISCAL YEAR ENDING MARCH 31, 1926

During the 1925 session of the Dominion Parliament legislation was enacted amending the Industrial Disputes Investigation Act, 1907, and limiting its application to disputes not within the exclusive legislative authority of any province. The necessity for the introduction of the amendments in Parliament was occasioned by the judgment of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council delivered on January 20, 1925, and which pronounced the Industrial Disputes Investigation Act in its then existing form to be beyond the competence of the Federal Parliament. While the amending Bill was receiving consideration by the House of Commons three sections were added with a view to making more effective the provisions of sections 15, 57 and 58 of the main statute. The amendments received royal assent on June 12, 1925, i.e., within the present fiscal period. In view of the importance of the amending legislation, its text was included in last year's annual report and is repeated here for convenience. Section 1 embodies new clauses. The changes incorporated in sections 2, 3 and 4 are indicated by italics.

AN ACT TO AMEND THE INDUSTRIAL DISPUTES INVESTIGATION ACT, 1907

[Assented to 12th June, 1925.]

HIS MAJESTY, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate and House of Commons of Canada, enacts as follows:—

1. The Industrial Disputes Investigation Act, 1907, is amended by inserting after section two thereof the following:—

"APPLICATION OF ACT.

"2a. This Act shall apply to the following disputes only:—

(i) Any dispute in relation to employment upon or in connection with any work, undertaking or business which is within the legislative authority of the Parliament of Canada, including but not so as to restrict the generality of the foregoing:

- (a) works, undertakings or business operated or carried on for or in connection with navigation and shipping, whether inland or maritime;
- (b) lines of steam or other ships, railways, canals, telegraphs and other works and undertakings connecting any province with any other or others of the provinces, or extending beyond the limits of the province;
- (c) lines of steamships between a province and any British or foreign country;
- (d) ferries between any province and any British or foreign country, or between two provinces;
- (e) works, undertakings or business belonging to, carried on or operated by aliens, including foreign corporations immigrating into Canada to carry on business;
- (f) such works as, although wholly situate within the province, have been or may be declared by the Parliament of Canada to be for the general advantage of Canada, or for the advantage of two or more of the provinces;
- (g) works, undertakings or business of any company or corporation incorporated by or under the authority of the Parliament of Canada.

(ii) Any dispute which is not within the exclusive legislative authority of any provincial legislature to regulate in the manner provided by this Act.

(iii) Any dispute which the Governor in Council may by reason of any real or apprehended national emergency declare to be subject to the provisions of this Act.

(iv) Any dispute which is within the exclusive legislative jurisdiction of any province and which by the legislation of the province is made subject to the provisions of this Act.

"2b. The provisions of this Act shall be construed as relating only to the application of The Industrial Disputes Investigation Act, 1907, and not so as to extend the meaning of the word 'employer' as defined by section two, paragraph (c), of the said Act."

2. Subparagraph (b) of paragraph two of section fifteen of The Industrial Disputes Investigation Act, 1907, as enacted by section two of chapter twenty-nine of the statutes of 1910, is repealed, and the following is substituted therefor:—

"(b) A statutory declaration setting forth that, failing an adjustment of the dispute or a reference thereof by the minister to a board, to the best of the knowledge and belief of the declarant a lockout or strike will be declared, and (except where the application is made by an employer in consequence of an intended change in wages or hours proposed by the said employer) that the necessary authority to declare such lockout or strike has been obtained; or, where a dispute directly affects employees in more than one province and such employees are members of a trade union having a general committee authorized to carry on negotiations in disputes between employers and employees and so recognized by the employer, a statutory declaration by the chairman or president and by the secretary of such committee setting forth that, failing an adjustment of the dispute or a reference thereof by the minister to a board, to the best of the knowledge and belief of the declarants a strike will be declared, that the dispute has been the subject of negotiations between the committee of the employees and the employer, or that it has been impossible to secure conference or to enter into negotiations, that all efforts to obtain a satisfactory settlement have failed, and that there is no reasonable hope of securing a settlement by further effort or negotiations."

3. Section fifty-seven of the said Act, as amended by section five of chapter twenty-nine of the statutes of 1910, and as further amended by section five of chapter twenty-nine of the statutes of 1920, is repealed, and the following is substituted therefor:—

"57. Employers and employees shall give at least thirty days' notice of an intended or desired change affecting conditions of employment with respect to wages or hours; and in the event of such intended or desired change resulting in a dispute, it shall be unlawful for the employer to make effective a proposed change in wages or hours or for the employees to go on strike, until the dispute has been finally dealt with by a board, and a copy of its report has been delivered through the registrar to both the parties affected; the application for the appointment of a board shall be made by the employers or employees proposing the change in wages or in hours; neither of those parties shall alter the conditions of employment with respect to wages or hours, or on account of the dispute do or be concerned in doing, directly or indirectly, anything in the nature of a lockout or strike, or a suspension or discontinuance of employment or work, but the relationship of employer and employee shall continue uninterrupted by the dispute, or anything arising out of the dispute; but if, in the opinion of the board, either party uses this or any other provision of this Act for the purpose of unjustly maintaining a given condition of affairs through delay, and the board so reports to the minister, such party shall be guilty of an offence, and liable to the same penalties as are imposed for a violation of the next preceding section."

4. Section fifty-eight of the said Act is repealed, and the following is substituted therefor:—

"58. Any employer declaring or causing a lockout or making effective a change in wages or hours contrary to the provisions of this Act shall be liable to a fine of not less than one hundred dollars, nor more than one thousand dollars for each day or part of a day that such lockout or change exists."

It will be observed in the first section of the amending measure that the enumeration of the works and undertakings to which the provisions of the Industrial Disputes Investigation Act shall apply includes disputes within the exclusive control of the provinces which are brought within the scope of the federal Act by provincial legislation. During the latter months of the fiscal year under review, the legislatures of five of the provinces, namely, British Columbia, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, took advantage of this new provision of the Industrial Disputes Investigation Act and enacted enabling legislation by which the terms of the federal statute are made applicable to disputes of the class named in the Dominion law and otherwise within exclusive provincial jurisdiction. A Bill to the same effect introduced in the legislature of the province of Ontario at its 1926 session was withdrawn on the second reading.

The province of British Columbia took the initial step towards enabling the federal Industrial Disputes Investigation Act to become operative in respect of disputes within provincial jurisdiction, the enabling legislation being introduced on November 17, 1925, and assented to on December 11 of that year. The British Columbia measure was followed by similar legislation in other provinces, namely, Saskatchewan, January 28, 1926; Nova Scotia, March 15, 1926; New Brunswick, March 25, 1926; and Manitoba, March 31, 1926. The wording of the legislation in these four provinces being practically identical with that of British Columbia, the text of the British Columbia legislation alone is quoted:—

AN ACT RESPECTING THE INVESTIGATION OF INDUSTRIAL DISPUTES WITHIN THE PROVINCE.

(Assented to 11th December, 1925.)

Whereas the provisions of the "Industrial Disputes Investigation Act, 1907," chapter 20 of the Acts of the Parliament of Canada, 1907, do not apply to industrial disputes which are within the exclusive legislative jurisdiction of any province of Canada;

And whereas it was enacted by chapter 14 of the Acts of the Parliament of Canada, 1925, entitled "An Act to amend the Industrial Disputes Investigation Act, 1907," that the said Act shall apply to, inter alia, "any dispute which is within the exclusive legislative jurisdiction of any province and which by the legislation of the province is made subject to the provisions of this Act";

And whereas it is deemed expedient, in view of the amendment recited above, that the provisions of the said Act shall be made to apply to industrial disputes of the nature defined in the said Act which are within the exclusive legislative jurisdiction of the province;

Therefore, His Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Legislative Assembly of the province of British Columbia, enacts as follows:—

1. This Act may be cited as the "Industrial Disputes Investigation Act (British Columbia)."

2. The provisions of the "Industrial Disputes Investigation Act," chapter 20 of the Acts of the Parliament of Canada, 1907, and amendments thereto, shall apply to every industrial dispute of the nature therein defined which is within or subject to the exclusive legislative jurisdiction of the province.

3. The Lieutenant-Governor may, by proclamation, apply the provisions of any amendment to the said Act which may hereafter be enacted by the Parliament of the Dominion to every industrial dispute of the nature in said Act defined which is within or subject to the exclusive legislative jurisdiction of the province, whereupon those provisions shall apply accordingly.

In the case of the Manitoba statute, section 3 was changed to read as follows: "This Act shall come into force on the day it is assented to."

The Nova Scotia legislation was, as stated above, in the terms of the British Columbia Act, and in addition contained a clause repealing a provincial measure of 1925, the Industrial Peace Act, which had provided provincial machinery for dealing with industrial disputes.

The province of Alberta preferred to retain full authority with respect to the settlement of industrial disputes within its exclusive jurisdiction and adopted a Labour Disputes Act of its own on April 8, 1926, which resembles generally the federal statute. The provincial law relates, however, to all industries and omits any provision prohibiting strikes and lockouts pending the report of a board.

No action was taken by the provinces of Quebec or Prince Edward Island with a view to meeting the position arising out of the Privy Council decision. The industries of the latter province are primarily agricultural and labour disputes are not prevalent. Quebec has had on its statute books since 1921 a Municipal Strike and Lockout Act, amended in 1922. This provincial statute follows closely the lines of the federal Industrial Disputes Investigation Act and provides for the compulsory investigation of disputes as to wages and conditions of labour involving municipal employees; as in the case of the Dominion law, the acceptance of the findings of a tribunal established under its provisions is not compulsory. There is a further Quebec statute, enacted in 1901 and amended in 1903 and 1909, under which Councils of Conciliation and of Arbitration may be formed to deal with labour disputes in the province; the provincial machinery thus provided has been, however, little used in the past.

NINETEEN YEARS' OPERATIONS

A review of proceedings under the Industrial Disputes Investigation Act from its inception on March 22, 1907, shows that during this period of nineteen years 642 applications were received for the establishment of Boards of Conciliation and Investigation, and 450 boards were constituted. In all but 37 of the disputes, the threatened strikes were averted or ended through the instrumentality of the Act.

There were 192 cases in which the applications did not, for various reasons, result in the establishment of boards. In some instances an application had been made under a misapprehension, or the dispute was not one which could be properly referred under the provisions of the statute. Several disputes were adjusted by mutual efforts of the parties concerned while action was being taken looking to the constitution of a board and the application was withdrawn. Also it many times happened that, following the receipt of an application, a special representative of the department was sent to the locality of the dispute and through his intervention direct negotiations between the dissentient parties were renewed and a satisfactory working arrangement effected. The possibility of an amicable adjustment by departmental mediation was signally in evidence during recent years.

THE FISCAL YEAR 1925-26

Following the enactment of the 1925 amendment to the Industrial Disputes Investigation Act and prior to action being taken by the provinces looking to legislation investing authority in the federal law, a lull occurred in proceedings under the statute, four applications only having been received during the fiscal year for the establishment of Boards of Conciliation and Investigation. In three of these cases the disputes were adjusted by mutual agreement whilst steps for the establishment of boards were pending; the fourth case involved a jurisdictional dispute between two unions and no board was established. The usual statistical summaries of proceedings under the Act during the year are omitted from this report. The features of the year's activities in this respect may be, however, briefly noted.

The first application received in the department during the fiscal year for the establishment of a Board of Conciliation and Investigation was made by employees of the Corporation of the City of Edmonton, being junior clerks, stenographers, typist clerks, cardwriters and extension clerks, members of Civic Service Union No. 52. The application reached the department on April 23, 1925. The dispute affected 25 employees directly and 165 indirectly, and grew out of a reduction in wages proposed by the municipality. The applicants being clerical workers and in the employ of the city, a board could be established only with the consent of the municipal authorities. On this point the employees in their letter covering the application remarked that the City Council had passed a resolution approving the principle of referring the matters in dispute to a Conciliation Board. A few days after the receipt of the application, however, the dispute was adjusted by mutual agreement and board procedure became unnecessary.

An application was received in the department on June 22, 1925, from the employees of the Montreal Light, Heat and Power Consolidated, engaged in the production and distribution of electricity and gas and being members of various trades unions. The dispute related to wages and working conditions. Employees numbering 800 were stated to be affected directly and 1,100 indirectly. The employer not being incorporated by or under the authority of the Parliament of Canada, but under that of the Provincial Legislature, and the province of Quebec not having enacted legislation making the provisions of the Industrial Disputes Investigation Act applicable to disputes within its exclusive legislative jurisdiction, as provided in the 1925 amendment to the federal statute, a Board of Conciliation and Investigation could be established only on the joint request of the parties concerned. The company intimated its unwillingness to refer the dispute to a board, whereupon the minister offered the services of Mr. E. McG. Quirk, a special representative of the department, as mediator. Through Mr. Quirk's efforts conferences were subsequently held between the parties concerned and a working agreement was reached.

One application related to the steam railway industry and was received on February 22, 1926, from employees at the Winnipeg Rail Plant of the Canadian National Railways and being members of the Fort Rouge unit of the One Big Union. Alleged unjust treatment accorded senior men in the matter of promotions and reductions in staff was stated to be the cause of the dispute, approximately 77 employees being directly affected and 500 indirectly. It was understood, however, that the employees concerned were already covered by an agreement between the Railway Association of Canada (representing, among other railways, the Canadian National Railways) and the United Brotherhood of Maintenance-of-Way Employees and Railway Shop Labourers as to rates of pay and rules governing maintenance of way employees and shop labourers, the agreement in question, known as Wage Agreement No. 7, providing machinery for disposing of any alleged grievances, and it was held that there was no ground for the establishment of a Board of Conciliation and Investigation.

Employees of the Canadian National Electric Railways being members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers submitted an application on March 2, 1926. The establishment of a Board of Conciliation and Investigation was requested for the purpose of dealing with a dispute concerning the employees' desire for an agreement covering wages and working conditions. Employees at St. Catharines and Toronto, Ontario, to the number of 25 were said to be directly affected, and 150 indirectly. An officer of the department, Mr. E. N. Compton, investigated the situation in connection with the dispute and an agreement was reached, thereby avoiding the constitution of a board.

II. CONCILIATION WORK

During the year the services of the Department of Labour were utilized in connection with the adjustment of a number of labour disputes. In connection with two of the four cases of disputes in which application had been made for the establishment of a Board of Conciliation and Investigation under the Industrial Disputes Investigation Act, it was not found necessary to proceed with the establishment of a board since the difficulties were adjusted through the assistance of a conciliator. In many of the disputes where a settlement was secured by conciliation and no strike took place, it was deemed desirable to give the matter as little publicity as possible. As a result the best work of the department achieved in this direction often becomes known only to the chief representatives of the disputants.

The Minister of Labour assisted personally as a conciliator in certain instances, and in other cases the good offices of the department were exerted through the fair wages officers who are stationed at different industrial centres. The officers in question are: Mr. F. E. Harrison, resident Fair Wages Officer in Vancouver, who is the departmental representative for the four western provinces; Mr. E. N. Compton, resident Fair Wages Officer in Toronto, whose territory comprises the province of Ontario; and Mr. Theo. Bertrand, resident Fair Wages Officer in Montreal. Mr. E. McG. Quirk of Montreal, though not actually an officer of the department, acted on various occasions as a special representative in connection with conciliation work in Quebec and the Maritime Provinces.

In connection with a dispute affecting the coal mining industry of Nova Scotia, which resulted in a cessation of work of some eleven thousand coal miners on March 6, 1925, the Minister of Labour, the Hon. James Murdock, tendered the good offices of the Department of Labour towards securing a settlement of the dispute, and personally visited the coal fields in the month of June, at the request of the company. During the week following, the Minister met both the miners and officials of the company in an attempt to bring about a settlement. The Vice-President of the British Empire Steel Corporation, which controlled the principal mines, handed the Minister a statement outlining the basis on which the company would agree to a settlement. This statement was indicated to the miners' district board, but it contained proposals which were unacceptable to the latter and which were also rejected by the district locals. The cessation of work continued in the coal fields of Nova Scotia until August 9.

During the year Mr. Harrison investigated forty disputes, of which twenty-six were amicably adjusted by mediation. In the same period fourteen strikes took place, and resumption of work was brought about in nine instances through the intervention of the department.

In the month of June a dispute arose between the Edmonton and District Miners' Federation and the employers in that area. The latter proposed a wage reduction of twenty per cent, which the employees refused to consider; as a consequence a strike occurred on July 1. Negotiations with a view to a settlement were undertaken by Mr. Harrison, and on August 26 a new contract was signed bringing into force a reduction of wages of approximately thirteen per cent on all classes of labour.

During the month of November a strike took place at several of the mines in the Drumheller District for an increase of wages to drivers and certain employees. This cessation of work was not authorized by officials of District Eighteen, United Mine Workers of America. The stoppage of work was, however, supported by a labour organization known as the Mine Workers' Union of Canada, which gained considerable membership in the area affected. Mr.

Harrison tendered his good offices as a conciliator but his offer was not accepted. After being idle for three weeks, the men in the mines concerned resumed operations without any advance in wages.

Mr. E. N. Compton, resident Fair Wages Officer in Toronto, made frequent visits to the Welland canal district in connection with the many labour questions arising on the various contracts for the Welland ship canal which are dealt with in another chapter. He also visited various other points where his services were used in the settlement of labour difficulties. Through his efforts a strike in the furniture factories at Hanover, Ont., was called off.

Mr. Theo. Bertrand, resident Fair Wages Officer in Montreal, investigated twenty industrial disputes during the year, involving two hundred and nineteen firms and over three thousand employees. Assistance was rendered wherever possible in securing working agreements between the parties affected.

Mr. E. McG. Quirk, of Montreal, attended with the Minister of Labour certain conferences which were held with the management of the British Empire Steel Corporation relative to the dispute which occurred in the coal mining field of Nova Scotia. Later, at the minister's request he also appeared before the Royal Commission which was appointed by the Government of Nova Scotia to investigate the coal mining situation in that province. Mr. Quirk acted as a mediator in the settlement of a dispute between the Montreal Light, Heat and Power Company and its employees in the summer of 1925. His services were utilized in connection with certain wage disputes arising in the construction of the Montreal South Shore bridge, and also in the construction of the grain elevator at Halifax. His good offices were also employed in an effort to effect a settlement of the strike of shirt makers which occurred in Montreal in the fall of 1925.

III. FAIR WAGES

The fair wages policy of the Government of Canada was introduced in 1900 and is based on a resolution of the House of Commons which was adopted at the session of 1900 in the terms following:—

"That it is resolved that all Government contracts should contain such conditions as will prevent abuses which may arise from the subletting of such contracts, and that every effort should be made to secure the payment of such wages as are generally accepted as current in each trade for competent workmen in the district where the work is carried out, and that this House cordially concurs in such policy and deems it the duty of the Government to take immediate steps to give effect thereto.

"It is hereby declared that the work to which the foregoing policy shall apply includes not only work undertaken by the Government itself, but also all works aided by grant of Dominion public funds".

In 1903 additional force was given to the fair wages policy by the inclusion in the Railway Act of a section requiring the payment of current rates of wages to all workmen engaged in the construction of lines of railway towards which the Parliament of Canada votes financial aid. This section was retained in the revision of the Railway Act in 1919 and reads as follows:—

"(1) In every case in which the Parliament of Canada votes financial aid by way of subsidy or guarantee towards the cost of railway construction, all mechanics, labourers or other persons who perform labour in such construction shall be paid such wages as are generally accepted as current for competent workmen in the district in which the work is being performed; and if there is no current rate in such district, then a fair and reasonable rate.

"(2) In the event of a dispute arising as to what is the current or a fair and reasonable rate, it shall be determined by the Minister, whose decision shall be final."

An Order in Council was adopted in 1907 requiring contractors to post fair wages schedules in a conspicuous place on any public works under construction and to keep a record of payments made to workmen in their employ, such records to be open for inspection by fair wages officers of the Government.

In order that the fair wages conditions inserted in departmental contracts should be made as nearly uniform in terms and administration as possible, the fair wages policy was confirmed in 1922 by Order in Council (see Annual Report, 1922, pages 42-46).

This Order in Council contains two sets of labour conditions marked "A" and "B", respectively. The former is applicable to "all contracts made on behalf of the Government of Canada for the construction or remodelling of public buildings of all kinds, railways, canals, roads, bridges, locks, dry docks, elevators, harbours, piers, wharves, lighthouses, and other works for the improvement and safety of transportation and navigation, rifle ranges, fortifications and other works of defence, dams, hydraulic works, slides, piers, booms, and other works for facilitating the transmission of timber, and all other works and properties constructed or remodelled for the Government of Canada"; the like conditions are as far as practicable observable also by the departments of government in connection with all agreements involving the grant of Dominion public funds in the form of subsidy, advance, loan or guarantee for any of the purposes mentioned. The conditions marked "B" are observable by the departments concerned in connection with "all contracts for the manufacture and supply to the Government of Canada of fittings for public buildings, harness, saddlery, clothing and other outfit for the military and naval forces, Royal Canadian Mounted Police, letter carriers, and other Government officers and employees, mail bags, letter boxes, and other postal stores, and any other articles and things hereafter designated by the Governor in Council".

As a result of experience gained in the administration of the fair wages policy, as set forth in the Order in Council of June 7, 1922, certain amendments were made to the "A" conditions by Order in Council of April 9, 1924, on recommendation of the Minister of Labour, which, without altering the scope and intent of the policy, are intended to make its purpose clearer and more definite.

In the case of all contracts to which the "A" conditions apply, the department of the Government concerned is required to communicate to the Department of Labour the nature of the proposed contract and the classes of labour likely to be required in its execution. The Labour Department is charged with the preparation of schedules setting forth the rates of wages and hours of labour generally accepted as current, for competent workmen of the various classes required, in the district in which the work is to be performed. This fair wage schedule is thereupon embodied in the contract. In any cases where the Department of Labour is unable to furnish fair wages schedules for the purpose aforesaid, authority is given for the insertion in the contract of a fair wage clause in the terms following:—

All mechanics, labourers, or other persons who perform labour in the construction of the work hereby contracted for, shall be paid such wages as are generally accepted as current from time to time during the continuance of the contract for competent workmen in the district in which the work is being performed for the character or class of work in which they are respectively engaged, and if there be no current rates in such district, then fair and reasonable rates, and shall work such hours as are customary in the trade in the district where the work is carried on, or if there be no custom of the trade as respects hours in the district, then fair and reasonable hours, unless for the protection of life and property, or for other cause shown to the satisfaction of the Minister of Labour, longer hours of service are required. The Minister of Labour may at any time and from time to time determine, for the purposes of this contract, what are the current or fair and reasonable rates of wages, and the current or fair and reasonable hours, and may from time to time rescind, revoke, amend or vary any such decision, provided that his determination and any amendment or variation shall not be operative prior to the period of three months immediately preceding the date thereof. Where there are special circumstances which in the judgment of the Minister of Labour make it expedient that he should do so, he may, in the manner and subject to the provisions hereinabove set forth, decide what are the current or fair and reasonable rates of wages for overtime, and what is the proper classification of any work for the purposes of wages and hours. Immediately upon receipt of notice of any decision of the Minister of Labour hereunder the contractor shall adjust the wages and hours and classification of work so as to give effect to such decision. In case the contractor shall fail so to do, or to pay to any employee or employees for any services performed, or for any hours of labour, wages according to the rates fixed therefor by the Minister of Labour, the Minister of Labour may authorize and direct the minister* to pay any such wages at the rates so fixed and to deduct the amount thereof from any moneys owing by the Government to the contractor and any such payment shall for all purposes as between the contractor and the Government be deemed and taken to be payment to the contractor, and the contractor shall be bound in every particular by any such authority, direction and payment as aforesaid. The powers of the Minister of Labour hereunder shall not be exercised as to any employee or employees where it is established to his satisfaction that an agreement in writing exists and is in effect between the contractor and the class of employees to which such employee or employees belong or the authorized representatives of such class of employees fixing rates of wages, overtime conditions and hours of labour.

* The term "minister" in this case refers to the minister of the department with which the contract is made.

Fair wages officers have been included in the staff of the Department of Labour since the inception of the fair wages policy in 1900, their services being used in the preparation of fair wages schedules and in the adjustment of complaints and disputes arising from time to time as to the proper rates observable under the terms of Government contracts.

During the year 1925-26 the Department of Labour prepared fair wages conditions in connection with the execution of one hundred and twenty-seven contracts. These were divided among the different departments of the Government as follows: Marine and Fisheries, 3; Railways and Canals, 11; National Defence, 5; Indian Affairs, 4; and Public Works, 104.

Investigation by Fair Wages Officer of the Department of Labour showed that complaint was justified and further payments were accordingly made by the sub-contractors to the workman for service performed in excess of 8 hours per day.
Aug. 18, 1925	Welland Ship Canal.....	Railways and Canals.	Alleged that workman employed by a sub-contracting firm on Section 7 as locomotive crane operator did not receive the current wages rate for this class of service. July 17, 1925	Welland Ship Canal.....	Railways and Canals.	Alleged that locomotive engineer employed by a sub-contracting firm on Section 7 did not receive amount due him for overtime service.	Investigation of this complaint was made by a Fair Wages Officer of the Department of Labour and the result communicated to complainant. It was found that the firm with whom the workman had been employed had completed their sub-contract some time before and were no longer in the district.
Jan. 6, 1926	Welland Ship Canal.....	Railways and Canals.	Alleged that a workman employed by a sub-contracting firm on Sections 3 and 4 did not receive current wage rate of pipelitter.	Investigation by a Fair Wages Officer of the Department of Labour showed that this workman had been employed as a helper and as a brakeman. The Fair Wages Officer arranged for a meeting between complainant and his employer. The Department of Labour was not furnished with information definite enough to warrant it in making any ruling.
Jan. 26, 1926	Welland Ship Canal.....	Railways and Canals.	Alleged that payment was not made to a carpenter's helper by contractors on Sections 3 and 4 for overtime service at current rates.	Investigation by a Fair Wages Officer of the Department of Labour showed that the complaint was justified and payment was made by contractors of amount due this workman for overtime.
Dec. 14, 1925	Welland Ship Canal.....	Railways and Canals.	Alleged that dragline operators employed on Section 7 were not receiving current rate of wages for that class of service.	Investigation was made by a Fair Wages Officer of the Department of Labour and as a result it was agreed between the complainants and the employing company that the question involved should remain in abeyance.

Investigation by a Fair Wages Officer of the Department of Labour showed that the complaint was not well founded.
June 8, 1925	Welland Ship Canal.....	Railways and Canals.	Alleged that locomotive engineers and firemen employed on Sections 3 and 4 were not being paid for full time of service.	Investigation by Fair Wages Officer of the Department of Labour showed that the complaint was not well founded.
Jan. 1, 1925	Welland Ship Canal.....	Railways and Canals.	Request was made by the Contractors for several sections of the Canal for a revision of the schedule of wages, rates and hours of labour which had been sanctioned by the Minister of Labour in 1923. May 4, 1925	Welland Ship Canal.....	Railways and Canals.	Petition of certain carpenters and carpenters' helpers for sanction of a ten-hour working day.	Investigation by Fair Wages Officer of the Department of Labour indicated that the 8-hour day was generally current in the district for carpenters and the 9-hour day for carpenters' helpers. Under these circumstances the Minister of Labour indicated that it was impossible for him to accede to the petition. Inquiry showed also that a considerable number of the petitioners were not resident in the district.

TABLE of Fair Wage Complaints on Government Works and Disposition thereof during the Fiscal Year ending March 31, 1926—Concluded

Complaint received	Locality and public work	Department affected	Subject of Investigation	Disposition
July 29, 1925	Montreal, P.Q. Bridge contract. Harbour Com'rs.	Marine and Fisheries.	Request received from labour representatives for preparation of a fair wages schedule.	The Bridge contracts contained the general fair wage clause and enquiry by Fair Wages Officers of the Department of Labour did not disclose any violations of the fair wages conditions. Enquiry showed that the contractors were not employing regular carpenters in the crib and cofferdam work and that certain parts of the work were being done by crib builders, accustomed to timber work. The classification of this class of labour had engaged the attention of the Department in 1924 in connection with wharf building in Montreal, and the Department did not find itself in possession of information to warrant it in requiring payment of carpenters' rates to men engaged in this class of work. The workmen in question were informed that the labour conditions of the Bridge contract were not applicable to stone-cutting done away from the premises on which the Bridge was being erected.
Aug. 21, 1925	Montreal, P.Q. Bridge contract. Harbour Com'rs.	Marine and Fisheries.	Alleged that current wage rate was not being paid to carpenters employed on substructure of bridge construction.
Feb. 1, 1926	Montreal, P.Q. Bridge contract. Harbour Com'rs.	Marine and Fisheries.	Alleged that a violation of the labour conditions of the contract had occurred in connection with the rates paid to men cutting stone at points outside of Montreal for the Bridge piers.	Investigation by Fair Wages Officers of the Department of Labour was followed by a revision of the wages rates of this class of labour, providing for a higher scale of remuneration.
April 30, 1925	Montreal, P.Q. Bridge contract. Harbour Com'rs.	Marine and Fisheries.	Alleged non-payment of current wages rates to workmen employed under compressed air in caissons.

IV. STATISTICS

During the year statistics of strikes and lockouts, wages and hours of labour, prices and cost of living, employment and industrial accidents have been collected and published regularly in the Labour Gazette, annual reviews also appearing soon after the close of the calendar year. In accordance with the "Statistics Act, 1918," and under arrangements with the Dominion Statistician, approved by Order in Council dated October 16, 1922, certain classes of these statistics are collected and published in co-operation with the Dominion Statistician, in close association with statistics of general social and economic conditions as organized in the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. The classification of industries and occupations drawn up in the bureau is followed in the compilation of the statistics of labour.

Statistics respecting employment appear in chapter VII of the present report.

STRIKES AND LOCKOUTS IN CANADA, 1925

The number of strikes and lockouts in Canada recorded in 1925 was slightly greater than in 1924, but less than in 1923 and 1922, which in turn were smaller than in any year since 1916. The number of employees involved was smaller than in 1924, but about the same as in 1921 and in 1916. The time loss or number of man-working days lost, however, was about the same as in 1924, being approximately one and three-quarters million days. This was larger than the figure for 1923, but smaller than in 1922, when the total was nearly two million. Each year since 1921 has been marked by disputes involving large numbers of coal miners for relatively long periods of time, resulting in great time loss, but also by a comparatively smaller number of other disputes and by small numbers of employees involved in such disputes. From 1918 to 1921, except during 1919, disputes involving coal miners were unimportant, and, although strikes in other industries involved large numbers of employees, the time loss was relatively small. Prior to 1919, the year of the Winnipeg strike, which alone with metal trade strikes caused a time loss of two million days, the years of great time loss, 1903, 1909, 1910, 1911, 1913, and 1917, were marked by coal mining strikes of considerable magnitude.

The departmental record of strikes and lockouts in Canada was begun on the establishment of the department toward the end of 1900 and particulars of industrial disputes have been given each month in the Labour Gazette; also as early in each year as possible a summary statement as to the previous calendar year is printed in the Labour Gazette with a statistical analysis. The figures are given for the calendar rather than the fiscal year, because in this form they become more easily comparable with statistics on the same subject gathered in other countries, which also as a rule use the calendar year.

The record of the department includes lockouts as well as strikes, but a lockout, or an industrial condition which is undoubtedly a lockout, is rarely encountered. In the statistical tables, therefore, strikes and lockouts are recorded together, the term dispute being used with reference to either.

A strike or lockout included as such in the records of the department, is a cessation of work involving six or more employees and lasting one working day or more. Disputes of less than one day's duration and disputes involving less than six employees have not been included in the published record unless a time loss of 10 days or more is caused. A separate record of such disputes involving less than 10 days time loss is maintained in the department. During 1925 there was one such dispute, involving 7 employees for 4 hours, making a time loss of 28 hours, or about 3 working days.

The figures in this report are inclusive of all strikes which come to the knowledge of the department, and the methods taken to secure information practically preclude probability of omissions of a serious nature. So far as concerns figures given with respect to duration of strikes, numbers of employees involved, etc., it is impossible always to secure exact information, but the estimate made in such cases is the result of painstaking methods in the collection of data, and, with increasing experience in dealing with the subject it is believed that the statistics indicate the conditions with reasonable precision. The estimate of time loss is reached by multiplying the number of working days during which each strike lasted by the number of employees involved in the dispute from time to time so far as known.

The accompanying chart of the time loss in working days by groups of industries for each year back to 1901, shows that in mining considerable time loss occurred in 1903, 1909, 1910, 1911 and 1913, and again in 1917, 1919, 1922, 1923, 1924 and 1925. In metal trades no great time loss appeared except in 1919, when the strikes in the metal trades in various cities and the general strike in Winnipeg in sympathy with the metal trades' strike there, caused a time loss of about two million days. In 1918 and 1920, however, the time losses (in these trades) were larger than in other years. In building and construction considerable time loss appeared in 1903, 1907, 1911 and 1919. In transportation there was considerable time loss only in 1901, due to a strike of trackmen, in 1908, due to a strike of railway shop machinists, and in 1918 and 1919, due to numbers of strikes in street railway operation, as well as among freight handlers, in local transportation, cartage, etc.

The following notes deal with the chief features in strikes and lockouts during the year 1925.

DISPUTES IN MINING

The mining industry accounted for most of the time loss for the year, about 90 per cent, and also for the largest proportion of the number of employees involved, approximately 80 per cent. This was chiefly due to a single dispute in coal mining in Nova Scotia from March to August. All of the 14 disputes in the mining industry were in coal mines, except one, a strike of gold miners in Ontario involving eleven employees for two days.

General reductions in wages of coal miners were made in Nova Scotia, in Alberta, and in British Columbia, both in the Crowsnest Pass field adjoining Alberta and in Vancouver island. The coal mining industry has experienced considerable depression since 1923, and, though the union agreements providing for the 1920 wage scale in union coal mines throughout the United States, expiring in March, 1924, were renewed till March 31, 1927, by the "Jacksonville Agreement," there were strikes and lockouts in both the United States and Canada in 1924 and 1925, resulting in wage reductions in many instances.

The Nova Scotia Coal Mining Dispute, March 6-August 10.—The most important dispute was that involving about 12,000 coal miners in various parts of Nova Scotia in a cessation of work from March 6 to August 10, resulting from a proposed reduction in wages of 10 per cent. The four employing companies involved, operating mines in Glace Bay and its neighbourhood, at Sydney Mines, at Stellarton and Thorburn in Pictou county, and at Springhill in Cumberland county, were constituents in one holding company, and, on the refusal of the employees to agree to a reduction when the agreement should expire in January, 1925, applied for a Board of Conciliation and Investigation under the Industrial Disputes Investigation Act, 1907. The board was established, but found that it could not proceed, as the statute had recently been declared ultra vires by the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council. The board attempted to settle the dispute by conciliation, but, failing to do so, recommended a thorough investigation by a competent authority. Various proposals were made by the parties to the dispute and by the provincial government, but none were accepted. The cessation of work on March 6 was precipitated by the reduction in operations in certain mines and by the withdrawal of credit at company stores for employees in such mines. The organization of the miners called a "100 per cent strike," as authorized at a district convention at the commencement of the dispute, that is, maintenance men were called out. This was contrary to the practice in coal mining disputes, as the parties usually agree that maintenance men shall take care of the mines as long as strike breakers are not employed, and in some cases provision is made for development work or mining of coal for the mine boilers. Maintenance work was carried on by officials for some time, but later the mines were picketed and disputes arose, accompanied by disorders resulting in the calling in of the militia by the provincial authorities as provided by the amendment to the Militia Act following disturbances in 1923. Mediation of the Minister of Labour, the provincial government and various persons, including the International President of the United Mine Workers of America, failed to bring about a settlement. Following a provincial general election, the new government proposed an arrangement which was accepted and work was resumed August 10.

The wage scale of 1923, 6 to 8 per cent lower than that for 1924, was accepted for six months, pending an inquiry by a commission appointed by the provincial government to make a thorough investigation of the coal mining industry in Nova Scotia, including its relations with other industries. Early in January this commission recommended that the wage reduction of 10 per cent should be made, but that wages should be adjusted according to the financial results from the coal mining operations and not according to the proceeds from all the industries related. Recommendations were also made as to housing for miners and other conditions.

Coal Mining Disputes in Alberta.—The other principal disputes in coal mining were in Alberta and resulted from general reductions in wages. The signing of the agreement of October 10, 1924, between the Western Canada Coal Operators' Association and the United Mine Workers of America, District 18, terminating the strike of some 7,000 miners in southern Alberta and south-eastern British Columbia from April to October, 1924, on the basis of a 12½ per cent reduction in wages, was followed by the closing down of some of the mines affected in the winter months, the operators stating that the mines could not be operated as the wage scale was too high. Certain operators and their employees then broke away from the association and from the union respectively and entered into separate agreements providing for lower wage scales, the movement spreading eastward from the Crowsnest Pass field and northward. Negotiations to amend the district agreement failed and the disintegrating movement spread during the spring and early summer. In June the district officers of the union entered into an agreement with the operators in the Red Deer Valley, still parties to the district agreement, to reduce the wages about 15 per cent. A large number of miners refused to accept this arrangement, broke away from the union, organized an independent union, and picketed the mines which began to work under it, June 1, 1925. Whether these miners were on strike or not is not clear, as the mines in which most of them were employed had not been operating for some time and did not attempt to operate. There is, however, little doubt that the dispute curtailed mining operations for the summer. Towards the end of September, the mines opened and the miners returned to work, the new scale going into effect but without an agreement. Subsequently, on November 30, some of them again struck for an increase in wages, but returned to work by December 23, without an increase. In the meantime the miners under the United Mine Workers' agreement received an increase of 5 per cent, some increases being 50 cents per day, the agreement being amended accordingly.

The coal mines in the city of Edmonton and its immediate neighbourhood had been operating under agreement between the operators and a miners' union affiliated with the Canadian Federation of Labour since September, 1923. These agreements, which had been renewed in 1924 following an inquiry by a Board of Conciliation and Investigation under the Industrial Disputes Investigation Act, 1907, expired at the end of June, 1925. The operators proposed a wage reduction of between 10 and 20 per cent for various classes and a cessation of work occurred involving 400 miners. The Fair Wage Officer of the Department mediated and secured an agreement for a settlement between some of the operators and their employees. This provided for a wage cut of 13 per cent for the contract miners and 10 per cent for the day miners.

This was not accepted by a vote of the miners and the strike continued. During the summer there is little demand for coal and, as it cannot profitably be stored, there is little mining. In August, when the demand for coal increased, the miners accepted the settlement previously rejected and returned to work on August 26.

Disputes in Vancouver Island.—Wages of coal miners in Vancouver Island had been adjusted quarterly according to changes in the cost of living since 1917, the bonus rising from 50 cents per day in the spring of 1918 to $2.10 at November 1, 1920, and being down to about 90 cents by November, 1924, when the arrangement was altered, the bonus being placed at about 90 cents, subject to changes in competitive conditions. This arrangement was a feature of the agreements between the principal operators and the committees of their employees. In May, 1925, some of the operators stated that competition from other mine operators compelled them to reduce the bonus by 60 cents per day. At some of the mines this was accepted, at others a modification was made for employees below $4.20 per day, but at Nanaimo the miners went on strike June 5, returning to work on June 13, at the reduction proposed. This cessation of work involved 1,090 miners for seven working days.

DISPUTES IN MANUFACTURING OF CLOTHING

A large number of the disputes occurring in the various sections of this industry were owing to alleged violations of union agreements, or to maintain existing wages and working conditions. Both in the men's clothing factories and women's clothing factories in Montreal and Toronto a number of strikes occurred to maintain union wages and working conditions or to secure recognition of the union or union conditions as to wages and working conditions. In most cases these resulted in favour of the employees. The two most important of these were strikes to secure recognition of unions, with union hours and wages, involving 115 factories and 1,350 employees in Montreal, and 60 factories and 1,200 employees in Toronto, beginning in February and ending in the spring, both being successful. Another dispute causing considerable time loss was in Montreal to maintain union conditions in a men's clothing factory, where the employer, when the union alleged that he had violated the agreement, operated under open shop conditions, replacing the strikers. This strike, beginning in August, was not called off by the union until the end of October and involved 181 employees for 51 days. In hat and cap factories three disputes occurred to secure or to maintain union wages and working conditions and resulted in favour of the employees.

DISPUTES IN MANUFACTURING OF BOOTS AND SHOES

The three disputes in this industry were against new wage scales containing piece rates, which the employees stated would seriously reduce their earnings. In the first, that at Montreal, at the end of January the employees were successful. A similar dispute in the same city shortly after was settled by a compromise. The third occurred at Quebec toward the end of the year and involved over two thousand employees, while many more were reported to be indirectly affected. An arrangement was made after two weeks' cessation of work to resume at a partial reduction, the new wage scale to be settled by arbitration.

DISPUTES IN THE FUR MANUFACTURING INDUSTRY

One of the most important disputes of the year occurred in the fur factories in Montreal. The agreement under which the factories were operating expired at the end of 1925, and the employees wished to include provisions for better wages and working conditions, with preference in employment for union members. The employers were willing to renew the old agreement but declined to agree to the changes proposed. Negotiations were broken off, and the employers, fearing a strike later during the busy season, required their employees to sign individual agreements for the balance of the year. Some who refused were dismissed and the union called a general strike in all shops not under the union agreement. The picketing which ensued resulted in some arrests on charges of intimidation and assault, the trials being postponed with the accused out on bail. From time to time the employers replaced the strikers, and the latter in turn secured work in other shops, but at the end of the year there were still 420 on strike and receiving strike pay.

DISPUTES IN IRON AND STEEL MANUFACTURING

The four disputes in this industry involved moulders in strikes against reductions of wages, 5 per cent in three cases and 10 per cent in the fourth. In one case a compromise at $2\frac{1}{2}$ per cent was effected, but in the other cases the strikers were replaced. In the dispute at Owen Sound nine of the strikers were still out at the end of the year.

DISPUTES IN THE FISHING INDUSTRY

The two disputes in this industry occurred in the salmon fisheries on the Fraser river at New Westminster, B.C., the one in the spring and the other in the autumn, over the rates to be paid by the canners for certain varieties of fish. In each case a compromise was reached and work was resumed after a week's loss of time.

DISPUTES IN BUILDING

A number of the disputes during the year were caused by disagreements as to union jurisdiction. Two strikes of plasterers arose out of differences between the two unions in which plasterers may be members in various localities, the settlement reached in 1911 being no longer satisfactory to both parties. This dispute affected plasterers in a number of cities in the United States and was finally referred to arbitration, existing conditions to remain undisturbed in the meantime. In the dispute at Kingston the two unions agreed to let the matter drop, and in the dispute at Toronto the building at which it occurred was finished before a settlement was reached. The dispute involving stone masons at Kingston was in regard to whether stone masons or stone cutters should do certain work, and after one day a settlement was reached. In the eight disputes regarding changes in wages and hours, the employees were not successful in four cases, but were partially successful in two and secured their demands in two cases. In the two strikes at Kingston against the employment of alleged labourers to do the work of mechanics the employees were substantially successful.

DISPUTES IN WATER TRANSPORTATION

The three disputes in this industry involved Chinese employees on boats trading from British Columbia ports. In the first case the men stopped work because a bonus to which they had become accustomed had not been paid, but on its payment they returned to work. In the next case the men refused to work before reaching a Canadian port and were taken into custody. Upon the arrival of the boat at Victoria the men were charged with a violation of the Merchant Shipping Act, in not living up to the contract signed at Vancouver some months before. They were sentenced to imprisonment for sixty days and at the end of the term were deported to China. The men asked for wage increases, but it was also stated that the refusal to work was in conformity with instructions from the organization in China to which they belonged, which had called a strike of seamen on all British ships. The third strike of Chinese seamen occurred before reaching the port of New Westminster, and the men were taken into custody there and prosecuted at Vancouver for violation of the Merchant Shipping Act. They were said to be acting on orders from the organization at Shanghai and in sympathy with the strike of seamen there, and were sentenced to six weeks' imprisonment and then to be deported.

ANALYSIS OF STATISTICS

An analysis of the disputes during the year by the number of employees involved shows only one dispute involving more than 10,000 employees (the coal mining dispute in Nova Scotia), which, however, caused a time loss of nearly a million and a half working days, about 85 per cent of the total for the year. There was one dispute involving between 1,500 and 2,500 employees, namely, boot factory employees at Quebec in November. It appears that 28 out of the 83 in existence during the year involved less than 25 employees each, and that 67 disputes involved less than 250 employees each, and that these resulted in comparatively little time loss, 3.4 per cent of the total for the year. It appears, therefore, that, apart from a few important strikes, the year has been marked by a number of disputes involving relatively small numbers of employees for short periods of time.

An analysis by time loss bears out the indication of the preceding paragraph that most of the disputes for the year resulted in relatively little time loss, most of this being due to the one dispute.

By duration the analysis shows that 26 out of 83 disputes lasted less than five days, and that 59 lasted less than 30 days. Ten disputes lasting over 30 days (outside of those untrminated at the end of the year or not definitely ended during the year), included half of the employees involved in all disputes and resulted in 90 per cent of the total time loss for the year.

TIME LOSS IN WORKING DAYS THROUGH STRIKES AND LOCK-OUTS BY GROUPS OF INDUSTRIES EACH YEAR, 1901-25

By provinces, an analysis shows that Nova Scotia had the smallest number of disputes but the largest number of employees and greatest amount of time loss, owing to the great coal mining dispute. In Quebec there was almost the largest number of disputes, with a large number of employees and over 100,000 days' time loss, due chiefly to the disputes involving fur workers, clothing workers and boot factory employees. Ontario had the largest number of disputes, 25, with about half as many employees involved as Quebec, but not a very great amount of time loss. Alberta and British Columbia had each 14 disputes, involving about 3,000 employees in each province, there being more time loss in Alberta, as the three coal mining strikes were somewhat prolonged. In British Columbia most of the disputes were in building but were not prolonged.

An analysis by industries shows that the largest number of disputes in a group appears in clothing manufacturing, 19 or 22.9 per cent of all in existence during the year, the mining and building groups coming next, and none of the other groups showing many. The largest number of employees, about 60 per cent, and 90 per cent of the time loss for the year, appear in the mining group. A discussion of the principal disputes in each group appears in the introductory paragraphs.

An analysis by industries and methods of settlement shows that 56 disputes, or nearly 70 per cent of all, were settled by negotiations between the parties, 6 were settled by mediation of outside parties, in one there was a return on employers' terms, in 15 the strikers or locked out employees were replaced, and there were five unterminated or indefinite. In the coal mining disputes in Nova Scotia and the boot factory employees' dispute in Quebec, while resumption of work were brought about by mediation, with partial changes in wages, the matters at issue were left to boards of inquiry.

Statistics by months for the past six years are given in the accompanying table. It shows that disputes are greatest in May or June of each year and tend to become less toward the end of the year. The relatively great time loss shown since 1921 is due mainly to the occurrence of widespread coal mining strikes, lasting for some months, except that in 1923, which lasted less than one month.

PRICES AND COST OF LIVING

The publication in the Labour Gazette each month of statistics of retail prices of staple foods, and of coal and wood and coal oil, and as to the rentals of six-roomed workingmen's houses in some sixty of the industrial centres of Canada, begun in 1910, has been continued. Since 1921 the figures as to food prices have been secured through the Dominion Bureau of Statistics from representative butchers and grocers in these centres, as well as through the resident correspondents of the Labour Gazette. The calculation of a weekly family budget of foods, fuel and rent, in order to show the changes in the costs of these items from month to month, has been continued and supplemented by information as to the changes in the costs of clothing, boots, etc., secured half-yearly, and this has made possible the publication from time to time in the Labour Gazette of a table showing, by percentages, the changes in the cost of the principal items of family consumption, as in the accompanying table.

It will be noted that since April, 1922, prices have been comparatively stable, the changes being chiefly seasonal and due to special conditions each year. Foods were down each year in the summer months and up in the winter, the relative level in summer and in the subsequent winter depending upon whether the weather and crop conditions were favourable or not. Toward the end of 1925 high prices of potatoes, butter, cheese and pork brought prices to as high levels as at the end of 1921. Fuel prices, for the most part, were comparatively steady, the exception being in anthracite coal, which began to advance in the autumn of 1925, due mainly to the scarcity in supplies caused by the strike in the United States. Little change has occurred in rent, decreases being reported in only a few localities.

Statistics of wholesale prices compiled and published by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics in continuation of the figures published by the Labour Department from 1910 to 1924, have been included in summary form in the Labour Gazette each month. Index numbers of prices constructed by Professor H. Michell, by the Canadian Bank of Commerce, and by the United States Federal Reserve Board have also been given in summary form. The movement of prices, wholesale and retail, in other countries has been dealt with in brief notes in each issue of the Labour Gazette, and extensive tables of index numbers showing the movement in those countries for which figures were available have been given quarterly. A supplement to the Labour Gazette for January, 1926, contained a review of the prices movement in Canada and other countries during 1925, in addition to the summary tables, there being also included tables giving the figures by groups for the more important index numbers.

WAGES AND HOURS OF LABOUR

Statistics as to wages and hours of labour are secured to a considerable extent in connection with the work of the department on strikes and lockouts, industrial agreements, conciliation and mediation in industrial disputes, proceedings under the Industrial Disputes Investigation Act, 1907, fair wages schedules, and reports of changes in wages and hours. Reports are also secured each year from representative employers in the various industries and from labour organizations as to the rates of wages in effect.

The series of bulletins on wages and hours of labour in Canada begun in 1921 has been continued. Report No. 9, issued as a supplement to the Labour Gazette for January, 1926, gave information as to rates of wages in certain trades and industries for each year from 1920 to 1925 inclusive. The scope of the report has been somewhat increased each year, both by the inclusion of more industries and by increasing the number of classes of labour and the number of establishments covered. The accompanying table from Report No. 9 indicates the movement in wage rates during 1925, as compared with previous years for the classes included, and these index numbers are intended to show the trend in wage rates pending the calculation and publication of an index number covering the industries more completely.

It will be seen that by 1920 wages had reached levels almost one hundred per cent higher than in 1913, in some groups the increase being over one hundred per cent, while for the building trades and steam railways the increases were appreciably less, being only about eighty to eighty-five per cent. Since 1920 all groups have shown some decreases, although printing trades and coal mining were higher in 1921 than in 1920, declining somewhat thereafter. The decreases in coal mining in 1925 were comparatively steep and tended to reduce the average for all groups.

In the building trades up to 1919 there were smaller increases in wage rates than in any of the other groups, but in 1920 this group experienced considerable increases. In 1921 decreases of 10 cents per hour were general and in 1922 decreases of 5 cents per hour were numerous. In 1923, 1924 and in 1925, while there were upward movements in the averages, it was due to increases in particular trades and in certain cities and not to an upward movement general for most of the trades and localities.

In the metal trades the increase in wage rates up to 1920 was greater than in most of the other groups, there being a good demand for labour in the manufacture of munitions. During the industrial activity in 1919 and 1920 further increases were effected, but in 1921 and 1922 considerable decreases were made. In 1923 and 1924 some recovery was experienced, but in 1925 conditions were practically unchanged.

In the printing trades, up to 1920 increases were about the same as in the building trades, but in 1921, when many of the three or five year agreements between employers and the unions expired, rates were advanced and hours were reduced in many cases. Since 1921 there have been some reductions, but these were only in a few localities and in some cases were followed by increases later.

In electric railway service, rates had almost doubled by 1920, but declined slightly in 1921 and in 1922, recovering somewhat in 1923 and very slightly in 1924 and 1925. Reductions in rates were general in 1921 and 1922.

In steam railway employment, wage increases were considerable in 1918, 1919 and 1920, but in 1921 decreases averaging about twelve per cent for all classes were effected, and in 1922 decreases for shop crafts, maintenance of way employees, and freight handlers, clerks, etc., were made averaging ten per cent.

In coal mining the index number reached its peak in 1921, increases having been made in the closing weeks of 1920. In 1922 decreases were made in some districts and in other districts in 1923 and in 1924. In 1925 decreases occurred in the three principal districts, being especially steep in Alberta and southeastern British Columbia (as in 1924), where no decreases had occurred until 1924.

In wages for common factory labour, rates had more than doubled by 1920, but fell steeply in 1921, again in 1922 and slightly in 1923, but recovered a little in 1924 and 1925. In miscellaneous factory trades the recovery began in 1923, an increase also appearing in 1924, but a decrease appeared in 1925 in the average.

In lumbering considerable decreases appeared in 1921, with recoveries in each year thereafter until 1925, when reductions again occurred.

FATAL INDUSTRIAL ACCIDENTS IN CANADA IN 1925

According to reports received by the department, fatalities due to accidents to workpeople in Canada in the course of their employment during the year 1925 numbered 1,044, industries with relatively large numbers being: transportation 257, or 24.6 per cent; mining 166, or 15.9 per cent; manufacturing 161, or 15.4 per cent; logging 139, or 13.3 per cent; construction 130, or 12.4 per cent; agriculture 93, or 8.9 per cent. Most of the accidents in agriculture were recorded from press clippings, and, while it is not known to what extent the accidents in this industry are covered, it is believed that in this respect the record is fairly complete.

The record for all industries showed a decrease during the year 1925, most of the decrease occurring in the logging industry and appearing to be due to a decline in the number employed in this industry during 1925. Decreases also appeared in transportation and in construction.

The classification of fatal accidents according to causes showed that the largest number, 257, came under the category "by moving trains and vehicles," and that 93 of these were caused by persons being struck or run over by, or crushed by or between, cars and engines. Derailments and collisions accounted for 26 accidents, and automobiles and other power vehicles for 30. Animal drawn vehicles and implements caused 27, and water craft caused 43 fatalities. The next most numerous group was that of accidents caused by falling objects. Of these there were 179, 59 being caused by falling objects in mines and quarries, 36 being in coal mining, 19 in metalliferous mining and 4 in non-metallic mineral mining and quarrying not elsewhere specified. Objects falling from elevations, loads, piles, etc., caused 30 accidents. Falling trees caused the death of 53 persons, 41 deaths occurring in the logging industry and 8 in agriculture. Falls of persons accounted for 151 accidents, the largest number of these being 67 falls from elevations, of which 37 were in the construction industry. The group of causes designated "dangerous substances" accounted for 127 accidents, 57 being caused by electric current and 38 by explosive substances. Of the 106 accidents attributed to "other causes," 43 were from drowning, with no particulars available, 20 of these being in the logging industry. Drowning accidents in fishing and trapping were classified under "water craft" where possible.

The classification of fatal industrial accidents under provinces showed the largest number to have taken place in Ontario, which had 410, including 90 in transportation and public utilities, 83 in manufacturing and 82 in construction. British Columbia was second with 204, which included 98 in logging and 50 in transportation and public utilities. Quebec had 178 and led the other provinces in accidents in water transportation.

The table of fatalities by months shows the largest number of accidents to have occurred in October, in which there were 132, with large numbers in November, September and May. In both agriculture and transportation the numbers were larger in the autumn months. The smallest number occurred in February, namely 63. This table gives some information regarding the estimated number of employees in certain of the industries.

V. LABOUR GAZETTE

The Labour Gazette was published monthly in English and French during the fiscal year ending March 31, 1926, which was the twenty-fifth year of its existence, the average number distributed each month being 10,564 of the English, and 1,473 of the French editions. The average monthly paid circulation was 6,882, or 6,081 of the English edition and 801 of the French. A nominal subscription of 20 cents a year, or 3 cents per copy, is charged, the purpose of the subscription being to keep the distribution within the limits of the actual demand, rather than to pay the cost of production. The subscription list includes the names of chartered banks, employing firms, and labour unions which paid subscriptions in behalf of their individual officers or members. In addition to the paid circulation, the publication is issued gratuitously to certain public bodies and institutions, including government departments, both federal and provincial, municipalities, university and public libraries, boards of trade, labour organizations, newspapers and trade journals, as well as to certain persons who from time to time supply information requested by the department. Free single copies are frequently sent to persons seeking information on subjects dealt with in a particular issue. The average monthly distribution of complimentary copies was 3,682 of the English and 672 of the French edition.

The Labour Gazette contains the official record of all proceedings under the Industrial Disputes Investigation Act, 1907, including the full text of the reports of Boards of Conciliation and Investigation established under the provisions of the Act. Information is also given with respect to proceedings under the other statutes administered by the Department of Labour, including the Employment Offices Co-ordination Act, the Technical Education Act, the Government Annuities Act, and the Combines Investigation Act, and to proceedings under the federal Order in Council providing for the payment of fair wages to workmen employed on Dominion Government contracts.

The Labour Gazette is the usual medium for the publication of the "statistical and other information relating to the conditions of labour" which, under the provisions of the Conciliation Act of 1900, the department is required to collect, digest and publish. These records include a monthly analysis of prices, wholesale and retail, in Canada, with estimates of the average cost of living, the prices of staple articles, and index numbers of price movements over a series of years. Similar statistics compiled from records in other countries are also given for the purpose of comparison. Periodical statements and tables appear indicating the movements of employment and the extent of unemployment in Canada and in the various provinces and municipalities. This information is derived from three sources: (1) reports received from the 65 offices of the Employment Service of Canada showing the number of applications for work, the existing vacancies, and the number of workpeople placed in positions; (2) reports from trade unions showing the extent of unemployment among their members; and (3) reports from employers throughout Canada showing the number of employees on their pay-rolls. Statistical information on changes in wages and hours of labour is presented from time to time in special articles. Monthly and annual tables of industrial disputes are also given, showing the causes, extent and results of strikes and lockouts in Canada. The agreements entered into between employers and workmen are described each month in detail. Quarterly and annual statistics are given of the fatal accidents that have occurred in the various branches of industry, stress being laid on the causes of these accidents with a view to the possible elimination of some of the risks of industry; and a series of notes on industrial safety and health is also published monthly with the same object.

The labour legislation enacted by the Dominion Parliament and by the legislatures of the various provinces is outlined in the Labour Gazette on the conclusion of each session, and note is made, as far as possible, of the outstanding activities throughout Canada under existing Acts or regulations. Each issue contains further an account of important recent legal decisions affecting labour.

The conventions and other activities of labour unions are noted from month to month, with particular reference to legislative proposals put forward by labour representatives. The subject of technical education and apprentice training is also covered in a series of notes in each issue.

Prominence is given in the Labour Gazette to the important work of the League of Nations International Labour Organization, the draft conventions and recommendations put forward from time to time being printed in full, and a record kept of the progress of ratifications, both in Canada and in other countries. Reviews are also given of the increasingly valuable publications of the International Labour Office at Geneva, based on expert studies of labour conditions in various countries.

In addition to the regular periodical articles, each issue of the Labour Gazette contains special articles on subjects arising out of the general work of the department, as well as notes on current topics of interest to labour.

VI. COMBINES INVESTIGATION ACT, 1923

The following report covers the operations, for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1926, of the Combines Investigation Act, 1923 (Chap. 9, 13-14 Geo. V).

By Order in Council of August 14, 1923, the Minister of Labour was charged with the general administration of the statute. On August 25, 1923, Mr. Harry Hereford, Industrial Engineer of the Department of Labour, was appointed to act as Registrar of the Combines Investigation Act. On September 8, 1925, Mr. F. A. McGregor, the present registrar, was appointed.

Section 2 of the Act defines a combine as follows:—

The expression "combine" in this Act shall be deemed to have reference to such combines immediately hereinafter defined as have operated or are likely to operate to the detriment of or against the interest of the public, whether consumers, producers or others; and limited as aforesaid, the expression as used in this Act shall be deemed to include: (1) mergers, trusts and monopolies so called, and (2) the relation resulting from the purchase, lease or other acquisition by any person of any control over or interest in the whole or part of the business of any other person, and (3) any actual or tacit contract, agreement, arrangement or combination which has or is designed to have the effect of (i) limiting facilities for transporting, producing, manufacturing, supplying, storing or dealing; or (ii) preventing, limiting or lessening manufacture or production; or (iii) fixing a common price or a resale price, or a common rental, or a common cost of storage or transportation; or (iv) enhancing the price, rental or cost of article, rental, storage or transportation; or (v) preventing or lessening competition in, or substantially controlling within any particular area or district or generally, production, manufacture, purchase, barter, sale, storage, transportation, insurance or supply; or (vi) otherwise restraining or injuring trade or commerce.

Several investigations have been carried on under the Act during the last fiscal year, certain of them by the registrar, one by a commissioner appointed specially for the purpose as provided for by the statute.

COMBINE IN DISTRIBUTION OF FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

During the fiscal year 1924-25, as stated in the Annual Report of the Department of Labour for that period, an investigation was made into the marketing of fruits and vegetables in Western Canada to determine whether or not a combine existed in connection with the distribution of these products.

The commissioner, Mr. Lewis Duncan, barrister, of Toronto, reported on February 8, 1925, that the evidence showed that the Nash organization of jobbing and brokerage houses, controlled by the Nash Shareholders' Company of Minneapolis, was a combine which was operating, and had operated, detrimentally to the producer and consumer of fruits and vegetables. In accordance with the procedure laid down in the Combines Investigation Act, the Minister of Labour submitted the report to the Attorneys General of the four western provinces for any action they might deem it wise to take, but the interprovincial nature of the business of the Nash houses made it difficult for any one province to assume the task of prosecution. Accordingly, the Dominion Government, at the request of, and with the co-operation of, the provincial authorities, and urged thereto by resolutions from numerous fruit growers' organizations and other public bodies, instituted proceedings against 42 firms and 11 individuals, members of the Nash organization in Canada.

Mr. J. C. McRuer, formerly Assistant Crown Attorney for Toronto, was appointed general prosecutor on behalf of the Dominion, and associated with him at Vancouver during the trial were Mr. W. S. Lane, of Vancouver, and Mr. J. J. Frawley, of the Attorney General's Department at Edmonton. Mr. R. F. McWilliams, K.C., Winnipeg, and Mr. P. Meudell Anderson, Regina, assisted in the preparation of the evidence in their respective provinces.

On June 6, the Acme Fruit Company, Limited, of Calgary, filed a statement of claim in the Supreme Court of Alberta against the Attorney General of Canada, the Attorney General of Alberta, and Mr. Lewis Duncan, for an injunction restraining Mr. Duncan from proceeding with his investigation and a declaration that the Combines Investigation Act, 1923, was ultra vires, and that neither the Attorney General of Alberta nor the Attorney General of Canada was entitled to institute prosecutions against the Acme Fruit Company under that Act. No action had been taken by the plaintiffs up to the end of the fiscal year.

On July 15, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police executed search warrants simultaneously in the offices of twenty-three of the Nash companies in Vancouver, Victoria, Calgary, Edmonton, Regina, Saskatoon, Moose Jaw and Winnipeg, seizing a large number of books and documents required by the Crown, which were assembled at Winnipeg, Regina, Calgary, Edmonton and Vancouver. Other documents were seized later and the work of analyzing the records of the various firms was turned over to the Crown accountant, Mr. E. J. Howson, of Thorne, Mulholland, Howson and McPherson, of Toronto. Mr. Howson was assisted by the following firms of chartered accountants: Messrs. Harvey and Morrison, of Calgary; Messrs. Buttar and Chiene, of Vancouver; and Messrs. McIntosh, Cole and Robertson, of Winnipeg.

On September 30, a bill of indictment was preferred before the Grand Jury at the Assize Court at Vancouver, Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald presiding. The bill contained 16 counts against the 53 defendant companies and individuals involving charges of conspiracy to take secret profits, rebates and commissions, to defraud the growers who marketed fruits and vegetables through them, and to make false returns to them while acting as agents, to defraud the public, and, by means of fraud, to affect the market price of these products. In addition to the six charges of violation of the common law, the Secret Commissions Act, and sections 573 and 444 of the Criminal Code referred to, there were four charges of contravention of section 498 of the Criminal Code, by conspiracy to limit unduly the facilities for supplying or dealing in fruits and vegetables, to restrain trade or commerce in these articles, to enhance prices unreasonably and prevent or lessen competition in the sale of fruits and vegetables. Counts 11 to 16 involved charges of violation of the Combines Investigation Act, 1923.

The following were the persons and companies named in the indictment: J. A. Simington, S. P. Lloyd, Wm. Colquhoun, W. E. Carruthers, H. L. Davidson, Gordon Smith, J. F. Parker, H. W. Morgan, Geo. H. Snow, J. W. Dilworth, K. A. Gibson, Mutual (Vancouver), Limited, Mutual Brokers, Limited, of Calgary, Mutual Brokers (Edmonton), Limited, Mutual Brokers of Regina, Limited, Mutual Brokers of Saskatoon Company, Limited, Mutual Brokers, Limited, of Winnipeg, Mutual Purchasing Company, Limited, Robert Forbes Company, Limited, Staples Fruit Company, Limited, Mutual Fruit Company, Limited, Acme Fruit Company, Limited, Mitchell Fruit Company, Limited, Nash-Simington Company, Limited, Brown Fruit Company, Limited, The Royal Fruit Company, Limited, Lethbridge Mercantile Agency, Limited, Alexander Grocery Company, Limited, Camrose Grocery Company, Limited, Medicine Hat Grocery Company, Limited, Red Deer Grocery Company, Limited, Stockton and Mallinson Company, Limited, Lloyd Fruit Company, Limited, Rex Fruit Company, Limited, Canadian Fruit Company, Limited, Moose Grocery Company, Limited, Northern Fruit Company, Limited, Early Fruit Company, Limited, Crown Grocery Company, Limited, Kerrobert Mercantile Company, Limited, Prince Albert Fruit Company, Limited, Smith Fruit Company, Limited, Walker Fruit Company, Limited, Weyburn Grocery Company, Limited, Swift Current Grocery Company, Limited, Bright Emery, Limited, Dingle and Stewart, Limited, Rogers Fruit Company, Limited, Sterling Fruit Company, Limited, Brandon Grocery Company, Limited, Dingle Fruit Company, Limited, Portage Fruit Company, Limited.

The Grand Jury returned a true bill on October 1, and on the following day those of the accused who were residents of British Columbia were arraigned and released on bail of $5,000 each to appear on October 6 with the rest of the defendants, when they were also given bail of $5,000 each. The counsel for the defence included Mr. E. P. Davis, K.C., of Vancouver, Mr. H. B. Robertson, K.C., Vancouver, the late Mr. J. H. Senkler, K.C., Vancouver, Mr. A. McLeod Sinclair, K.C., of Calgary, and Mr. J. D. McPhee, Vancouver. On October 6 all accused individuals appeared in person and accused corporations by counsel. The arraignment was adjourned until October 12 to enable the defence to consider their position as to the charges. When the case came before the court on the 12th, Mr. A. McLeod Sinclair moved to quash the indictment, and arguments in support of the motion were advanced by Mr. Sinclair and Mr. Davis to the effect that the Crown had not followed proper procedure in instituting the prosecution, that only an interim report had been made by Mr. Lewis Duncan under the Combines Investigation Act, that the evidence had not been submitted to the Attorney General for British Columbia, and finally that the Combines Investigation Act, 1923, and section 498 of the Criminal Code were ultra vires of the Dominion Parliament since they involved property and civil rights, matters reserved under the British North America Act to the provincial legislatures. In view of the amendment to the Criminal Code in 1923 by which the Crown has no appeal where judgment has been rendered against the Crown on a motion to quash or in case of acquittal, and since there were in the indictment charges based on section 498 of the Code which were substantially similar to those preferred under the Combines Investigation Act, counsel for the Crown withdrew the charges preferred under that Act. Mr. Justice McDonald declined to give judgment as to the constitutional validity of section 498 of the Criminal Code on a motion to quash, and stated that he would reserve the point until a motion was made in arrest of judgment.

Application by the defence for trial without jury before a county court judge was opposed by the Crown and a requisition, signed by the Attorney General of the Province under section 825, subsection 5, of the Criminal Code, was filed directing that counts 1 to 6 inclusive be tried by jury. Further application was made for a trial of the corporations by a judge without a jury. It was argued that the provisions of the above subsection did not apply to corporations as the only punishment that could be levied on a corporation was a fine. This application was refused by Mr. Justice McDonald on the ground that the defendant companies must plead in the court where the indictment had been found. The application of the defence for trial before a Supreme Court judge without a jury on the four charges under section 498 of the Criminal Code was not opposed by the Crown. On the refusal of the defendants to plead, the court directed that a plea of "Not guilty" be entered and the hearing on the first six counts of the indictment be set at the foot of the list of cases to come before the court. On application by the defence for time to inspect the documents seized by the Crown, the trial was ordered postponed for a fortnight, and, in order to avoid interruption at the Christmas vacation, the court granted the request of the Crown for a further adjournment until January 18, 1926.

At the re-opening of the Fall Assizes on January 18, the court proceeded to empanel a jury. As each of the 53 defendants was entitled to twelve challenges, there was delay in securing the required number of jurors. Accordingly, the Crown counsel expressed his willingness to proceed to trial without a jury. The defence, however, would not agree to this suggestion and a jury was empanelled on January 26 after more than 250 jurors and 800 talesmen had been summoned from whom jurors could be chosen. The defence challenged 580 jurors; two were challenged on behalf of the Crown and 38 ordered to stand by.

The Crown's case, as outlined by Mr. McRuer in his address to the jury, rested on evidence showing that the forty-two defendant companies, representing the Nash interests in Canada, were engaged in a conspiracy to defraud the fruit grower and the public through their methods of marketing fruits and vegetables. Thirty-seven jobbing firms carried on business throughout the four western provinces, four being in Winnipeg, two in Regina, two in Moose Jaw, two in Saskatoon, two in Calgary, one in Vancouver that carried on a sort of combined jobbing and brokerage business, and others in smaller places in the Prairie Provinces. Employees of the Nash organization owned stock in various companies as allotted to them through the controlling Nash Shareholders' Company of Minneapolis, and the stock of the brokerage corporations was held by five persons in trust for shareholders of the jobbing corporation. Thus the jobbing houses were in control of the brokerage business, and the broker who morally and legally owed allegiance to the fruit grower was serving also the jobber. The perishable nature of the commodities dealt in added to the difficulties of marketing and rendered the grower more dependent on his broker than he might otherwise have been.

The defendant individuals owned stock in several jobbing houses, and those of them who were supervisors, S. P. Lloyd for Manitoba, W. Colquhoun for Saskatchewan, W. E. Carruthers for Alberta and British Columbia, and J. A. Simington in general charge of the Nash business in Canada, determined the prices at which brokerage corporations should sell to jobbing houses in order that a profit might be made over and above the commission deducted from the amount remitted to the grower and which was not disclosed in their return to the grower, thus violating their obligations as agents for the latter.

The Crown's case against the defendants was based on documents seized by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police on the premises of the accused corporations and those seized by Mr. Duncan in the execution of his commission. Strong objection to the admission of these records as evidence was raised by the defence counsel. The ground taken by the defence was that evidence of conspiracy within the county of Vancouver must be presented before documents seized outside the county could be admitted in evidence. Mr. Justice McDonald ruled that, since the court had jurisdiction throughout the province, it was only necessary for the Crown to prove that an overt act of conspiracy had been committed within the province in order to render admissible documentary evidence from without the province. This having been done to the satisfaction of the judge, the Crown counsel proceeded to lay this evidence before the court. The admission as evidence of letters and other documents seized by Mr. Duncan during his investigation under the Combines Investigation Act was objected to by the defence on the ground that the statute stipulated that such documents would not be used against the person producing them in any criminal proceedings subsequently instituted against him except in a case of perjury. After hearing argument on this point by the opposing counsel, Mr. Justice McDonald ruled that documents which were obtained from the defendants by Mr. Duncan in any manner other than production by a witness in giving evidence before him were admissible against the defendants on whose premises they were found. Mr. Duncan accordingly produced such documents as came within this ruling and the same were admitted in evidence.

When the Crown's case concluded on February 24, a motion by counsel for Miss K. A. Gibson, of Mutual (Vancouver), Limited, to dismiss the case against her was refused by the court, but Mr. Justice McDonald stated that he would instruct the jury not to convict her on the ground that she was acting under instructions and was not credit manager of the firm. Counsel for the other defendants moved to withdraw the prosecution from the jury, contending that the Crown had failed to prove the accused were parties to a conspiracy, but the court's decision was that the case must go to the jury against all defendants and the defence were instructed to reply to the Crown's charges.

Evidence was given on behalf of the defence and concluded on March 9. After addresses to the jury by counsel for the defence and the Crown, Mr. Justice McDonald charged the jury on March 12. His Lordship stated that in his opinion the evidence did not justify the conviction of Miss Gibson and that the rest of the accused should be acquitted on the fifth count of the indictment, the charge of conspiracy to affect the market price of fruits and vegetables. With regard to the other five charges before them, the judge said: "The biggest principle on which this case stands, the underlying thought throughout the whole question, is the principle which was laid down by the greatest teacher who ever lived when he said, 'No man can serve two masters, for either he will hate the one and love the other or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other,' and it is a principle which is as true to-day as it was two thousand years ago." The law of agency was explained to the jury—"No agent is permitted to enter as such into any transaction in which he has a personal interest in conflict with his duty to his principal"; and also the law of conspiracy—"A conspiracy consists of an agreement between two or more to do an unlawful act or to do a lawful act by unlawful means. . . . Now in this case we have before us there is no evidence really to prove any express agreement itself but various acts are sworn to from which you may, if you see fit, conclude that such an agreement was made. Where there is no direct evidence to the fact of conspiracy, then the acts of each and every one of the alleged conspirators may be given in evidence for the purpose of proving that there was a conspiracy, if such acts were done apparently in furtherance of a common design."

The jury retired at noon on March 12 and late in the afternoon of the 13th announced their verdict of guilty on five of the six counts of the indictment against the general manager, J. A. Simington, and the three provincial supervisors, S. P. Lloyd, W. Colquhoun and W. E. Carruthers, and the four corporations, Mutual (Vancouver), Limited, Vancouver; Mutual Brokers, Limited, Calgary; Mutual Brokers, Limited, Regina; and Mutual Brokers, Limited, Winnipeg. Judgment was immediately pronounced by Mr. Justice McDonald, a fine of $25,000 and imprisonment for one day being imposed on each of the four convicted individuals, and a similar fine on each of the corporations.

Notice of appeal against the judgment of the court was given on behalf of the convicted individuals and corporations on the ground that the defendants were improperly convicted and that corporations cannot be guilty of conspiracy. The Crown thereupon applied for leave to appeal against the sentences imposed. The application was granted on April 12 and notice of appeal filed accordingly. On May 26 the defence withdrew its appeal and the Crown's appeal was then withdrawn.

The four counts of the indictment under section 498 of the Criminal Code, which the defence applied to have tried by a judge without a jury, were traversed to the Fall Assizes.

COMBINE IN MARKETING OF NEW BRUNSWICK POTATOES

Following an application in December, 1924, for an investigation into an alleged combine in connection with the marketing of the New Brunswick potato crop, the Minister of Labour, Hon. James Murdock, instructed Mr. Harry Hereford, Registrar under the Act, to make an inquiry into the matter.

Mr. Hereford's report, published on June 9, 1925, found evidence of a combine operating through various agreements and arrangements made between the members of the two shipping groups, known as the Porter group and the McCain group, and the Munson Steamship Line and O. R. Estey of Woodstock, N.B. The firms comprised in the Porter group are Guy G. Porter, Limited, Perth, N.B.; Hatfield & Company, Limited, Hartland, N.B.; C. E. Gallagher, Bath, N.B.; B. Frank Smith, East Florenceville, N.B.; Nelles & Clark, Woodstock, N.B.; and Johnston & Turbill, Woodstock, N.B. The members of the McCain group are McCain Produce Company, Limited, East Florenceville; Noddin & Schriver, Woodstock, N.B.; Chipman Phillips, Woodstock, N.B.; Henry Phillips, Woodstock, N.B.; and Wilson, Patterson & Gifford, St. John, N.B. The Porter group played the leading part in these arrangements to control the potato business, particularly the trade with Cuba, the McCain group and O. R. Estey being more or less forced into agreements with the Porter group in order to retain their share of the trade. In the opinion of the registrar, the arrangements made at different times among these groups gave to the large dealers better facilities for shipping potatoes, but the methods adopted and the dominance of the Guy G. Porter Company kept the small dealer out of the market and unduly depressed the price to the New Brunswick grower. Certain activities of the combine were directed against the farmers' co-operative movement and to maintain control of the New Brunswick Potato Exchange. The payment of bribes to employees of competitors in order to obtain information, and the interception of cable messages, were among the unfair methods of competition used by the combine. The arrangements made between the Porter group and the Munson Steamship Line not only gave the former an advantage over competitors in securing shipping space but enabled the Porter group to fix freight charges at a higher rate than required by the company and to split the profit thus made on their competitors' freight between the friends of the combine in Havana and certain members of the Porter group. Shippers were practically forced by the combine to use the Munson Line and were prevented from taking advantage of the lower freights offered by competing lines, such as the Canadian Government Merchant Marine.

On June 11, 1925, the report of the registrar on the investigation into the marketing of New Brunswick potatoes was remitted by the Minister of Labour to the Hon. Ivan Rand, K.C., Attorney General for New Brunswick, for any action it might be considered desirable to take. In view of the provincial elections in August, no action was taken by the outgoing administration. On September 15, 1925, when the new Government took office, the report and evidence were submitted anew to the Hon. J. B. M. Baxter, K.C., Premier and Attorney General. Mr. Baxter later informed the Minister of Labour that he had given instructions to have the documents examined and such action taken as the evidence would justify. Up to the end of the fiscal year no further action had been reported.

ALLEGED COMBINE IN DISTRIBUTION OF FRUITS AND VEGETABLES PRODUCED IN ONTARIO

Following the publication in February, 1925, of the report of the commissioner under the Combines Investigation Act on the alleged combine in connection with the distribution of fruits and vegetables in Western Canada, an application was received for an inquiry into the trade in these products in Eastern Canada. Owing to his experience in the former case, Mr. Lewis Duncan was appointed a commissioner to make an investigation, which had not been completed at the end of the fiscal year.

ALLEGED COMBINE OF BREAD BAKERIES IN MONTREAL

On September 22, 1925, an application was received for an investigation of an alleged combine in the manufacture and sale of bread in the city of Montreal which, it was complained, eliminated competition by fixing uniform prices and withholding supplies of flour or bread from bakers or grocers selling below the fixed prices. An inquiry was made by the registrar, whose report was submitted to the minister and made public on March 26, 1926.

It was represented by the applicants that an advance in bread prices in Montreal early in September, 1925, was due to the operations of three of the largest English bakeries in Montreal which, in April, 1925, had been acquired by a holding company owning and operating other bakeries in Canada and the United States. This opinion was reflected in much of the newspaper comment at the time, and in October the City Council of Montreal, not knowing of the inquiry in progress under the Combines Investigation Act, appointed a committee to inquire into the charges of an attempt to obtain a monopoly of the bread business in Montreal. This committee reported, in February, 1926, that the information secured was insufficient to enable it to determine whether or not a combine existed.

The inquiry made by the registrar disclosed that the increase in prices in September (to 10 cents wholesale and 11 cents retail, for a loaf weighing 24 ounces) was one of a number of attempts made by non-English bakers in Montreal to put an end to a price war which had waged intermittently for some years. Many of the bakers had been selling bread below cost; in many cases they did not know their own costs of production and distribution. The result was to demoralize the whole trade, to provide an inferior bread, often underweight, and the practice on the whole, in this particular business and under the circumstances found to exist, did not appear to be in the public interest. Evidence was secured of a meeting of the non-English bakers, early in September, at which it was decided to try to hold to a uniform price. The understanding arrived at, however, was disregarded by most of them before the end of the month and price-cutting below cost was resumed. Moreover, it seemed clear that the minimum selling prices aimed at were not unreasonable, all costs considered. In view of these considerations, the finding was that no agreement or combine existed which operated to the detriment of the public. As for the three English bakeries, branches of an international baking corporation, the only change in their prices since their purchase by the holding company was a reduction of half a cent a loaf. No case was found in which supplies of bread or flour had been withheld on account of selling below fixed prices.

PROPRIETARY ARTICLES TRADE ASSOCIATION

During the fiscal year, the attention of the registrar was drawn, through informal complaints and discussion in the public press and trade papers, to the proposal to set up an organization of manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers to eliminate price cutting in the drug trade. In May, 1925, a committee was formed at Montreal to organize the Proprietary Articles Trade Association designed to prevent the cutting of prices on proprietary medicines and toilet articles by providing machinery for the maintenance of resale prices.

Organization was not fully effected until March, 1926, when a constitution governing the association was adopted and officers elected. Applicants for membership in the Proprietary Articles Trade Association are required to sign an agreement not to sell any of the articles on the association's list at prices below those on the list. Manufacturers and wholesalers also agree not to supply any article on the list of the association to any person named by the council of the association on its "stop list" as either selling any proprietary article protected by the association below the fixed price, or allowing a bonus or dividend on the sales, or as supplying any one who sells at less than the fixed prices. Wholesalers and retailers agree further not to try to sell any other article in place of an article on the association's list.

Up to the end of the fiscal year no price list had been issued, but the secretary reported a membership of 111 manufacturers, 16 wholesalers and 2,700 retailers. Information concerning the association's proposals and the conditions which they are designed to prevent has been secured from the officers of the association and from other sources, and the question of the effect upon the public is under consideration.

OTHER APPLICATIONS FOR INVESTIGATIONS

Applications for investigations have been received in connection with business in several other commodities. In one case, the application was not in proper form and was returned to the applicants, who took no further action.

In three of these cases, more or less extensive inquiries revealed no evidence of a combine within the meaning of the Act. No publicity, therefore, was given to the subject of these inquiries, only the applicants, the parties to the alleged combine, and others concerned being aware of the investigation by the registrar.

In another case, inquiry led to the opinion that the practice complained of was in contravention of the Act, and at the end of the fiscal year an effort was being made to have the matter adjusted to the satisfaction of the applicants and in the interests of the public, without recourse to publicity.

In addition to the formal applications for investigations which were received during 1925-26, many complaints have been made to the registrar regarding so-called unfair practices alleged to be in restraint of trade. Many of the complaints have arisen from the changing methods of modern distribution, including the development of chain stores, co-operative buying agencies, department stores, mail order houses, etc., and the efforts of certain wholesalers and retailers to maintain the traditional channels of distribution. Frequent complaints have been made with reference to the fixing and maintaining of resale prices on different commodities, and also as to the refusal of manufacturers and wholesale houses to supply goods to dealers whom they do not regard as bona fide wholesalers or retailers.

VII. EMPLOYMENT OFFICES CO-ORDINATION ACT

The present statement is the eighth annual report of the Employment Service Branch, being for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1926.

FUNCTIONS OF THE BRANCH

The primary function of the Employment Service Branch is administrative—that of administering the Employment Offices Co-ordination Act (8-9 George V, chapter 21). This Act empowers the Minister of Labour,—

- (a) to aid and encourage the organization and co-ordination of employment offices and to promote uniformity of methods among them;

- (b) to establish one or more clearing houses for the interchange of information between employment offices concerning the transfer of labour and other matters;
- (c) to compile and distribute information received from employment offices, and from other sources, regarding prevailing conditions of employment.

The employment offices whose co-ordination and uniformity of methods are sought are the employment offices of the various provincial governments. The desired co-operation of the provinces, one with the other and all with the Department of Labour, is obtained by the device of federal subventions for employment service work provided for in the Act. In view of the close co-ordination of effort which is attained, the employment offices of the several provinces and the federal clearing houses, though each unit retains its individual identity, are considered as a single organization known as the "Employment Service of Canada".

Incidental to the administration of the Act is the supplementary function recited in (c) above—that of collecting, compiling and publishing information which sheds light on the currently prevailing trend of the volume of employment. To fulfil this mission two classes of statistics are regularly prepared: (1) administrative statistics—those showing the volume of work performed by the offices of the Employment Service of Canada; and (2) trade union statistics—those compiled on the basis of monthly returns forwarded voluntarily by some 1,500 local trade unions, showing the percentages of their membership unemployed. These statistics are published monthly in the Labour Gazette.

AGREEMENTS WITH THE PROVINCES

The Employment Offices Co-ordination Act, 1918, provides in section 6 (in part) that,—

The payments hereinbefore authorized shall, as to each province, be conditional upon agreement between the minister and the Government of the province as to the terms, conditions and purposes within the meaning of this Act upon and for which the payments are to be made and applied.

Accordingly, during the fiscal year 1925-26, uniform agreements were concluded with all the provincial governments except that of Prince Edward Island. The sum of money which was mentioned in the agreement as being available for payment by the Department of Labour to the provinces was $150,000, the sum provided by statute. The amount of $150,000, when distributed among the provinces in proportion to their expenditures on employment office administration and operation, enabled a repayment to them of 34.9 per centum of their gross expenditures. Due to a slight diminution in their gross expenditures, the provinces benefited to the extent of 0.8 per cent more than in the preceding fiscal year. Table No. 1 on page 59 shows in detail the amounts paid to the various provinces, dividing the totals under the different items which are considered legitimate expenditures under the Act. Moreover, on its part the Department of Labour undertook to, and did, furnish the provinces with the different forms utilized in the employment offices. The terms and conditions under which the moneys were to be paid to the provincial governments, as set forth in the agreement, were virtually the same as during the previous fiscal year. That feature of the former agreements, providing specifically for special employment work on behalf of veterans of the Great War who were partially disabled as a result of war services, was again incorporated.

LOCATION OF EMPLOYMENT OFFICES

Every office of the Employment Service offers facilities for both men and women who are seeking work in any occupation, and for employers seeking any sort of help. Obviously, it is neither practicable nor advisable to segregate the various functions of the offices at all centres, but when the volume of work warrants it, and where the population to be served is of sufficient magnitude, such division of functions is made, and men's and women's, skilled and unskilled, farm, factory, and domestic, etc., divisions are separately operated. On the Prairies, where farm labour is regularly hired in large numbers, it is common custom, particularly in Saskatchewan, to operate temporary offices. These are not included, however, in the list below.

Throughout the year offices were conducted at 65 centres, no changes in their locations being made.

The list of centres where offices were located at March 31, 1926, follows:—

Nova Scotia (three centres).—Halifax, New Glasgow, Sydney.

New Brunswick (three centres).—Chatham, Moncton, St. John.

Quebec (five centres).—Hull, Montreal, Quebec, Sherbrooke, Three Rivers.

Ontario (twenty-five centres).—Belleville, Brantford, Chatham, Cobalt, Fort William, Guelph, Hamilton, Kingston, Kitchener, London, Niagara Falls, North Bay, Oshawa, Ottawa, Pembroke, Peterborough, Port Arthur, Sarnia, Sault Ste. Marie, St. Catharines, St. Thomas, Sudbury, Timmins, Toronto, Windsor.

Manitoba (three centres).—Brandon, Dauphin, Winnipeg.

Saskatchewan (nine centres).—Estevan, Moose Jaw, North Battleford, Prince Albert, Regina, Saskatoon, Swift Current, Weyburn, Yorkton.

Alberta (five centres).—Calgary, Drumheller, Edmonton, Lethbridge, Medicine Hat.

British Columbia (twelve centres).—Cranbrook, Kamloops, Nanaimo, Nelson, New Westminster, Penticton, Prince George, Prince Rupert, Revelstoke, Vancouver, Vernon, Victoria.

For the purpose of co-ordinating the efforts of the various local offices, and to enable the transfer of any kind of labour from districts over supplied to those where a dearth exists, eight clearing houses have been established throughout Canada. Those for provincial clearance, operated by the provincial governments as part of the Employment Service of Canada, are situated at Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Regina, Edmonton, and Vancouver. Those for interprovincial clearance, operated by the Department of Labour in the interests of the Employment Service of Canada, are: Eastern Clearing House, Ottawa; Western Clearing House, Winnipeg.

STAFF

On March 31, 1925, the personnel of the Employment Service totalled 278. This number was distributed among the various component authorities as follows:—

(a) Provincial Governments.—Nova Scotia, 6; New Brunswick, 7; Quebec, 29; Ontario, 106; Manitoba, 22; Saskatchewan, 27; Alberta, 20; and British Columbia, 29; and

(b) Federal Government.—Department of Labour, Ottawa, 17; Western Clearing House, Winnipeg, 3; local employment offices at Halifax, 2; at Ottawa, 1; at Toronto, 3; at Winnipeg, 2; at Vancouver, 3; and at Victoria, 1.

At the close of the fiscal year under review, the total number of employees stood at 269, 31 of whom were employed by the Federal Government and 238 of whom were provincial employees. The detailed distribution of staff was as follows:—

(a) Provincial Governments.—Nova Scotia, 6; New Brunswick, 7; Quebec, 29; Ontario, 100; Manitoba, 21; Saskatchewan, 27; Alberta, 20; British Columbia, 28; and

(b) Federal Government.—Department of Labour, Ottawa, 17; Western Clearing House, Winnipeg, 3; local employment offices at Halifax, 1; at Ottawa, 1; at Toronto, 3; at Winnipeg, 2; at Vancouver, 3; and at Victoria, 1.

Thus, during the year the total of the provincial staffs showed a net reduction of eight and the federal of one. It might be added that the federal employees described as being located in certain of the provincial local offices are the employees engaged in specialized employment activities on behalf of handicapped veterans of the war, so placed in pursuance of the agreements between the Federal and Provincial Governments.

CONFERENCE

The Employment Service Council of Canada, a body advisory to the Minister of Labour in respect of the administration of the Employment Offices' Co-ordination Act, held its seventh annual meeting at Ottawa on September 9-10, 1925. The council, which is composed of representatives of the various parties to the agreements, as well as representatives of the railways, organized labour, and employers, dealt with employment matters of current interest and agreed upon recommendations concerning them for presentation to the minister.

SPECIALIZED EMPLOYMENT WORK ON BEHALF OF HANDICAPPED EX-SERVICE MEN

In the last annual report of the department it was set forth that, for various reasons, specialized employment work affecting men having physical handicaps, due to service in the late war, had been transferred to the Employment Service of Canada from the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment during the fiscal year 1923-24. It was further stated that the co-operation of the provinces in the carrying on of this employment activity was secured by receiving their adherence to a new section in the annual agreements, which recited the precise terms under which the work was to be done. For the second year this matter was embodied in the agreements of 1925-26, and was agreed to by the contracting parties (i.e. the eight co-operating provinces and the Federal Government).

The conditions for the practical working out of this scheme remained unaltered from those of the preceding year; that is, where the volume of work was of sufficient magnitude to warrant such action, a special section should be established for the purpose, and the Department of Labour should appoint and pay in full any additional employees thereby rendered necessary; and in all other employment offices, the regular provincial staff should give to this function the attention circumstances demanded. A survey of the employment situation as affecting handicapped ex-service men was carried out when first the scheme became effective, and it was then determined that additional staff would be necessary in certain centres as follows: Halifax, 2; Ottawa, 1; Toronto, 3; Winnipeg, 2; Vancouver, 3; and Victoria, 1. These employees the Department of Labour engaged during the previous fiscal year, and from April 1, 1925, to March 31, 1926, the arrangements were continued on precisely the same basis at all centres except Halifax, at which point it was decided that, owing to the progress made in the interim, the additional staff might with propriety be reduced to one at March 31, 1925.

The fiscal year under review was, therefore, the first full year during which the Employment Service undertook to give specialized attention to the employment requirements of handicapped ex-service men, and the record presented by the work performed constitutes a not unfavourable chapter in the story of what Canada has accomplished in the way of caring for the post-war needs of the victims of the conflict. Obstacles in the way of making a rapid and final disposal of all applicants of this class are, however, considerable. The very nature of certain war disabilities so limits the scope of placement for some men that congenial employments are only found for them with the greatest difficulty, or, in some cases, for short periods of time. Then again, there has been a tendency for men of this class to congregate in certain centres for various reasons, chief among which is that of more favourable climatic conditions. This latter factor has been potent in providing the coast area of British Columbia with a problem perhaps greater in proportion than that of any similar area elsewhere. In districts where industry is still in a rather early stage of development, or where the primary, extractive industries operate to almost the complete exclusion of the highly developed and widely specialized processes of more refined manufactures, such as are indigenous to the older settled districts, placement of handicapped workers has been found to be less easy and less possible.

During the year ending March 31, 1926, the Employment Service made 7,688 placements of handicapped ex-service men, in jobs of varying durations.

EMPLOYMENT STATISTICS

As stated above, certain statistical information covering the field of employment is regularly collected and compiled by the Employment Service Branch and published in the Labour Gazette. These statistics are of two classes: (a) administrative statistics, showing the work performed by the employment offices, based on daily reports received from the offices of the Employment Service; and (b) statistics based on monthly reports on unemployment, received from local trade unions. In addition, the Labour Gazette publishes each month index numbers of employment in industry and reports on building permits issued, which are collected by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics in accordance with the Statistics Act, 1918.

STATISTICAL REPORT OF EMPLOYMENT OFFICES

The tables on page 60 show (table No. 2) applications, (table No. 3) vacancies, and (table No. 4) placements in regular and casual employment as reported by the offices of the Employment Service of Canada in the various provinces during the fiscal year; an analysis of the vacancies and placements by industrial groups for the same period is also given (table No. 7) on pages 62 and 63.

As may be seen in the tables, during the year 1925-26 there were registered at the public employment offices a total of 548,487 applications for employment, 428,372 being from men and 120,115 from women. The total for the previous fiscal year was 501,574.

Opportunities for employment of which the offices were notified numbered 443,810, of which 338,595 were for men and 105,215 for women. The corresponding total for the fiscal year 1924-25 was 382,934. Placements effected by the service show a total of 408,487, 321,708 having been men and 86,779 women. Considered on the basis of the duration of the prospective work, the figures are further sub-divided into "casual," i.e., where the duration of employment does not exceed seven days, and "regular", i.e., where the duration of employment is in excess of seven days. From this angle the placements of men show 54,909 to have been casual and 266,799 to have been regular. Of the placements of women, 45,482 were casual and 41,297 were regular. It might be added that the statistics for the preceding fiscal year recorded placements of 261,086 men and 79,733 women, or a total of 340,819.

STATISTICS OF UNEMPLOYMENT AMONG TRADE UNION MEMBERS

From reports received from local trade unions, a figure is compiled monthly, showing the percentage of the membership covered which is unemployed on the last day of the month. These statistics are worked out in considerable detail, being published in such form that each province as a whole, each industry as a whole, each main division of each industry, and each main division of each industry within each province are shown separately. When referring to trade union members as unemployed, the term "unemployment" has reference only to involuntary idleness due to economic causes. Members who are engaged at work in other than their own trades or who are idle because of illness or as a direct result of strikes or lockouts are not considered for statistical purposes as unemployed. While the greater number of the reporting unions report regularly each month, slight fluctuations are inevitable. Ordinarily, about 1,500 local unions, having a total membership of about 150,000 persons, co-operate with the branch by reporting.

Table No. 6 on page 61 gives the percentages of unemployment among the membership of reporting trade unions from June, 1916, to March, 1926. Up to January, 1919, the figures are given for the last day of each quarter, but subsequent to that date, due to their more frequent collection, the percentage at the close of each month is given. The figure in each case is that for all Canada, for all industries.

LABOUR MOBILITY

While the offices of the service are located at the points of chief industrial activity, the facilities afforded are not only utilized locally, but each office supplies a considerable number of workers to the contiguous districts. Out of the total of 408,487 placements effected, 221,663 were made outside of the centres in which offices are situated.

Since 1919, the railways have accorded to bona fide applicants at the Employment Service who may desire to travel to distant employment for which no workers are available locally, a concession involving a reduced fare. This privilege is effective on the following railroads: Canadian National, Canadian Pacific, Dominion Atlantic, Kettle Valley, Michigan Central, Pacific Great Eastern, Quebec Central, Temiskaming and Northern Ontario, and the Wabash. The reduced rate is for a second-class fare at a rate of 2.70 cents per mile, obtainable on the surrender of a certificate secured from the employment office. A minimum fare of four dollars is stipulated, so that a person travelling to employment at a distance where the reduced rate does not amount to the minimum is not able to derive the benefit therefrom. From table No. 5 on page 61, which gives details regarding the use of this certificate, it will be learned that 37,563 persons were by this means aided in securing employment.

VIII. TECHNICAL EDUCATION ACT

Seven years ago the Dominion Government undertook to assist the provinces in promoting and developing technical or vocational education for industrial workers. If the results be measured by the immediate benefits to industry, one might reach the conclusion that very little has been accomplished. If, on the other hand, a comparison be made between the efforts to prepare young people for industrial life in 1919 and the work which is being done by vocational schools to-day, one cannot escape the conclusion that much progress has been achieved. The educational systems of every province have been expanded and new courses and methods of instruction are being developed to provide suitable training and instruction for those children who go to work during the 'teen age and for industrial workers who wish to continue their education and increase their earning capacity.

Each province has had its peculiar problems and limitations and each has undertaken the work in its own way. There has been no national policy for vocational education nor has any attempt been made to impose a new organization or system of training on any province. The Technical Education Branch of the Department of Labour has recognized the right of each province to control educational affairs and has confined its efforts to spreading information about vocational education, assisting local and provincial boards when requested, and confining federal grants to work which is designed to educate people for industrial life. Each province has manifested an earnest desire to carry out the intention of the Technical Education Act. Despite the differences in industrial development, density and origin of population, and educational policies, there has been an increasing tendency towards co-operative action on the part of the provinces.

The efforts of the past seven years have been concentrated on expanding and improving school systems. Until recently, little has been done towards promoting training in industry and co-operative action between the schools and industrial organizations. Very promising developments along these lines are taking place in Halifax, Montreal, Hamilton and other cities. It is expected that during the next few years rapid progress will be made in linking the school with industry so that each may do its share in training Canada's future workers.

A splendid start has been made in several branches of vocational education, but some important divisions of the work have not yet been started in the majority of the provinces. In no province has a program been undertaken which meets the educational and vocational requirements of all children.

THE NEED FOR VOCATIONAL EDUCATION

The census figures for 1921 show that approximately 10 per cent of the total population are between the ages of fourteen and eighteen, which is the secondary school age, and that approximately 40 per cent of these young people are enrolled in public and private schools. Assuming that 10 per cent of the children are either unable or unfit to benefit by secondary school training and that 10 per cent complete a secondary school training before the age of eighteen or receive satisfactory instruction and training outside of educational institutions, there remains 40 per cent who are not provided for. What is to be done for these children who have left school unfitted for the duties and responsibilities of adult life?

The mere provision of school buildings, teachers and equipment will not solve the problem. This is evident from the fact that, of the 80 per cent of children who drop out of school before completing a secondary training, approximately one-half live in communities where secondary school work is provided to meet the demand. Investigators tell us that relatively few children drop out of school because of economic necessity and that the great majority do so because of lack of interest in school work or a positive distaste for a part or parts of the instruction and training which they have received. Modern psychology has shown that education cannot take place apart from interest and all children cannot be interested in the same type of school work. It would, therefore, help very little if we were to compel children to remain in school for longer periods without altering the school programs by providing a variety of courses, each suited to the natural interests, abilities and economic requirements of special groups of pupils.

It is because the established schools and industrial organizations have failed to provide suitable education and vocational training for young people who go to work at an early age that secondary vocational schools are being developed to provide a variety of courses and methods of instruction which will meet the needs of this large group of children.

Such a program requires careful study of existing conditions in schools and in all branches of industrial life. It cannot be conducted without close co-operation between schools and industry. Too many communities have adopted the plan of copying the work being done in other centres without first making a thorough survey of the constituency to be served by the new classes, and being assured of the sympathetic interest and active co-operation of employers, organized labour, educators and parents. The experiences of such communities point to the conclusion that whatever work is undertaken at the beginning should be in response to a definite request or recognized need. In this way the program may be built upon a solid foundation and in such a manner as to convince the skeptics that vocational education is not a fad or temporary phase of school work but a permanent, growing branch of the educational system which supplements the work of the other branches and has a place in every community. The organization of vocational education must be sufficiently flexible and comprehensive to meet the different conditions in various types and sizes of communities.

THE DISTRIBUTION OF VOCATIONAL CLASSES IN CANADA

According to the figures of the 1921 census, 4,352,402 people, or 49.53 per cent of Canada's population, live in urban centres. Of these people, approximately 45 per cent live in cities of over 50,000 inhabitants, 20 per cent in cities of 10,000 to 50,000, 8.5 per cent in towns of 5,000 to 10,000, 18 per cent in places between 1,000 and 5,000, and the remaining 8.5 per cent in small centres of less than 1,000 inhabitants.

The following table indicates the extent to which vocational classes have been developed in each of the above groups of municipalities.

SHOWING THE NUMBER AND PERCENTAGE OF MUNICIPALITIES IN EACH GROUP WHICH CONDUCT VOCATIONAL CLASSES

A glance at this table reveals the fact that every city of over 50,000 population is served by both day and evening vocational classes. Of the remaining cities with populations exceeding 10,000, 61 per cent have operated day classes during one or more years since 1919 and 57 per cent had classes in operation during the school year ended June 30, 1925. The proportion of municipalities of less than 5,000 population which operate vocational classes is so small that we may conclude that most of these places are unable to support classes or that this field for vocational classes has not yet been developed.

The enrolment in vocational schools operated in communities of various sizes is indicated by the following table:—

The above table includes every city of over 50,000 population and a few selected municipalities representing the various provinces. Only classes receiving federal grants under the Technical Education Act are included. The figures for evening classes represent the total enrolment in all classes, which is somewhat larger than the number of individuals enrolled, owing to the fact that some pupils enrol in more than one class.

The wide variations in enrolments and percentages among municipalities of approximately the same population are misleading unless one is familiar with local conditions and understands what the figures represent. For example, the figures for the province of Quebec do not include home economics classes, commercial classes conducted under the Department of Public Instruction, and vocational classes in religious institutions. Classes conducted by the Provincial Department of Agriculture and in agricultural schools and colleges are not included for any municipality. In some cases, the relatively high enrolments are accounted for by increases in population since 1921 and by the enrolment of pupils from the surrounding districts or neighbouring municipalities. Some of the large decreases in evening class enrolments are the result of increases in fees and more stringent regulations governing admissions, sizes of classes, and number of courses provided. The size and nature of local industries, periods of depression and expansion, and the geographical situation of the community have a great influence on the enrolments in vocational classes. The enthusiasm, experience and qualifications of the teachers and organizers are very important factors in determining the success of the work and account for many differences under what appear to be similar conditions.

The federal director is of opinion that, in general, it is unwise to attempt to operate day vocational classes in communities of less than 5,000 population, and that evening classes cannot be successfully maintained in centres of less than 2,000 population. In the few small centres where the work appears to be successfully established, it is confined to elementary commercial work, household science and general industrial work of prevocational grade, or it is organized to meet the needs of the predominating local industry. Evening classes for miners have been successfully maintained in small centres in Nova Scotia, Alberta, and British Columbia, but, in most cases, it has been found advisable to serve small communities by correspondence instruction or through itinerant instructors.

The field for the development of vocational classes during the next few years appears to be in composite high schools for communities from 5,000 to 20,000 population and in separate vocational schools for larger cities. In every province there is need for a system of correspondence courses and itinerant instruction to serve the small centres and outlying districts. Some of the better private correspondence schools are now prepared to co-operate with public secondary schools by supplementing the regular high school work with correspondence instruction supervised by the regular teachers and carried on as a part of the high school work. This arrangement will enable small high schools to provide vocational education covering a wide range of courses, at very low cost.

Nova Scotia has made an excellent beginning in the development of correspondence instruction and over 1,600 persons have enrolled in one or more of forty-seven courses which are now available from the Provincial Department of Education. British Columbia and Alberta have conducted correspondence classes for miners and stationary engineers for a number of years, and last year Manitoba adopted the Alberta course in stationary engineering. A committee representing the four western provinces has been working since April, 1925, in an effort to develop suitable correspondence courses and evening school courses to serve the small communities of Western Canada. It is expected that some of these courses will be available before 1927.

New Brunswick is the only province which has adopted the system of itinerant instructors. During the summer, an instructor in motor mechanics drives from one community to another conducting short intensive courses for those who drive cars or operate marine engines. This service is specially designed to meet the needs of fishermen using power boats, and automobile drivers who are required to do their own minor repairs. Over 650 people attended these classes during 1925.

In Ontario and Nova Scotia arrangements have been made whereby qualified evening class instructors conduct classes in several nearby communities on different nights, thereby providing a service which no single community could afford to support but which meets the needs of each community in the most efficient manner.

Nova Scotia and Alberta have provided for short intensive courses conducted in the provincial technical schools at Halifax and Calgary during the summer months and similar courses are conducted at selected centres in New Brunswick during the winter. These courses are for mechanics and industrial workers who wish to improve their efficiency and increase their earning capacity by receiving instruction in the special operations and new processes of their occupations. In Nova Scotia some of these courses are closely linked with the correspondence department and supplement the instruction received by mail.

Although a splendid beginning has been made by several provinces in their efforts to serve the small communities, and steady progress is being made in the development of vocational classes in communities of over 10,000 population, vocational education in Canada is still in its infancy and requires careful study and supervision if it is to take its proper place in the educational systems of the provinces.

SUMMARY OF DEVELOPMENTS DURING THE PAST YEAR

The progress of the past year has been satisfactory in that the work carried on in the larger centres has been steadily improved, closer co-operation has been established with industry, new buildings have been erected, better facilities for teacher-training have been provided, new courses have been organized in a number of municipalities where the work has been organized for some time, and classes have been started in new centres.

The grants paid to the provinces during the past year amounted to $944,336.69, an increase of $113,859.92 over the previous year. Ontario, Quebec and New Brunswick earned more than their proportion of the total annual appropriation, but in the cases of Quebec and New Brunswick the amounts carried forward from previous years were more than sufficient to make up the difference. British Columbia and Alberta were the only other provinces which earned more than 75 per cent of their annual appropriation. Saskatchewan earned 21 per cent, Manitoba 24 per cent, Nova Scotia 44 per cent, and Prince Edward Island 36 per cent of their respective appropriations. Particulars regarding federal grants and expenditures by the provincial governments are given in the appended tables I and II. The summarized figures for schools, enrolments, teachers, etc., are given in table III.

The numbers of municipalities conducting day classes and evening classes have increased. There has been a corresponding increase in the enrolment in day classes, but the number of individuals attending evening classes has decreased. This falling off in evening classes is partly accounted for by the fact that more schools have reported both total enrolments and number of individuals enrolled. In past years, many schools reported only total enrolments, which exceed the number of individuals wherever pupils enrol in more than one class. The statistics for this year are more nearly accurate than for any previous year.

Four bulletins were added to the vocational education series issued by the Department of Labour. They dealt with vocational guidance, mechanical drawing, methods of teaching shopwork, and a survey of the efforts which have been made to link schools with industry in Canada. A comprehensive list of suitable text-books and references for use in secondary vocational schools is in course of preparation. Lists dealing with mathematics and mechanical drawing have been issued and lists for other subjects are well advanced. Numerous requests for general information and personal assistance have been received by the Technical Education Branch from teachers and individuals interested in vocational education. This type of service is limited only by the time and staff available for such work.

Probably the most noteworthy development of the year was the opening of the new printing school at Montréal. This school, which is operated in connection with the Montréal Technical School, has established very close co-operation with the local printing plants. An advisory committee, representing employers and employees in the printing industry, acts in close co-operation with the school board and provincial authorities in determining the policy and courses to be adopted.

The extent of the work in each province and the trend of developments during the past year are indicated by the following brief summaries for each province and by the more detailed reports and statistical tables submitted by the provinces as required by section 6 (d) of the Technical Education Act.

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND

The success of the evening classes conducted at Georgetown during the winter of 1924-25 has led to the opening of similar classes in four other municipalities during the past year and it is expected that classes will be opened in several other centres during the current year. The total enrolment in evening classes increased from 30 to 423. The enrolment in day classes conducted at Charlottetown was 200, an increase of 59 over the previous year.

NOVA SCOTIA

Except for a slight increase in the number of students enrolled in the correspondence courses there has been a falling-off in the enrolments in Nova Scotia. No new developments were undertaken, but the work was continued in every municipality despite industrial depression. The total enrolment in day classes was 185 and in evening classes 2,789. The number enrolled in the correspondence courses was 725.

NEW BRUNSWICK

There has been a gain in the enrolments of every department of the work in New Brunswick except itinerant work. No new projects have been undertaken, but the extensive building program of the past few years has been completed, and, with one exception, every community of any considerable size is now served by day vocational classes. The new buildings at Saint John and Campbellton will be ready for occupancy in September, 1926. Mr. F. Peacock, the Provincial Director, resigned to take charge of the new Saint John school, and his successor has not yet been appointed. The total enrolment in day classes throughout New Brunswick was 561, and the number of individuals enrolled in evening classes was 1,433. The attendance at classes conducted by the itinerant instructor was 296.

QUEBEC

Rapid progress is being made in the province of Quebec, which is reorganizing its provincial vocational education work. Evening school work is being organized on a certificate or diploma basis, the day school work is being divided into technical and trade courses, a provincial board is to be formed, and closer co-operation is being established between schools of various types and between schools and industry. An unique development is the publication of the new magazine "Technique", which is prepared by the vocational teachers and officials of the province. Enrolments have increased in both day and evening classes, the totals now being 1,985 and 7,747 respectively.

ONTARIO

The work in Ontario continues to progress very satisfactorily. New buildings are fewer than in previous years, but additions to recently constructed schools have been built in several communities and others are urgently needed. An itinerant motor mechanics instructor for evening classes was engaged last year to serve five neighbouring municipalities. Co-operation between schools and industry has been further developed in several centres and new part-time classes for employed adolescents have been opened. Teacher training has been improved and extended to include instruction and guidance for evening instructors in groups and in their respective classes. The total enrolment in day classes increased from 15,422 to 19,622, and in evening classes from 46,184 to 50,297. The number of individuals attending evening classes was 35,226. The number of municipalities conducting day classes increased from 25 to 29, and those operating evening classes from 50 to 55.

MANITOBA

The resignation of Mr. R. B. Vaughan, Provincial Director, to accept the principalship of the New Westminster Technical School in British Columbia, and the adoption of correspondence courses in stationary engineering, are the two noteworthy features of the work in Manitoba. Mr. Vaughan's successor has not yet been appointed, consequently no written report has been received from this province. The statistical tables submitted by the provincial Department of Education show an increase in day school enrolments from 1,479 to 2,028, but a decrease in evening schools from 3,579 to 1,301. The registration for correspondence instruction was 26.

SASKATCHEWAN

Commercial classes were opened for the first time in the Battleford Collegiate Institute, but the Yorkton classes were discontinued. Commercial work is holding its own in the three centres of Regina, Saskatoon, and Moose Jaw, but the other branches of vocational education are losing ground. Saskatchewan is still without a provincial director.

It is expected that efforts will be made to serve the smaller communities and isolated pupils as soon as the joint committee representing the four western provinces has brought in its report regarding evening schools and correspondence courses. The enrolments reported for the past year were: day classes, 826; evening classes, 648.

ALBERTA

An additional shop wing is being built to the Provincial Institute of Technology and Art at Calgary, which was unable to accommodate all applicants for admission. The reaction against manual training and household science in the schools appears to be ended and prospects for future developments along vocational lines are brighter. The unsettled conditions in the coal mining industry temporarily held up developments in mining communities, but the outlook for the current year is encouraging. The total enrolment in day classes increased from 1,800 to 1,902, but the individuals attending evening classes dropped from 2,430 to 2,122.

BRITISH COLUMBIA

There has been an increase in day school enrolments in British Columbia from 2,123 to 2,667, and a decrease in evening enrolments from 7,386 to 6,017. Each year there are many changes in the list of municipalities conducting evening classes, although the total number remains approximately the same. Over 80 municipalities throughout the province have conducted evening classes during one or more of the years since 1920, but the number for any year has never exceeded the figure for 1926, which is 37. A new school of decorative and applied art has been opened in Vancouver and the prospects for future developments in this city are very bright.

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND

W. Boulter, Deputy Minister of Agriculture

During the year ending June 30, 1926, the following courses were offered in connection with the Technical Education Act:—

1. Short term courses in home economics including millinery, dressmaking, laundry, home nursing, household administration, accounts and English reading.
2. Short term courses in motor mechanics, woodworking, blacksmithing, civics, commercial arithmetic, English reading and drawing.
3. Special short course for cheese and butter makers, followed by visits of instructors to factories for inspection, observation and demonstration.
4. Commercial course of two years open to students having completed two years of high school work.
5. Night school courses for day workers, to fit them for advancement.

ENROLMENT

The total enrolment for the school year was 657, and the numbers registered by courses were as follows:—

Course 1, 23; Course 2, 156; Course 3, 34; (individual instruction at factories) Course 4, 21; Course 5, 423.

The chief feature of development during the year was the establishing of evening classes for the advancement of workers in their daily occupations. The members anxious to take this course far exceeded expectations, and, though the courses did not begin until January, the attendance was well maintained, despite the shortening evenings. By starting these classes in November, it is expected that next year the attendance will be considerably increased, as numerous inquiries concerning the establishment of these classes have been received, and a desire to avail themselves of the benefits thus afforded has been expressed by many.

The success of the night school conducted at Georgetown, which was the first to be established, has had a wide influence in the extension of this work.

The following extract from the report of the Principal of Prince of Wales College outlines the development of the commercial course:—

The commercial department established in the latter part of last session has increased its numbers, and equipment has been added accordingly. It is fitting that this institution should have followed the lead of similar institutions in the other provinces, and through a commercial department give a suitable training to the many students of the college that wish to seek a livelihood in the business world. Now that it is open to all students that pass the entrance examination of the college, there should be each year an increasing number who wish to add to their commercial training the privileges of the Prince of Wales College. A diploma is issued to all students completing the prescribed course.

A very successful class was conducted in mechanical drawing, the members of which were drawn from the marine departments while the boats were held up during winter, and the local mechanical industries also contributed members to this class which promises considerable development in the coming year.

NOVA SCOTIA

REPORT OF THE DIRECTOR OF TECHNICAL EDUCATION

Dr. F. H. Sexton

It is regrettable that a decrease in enrolment must be reported in every branch of secondary vocational education except in the section devoted to correspondence study, where there was a small gain. In the evening technical schools, the number of students dropped from 2,761 in 1924-25, to 2,198 in the present year. In evening coal mining and engineering schools, the registration decreased similarly from 608 to 542. The change in total enrolment was from 3,656 in the preceding year, to 3,035 in the current year. The gain in the correspondence study division was from 254 to 273.

The reasons for this considerable decline are not far to seek. The whole industrial life of the province continued to suffer a marked depression. The coal mining workers were engaged for a number of months in one of the longest and bitterest strikes which they had ever waged. Since this basic industry was in such a deplorable state, the number of students in the schools held in colliery districts was very much reduced. The economic influence of the inaction in coal mining spread through the whole industrial fabric of the province and accentuated the distress that prevailed in all other branches. Young people migrated from the province in large numbers to the United States, where the opportunities for employment were more satisfactory. These ambitious persons are usually the ones who fill the ranks in the evening technical schools in the province. Then, too, in the industries which were operating on a restricted schedule, there were few chances for advancement since promotions were rare. There seemed small hope of climbing the ladder of responsibility, so it seemed to youth that it was futile to prepare one's self for a higher position when they did not appear to be quickly available. A whole blighting atmosphere prevailed in the industrial centres and consequently the enrolment in technical classes dropped markedly. The condition of hard times, however, tended to sustain the attendance in certain kinds of instruction where the knowledge imparted served to help people to meet economic stringency more effectively. The classes for women in such subjects as dressmaking and millinery were as crowded as ever, and in some centres nearly half of the students enrolled were found pursuing these two subjects.

The prospects for the next year, however, seem very favourable. The differences between the mine operators and employees have been settled and a long-term contract signed. The demand for coal from Eastern Canada is much greater than in the previous two years and the mines are operating briskly and steadily. The improvement of conditions in this basic industry on which at least one-fourth of the people in Nova Scotia depend directly and all of them indirectly will tend to produce a measure of stability that is absolutely necessary for successful vocational classes.

NEW DEVELOPMENTS

Any new developments in technical education were impossible for the province because it closed its previous fiscal year with a very large deficit, and was compelled to prepare for the same condition in making its budget for the present year. However, no part of the service in technical education was curtailed in any particular. All of the industrial towns and cities, even those whose citizens had not had employment for months on account of the coal strike, co-operated in sharing their burden of expense of the vocational classes in every instance, although in some cases it represented a considerable sacrifice. The fact that secondary vocational education was not curtailed in any instance is one of the most satisfactory evidences that its importance and value is so deeply and widely recognized.

CORRESPONDENCE STUDY DIVISION

The course enrolment in the Correspondence Study Division for the year ending June 30, 1926, was 410, the highest since the division was organized and an increase of 54 over that of last year. The percentage of completed courses is 35, which is the more satisfactory when it is known that, in response to written inquiries, only 171, or 10 per cent, of the courses have been cancelled.

The most numerous enrolments are in mathematics and English. These courses may be called "key courses," for a fair knowledge of them is essential to progress in any branch of learning, and the comparatively large enrolment is fairly good evidence that students of the division are taking their studies seriously.

An interesting extension of the work during 1926 has been the enrolment for mathematics and English of 43 N.C.O's and men attached to the Halifax

Military District No. 6. The object of the men is, primarily, to obtain their 1st and 2nd Class Military School Certificates, which are now prerequisites for promotion. The officers of the various units not only encouraged the men to take the courses, but afforded them every possible facility for study and undertook the collection of the necessary fees. As with the plumbing courses, these two courses have been supplemented by weekly lectures which have been well attended. Nine N.C.O's and men have passed a written examination in P. A. mathematics and obtained certificates, and eight have passed a preliminary examination in English. The lectures will be continued until every man has had an opportunity of being examined in both subjects; most of those who passed have signified their intention of studying for the more advanced 1st Class Certificate.

The work of the division is becoming well known throughout the Dominion, and requests for information as to the organization of, and methods of conducting, study by correspondence have been received from several provinces.

The technical education branches of the Education Departments of the Dominion are, of course, concerned entirely with the training of those who left school either before completing a common school or high school course and, employed during the day, now wish to continue their general education as well as get a technical training in their occupations, but who have, as a rule, no immediate intention of taking a university course. The success of the correspondence method of study in this direction has, however, been so marked that, one of the maritime universities, Acadia, has added a correspondence study department to its activities and is offering correspondence students credit toward degrees.

Though this division has not, as yet, been able to offer its students any credit towards degrees, the necessity for properly graduated and systematic courses of study is fully recognized. Courses in civil, electrical, and mechanical engineering, together with a business course, are provided, and the advantages of such courses are called to the attention of applicants. The chief objections to enrolment in such a course of study are the cost and the very natural one of reluctance to undertake an obligation that cannot, as a rule, be discharged under three years. These objections are met by the system of unit courses which are paid for when begun, and students are under no obligation to complete the whole series, the only conditions being that units must be satisfactorily completed in the order given, and that not less than 60 per cent of the total possible marks be obtained at a final supervised examination, before a certificate is issued.

CONCLUSIONS

The year that has passed has been a trying one for all government services in Nova Scotia and especially in education. The fact that all activities were maintained at full efficiency is highly creditable and an index of the high value accorded to education in this province. The fact that no new developments were undertaken is not to be interpreted as an indication that improvements and extensions are not necessary or contemplated. The Nova Scotians have an ardent desire to broaden and deepen the provisions for developing the intelligence of their people. The harassing question resolves itself into the one perplexing problem of finding the means. The things to do to accomplish their plans are obvious, but they feel deeply that they are suffering from inequalities that were imposed at Confederation and that have developed more acutely in the years that have lapsed since the Dominion was created. They look forward with confidence to the recommendations of a royal commission that is now making an inquiry into the prevailing conditions in the Maritime Provinces, and the subsequent action of Parliament to have these inequalities removed. Now that the date approaches when the Technical Education Act of 1919 will cease to operate and grants from the federal treasury to the provinces for secondary technical education will no longer be given, apprehension grows that this policy will not be maintained by supplementary or subsequent legislation. The action of the Dominion Government in summarily cutting off the grants to the provinces for agricultural education after a similar ten-year period is still fresh in the minds of the people. Consequently, there is a distinct hesitation in embarking on any new policy or extension no matter how desirable, and also a fear that the services already established may have to be curtailed. There exists, however, a strong hope that the Dominion Parliament will enact legislation that will continue the federal subsidy on a permanent rather than a temporary basis, as is the case in the United States.

NOVA SCOTIA COLLEGE OF ART

This institution continued to make marked progress in the teaching of industrial art. The enrolment for the year increased to 163, in comparison with 147 for the preceding year. This constitutes the largest number of students in the life of the college, which has extended over a period of nearly forty years. The devotion and enthusiasm of the teaching staff has resulted in a rising interest in developing latent ability among the people in Nova Scotia to an extent that has not been accomplished before.

The college is sadly hampered in its work because of a lack of funds, but is pursuing its ideals and rendering effective service in a most satisfactory manner. It is associating itself with industry and community effort in an intimate manner and giving its pupils many practical projects through these associations.

NEW BRUNSWICK

REPORT OF THE DIRECTOR OF VOCATIONAL EDUCATION

F. Peacock

During the year under review the vocational education movement advanced steadily in New Brunswick. Enrolments are, of course, small as compared with those in some other provinces, but substantial growth has been made in every department. Seven day-schools were in operation as compared with five during the previous year. The total enrolment in these was 475, which is an increase of 120 per cent. One hundred and four people attended short term day courses, being an increase of 7 per cent. The day teachers now number thirty, or 25 per cent more than last year. The evening schools had an attendance of 1,763, as compared with 1,637 the previous year. Forty-eight prospective vocational teachers were undergoing training during whole or part of the year. The accompanying tables show the distribution of enrolments amongst the various schools.

DEVELOPMENTS

No new projects were undertaken during the last year. Those previously initiated were pressed forward to completion. On every hand there is evidence that the work is becoming more firmly established and better understood by the people at large.

The eight schools that will be in operation next year are well distributed and serve every community in the province of any considerable size, except one. The most pressing need now seems to be for leaders to make these schools properly serve the communities supporting them. It seems a most difficult task for the average school principal to grasp the significance of a thorough-going democratic scheme of education and to organize this in such a way as to meet the educational needs of all. It is a fact that the introduction of vocational and pre-vocational schools has made the system infinitely more complex than under the old single-track college preparatory scheme. This increased complexity, which is partially due to the better understanding of our educational problems and partially to the progress of industry and commerce, constitutes a stimulating challenge to our teachers, and I have every confidence that they will rise to the occasion eventually.

THE CAMPBELLTON AND SAINT JOHN SCHOOLS

The new composite school at Campbellton referred to in an earlier report was completed during the year, and will be ready for occupancy in September, 1926. This is a modern and well-planned structure, arranged to meet the educational needs of all the high school age pupils of the community. In addition to adequate classroom space, appropriate woodworking and metal-working shops, as well as science and home-making laboratories, have been provided. A combination gymnasium-auditorium has been advantageously worked out with commodious stage and dressing rooms and storage space. Practically all the materials for this school have been procured within Restigouche county. The interior finish of native birch is very pleasing.

The Saint John Vocational School will also be ready to receive students in September, 1926. It is, of course, the largest school in the province, and every effort was made by the local committee and the architect to make the building modern and complete. The cost of construction and equipment will be half a million dollars. This school has a magnificent site overlooking the harbour from the front, and the Reversing Falls from the rear. The auditorium, seating 800, together with the stage gymnasium, the dressing room, showers and swimming pool, offer splendid opportunity for a physical education program.

The shop wing, which is of modern factory construction, is so built that it can be adjusted to the changing needs of the future without interfering with any structural features.

The institution, when in full operation, will include the following departments or schools:—

- (a) Pre-vocational or junior high school for boys and girls who have not passed the high school entrance.
- (b) Industrial high school for boys who are planning to enter directly upon industry after completing their secondary education.

- (c) Practical arts high school for girls who are planning to enter nursing, home economics teaching, or dietetics, as well as for those who desire a thoroughly practical training in the art of home-making.
- (d) The high school of commerce for those boys and girls who are planning to enter the business world after leaving high school.
- (e) The school of fine and applied arts for those possessing marked artistic talents.
- (f) The school of navigation and fisheries for those who are looking forward to a sea-faring life.
- (g) The technical high school which will prepare boys to enter upon science and engineering university courses.

NON-RESIDENT CLAUSE OF THE NEW BRUNSWICK EDUCATIONAL ACT

Under the New Brunswick Vocational Act, a student from any district of the province may enter any vocational school of the province and his tuition is paid by the district in which he resides. This has the effect of making every school a provincial school, and enables students to take advantage of the courses that appeal most to them. Because the government pays two-thirds of all tuitions, this arrangement enables small outlying districts to take advantage of government aid for the promotion of vocational education.

TEACHER-TRAINING

The New Brunswick Vocational Board held a small summer school at Sackville in 1925 for the professional improvement of teachers of home economics subjects. Those in other fields were assisted to attend institutions outside the province to the extent of having their tuition and travelling expenses paid by the Government. During the year teachers-in-training from New Brunswick were in attendance for full or part time at the Stout Institute, Menomonie, Wisconsin; Simmons College, Boston; Columbia University; and the Ontario College for Training of Technical Teachers at Hamilton.

All the commercial teachers attended Simmons College. While there they made a special study of commercial courses and outlined a tentative course to be used in the schools of New Brunswick.

Those attending the Ontario institution at Hamilton were courteously received, and no tuition charge was made. This service on the part of Ontario is much appreciated. A permanent arrangement whereby our industrial teachers could be trained at this institution would probably be the easiest way for New Brunswick to solve the problem of training this type of teacher. An effort will probably be made to work out such a scheme on a tuition basis that will be satisfactory to all.

Mount Allison and Acadia Universities are developing facilities for teacher training in the home economics field that will very soon, we believe, meet the requirements of vocational teachers. It is the intention of the vocational board to extend the summer school work to include other branches besides those already served. A course for commercial teachers will be offered in 1926.

With the facilities now available in our vocational schools, and with the assistance of the institutions above referred to, the important service of training teachers for our vocational schools will be met with increasing efficiency from this time forward.

ITINERANT AND SHORT COURSES

During the year under review, the itinerant instruction and short courses for garage workers were effectively prosecuted. These two services represent two aspects of training in the gas engine and automotive field. During the summer months the instructor visited the various garages, especially in the smaller communities, and carried on conferences and short evening courses. During the winter months the garage workers came into the vocational school in Saint John and undertook definite technical training during a period of eight weeks. Evidence on all sides shows that this service has been much appreciated, and that the men have received valuable assistance through the instruction given. Mr. W. B. Main, who effectively organized and carried on this work, is severing his connection with the department at the end of this year to take the headship of the industrial department of the Saint John Vocational School.

DOMINION GRANTS

Under the provision of the legislation referred to in our last report, the grants on completed buildings have been paid up in full with the exception of Milltown. This enabled New Brunswick last year to take up its Dominion grant to such an extent that no money lapsed.

These Dominion grants have given a great impetus to vocational education in New Brunswick, through the building program that has developed. This is only the beginning, however. Because of the buildings now finished or in progress, the maintenance cost is bound to be a heavy charge. Communities with these schools and the province at large will be somewhat embarrassed if Dominion grants are withdrawn in 1929. Because of the value of the service and because the policy of the Dominion has resulted in its extensive development, it is to be hoped that, in the interests of the service and of the nation at large, the Dominion aid will be renewed and extended.

QUEBEC

Dr. A. Frigon

Technical education in this province is passing through a period of rapid progress and of reorganization towards uniformity and flexibility. New laws have been passed by the Quebec Legislature at its last session, but, as they have not yet been sanctioned, we will postpone until next year our comments on the results we may expect from their enforcement. We can now say, however, that their main object is to insure economy, by centralizing all financial matters, which will come under the control of one single body. Up to the present time the schools in Quebec, Montreal and Hull, although subsidized mainly by the province and also by the municipalities, have been owned and administered by as many different corporations.

A new printing section has been opened at the Montreal Technical School. It is run on the "part-time" principle, with alternating weekly periods in the school and shop. A committee of three employers and three employees, all recognized as experts in the art of typography, has been appointed, and is advising the authorities of the school in all matters pertaining to the printing section. It has been decided that hand composition only will be taught at first. Other branches of the printing trade may be added later on. The day courses are open to apprentices who are indented with a regular printing firm. An evening class was organized this year for apprentices who have been in the trade at least three years. One English-speaking and one French-speaking instructor has been selected out of 26 applicants, who submitted to a rather severe competitive examination. We have been to great pains in soliciting the co-operation of the printing industry of Montreal, and to make it realize that the new department was organized for its own special benefit. The trouble we have taken in this connection has been repaid many times through the very close co-operation we have obtained and the great interest shown by all concerned. The committee above mentioned has been a help in selecting a very efficient and complete equipment, and in inaugurating what we believe will prove to be a most interesting program. Presses and binding machinery have been added to the typographical equipment, so that, even at the start, the pupils may see the finished product of their work.

We had in mind to hold another convention this year, but after careful consideration we thought it advisable to postpone it to a later date. Instead, we have started a new magazine which will appear five times a year. The title of this review is "Technique", and three numbers have already appeared. It is being published by a group of professors and "its columns are opened to all who desire to help their fellowmen by their special knowledge in the various departments of industry and science".

The closing paragraph of the editorial published in the first issue reads as follows:—

If through our efforts our industrial classes are made to realize the importance of technical knowledge and if we can awaken amongst them a renewed desire for special knowledge and training, then may we feel that we have done something worth while.

The subscription price has been set at the nominal figure of fifty cents per year. We hope that "Technique" will prove to be a very good propaganda medium for technical education in this province.

It has also been decided that, starting with the academic year 1926-27, a "testimonial" will be given to any student of an evening course who obtains a minimum mark of eighty per cent during the year, and whose attendance has been at least ninety per cent. A student who obtains a definite number of these "testimonials" (3 or 4 in number), in courses of a homogeneous character, will be given a "Certificate of Trade Aptitude". This means that any man who spends three or four evenings per week at the technical school for two or three years will be given the opportunity of obtaining recognition of his aptitude for a certain definite trade. We hope this will prove an inducement to those who have not had the opportunity of taking a regular technical course at the proper time. This rule will apply to the technical schools in Quebec, Montreal, and Hull.

Up to the present time the most important part of our technical schools has been the three year technical course; evening classes and special courses for auto mechanics, with the new printing school, completes the program. The work shops at the Quebec and Hull schools will in future be open to special students who wish to acquire manual skill only. Groups of these special students may later on be transformed into a trade school course. This will be accomplished this year in Montreal. In future a student will have the choice of following the regular technical course at the Montreal Technical School, or what will be hereafter known as the three year "Trade School Course." This last section will be organized so as to cover manual training in the five fundamental branches of industry: woodworking, machine shop work, foundry, smithy, and electricity. We hope in this manner to be in a position to take care of the majority of those boys, who, after having tried the technical course, have been obliged to drop out on account of insufficient preparation, or lack of aptitude for academic subjects.

The other schools of the province have progressed normally during the year. New centres have been opened by the Council of Arts and Manufactures in Quebec, St. Jerome and Thetford Mines, where Solfeggio is being taught.

We have also made a first attempt at co-operation between the Fine Arts School and the Technical School in Montreal. The Decorative Art Section of the Fine Arts School designed an electric lantern for a club-house which was made in the Technical School smithy. We find that this close co-operation was very beneficial to both schools, and we intend to continue along these same lines whenever the occasion warrants.

In conclusion we might point out that our present policy is not so much to build new schools or open new territories, but rather to consolidate what we have already and to take care of a class of students who have not been given sufficient attention in the past.

ONTARIO

REPORT OF THE DIRECTOR OF TECHNICAL EDUCATION

D. A. Campbell

PROGRESS DURING THE YEAR

The vocational schools of the province made satisfactory progress during the past year. This is shown by the statistics, which indicate increases in the number of schools or departments, in the number of buildings or extensions, in the number of students in attendance, and in the number of teachers employed in vocational work.

The total number of full-time day schools open throughout the school year is now thirty-two, including the College of Art. In addition, there are day schools open during the months of January, February and March in Kingston, Collingwood and Midland, giving instruction in navigation and marine engineering.

New full-time day vocational departments were opened in Oshawa, North Bay, and Brantford. The commercial departments of schools at these centres are now organized under the Technical Education Branch instead of under the High School Department. Toronto opened a new commercial school, known as the Eastern High School of Commerce.

Evening schools were carried on in fifty-eight centres.

The total enrolment of full-time day pupils was 15,174, an increase over the previous year of 30.8 per cent.

The total enrolment of evening class pupils was 50,297, an increase of 40.9 per cent.

The total enrolment of part-time pupils was 2,743, an increase of 57.7 per cent.

NEW SCHOOLS

During the past year the building program has not been so extensive as in the years 1923 and 1924. This was to be expected, since during those years, and to some extent in the preceding years, the local school authorities had definitely provided for vocational education in most of the centres of the province where the problem was a pressing one and where it was deemed advisable to supplement the educational work already established. Comparatively few similar centres now remain which have not already provided a building for vocational work.

St. Thomas has erected a new building which occupies a central location in the east side of the city, and which will be devoted entirely to vocational education. The original intention of the board was to use a part of the building for accommodating a few classes from the Collegiate Institute, but they finally decided to use the whole building for carrying on vocational work.

The Toronto Board of Education completed the erection of a unit of a new building known as the Eastern High School of Commerce. It was believed that this portion of a larger building would provide sufficient accommodation for a few years at least. So large was the enrolment when the school opened in September, 1925, that all classroom space was overtaxed and temporary arrangements had to be made to accommodate seven additional classes. It would appear that an enlargement of the building will be necessary at an early date.

During the year another addition was made to the London Technical School. This is the second addition to the original building and provides six more classrooms and a shop for the teaching of automobile mechanics. This addition relieves the congestion caused by increased attendance and is physical evidence of the steady growth of vocational education in the city of London.

In Weston, one of the smaller places which undertook to carry on technical education, the attendance increased beyond all expectations, and to provide classroom and shop accommodation the board completed a six-roomed addition to the vocational school.

Niagara Falls completed an addition of four rooms to take care of the increased attendance. This addition provided much needed classroom accommodation and is evidence of an increased appreciation of the work done in the technical department of the school.

RURAL EVENING SCHOOLS

In addition to the inquiries concerning technical classes which have been received from various cities and towns in the province during the past year, several inquiries have come from village communities. Part of the interest in vocational work aroused in some of these communities was due to the activity of Mrs. H. M. Aitkin, an officer of the Women's Institute. In other cases the interest was aroused by inquiring and public-spirited members of the district.

It is becoming known that many of the courses of study available in cities and towns are suited to the needs of rural communities. The difficulty of obtaining well qualified instructors is the only one which presents a serious obstacle. This difficulty was overcome by the employment of an itinerant teacher in the case of Beeton, Bond Head, Bradford, Cookstown and Tottenham. The boards in these villages agreed to engage a teacher who would give a day and evening in each village each week for ten weeks to instruct classes of employed persons in motor mechanics.

The enrolment was as follows: Beeton, 45; Bond Head, 46; Bradford, 77; Cookstown, 45; Tottenham, 45.

Under this plan the instructor carries an equipment with him and with the aid of some locally provided equipment is able to offer a theoretical and practical course of value to those in attendance. The classes have started with considerable enthusiasm, and this experiment would seem to point the way to a wide extension of vocational work in the province, provided suitable local instructors are available.

SCHOOLS AND INDUSTRY

Further progress can be reported in the co-operation between the technical schools and the industrial plants in the larger cities. Such organizations are also recognizing the value of the training given to boys in the industrial departments of the schools.

In the annual report for 1924 a description was given of the relations established between the technical schools and industrial plants at Hamilton, at Ottawa, and at Toronto.

During the spring of 1925 the Ford Motor Company, after investigating the available supply of tool and die makers, decided to further supplement their apprenticeship system by accepting graduates from the shop department of the Windsor-Walkerville Technical School. These graduates are accepted in preference to all other applicants for apprenticeship in the tool, die and other departments. As a result of this recognition of the quality of the work done in the technical school, the firm accepted ten graduates in the tool and die departments and four in the electrical. These apprentices are paid at the rate of forty cents per hour for the first year, fifty cents per hour for the second year, and sixty cents per hour for the third year. Five cents per hour is held back during each year and is paid as a lump sum at the end of each year. There are other reasonable conditions in the agreement made with the apprentice, which is signed by the apprentice, his parent or guardian, and the Ford Motor Company of Canada.

Towards the close of the year a new apprenticeship agreement was drawn up by the management of the rubber machinery shops of the Canadian Consolidated Rubber Company, Limited, at Kitchener. Under this agreement the apprentices are required to attend the evening classes of the Kitchener-Waterloo Vocational School during the term of their apprenticeship. The agreement applied to the machinist, the patternmaking, and the tinsmithing trades. An outline of apprentice instruction in the machinist trade is as follows:—

OUTLINE OF APPRENTICESHIP INSTRUCTION

MACHINIST TRADE

(Four periods of 300 days each)

First Period or Year

(a) At least one month in tool crib, learning tools' names, shapes, treatment and uses, also preliminary instruction in measuring tools as scale rules, calipers and micrometers.

(b) Three months in auto tire mould finishing department learning use of file and chisel on rough class of bench work.

(c) Eight months in machines assembling department—consists of better class of bench work; helping on assembling; general drill press practice, learning the tap drill sizes; and screw and bolt threading on screw cutting machine. In this department the apprentice learns by observation what constitutes good work coming from lathes, millers, planers and shapers.

Second Period or Year

(a) Two months on plain milling machine.

(b) Six months shaper work.

(c) Four months planer work.

Third Period or Year

The twelve months are put on lathes on all classes of this work from the smallest up to 72 inches in diameter.

Fourth Period or Year

(a) Three months assembling machines, receiving instructions and doing the erecting and fitting on the best class of work.

(b) Nine months in tool-room, consisting of universal milling machine practice, including gear cutting; internal, external, and universal grinder work; bench work on forming tools, templates, jigs, etc.; heat treatment of steels in gas furnaces, and general tool-room work where the apprentice does all the operations until the article or job is completed.

During this nine months the apprentice is placed on special machines, boring mills and general machines in the absence of the regular operator. He may also be asked to help in the pattern shop and blacksmith shop.

In General

During the whole course the apprentice is required to take at least two evenings a week in the winter months at the Kitchener-Waterloo Vocational School the following subjects:—

- Shop mathematics,
- Mechanical drawing,
- Business English,
- Advanced machine shop practice (optional),
- Pattern-making and foundry practice (optional),
- Electricity (optional).

The apprentice, either during the last part of fourth year or upon graduation, if he shows the interest and ability, may be taken in the rubber machinery shop's draughting room for several months.

The graduate is considered a finished mechanic and is given journeyman's work and wages according to his proficiency. Usually he is placed on the work he prefers and is most suitable to him.

Similar outlines with different content are in force for the two other trades mentioned.

This action of both companies is interesting, as it is another indication of a re-establishment of an apprenticeship system and also of the value of the quality of the work done in technical schools. The plan also affords an outlet for the placing of the graduates in industry in increasing numbers.

The latest phase of education for day pupils is part-time education, and associated with it is the Adolescent School Attendance Act, which, in this province, dates from the year beginning September 1, 1922.

This Act extended the age for full-time attendance from fourteen years to sixteen years, except for those exempted by certificates. In the case of these, attendance is compulsory for part time. Whatever may have been the need for education, for shelter, for guidance, for sympathetic repressive conditions for a child up to fourteen years of age, it is more important that he should have these when he is passing through the most trying period, when he is becoming psychologically and physiologically a new being with strange and new emotions. The finishing period of the child has become the starting point of the adolescent. Such a pregnant hour does not seem to be the right one to turn him loose or to permit him to escape from the forces which can do most for him in the few years yet remaining as his school life, to cease all concerted active responsibility for him at the brink of the widest chasm in his life, when the adolescent youth becomes a wage-earner, especially as at that period the need and possibilities of education are the greatest.

It has been demonstrated that part-time education can prepare young people for employment; it can conserve the education already received prior to seeking employment, and it can ease the difficulty of adjustment to conditions found in the early years of employment and promote the fitness of youth as social units in the community.

In some communities all the adolescents from fourteen to sixteen years of age are in school on a full-time basis. In other centres (the larger ones) a considerable number are in school on a part-time basis. Sarnia and St. Catharines may be cited as instances of the former. Toronto, Hamilton, London, and Kitchener are examples of the latter. In these cities an organization in the technical and commercial departments has been set up to provide part-time education to employed adolescents. Courses of study have been prepared, special teachers have been assigned to the work, and attendance and co-ordinating officers are co-operating to make the instruction effective.

The action of those in authority in these cities is a commendable one. The latest city to provide part-time instruction is Toronto, which enrolled five hundred and thirty-six (536) pupils during the fall term of 1925 in the vocational departments of the schools.

It is gratifying to report that in the initial stages of the establishment of these classes there was relatively little opposition on the part of pupils, parents, or employers in co-operating with the educational authorities in providing this additional educational service to the young people of the city.

ONTARIO TRAINING COLLEGE FOR TECHNICAL TEACHERS

The following statement on the Ontario Training College for Technical Teachers was prepared by the Principal, Mr. F. P. Gavin, and is submitted herewith:—

The Ontario Training College for Technical Teachers began its first term in Hamilton on April 20, 1925. The purpose of this institution is to train teachers of shop or vocational subjects for technical schools, and manual training teachers for public and high schools.

The establishment of this training college marks the carrying out of the last of the important recommendations made by Dr. Seath in 1911, in his valuable report on "Education for Industrial Purposes."

The following figures give evidence of the growth of the vocational schools. In the year 1924-25 the number of full-time day schools was twenty-seven, with an enrolment of 11,595 full-time day pupils, and 3,614 part-time or special pupils. Evening vocational classes were carried on in fifty-two (52) places, with an enrolment of 35, 675.

The number of teachers employed in the day schools was 524, and in the evening schools, 1,182. A large proportion of these teachers, possibly one-half, are teachers of practical or shop subjects, such as machine shop practice, drafting, dressmaking, motor mechanics. Thus there has appeared in the teaching body an entirely new type of teacher, for the training of which no provision had been made.

The introduction into the teaching body of teachers of practical subjects has raised two problems, viz., how to obtain them, and how to train them.

One method of obtaining shop teachers is that used to obtain academic teachers, viz., to train young people, looking forward to shop teaching, in the content of the trade or shop subject, in suitable institutions of a secondary school or college grade. For example, a young student, ambitious to be a machine shop teacher, would take a four or five years' course in a suitable school, in the operations, processes and fundamental principles of the machinist trade, and in related subjects such as English, mathematics, science and drafting. He would then take a course in the principles of education and methods of teaching in some suitable teacher-training institution. This method is much used in many parts of the United States.

Another method is to recruit such teachers from the trade and industry where they have obtained, under actual trade conditions, training in the content of the trade concerned.

Teachers obtained under the first method have a good all-round general education, a fairly good acquaintance with the operations and processes of the trade, a good knowledge of related fields and their bearing on the fundamental principles of the trade, and probably bring to their teaching a desirable professional attitude. On the other hand, they are not skilled and experienced craftsmen, looked up to and respected by the working members of the craft.

Teachers obtained under the second method are acquainted with the actual working conditions of the producing shop, know the standards of skill and speed required in the trade, and, if properly selected, are masters of their trades or crafts, and esteemed as such by their fellows.

Ontario has decided on the latter method of obtaining technical teachers.

It is evident that teachers recruited from industry need, in addition to their trade training, knowledge of, and skill in, the art of teaching. The belief that a man who knows his subject can therefore teach it to others is no longer held by anyone who knows anything of the learning process. In recent years, due to the rapid growth of technical schools, we have had many untrained persons in charge of shop instruction, and the difference in teaching skill between them and the regularly trained teachers would convince anyone of the value of teacher-training.

In the development of teacher-training work in Ontario the following general principles have been recognized and accepted.

- (1) Training in the art of teaching is necessary, and every teacher in the state-supported schools should be trained in the principles of education and the methods of teaching;
- (2) All teacher-training schools are Government institutions under the direct control of the Minister of Education. A sufficient supply of trained teachers is so vital a factor in the success of the school system that the Government has assumed full responsibility for the supply and for the standard of training;
- (3) Academic and professional training should be separated. The teacher-in-training is expected to be familiar with the content of his subject before he goes to the teacher-training institution;
- (4) Practice teaching under actual class-room conditions should form an important part of the training. "Learn to do by doing" applies to teaching as well as to music or golf.

These principles have been established through seventy-five years of progressive developments in the training of academic teachers. They have been accepted as fundamental in the organization of a scheme of teacher-training for shop or vocational teachers. The decision to recruit teachers of shop or craft subjects from trade and industry is a recognition of the third principle.

In attempting to formulate a scheme of training for vocational teachers, based on the foregoing principles, the question of training these teachers along with the regular academic teachers must be considered. In dealing with this question certain factors must be taken into account:—

- (1) Persons recruited from the trades, unlike those in attendance at Normal Schools or Colleges of Education, have been out of school for a number of years and, as a consequence, have lost to some extent the habit of study. On the other hand, they have a background of experience and maturity which perhaps offsets in value the study habits of the student-teachers in the regular training schools;
- (2) The facilities for practice teaching in the training schools for academic teachers are not suitable;
- (3) The time factor is important. Skilled craftsmen are mature people, probably married and with dependent families, and already in good wage-earning positions. Either the time arrangements of the period of training must be as short and as conveniently arranged as possible, or the teachers-in-training must be subsidized to take the course.

Consideration of the factors of maturity, facilities for practice teaching and the time factor make it desirable that shop teachers shall be trained in a school specially organized for the purpose.

The length of the course has been fixed at twenty weeks, ten of which are to be taken in either the autumn or the spring term, and ten of which are to be taken in two summer sessions of five weeks each. During the ten weeks' period observation and practice teaching form the chief part of the work. During the summer sessions, the work consists largely of theoretical work, trade analysis and the preparation of courses of study.

This period of twenty weeks appears to be the minimum of time needed to give the required training. The distribution of time has been made such as it is to enable teachers already in service to take the course with the least possible absence from their schools during the school year.

The subjects of study included in the curriculum are:—

English,
Principles of Teaching,
History, Principles and Problems of Vocational Education,
School and Class Management and School Law,
Trade Analysis and Courses of Study,
Study of Industries
Methods of Teaching Industrial Subjects,
Practice Teaching,
Vocational Guidance,
Shop Plans and Equipment,
Mechanical Drawing,
Costume Design.

Due to the limitations of time, the work taken up in the theoretical subjects is carefully selected to meet the needs of the student-teachers concerned. Time does not permit of any extended study of general psychology, of the history of education in other countries, or of general principles of school administration.

Observation work and practice teaching under actual class-room conditions are recognized as important elements of teacher-training. The regular day classes of the Hamilton Technical Institute are used for this phase of the work.

Each student is required to submit a stated number of reports on model lessons taught by critic teachers, and to prepare lesson plans for and teach a stated number of assigned lessons. Near the end of the term each student-teacher takes complete charge for two whole days of a given shop. He assembles and dismisses the classes that come to the shop, keeps the register and other records, gives out supplies, carries on the instruction of the classes, and in general takes the place of the regular teacher.

In Canada and in the United States vocational education is a development of the last twenty years. Public interest and support has been a matter of perhaps not more than ten years. Many of the problems connected with it are new, and as yet in the field of debate and discussion.

It is desirable that technical teachers should know what are these problems, and become acquainted with at least a part of the considerable body of literature that has grown up around them. In order to do this, each student-teacher is given a topic dealing with some problem or phase of vocational education, and required to make the investigation necessary to make a report on the topic. The topics are so selected as to require, on the part of the students, considerable reading, study, and investigation, including in some cases inquiries among industries. When completed, the essay of about 3,000 words is read by the writer to the whole group and made a subject of discussion. The debates in many instances are most enlightening, inasmuch as they disclose unsuspected backgrounds of experience and knowledge, and powers of criticism and judgment, both on the part of the group to criticise, and of the writer to defend his thesis.

The enrolment at the Training College for the sessions of 1925 and the spring session of 1926 was as follows:—

	Men	Women	Total
Summer Session, 1925.....	53	48	101
Autumn Session, 1925.....	10	5	15

NOTE.—Attendance in brackets indicates attendance previous to the ten weeks' course.

The organization outlined in the foregoing paragraphs provides for the training of full-time day teachers. There remains, however, a large number of evening class teachers of technical subjects who need instruction in the methods of teaching. The majority of these are employed in their regular callings during the day time, and give an evening or two a week to evening class work. In many cases they are the only persons in the community sufficiently versed in their callings to give instruction, and often do so as a matter of public duty, and at the earnest solicitation of the principal. It is out of the question to expect persons teaching in evening classes only to give up time and money to take such a training course as may be required of full-time day teachers.

It is proposed, however, to give to such teachers some assistance in the work of teaching. The sessions of the Training College are so arranged that there is a ten weeks' term in the autumn and a ten weeks' term in the spring. This schedule is made for two reasons. First, as already stated, to make the period of training as short as possible and the time arrangements as convenient as may be for local school authorities. There is, however, another reason. During the months of January, February, and March, the members of the staff are available for field work. It will be part of their work to visit centres in which graduates of the Training College are at work in order to afford them further assistance in the selection, organization, and presentation of their subjects. At the same time, they will conduct for evening class teachers, short, intensive, itinerant courses of, say, one or two nights a week in conveniently located centres. Each subject of the course is made up of a small number of topics, each topic forming a unit of instruction in itself. The method of the course is by discussion and round-table conference rather than by lecture. Such topics as the following are taken with these evening class teachers: how to arrange the subject matter in a suitable learning order; how to teach a lesson; the different methods of presentation; how to keep records and make reports; how to determine the needs of the pupil and to adjust the course to meet those needs, etc. From this work it is hoped that there may result a better adaptation of the evening classes to the needs of the community, an improvement in the teaching methods, and consequently a greater efficiency in the evening class program.

SASKATCHEWAN

REPORT ON VOCATIONAL EDUCATION

Dr. J. H. McKechnie, Chief Inspector

There have been few developments since our report of last year. So-called vocational work is still confined to the three large centres, Regina, Saskatoon and Moose Jaw. The town of Battleford has recently organized a committee with the idea of developing commercial work in the Collegiate Institute.

During the year the College of Agriculture, the Departments of Agriculture and of Telephones, and the various machine companies continued their educational activities. These were outlined in our report of last year and continue to be a real factor in meeting any demand for specific vocational training.

The Collegiate Institutes at Regina, Saskatoon and Moose Jaw again maintained their departments of home economics and manual training, although in some instances the work did not entitle the schools to grants under the Vocational and Technical Education Acts. Saskatoon Collegiate Institute had a small class in third year industrial work, while Regina maintained its vocational classes in motor mechanics and home economics. The three cities of Regina, Saskatoon, and Moose Jaw again enrolled large classes in commercial work.

Evening class work was conducted in Saskatoon, the following courses being given: Millinery, dressmaking, book-keeping (junior and advanced), stenography, English for the non-English, business arithmetic, drafting and dietetics. In Regina the evening classes included dressmaking, stenography, book-keeping, machine drafting and sheet metal drafting, carpentry, motor mechanics, English, steam engineering and practical science (for nurses).

ALBERTA

W. G. Carpenter

The year 1925-26 has been an interesting one even if no great tangible results are apparent. The year was characterized by an optimistic spirit and a return of an attitude favourable to the development of a larger place in education for expressional subjects and a definite place for vocational instruction. Calgary is adding to their staff of manual training and household science teachers and is planning expansion in these departments. An important private school in the province is including manual training and household science on its curriculum. Drumheller school district had a strong constituency demanding vocational educational facilities in a new school building they are erecting. Medicine Hat has been using equipment that has been idle for a dozen years. The Edmonton Technical School has had a larger enrolment than in any previous year. The Provincial Institute of Technology and Art has had a successful year, with increased attendance both in its day classes and its evening. Additional accommodation is being provided to take care of the numbers who were unable to secure admittance. The points outside the cities in which work has been done previously have been coal mining districts. The unsettled condition of the coal mining industry has not been conducive to the development of educational work among the miners, but the prospects for the coming year are much brighter.

In Edmonton the Technical High School has had a larger enrolment in its prevocational department. A class was organized in this department with a content of related work independent of Grade VIII requirements. This is a step in the right direction for older students, inasmuch as it frees them from too rigid a requirement of material which detracts from their time to get experience in their practical work. While care must be taken not to depreciate the academic standing, still there has been a danger of unduly stressing the mere academic at the expense of the manual, particularly with older boys and girls. The prevocational school in Calgary also experimented with such a group with quite satisfactory results. Such a class forms a type of matriculation into the industrial classes, which in their organization contain related work selected because of its practical and applicational value. In Calgary contacts have been arranged with the Board of Trade and the service clubs, through which closer relationships between the school and employment have been established. A very fine exhibition of work was presented by this school, which was largely attended. A more definite relationship is being established between the prevocational school and the Institute of Technology. The senior classes visited the Institute and were shown the opportunities provided.

There has been a little falling away in the attendance in the science matriculation department of the Edmonton Technical High School. There is a danger of unduly using the school for university matriculation, rather than for direct vocational purposes. This falling-off of enrolment for work, which, in a large degree, duplicates that of the academic high school, may be looked upon as a wholesome tendency. It is hoped that this institution may seek to develop more vital contacts with industrial life than with university. This school has a very strong staff, and, with the improvement in economic conditions, will do very vital and valuable work.

In the commercial department there has been a slight falling off in attendance, particularly in the classes in McDougall High School in Edmonton. A superior type of student is enrolled, however, and splendid work continues to be done. The commercial department under the Separate School Board has been housed in new and attractive quarters and the work of the year has been greatly improved. It is pleasing to note that in Calgary the Commercial High School has overcrowded its quarters and will be accommodated in a spacious, specially prepared and centrally located building next year. This school has had a good year. The call for graduates of this school has been strong. There is a promising outlook ahead. A very fine service is being rendered. Lethbridge Commercial Department continues to do good work with a slight falling-off in enrolment.

The Provincial Institute of Technology and Art has had a very successful year. It was unable to accommodate all who applied for admission. Many applicants were keenly disappointed. Electricity still continues to be the most popular department. The motor mechanics department was filled to capacity. A strong class enrolled in the mechanical engineering department. A number of young women were disappointed in not being able to gain a place in the dress-making and millinery classes. An adjustment is being made in the internal arrangement of the shops, through which it is expected to make the work more effective. A new wing to the shop building, 150 feet by 70 feet, is being erected and will be ready for occupancy in October. A number of the services in this wing are being left for students to install. This wing will accommodate the motor mechanics department and will give additional space to the electrical department and will enable the offering of a course in acetylene and electrical welding.

An interesting development during the year has been the attitude of the builders and those engaged in the plumbing and heating business. They are desirous of establishing co-operation for the training of their apprentices.

One of the main interests of the year has been the co-operation plan among the four western provinces in anticipation of the expansion in instruction services given through the mails. A conference was held in Calgary during Easter week at which considerable progress was made. A final meeting is being planned for September. The object of these conferences is to work out courses for night class instruction, and for correspondence; to provide class leaders with direction where evening classes may be organized, and to give individuals working throughout the provinces opportunities to improve themselves at nominal expense.

The correspondence courses in steam engineering have rendered a conspicuously good service during the year. The mining courses have not had a successful year. The mining industry has been badly shattered, but the prospects are brighter and it is hoped that this service may soon be placed upon a satisfactory basis again. The engineers in charge of this department have been largely used in the general instructional services of the institute. There is a consistent demand for expansion in this type of service, particularly in the subject of electricity.

The regular night class programs have been carried on, excepting in the smaller centres which depend upon mining for their prosperity. There has been a slight falling-off in attendance in all centres, excepting Calgary, which records an increase, particularly in the Provincial Institute. These classes have been very successful and have been the means of materially assisting workmen, who have attended in goodly numbers. Classes were conducted in electricity, motor mechanics, machine shop practice, steam engineering, engineering mathematics, oil chemistry, chemistry for cleaners and dyers, building construction and estimating, drafting and show card printing, and industrial art. Medicine Hat put on a successful class in building construction and carpentry. Lethbridge carried a successful class in auto mechanics.

No changes were made in the legislation affecting technical education. The Government is favourably disposed and the prospects are very good for a successful year ahead.

BRITISH COLUMBIA

REPORT OF THE PROVINCIAL ORGANIZER OF TECHNICAL EDUCATION

John Kyle

The following is a short report on the work of vocational and technical education in the province of British Columbia for the year ended June 30, 1926.

DAY SCHOOLS

Technical high schools are established in New Westminster, Trail, Vancouver, and Victoria, and commercial courses only in Burnaby, Kamloops, Nelson, North Vancouver, Point Grey, Prince Rupert, Revelstoke, South Vancouver, Surrey, and West Vancouver.

The three-year technical courses of study in these schools embrace the following subjects:—

Technical courses for boys.—English, citizenship and economics, history, French or Latin, mathematics, applied mechanics, physics, chemistry, drawing and design, electricity, physical culture, shop work in wood and metal.

Household science course for girls.—English, citizenship and economics, history, French or Latin, mathematics, chemistry, physics, physiology, dietetics and cookery, needlework (dressmaking and millinery), drawing and design, household art, vocal music and physical culture.

Commercial course.—Secretarial and Accounting—English, business correspondence and filing, arithmetic, book-keeping, accounting, commercial geography, shorthand, typewriting, commercial law.

At the conclusion of these courses examinations are held for the technical leaving certificate, junior matriculation certificate and commercial certificate, all of which are issued by the Department of Education.

The total enrolment in all day vocational classes throughout the province was 2,667.

In last year's report attention was drawn to the necessity of technical courses in the high schools of Greater Vancouver. The Board of School Trustees of Point Grey Municipality have made the first move in this direction and great success may safely be predicted, as both the school board and the school principal are in full sympathy with the democratic ideal.

Judging from the high percentage of failures in the first year university course one may safely assume that great numbers of students are being misguided. The same may be said of a large proportion of the first year high school students. The trend towards a purely academic course will be considerably reduced when school trustees provide, as in common justice they should, a high school course of an industrial nature.

The Point Grey Board is thus on the right tack, and when the trustees of Burnaby, North Vancouver, and South Vancouver veer in the same direction and introduce a technical course in their high schools, then feeders will be provided for the large technical school which should be erected and operated by a Greater Vancouver Board.

An additional plea for such a technical school comes from the fact that the new idea of apprenticeship adopted by the Building Trades Association of Greater Vancouver makes it imperative for the indentured boy to attend technical classes at which the theoretical side of his work may be studied. This apprenticeship system is a sign of the times and will, undoubtedly, spread from the building trades to other activities.

The City of Victoria should provide a three-years technical high school course and cease to persist longer in denying an additional year to those who are going to participate in the development of industrial enterprise. Why continue longer to favour those who are preparing for professional life and deny similar opportunities to those who are preparing to develop the raw material of the country. The least that can be done is to give such students an opportunity to obtain the technical leaving certificate.

Progress has been made in Vancouver city by the opening of the School of Decorative and Applied Art, in which a staff of three whole-time instructors and seven part-time instructors are engaged. The advisory board consists of nine citizens whose credentials warrant them in holding such a responsible position. In the lower school the following subjects are taught: still life, perspective, geometry, lettering, design, modelling, figure drawing from the cast and from life, and art appreciation. In the middle school the work embraces the following: still life in oil, figure drawing and composition, modelling, lettering, design and historic ornament, advertising problems, i.e., posters, showcards, layouts, labels, covers and costume design.

Night school classes with a staff of eight instructors are held in connection with the above and 212 students are on the register (60 day students and 152 night students).

This number, however, does not represent individual students, but our returns for the coming year will be so drawn up as to give this information.

The following subjects are included in the night school courses: English, English for foreigners, subjects for Civil Service examinations, subjects for pharmaceutical examinations, subjects for junior matriculation, citizenship and economics, mathematics, mechanics, physics, machine construction and drawing, patternmaking, forging, machinists' work, steam engineering, automotive ignition system, magnetism and electricity, electrical engineering, chemistry, metallurgy, coal-mining, building construction, carpentry and joinery, architectural design, estimating, navigation, forestry, papermaking, printing, commercial English, typewriting, stenography, accounting (elementary and advanced), commercial languages (i.e., Spanish, Russian, Japanese, Chinese, French), salesmanship, drawing and design, modelling, metal repousse, wood-carving, embroidery, pottery, china painting, show-card writing, dressmaking, millinery, costume-designing, laundering, bread-baking, canning, cookery, music (instrumental and choral), elocution and public speaking.

TEACHER-TRAINING CLASSES

(a) Technical Teachers

Classes for training craftsmen as technical teachers meet every Saturday afternoon in Vancouver Technical School and are composed, for the most part, of craftsmen manual instructors. These men are good material for teachers of technical subjects, as they have adequate trade and teaching experience. This background of work for the manual training teacher's high school diploma forms an excellent preparation upon which to build that knowledge which is required in a technical school. The subjects are as follows: furniture-making, wood-turning, sheet-metal work, art metal-work, machine-shop work at bench, design, educational methods, course of work in the first six subjects, thesis on manual training, use and care of wood-working machinery, science relating to wood and metal-work.

The classes referred to, with an enrolment of twenty-five students, are much to be commended because they form an outlet for the activity and ambition of the men, they are the means whereby instructors may rise in their profession, and the Department of Education has always a supply of competent instructors ready for new positions. Entrance qualifications in English and arithmetic of matriculation standing is demanded from the men and they must have good moral character.

(b) Commercial Teachers

The training of first class certificated teachers for commercial work is undertaken in three ways (a) by a class of university graduates, who meet in King Edward High School, Vancouver, after school hours, (b) by summer school classes, and (c) by a follow-up study course conducted by correspondence and which continues the work of summer school. Twenty-five students are enrolled in the correspondence course and the same students have attended the summer school course in Vancouver.

The correspondence courses are arranged under the following headings:—

- A. Shorthand (theory and practice)—covering first year high school course.
- B. Shorthand (theory and practice)—covering second year course (80 words per minute).
- C. Typewriting (theory and practice)—covering the work of first and second year high school.
- D. Accounting (theory and practice)—covering first year high school course.
- E. Accounting (theory and practice)—covering second year high school course.

The remainder of the commercial subjects which are taken at summer school are as follows: commercial geography and economics, arithmetic of commerce and finance, history of commerce, commercial law, statute law, office management, business correspondence and filing, and auditing.

The commercial teacher's training classes have made it possible to keep pace with the growth of this work in high schools. Had it not been for the supply of trained teachers who were ready to take charge of the students, the whole structure would have collapsed.

The number of commercial pupils will continue to increase because office work, warehousing and wholesale merchandising will continue to be an important avenue of activity and the distribution of goods will always be characteristic of the trade on the Pacific coast.

Undoubtedly the time will come when manufacturing will make rapid strides, but the distribution of goods made in other countries holds the premier place to-day. For this reason commercial training is important—clerical, secretarial, buying, warehousing, selling, and accounting. Great attention must be focussed on the industrial situation in other countries, in the languages of western peoples and in their requirements.

CORRESPONDENCE CLASSES

The above classes embrace the following courses:—

- No. 1. Preparatory Mining Course for boys over fifteen years of age, who have left school.
- No. 2. Course in arithmetic and mathematics.
- No. 3. Course for fire-boss, shift-boss or shot-lighter's papers (Third Class).
- No. 4. Course for overman's papers (Second Class).
- No. 5. Course for mine manager's papers.
- No. 6. Course in mine survey work.

There has been an enrolment of 195 students in the above classes and the lessons were so arranged that a boy on leaving school could continue his studies until he reaches the age of twenty-three, at which age he is permitted to compete for his provincial mining papers. Course No. 1 is divided into six separate sections of carefully graded work, and regular application will fit a young man thoroughly for the examinations held for shot-lighters. With a continuance of his studies his papers as overman will not be difficult to obtain, and following on these two the aspiring coal-miner may rise to any height he desires.

When one considers that a young man engaged in industrial work during the day has the privilege of dividing his matriculation to university examinations into four sections and of trying one section each year, it will readily be seen with what comparative ease a mine worker could step up to work of an advanced character.

IX. GOVERNMENT ANNUITIES ACT

By the Canadian Government Annuities Act, 1908, and amending Acts, an absolutely safe and immediately available form of investment for protection in old age has been provided the people of Canada, and any person taking advantage of the system will have behind his contracts the security of the whole of the Dominion, which is a matter of paramount importance as the contracts may extend over a period of 50, 60, 70 or more years. By the purchase of a Government Annuity, therefore, the purchaser has not only exceptional security, but he has also an investment from which he will derive for life the maximum return from the accumulation of his principal and interest, each payment of annuity returning to him a portion of the principal money as well as the interest it has earned, and if he (or she) should live for the number of years which according to mortality experience he may be expected to live he will receive back every dollar he has paid in with compound interest thereon at 4 per cent, and if he is then alive the annuity will be continued to him for the rest of his life. He may, of course, die before he receives back as much as he has paid in, but it will be a matter of greater importance to him to know that no matter how long he may live he will receive the annuity every three months, or every month if he so desires.

Under this Act, His Majesty the King, represented by the minister (at present the Minister of Labour), may sell to persons over the age of five years, domiciled or resident in Canada, immediate or deferred annuities of not less than $10 nor more than $5,000 (1) for the life of the annuitant; (2) for a term of years certain, not exceeding twenty years, or for the life of the annuitant, whichever period shall be the longer; and (3) an immediate or deferred annuity to any two persons domiciled in Canada during their joint lives, and with or without continuation to the survivor. The property and interest of any annuitant in any contract for an annuity is neither transferable nor attachable. The purchaser may contract that, in the event of the death of the annuitant before the date fixed for the annuity to begin, all money paid shall be refunded to the purchaser or his legal representatives with interest at the rate of 4 per cent compounded yearly.

During the session of 1924-25 an amendment was made to the Act reducing the minimum annuity purchasable from $50 to $10. It was believed that such a reduction would be an additional encouragement to employers to assist their employees in making provision for old age by the purchase of Cumulative Single Premium Annuities, each transaction being complete in itself, and that it would induce individuals to purchase who did not favour the plan of annual payments. As an illustration of the working of this plan it may be said that a man of 20 in order to secure an annuity of $10 to begin at 65 would make a single payment of $7.89 on Plan B, or $15.10 on Plan A. Under the former plan in consideration of the lower cost there would be no return in event of death. Under the latter plan if the annuitant should die before 65 the payments made plus 4 per cent compound interest up to the date of his death would be returned to his heirs. At age 21 the single payment rate would be on Plan B, $8.25, and on Plan A, $15.70. At age 22, $8.63 on Plan B, and $16.33 on Plan A, the single premium increasing with each attained birthday. He could purchase as many of these annuities at each age as he might wish, and as he saw his annuity grow a strong incentive would be created to continue the purchase and add to his holdings. The annuity may start at any age—if earlier than 65 the cost will be more; if later, it will be less. The plan presents the advantage of enabling a person with the ready cash to purchase at any time, in amounts of $10 or more, the accumulation of such purchases providing a specific income for life to begin at the age fixed upon.

The amendment of the Act reducing the minimum annuity to $10 necessitated an amendment of Clause 11 of the regulation of September 26, 1908, which now reads:—

11. That should payments made by an annuitant be not sufficient in the aggregate to earn the minimum annuity of $10 per annum, all moneys received, with compound interest at four per cent per annum, shall be returned to the purchaser or his legal representative. (Order in Council, January 4, 1926, P.C. 112/2242.)

X. LEAGUE OF NATIONS, INTERNATIONAL LABOUR ORGANIZATION

The objects for which the International Labour Organization of the League of Nations was formed are set out in Part XIII of the Treaties of Peace and are, briefly, to promote the improvement of industrial conditions by legislative action and international agreement. The Organization comprises the International Labour Office in Geneva, Switzerland, and the International Labour Conference, which meets annually and which is composed of four representatives of each member state, two of whom are Government delegates and two representing employers and employed respectively. Fifty-seven countries are members of the International Labour Organization, including all of the important industrial countries of the world, excepting the United States.

The International Labour Office is under the control of a Governing Body consisting of twenty-four persons appointed by the International Labour Conference, twelve representing Governments, six representing employers and six representing workers. In addition to its control of the Labour Office, the Governing Body is charged with the preparation of the agenda of the annual conference.

The conclusions of the International Labour Conference from year to year may be cast in the form of draft conventions or of recommendations to the national Governments, a two-thirds majority being required in the Conference for the adoption of either a draft convention or a recommendation. Under the Treaties of Peace the member states of the International Labour Conference are bound to bring the draft conventions or recommendations of the International Labour Conference before the authority or authorities within whose competence the matter lies for the enactment of legislation or other action.

The majority of proposals which have been dealt with at the successive sessions of the International Labour Conference since its inception in 1919, have been adjudged by the law officers of the Crown to fall within provincial jurisdiction in Canada and have accordingly been brought to the attention of the respective provincial governments. The draft conventions and recommendations have also been brought before the Federal Parliament.

The Department of Labour is entrusted with the duties arising out of the relations of Canada with the International Labour Organization. These have entailed much correspondence, not only with the International Labour Office, but also with other departments of the Dominion Government, with the provinces and with employers' and workers' organizations. Replies have also been prepared in the Department of Labour to various questionnaires which were circulated on behalf of the International Labour Office. The performance of these duties has necessarily entailed a close study on the part of officers of the department of the various technical questions which have figured on the various conference agenda and meetings of the Governing Body and of questionnaires received from the International Labour Office.

A bulletin entitled "Canada and the International Labour Conference" was issued by the Department of Labour in February, 1922, for the purpose of furnishing information in reference to the International Labour Organization and the subjects which have received attention at the hands of this body.

In the month of December, 1924, in order to secure closer touch with the work of the League of Nations and of the International Labour Organization, the appointment was made by the Government of Canada of an Advisory Officer resident in Geneva. It was felt that this appointment would ensure greater permanency and continuity of representation at the meetings of the Governing Body of the International Labour Office and that such an officer, acting as a substitute for and under the direction of the Minister of Labour, would improve the present plan of Canada's representation. Dr. W. A. Riddell, former Deputy Minister of Labour of Ontario, who had held an important position on the staff of the International Labour Office since 1920, was entrusted with the duties of Dominion of Canada Advisory Officer, League of Nations, in Geneva.

CONFERENCE OF LABOUR STATISTICIANS

On the recommendation of the Minister of Labour the Government of Canada was represented at a Conference of Labour Statisticians which was held at Geneva from April 20 to 25, 1925, by Mr. W. R. Tracey, of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, formerly of the Statistical Branch of the Department of Labour. This was the second Conference of Labour Statisticians held under the auspices of the International Labour Office, the prior meeting having been held in October, 1923, to consider the classification of industries and occupations for purposes of labour statistics, also to consider statistics of wages, hours of labour and industrial actions. The second conference, like the first, was attended by expert representatives from the department responsible for the presentation of labour statistics from a considerable number of countries. Resolutions were adopted unanimously on the following subjects: Cost of living index numbers, unemployment statistics, international comparisons relative to wages and classification of industries. The proposals embodied in these results were subsequently approved by the International Statistical Institute. It would, therefore, appear that they may contribute usefully to the promotion of measures for securing international comparisons in labour statistics.

AMENDMENTS TO THE CANADA SHIPPING ACT

Reference was made in the last annual report to certain amendments which were made to the Canada Shipping Act in 1924 in order to permit of the ratification of four draft conventions of the International Labour Conference which related to the employment conditions of seamen. A proclamation was issued on October 10, 1925, bringing the amended provisions of the Canada Shipping Act into effect from January 1, 1926. The four draft conventions in question were later ratified on behalf of Canada and the ratifications were duly registered with the League of Nations. The following are, briefly, the provisions of the four draft conventions in question:—

(1) Minimum Age for the Admission of Children to Employment at Sea.—The employment of children under the age of fourteen years on vessels engaged in maritime navigation is prohibited.

(2) Unemployment Indemnity in case of Loss or Foundering of the Ship.—It is provided that in the case of loss or foundering of vessels engaged in maritime navigation, seamen employed thereon shall continue to receive payment from their employers of their regular rate of wages during any period of unemployment which may result therefrom not exceeding two months.

(3) Minimum Age for Admission of Young Persons to Employment as Trimmers or, Stokers.—The employment of young persons under the age of eighteen as trimmers or stokers on vessels engaged in maritime navigation is prohibited.

(4) Compulsory Medical Examination of Children and Young Persons Employed at Sea.—It is required that the employment of any child or young person under eighteen years of age on vessels engaged in maritime navigation, other than vessels upon which only members of the same family are employed, shall be conditional upon the production of a medical certificate attesting fitness for such work signed by a doctor who should be approved by the competent authority; it is further provided that the continued employment at sea of such persons shall be subject to repetition of medical examination at intervals of not more than one year.

CANADA AND THE EIGHT-HOUR DAY

Reference was made in the annual report last year to certain questions which were submitted to the Supreme Court of Canada for an advisory judgment in order to ascertain if the provisions of the draft convention which was adopted at the first session of the International Labour Conference in 1919, limiting the hours of work in industrial undertakings to eight in the day and forty-eight in the week, were within the jurisdiction of the Dominion Parliament or of the provincial legislatures. This reference to the Supreme Court of Canada was based on a resolution on the subject which was adopted by the House of Commons during the session of 1924. The judgment of the Supreme Court of Canada was announced on June 11, 1925, and was in effect a confirmation of the view which had previously been expressed by the law officers of the Crown and embodied in an Order in Council of the Dominion Government in November, 1920. The court found that the subject-matter of the draft convention is generally within the competence of the provincial legislatures, but that the authority vested in the latter does not enable them to give the force of law to provisions which would apply to servants of the Dominion Government or to legislate for those parts of Canada which are not within the boundaries of a province.

The judgment of the court was in the terms following:—

IN THE MATTER of a reference by His Excellency the Governor General in Council to the Supreme Court of Canada of certain questions relating to legislative jurisdiction over hours of labour.

The judgment of the court—The Chief Justice and Duff, Mignault, Rinfret, and Magee, JJ.—was delivered by DUFF, J.—

The first of the questions submitted concerns the general effect of one of the clauses in Article 405 of the Treaty of Versailles and the corresponding provision in the other treaties of peace. This article is one of those comprised in the Labour Part (Part 13) of the Treaties and it defines the undertaking entered into by each of the members respecting recommendations and draft conventions adopted by the general conference of representatives of the members of the League of Nations established as part of a permanent organization for the promotion of the objects set forth in the preamble to that part. The pertinent clause is in these words:—

Each of the members undertakes that it will, within the period of one year at most from the closing of the session of the Conference, or if it is impossible owing to exceptional circumstances to do so within the period of one year, then at the earliest practicable moment and in no case later than eighteen months from the closing of the session of the Conference, bring the recommendation or draft convention before the authority or authorities within whose competence the matter lies, for the enactment of legislation or other action.

It seems very clear that the duty arising under this clause is not a duty to enact legislation or to promote legislation; it is an undertaking simply to bring the recommendation or draft convention before the competent authority.

No question is submitted as to the duty of the member arising under the succeeding clauses of the same article in the event of the competent authority or authorities giving its or their consent to the recommendation or draft convention; and upon this no opinion is expressed.

The second, third and fourth questions submitted relate to a particular draft convention; that, namely, adopted by the General Conference of the International Labour Organization of the League of Nations on the 29th of October, 1919, which has for its object the limiting of the hours of work in industrial undertakings as therein defined to eight hours in the day and forty-eight hours in the week.

Under the scheme of distribution of legislative authority in the British North America Act, legislative jurisdiction touching the subject matter of this convention is, subject to a qualification to be mentioned, primarily vested in the provinces. Under the head of jurisdiction numbered 13 in section 92. Property and Civil Rights, or under the sixteenth head, Local and Private Matters Within the Province, or under both heads, each of the provinces possesses authority to give the force of law in the province to provisions such as those contained in the draft convention. This general proposition is subject to this qualification, namely, that as a rule a province has no authority to regulate the hours of employment of the servants of the Dominion Government.

It seems questionable whether government employees, in industrial undertakings carried on by the Government, such, for example, as ship-building, are within the scope of the convention. The point was not the subject of argument before us, and concerning it no opinion is intended to be expressed.

It is necessary to observe, also, that, as regards those parts of Canada which are not included within the limits of any province, the legislative authority in relation to civil rights generally, and to the subject matter of the convention in particular, is the Dominion Parliament.

It is now settled that the Dominion, in virtue of its authority in respect of works and undertakings falling within its jurisdiction, by force of section 91, No. 29, and section 92, No. 10, has certain powers of regulation touching the employment of persons engaged on such works or undertakings. The effect of such legislation by the Dominion in execution of this power is that provincial authority in relation to the subject matter of such legislation is superseded, and remains inoperative so long as the Dominion legislation continues in force. There would appear to be no doubt that, as regards such undertakings—a Dominion railway, for example—the Dominion possesses authority to enact legislation in relation to the subjects dealt with in the draft convention. The only Dominion legislation on this subject to which our attention has been called is to be found in section 287 of the Railway Act of 1919, which confers authority on the Board of Railway Commissioners to make orders and regulations concerning the hours of duty of persons employed on railways subject to the jurisdiction of the Board, with a view to the safety of the public and of such employees. It is understood that no orders or regulations have been made in execution of this power; and in view of the fact that this enactment, creating this unexecuted power, appears to be the only Dominion legislation in existence on the subject matter of the draft convention, the primary authority of the province in relation to that subject matter remains, subject to the qualification mentioned, unimpaired and unrestricted.

It follows from what has been said that the draft convention ought to be brought before the Parliament of Canada as being the competent legislative authority for those parts of Canada not within the boundaries of any province; and if servants of the Dominion Government engaged in industrial undertakings as defined by the convention are within the scope of its provisions, then the Dominion Parliament is the competent authority also to give force of law to those provisions as applicable to such persons.

The convention should also be brought before the Lieutenant-Governor of each of the provinces for the purpose of enabling him to bring it to the attention of the Provincial Legislature as possessing, subject to the qualification mentioned, legislative jurisdiction within the province in relation to the subject matter of the convention.

The answers to the questions submitted are, therefore:—

(1) What is the nature of the obligation of the Dominion of Canada, as a member of the International Labour Conference, under the provisions of the Labour Part (Part XIII) of the Treaty of Versailles and of the corresponding provisions of the other Treaties of Peace, with relation to such draft conventions and recommendations as may be from time to time adopted by the said Conference under the authority of and pursuant to the aforesaid provisions?

To the first question; the obligation is simply in the nature of an undertaking to bring the recommendation or draft convention before the authority or authorities within whose competence the matter lies, for the enactment of legislation or other action.

(2) Are the legislatures of the provinces the authorities within whose competence the subject-matter of the said draft convention (copy of which is herewith submitted) in whole or in part lies and before whom such draft convention should be brought, under the provisions of Article 405 of the Treaty of Peace with Germany, for the enactment of legislation or other action?

To the second question: yes, in part.

(3) If the subject-matter of the said draft convention be, in part only, within the competence of the legislatures of the provinces, then in what particular or particulars, or to what extent, is the subject-matter of the draft convention within the competence of the legislatures?

To the third question: the subject matter is generally within the competence of the legislatures of the provinces, but the authority vested in these legislatures does not enable them to give the force of law to provisions such as those contained in the draft convention in relation to servants of the Dominion Government, or to legislate for those parts of Canada which are not within the boundaries of a province.

(4) If the subject-matter of the said draft convention be, in part only, within the competence of the legislatures of the provinces, then in what particular or particulars, or to what extent, is the subject-matter of the draft convention within the competence of the Parliament of Canada?

To the fourth question: the Parliament of Canada has exclusive legislative authority in those parts of Canada not within the boundaries of any province, and also upon the subjects dealt with in the draft convention in relation to the servants of the Dominion Government.

UTILIZATION OF WORKERS' SPARE TIME

An Order in Council was adopted on February 15, 1926, on report of the Minister of Justice, dealing with the proposals contained in a recommendation which was adopted by the International Labour Conference in 1924 "concerning the development of facilities for the utilization of workers' spare time" and containing the view of the law officers of the Crown as to the extent to which the subject matters in question fell within the competence of Parliament or of the provincial legislatures for the enactment of legislation or other action. The text of the Order in Council was published in the Labour Gazette of March, 1926, and was also laid on the table of the House of Commons and brought to the attention of the respective provincial governments.

PROVINCIAL LEGISLATIVE ACTION

The Provincial Legislature of British Columbia enacted during the session of 1923 a measure, effective January 1, 1925, providing for the application of the eight-hour day in industrial undertakings and authorizing the establishment of a board of adjustment to administer the Act and to grant exceptions therefrom.

The Provincial Legislature of British Columbia also enacted during the session of 1922 a measure to give effect to the provisions of a draft convention of the International Labour Conference passed in 1919 providing for the payment of benefits to women workers in cases of childbirth.

The Provincial Legislature of Manitoba adopted in 1924 an Act giving effect in that province to the provisions of the draft convention which was passed at the International Labour Conference in 1919 concerning the night work of young persons employed in industry.

The Legislature of Nova Scotia on April 30, 1924, adopted a resolution approving the principle of the Washington draft conventions concerning the minimum age of admission of children to industrial employment and the night work of women, and of the Geneva (1921) draft conventions concerning the minimum age of admission of children to agricultural employment and the right of association and combination for agricultural workers.

The Legislature of Saskatchewan, on March 19, 1924, adopted a resolution approving the principle of the same draft conventions as those approved by the resolution of the Nova Scotia Legislature above mentioned.

INTERNATIONAL LABOUR CONFERENCE, 1925

The Seventh Session of the International Labour Conference was held in Geneva, Switzerland, from May 19 to June 10, 1925. Forty-six countries were represented by delegations comprising over three hundred delegates and technical advisers. Reference was made in the last annual report to the proceedings of this conference and to the Canadian delegation which was in attendance. The following is a list of the draft conventions and recommendations which were adopted at the 1925 Session:—

Draft convention concerning equality of treatment for national and foreign workers as regards workmen's compensation.

Draft convention concerning workmen's compensation for occupational diseases.

Draft convention concerning workmen's compensation for accidents.

ANNUAL REPORT

FOR THE FISCAL YEAR ENDED MARCH 31

OTTAWA
F. A. ACLAND
PRINTER TO THE KING'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY
1926

To His Excellency the Right Honourable Viscount Willingdon, G.C.S.I., G.C.M.G., G.C.I.E., G.B.E., Governor General and Commander in Chief of the Dominion of Canada.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY:

The undersigned has the honour to present to Your Excellency the Annual Report of the Department of Public Printing and Stationery for the year ended March 31, 1926.

I have the honour to be,

Your Excellency's most obedient servant,

FERNAND RINFRET,
Secretary of State and Minister charged with administration of Department of Public Printing and Stationery.

INTRODUCTORY STATEMENT

OTTAWA, October, 1926.

SIR,—The work of the Department of Public Printing and Stationery has proceeded on the usual lines during the past year. The production in the different branches has maintained the level of recent years, save that a reduction is to be noted in the amount of outside work as compared with the last two preceding years, chiefly accounted for by some diminution in map and other lithographic work.

The personnel of the establishment was set, at the time of the reorganization carried out in 1919-20 by the Civil Service Commission, at 705, this figure not, however, being intended to apply to emergency conditions which may be encountered from time to time and particularly during a session of Parliament. For several years, however, the personnel has fallen somewhat below this level and stood at the close of the fiscal year at 689. The fiscal year closes at a period when the session of Parliament is in progress and the staff carries the usual sessional increase, practically confined for some years past to a few additional press-feeders. The normal level of the personnel is probably that of December 31, and it is of interest to glance over the records of the department on this point. The number of employees of all classes stood as follows on December 31, for each of the years named:—

1901.....	511	1920.....	703
1911.....	861	1921.....	730
1915.....	1,160	1922.....	665
1916.....	1,240	1923.....	688
1917.....	1,300	1924.....	670
1918.....	1,169	1925.....	670

The year shows a turnover of 48, a percentage of only six, and these low figures include the customary changes in the pressroom during the session; the appointments for the year numbered 24, and the separations 20. Prior to reorganization in 1919 and 1920 the personnel included about fifty part-time women employed in the char service; these workers are not now counted as Printing Bureau employees, having been taken over by the Department of Public Works.

It has been possible to continue the low numerical level of the personnel here indicated only by the maintenance of equipment at all points, and improvements in this respect were effected in several branches, machinery purchases including the following principal items: (1) Bindery—(a) assembling machine with motor, (b) Dexter folding machine, (c) embossing machine; (2) Composition Branch—monotype material making machine; (3) Pressroom—(a) Vertical Miehle press, (b) Latham base equipment, (c) Chapman electric neutralizer equipment. The general nature and purpose of these items of machinery are sufficiently indicated by the description, save perhaps in the case of the last named, 3 (c), as to which a word may be added. The neutralizer equipment was secured for the pressroom only after the process had been well tried out in the case of two presses and had been found satisfactory for the purpose in view, namely, the eradication in large measure of the serious evils resulting from the presence of electricity in paper; the application of the neutralizer has had, as expected, the effect of both diminishing spoilage in paper and reducing time losses from stoppages, and also of increasing the rate of production in the pressroom. A very few years will suffice to recoup the department in the actual outlay, and a permanent improvement has been effected as to convenience and execution.

The reorganization of the delivery service, noted in last year's report, was satisfactorily completed and an effective system has been instituted by the substitution of four motor cars for ten or twelve carters, this change effecting a handsome economy and bringing a substantial improvement in service.

The general election, occurring in October last, was not the cause of any particular pressure on the department. Voters' lists being now printed locally under the authority of the returning officers, and the jurisdiction of the King's Printer being limited to audit of the account, there is not the congestion in the Government Printing Bureau which was customary under the former practice, when very many of the lists were printed in this establishment and the printing of other lists was placed by the King's Printer with local printers and officers of this department visited many points outside of Ottawa to supervise the work. In the election of October last the lists for the two Ottawa ridings and for Hull and for the Ottawa sections of the lists of Russell and Carleton counties were placed by the respective returning officers with the King's Printer for printing, and the printing was executed in the Government Printing Bureau.

The Canada Gazette has been published regularly, with special editions as occasion may require. For some years now this branch has shown a handsome profit from revenue by subscriptions and advertising as against expenditure for (a) paper, (b) printing and distribution, (c) editing and translating, and the surplus of revenue over expenditure for the past year was $38,141.73; the details will be found in the Accountant's report, table No. 7. The sale of parliamentary and other publications, apart from the Canada Gazette, shows at $52,190.50 some increase of revenue. During the last year or two there has been a marked growth of public interest in the official reports of the Debates of the House of Commons, commonly known as Hansard, and the subscription list for the Commons Hansard has considerably increased; paid subscriptions from the public for the session of 1925 numbered 1,431. Whilst these figures indicate, as stated, increases over previous years, and the subscription list for the session of 1926 reached a much higher figure, yet it is somewhat surprising that the number of paid subscriptions is not three or four times the present figure, and such a development is among the probabilities of the future. The rate of $3 for the session, long or short, is intended of course only to meet approximately the cost of printing and paper.

The supervision of requisitions, conducted by the Supervisor of Government Publications under the instructions of the Government Committee on Printing and Stationery, and following out the principles laid down in P.C. 1631, August 17, 1923, has been carried on effectively, officers of the different branches of the Government which have been concerned in any requisition as to which question has been raised having co-operated with officers of this department in securing satisfactory agreement on any points at issue.

An administrative incident of the year worthy of mention was the establishment of a basis for a permanent Inventory or Plant Record. For many years an accurate record has been preserved of every purchase made but there has never been available a complete record of the outfit of the establishment as a whole. This plant inventory is of course wholly separate and distinct from the annual inventories of stock, work in progress, stores, etc., taken in the Printing and Stationery branches in co-operation with the Auditor General and serving as an excellent check on the large volume of business conducted by the department. The officers of this department had long been specially desirous of establishing a permanent plant record, but conditions had not previously favoured undertaking it. Special efforts resulted, however, in a basis being laid for a permanent plant record, or a running and up-to-date inventory, in which it is aimed to exhibit the complete contents of the establishment with respect to plant and equipment as on the first day of January of the calendar year 1926, and at any time thereafter, the record containing, with regard to each single item of machinery, furniture or equipment, complete information as to nature, date of order for purchase, date of installation, first cost, freight, duty (if any), total cost, reason for purchase, percentage of depreciation, and estimated value at any given date. Arrangements necessary to secure the regular and methodical maintenance of the record at all points have also been made. It is believed that such a record will be as a matter of reference a special convenience to the Purchasing, Accounting and Supervising branches of the department, serving as an effective check on the property of the department and, since the values dealt with represent several hundred thousand dollars, will be also of material value in permitting ready comparison between different periods with respect to expenditure for equipment and maintenance of one of the largest industrial enterprises of the Government of Canada.

Mention should perhaps hereto be made of the fact that while this report is being printed word comes to hand that the department, which has been since 1921 under the administration of the Minister of Labour, has been placed again under the authority of the Secretary of State, as before 1921, and the report is made therefore to yourself as Secretary of State, and charged with authority over this department.

F. A. ACLAND,
King's Printer.

TABLE No. 3—Statement showing the Routine Parliamentary Work, Year 1925-26

* In this table and in other tables which contain a column giving the total number of printed pages, the figures in the total column coincide, as a rule, with those obtained by multiplying the number of copies by the number of pages. In some cases, however, a printing job includes different sections or series which vary as to number of copies and number of pages; the two first columns do not therefore multiply into the figures shown in the column representing the total number of pages printed. Cases of this class are denoted by an asterisk (*).

STATIONERY BRANCH

OTTAWA, June 14, 1926.

SIR,—I have the honour to submit for your information the general statement of the accounts of this office from April 1, 1925 to March 31, 1926, as follows:—

Debit balance from 1924-25.....		71,265 87
Debit balance to 1926-27.....		$ 46,199 47

In presenting this year's report I am unable to show a particular result in favour of economy, but can assure you that no extravagances have occurred, and wherever possible the stock, has been reduced without depreciating the demands from departments.

You will note in the above statement that the inventory of last year was $160,781.67, which has been reduced to $134,030.72 only, while the expenditure—wages have increased $6,788.46 and stationery stock purchases for the year increased by $95,000; sales to departments increased by $150,000; sales of discarded typewriters increased by $700. The total profit for the year was $25,000, which when applied to the debit balance of $71,000, reduced this outstanding deficit to $46,199.47.

I feel that it is again necessary to call your attention to this deficit, and ask if during the coming year I might not expect some action with the Auditor General's office in the way of its removal. There is no doubt that the departments in some instances are paying too high for goods supplied, although in every case the prices are lower than the same goods can be bought in the retail stores, but if this deficit was removed a ten per cent advance on all stock would cover expenses. The removal of this deficit would be a great relief to this department and the service as a whole.

During the year:

- 21,765 requisitions were received from departments.
- 3,354 letters received.
- 14,501 letters sent out.

Yours respectfully,

E. RYDER,
Superintendent of Stationery.

F. A. ACLAND,
King's Printer,
Ottawa, Ont.

REPORT

OF THE

DEPUTY MINISTER OF MARINE AND FISHERIES

To the Hon. P. J. ARTHUR CARDIN,
Minister of Marine and Fisheries.

SIR,—I have the honour to submit herewith my report for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1926.

The total output of merchant shipping in Great Britain and Ireland during 1924 amounted to 1,439,885 tons (Lloyds statement), at the beginning of 1925 these countries were building 1,296,971 tons of merchant shipping (Lloyds statement), a drop of 142,914 tons, presaging a decline in British and Irish building as compared with the building of the previous year. The United States and Japan also showed fallings off in the shipping in hand at the beginning of 1925 as compared with their 1924 outputs. On the other hand the leading continental shipbuilding countries, Germany, France, Italy, and Holland, showed substantial increases in shipping in hand at the beginning of 1925 over their 1924 outputs, in the case of Germany, Italy, and Holland, about one-half more, and in the case of France considerably more than one-half.

The beginning of the year 1925 therefore indicated a decline in shipbuilding in Britain, the United States, and Japan, and a distinct revival in continental building. Lloyds Register Shipbuilding Returns for the quarter ended March 31, 1925, tend to confirm this.

The tonnage in hand in Great Britain and Ireland at the end of March, 1925, amounted to 1,165,468 tons, about 132,000 tons less than the tonnage in hand at the end of December, 1924, and about 275,000 tons less than the 1924 output.

Germany on March 31, 1925, was building 405,476 tons of merchant shipping, an increase of 50,226 tons over the tonnage in hand at the beginning of 1925, and as her 1924 output was 193,952 tons, an increase of 211,524 tons over her 1924 output.

France on March 31, 1925, was building 187,437 tons of merchant shipping, an increase of 107,752 tons over her 1924 output, which was 79,685 tons.

Italy on March 31, 1925, had in hand 164,023 tons, an increase of 81,497 tons over her 1924 production of 82,526 tons.

Holland on March 31, 1925, had under construction 119,908 tons of merchant shipping, an increase of 56,281 tons over her 1924 output of 63,627 tons.

It will thus be seen that on March 31, 1925, Italy and Holland were about doubling their 1924 outputs, and Germany and France more than doubling theirs. These figures show a very marked increase in continental shipbuilding activity.

On March 31, 1925, the United States were building 81,728 tons of merchant shipping, as her 1924 output was 139,463 tons, this is a drop of 57,735 tons.

Japan at the same time was building 41,755 tons, as against a 1924 output of 72,757 tons, a decrease of 31,000 tons.

The British Dominions, at the end of the 1925 March quarter, were building 28,378 tons, as compared with a 1924 output of 44,879 tons, a decrease of 16,500 tons.

The shipbuilding decline indicated at the beginning of 1925 in these countries has thus been maintained.

Motor ship building from the close of the 1924 March quarter to the close of the 1925 March quarter shows a slight advance in Great Britain and Ireland, and a substantial one in countries other than Great Britain and Ireland. Subjoined is Lloyds statement.

Great Britain and Ireland.....	359,920	325,190
Other countries.....	661,711	369,522

On March 31, 1924, motor tonnage building in Great Britain and Ireland was within 44,332 tons of that being built in the rest of the world; on March 31, 1925, it was 301,791 tons less.

The motor tonnage of 359,920 tons building in Great Britain and Ireland at the close of the 1925 March quarter was about 45 per cent of the steam tonnage under construction in these countries at the same date, but the world motor tonnage of 1,021,631 tons, amounted to no less than 75 per cent of the steam tonnage building at the same time, 31st March 1925; this shows clearly the rapid development of motor ship building, particularly in the Continental countries.

At the close of the March quarter there were being built in the world 31 ships of between 10,000 and 20,000 tons each, and 7 ships of 20,000 tons and upwards. Sixteen out of the 31, and 5 of the larger ships were being built in Great Britain and Ireland.

In the period under review there was an increase of 866,236 tons in world steam and motor tonnage, and a decrease of 248,385 tons in the sailing tonnage, making a total world net increase of all tonnage of 617,851 tons. This is the reverse of the position last year when the total decrease of world tonnage for the corresponding period amounted to 1,142,671 tons (Lloyds statement).

As compared with the June 1924 returns, those of June 1925 show appreciable increases of tonnage in a number of countries. Great Britain and Ireland's tonnage increased by 334,873 tons, Italy's by 196,449 tons, and Norway's by 175,249 tons, United States' tonnage, however, decreased by 579,487 tons.

All the countries specified with the exception of Germany and Austria-Hungary have increased their pre-war tonnages. The United States has increased its pre-war tonnage by 9,768,000 tons, due to intensive building during the 1918-21 period. Then come Japan with an increase of about 2,000,000 tons, Italy with one of 1,446,000 tons, France with 1,344,000 tons, and the British Dominions with 823,000 tons. Britain's tonnage is pretty much on a par with her pre-war tonnage, the increase only amounting to 397,000 tons.

In the amount of tonnage owned Great Britain and Ireland are easily first with 19,274,000 tons, about 33 per cent of the entire steam and motor tonnage of the world; in 1914 the percentage was 44. The United States comes second with 11,605,000 tons, about 20 per cent of world steam and motor tonnage. Then come Japan 3,741,000 tons; France 3,262,000 tons, Germany 2,993,000 tons, Italy 2,894,000 tons, Holland 2,585,000 tons, and Norway 2,555,000 tons.

Mere tonnages do not of course adequately represent the effective strengths of the different merchant marines of the world. Much depends on the age and type of the ships, and in these respects Germany is very fortunate.

After the Armistice, Germany was left with about 500,000 gross tons of somewhat obsolete shipping. During a seven year period, she has increased this to approximately 3,000,000 tons. More than fifty per cent of this tonnage is less than 5 years old and it also contains a high percentage of Diesel engined motor ships, at present the most popular profits-earning type.

Should Germany's present rate of building in comparison with that of other maritime countries be maintained, in a few years her merchant marine will have attained to the third place among the world's fleets, and should American tonnage decline continue at its present pace, it is quite likely that in another decade Germany's merchant marine will rank next to Great Britain's; its pre-war status.

CONTINUED SAILING TONNAGE DECLINE

For a considerable period the world's sailing tonnage has been steadily declining—for the June 1923 to the June 1924 period there was a drop of 321,438 tons (Lloyds statement) and for the June 1924 to the June 1925 period one of 248,355 tons as already stated. Since pre-war times, say June 1914, world sailing tonnage has been reduced by 1,718,000 tons (Lloyds statement) and the present percentage of sailing tonnage in the world's total tonnage, is only 3.5, and it may be mentioned that this includes barge tonnage.

Of the total sailing tonnage the United States at present possess 1,105,000 tons or about 49 per cent, France 192,000 tons, Great Britain and Ireland 136,000 tons, Canada 106,000 tons, and Italy 98,000 tons.

During the last 2 years the percentage of vessels burning oil in internal combustion engines, and using oil fuel in boilers has been steadily increasing, and the percentage of coal burning vessels decreasing. Lloyds percentages for 1923 are:—

	Percentage
Oil, etc., in internal combustion engines.....	2.56
Oil fuel for boilers.....	24.23
Coal.....	68.87

In 1914 about 90 per cent of the world's tonnage was using coal, as against 64½ per cent at present.

TONNAGE BROKEN UP

Some interesting figures are given by Lloyds of tonnage broken up during different periods.

From 1905 to 1909, the minimum broken up was 120,003 tons, and the maximum 251,900 tons. From 1910 to 1914 the variation is from 87,737 tons to 245,891 tons.—From 1915 to 1920, practically no tonnage was broken up for obvious reasons. In 1921 tonnage broken up amounted to 77,500 tons; in 1922 to 315,000 tons; in 1923 to 963,000 tons, and in 1924 to 1,174,000 tons; should the process continue at this rate it would tend to relieve the shipping situation.

PROPORTION OF NEW TONNAGE, 1925

According to Lloyds in June 1925 the nations possessing the largest percentage of tonnage under 5 years old were: Germany, 50.6 per cent of her tonnage; Holland, 33.5 per cent; France, 27 per cent; Denmark, 26.7 per cent; Great Britain and Ireland, 25.5 per cent; and Norway 24 per cent.

Lloyds also states that vessels of between 4,000 and 6,000 tons each form the largest group about 28.5 per cent of world steam and motor tonnage. Liners of 15,000 tons and upwards form about 3.4 per cent of world tonnage.

MOTOR SHIP BUILDING, AT JUNE 30, 1925

At the end of the June quarter there were under construction in the world 1,129,912 tons of shipping to be fitted with internal combustion engines, and 1,212,525 tons of steam shipping (Lloyds statement). The motor tonnage amounted to a little more than 93 per cent of the steam tonnage.

Great Britain and Ireland had in hand at this time 399,070 tons of motor ships which was about 58 per cent of the steam tonnage under construction (Lloyds statement).

The development of motor ship building of late in the continental countries has been still more remarkable. There were building at the end of June 1925 in Germany, Holland, Denmark, Sweden, and Italy, a total of 645,000 tons of motor shipping, as against 216,257 tons of steam shipping for these five countries (Lloyds statement); it will be seen that the motor tonnage was nearly three times greater than the steam tonnage.

World motor ship building at this time included 115 motor ships of between 5,000 and 10,000 tons each; five of between 10,000 and 15,000 tons, and seven between 15,000 and 25,000 tons.

TANKER TONNAGE OWNED AT JUNE 30, 1925

Tanker ships engaged in the carriage of petroleum and other oils form a rather important part of present day merchant shipping.

The American Nautical Gazette thus gives the number of tanker ships and their gross tonnage owned by the different maritime nations at the end of June 1925:—

	Ships	Gross tons
United States.....	402	2,507,854
Great Britain.....	391	2,074,086
Holland.....	44	123,848
Norway.....	42	231,934

Belgium.....	7	35,063
Cuba.....	7	25,636
Other countries.....	31	140,051
Total.....	1,039	5,578,036

The United States, in June 1925, owned 39 per cent of the total number of tanker ships, and 45 per cent of total gross tanker tonnage; Great Britain 38 per cent of the number of ships, and 36 per cent of the total gross tonnage. The other two nations with the largest number of tankers are Holland and Norway, about 4 per cent each of the total tanker fleet.

PRESENT PRICES OF CARGO BOATS

In a June, 1925, number of Fairplay comment is made on the recent sale of eight steamers of the Gould fleet for the lump sum of £300,000.

The subjoined table gives the name, age, deadweight tonnage, and assumed price of each of these eight steamers:—

*"A" Standard boats.

It will be noticed that the ages of these ships vary from a minimum of 7 years to a maximum of 13 years; however a July, 1925, number of Fairplay states that at that time the yard price for a 7,500 d.w. ton cargo boat built to an ordinary specification was about £7 8s. per ton, and adds that unless an improvement occurred in the freight market it would be very doubtful if the owner could make any profit out of her even at that low purchase price.

The pre-war yard price of a similar cargo steamer was very little if at all higher, but the wage costs have in the interim increased materially, and the building material costs still more. These factors added to the decreased demand for ships due to various causes, have induced the present depressed state of the British shipbuilding industry.

TREND OF POST-WAR SHIPBUILDING

The 1924-25 report of Lloyds Register of shipping operations gives some interesting tables showing the remarkable post-war increase in the building of tankers, steamers fitted for burning oil fuel, and motor ships:—

July, 1924.....	17,154,072
July, 1925.....	17,804,122

With regard to this table it must be remembered that in a number of cases the oil installations can be replaced by coal burning fittings, should occasion demand, as when oil is unobtainable, or its cost compared with coal too great to make it profitable.

Register Book	No.	Motorships (including Auxiliaries) Gross tons
July, 1914.....	297	234,287

July, 1925.....	2,145	2,714,073

Of the 2,145 motorships mentioned in the above table for 1925, 521 are of 1,000 tons or upwards. Of these, 134 have tonnages ranging from 1,000 to 1,999 tons; 123 are from 2,000 to 3,999 tons; 132 are from 4,000 to 5,999 tons; and 132 are of 6,000 tons or upwards.

In a certain proportion of this motorship tonnage, particularly in the case of vessels of small size, sail power is also available; but of the 387 vessels of 2,000 tons and upwards, about 95 per cent are solely dependent on their motor engines for propulsion.

MERCANTILE SHIPBUILDING IN 1925

These returns are from Lloyds Register Annual Summary, are in gross tons, and comprise only merchant ships of 100 gross tons or upwards.

At the end of the March, 1925, quarter there was, as already stated, a drop of 275,000 tons in British and Irish shipping in hand as compared with the 1924 output, this decline has continued for the balance of the year as shown by the first of these tables, the 1925 output for Great Britain and Ireland being 355,252 tons less than the 1924 one.

Turning to the table of the tonnage built for foreign countries, it will be seen that the British Dominions have in 1925 proved to be Britain's best customer by a considerable margin, with 50,839 tons built for the Dominions, as against 37,625 tons for Norway, Britain's next best customer.

Altogether it will be seen that in 1925, 178,464 tons of British and Irish shipping were built on foreign account, this is about 16½ per cent of the total output of tonnage; in 1924 it was about 15½ per cent, and in 1923 only 3 per cent. So that British building for foreign orders during the last two years has taken an upward trend.

During the five pre-war years 1909-1913 the average of the building in United Kingdom yards on foreign account was about 22 per cent.

SIZE AND TYPE OF VESSELS

The returns for 1925 show that 75 vessels of between 5,000 and 10,000 tons each and 12 vessels of 10,000 tons and upwards were launched; the following are those of 15,000 tons and upwards:—

Excluding vessels of less than 1,000 tons, 24 vessels of about 134,766 tons, for the carriage of oil in bulk were launched during 1925. Of these, 15 vessels of about 98,700 tons were built on the Isherwood system of longitudinal framing.

Eight vessels with corrugated sides, with a total tonnage of 39,453 tons, were launched during 1925.

The tonnage of steamers fitted for burning oil fuel, launched during the year, amounts to about 293,000 tons.

The returns include a number of vessels designed for channel, coasting, fishing, towing, harbour service, and other special purposes.

The average tonnage of steamers and motorships launched during the year is 3,340 tons. If the vessels of less than 500 tons are excluded, the average is increased to 4,439 tons, as compared with 3,777 in 1924, 3,805 in 1923, 5,186 in 1922, and 4,602 in 1921.

VESSELS FITTED WITH TURBINES

Further progress was recorded in the use of steam turbines during 1925, when 17 vessels with a total tonnage of 164,889 tons were launched, which will be fitted with this method of propulsion, and all of them, with the exception of one of 664 tons, will have geared turbines. It may be stated that of the vessels of 15,000 tons and upwards launched during the year, 5 are to be fitted with turbines.

VESSELS FITTED WITH INTERNAL COMBUSTION ENGINES

The number and size of vessels fitted with internal combustion engines are steadily increasing. During 1919 the tonnage of such vessels launched was 32,936 tons, while last year it amounted to 237,458 tons; and during 1925, 51 motorships of 267,217 tons have been launched, and 34 of them are of 5,000 tons and upwards, the largest being the Asturias, of 22,137 tons. The tonnage of the motorships launched during the year amounts to nearly one-third of the steam tonnage.

OUTPUT OF LEADING SHIPBUILDING CENTRES

The Clyde district occupies first place amongst the shipbuilding centres, showing an output of 506,717 tons. Then follow the Tyne (194,614 tons), the Tees (96,660 tons), the Wear (91,581 tons), and Belfast (57,506 tons). The largest decrease, as compared with 1924, has taken place on the Wear, the figures for which are 102,494 tons lower than the previous year. The decrease on the Tyne amounts to 81,058 tons, on the Tees to 64,851 tons, at Belfast to 47,884 tons. On the Clyde the decrease—25,355 tons—only amounts to $4\frac{3}{4}$ per cent of the production for the year 1924.

Germany

During the year under review 121 vessels of 406,374 tons were launched in German yards.

As compared with the output for 1924, the present figures show the large increase of 231,261 tons and represent nearly 37 per cent of the total output abroad during 1925.

These figures include 3 vessels of 45,800 tons to be fitted with geared steam turbines; they comprise, also, 56 vessels of 279,410 tons to be fitted with oil engines, including one ship, of 6,530 tons, in which reduction gearing is employed. This tonnage equals about $48\frac{1}{2}$ per cent of the total motor tonnage launched abroad during the year.

The totals include 10 vessels of between 4,000 and 6,000 tons, 23 of between 6,000 and 10,000 tons, and 7 vessels of above 10,000 tons each, including the steamer Hamburg, of 22,000 tons.

Italy

The total figures for this country—142,046 tons—are 59,520 tons higher than those for 1924. Twenty-one vessels of 110,006 tons were launched in the Trieste district, as compared with an output of 32,557 tons during the previous year.

The totals comprise 1 motorship of 25,000 tons (Saturnia the largest vessel launched abroad during 1925), and 14 vessels of between 5,000 and 9,000 tons each. Sixteen motorships, of 101,479 tons were launched, and 2 turbine-engined vessels of 14,200 tons.

United States

The output for the year 1925, namely, 128,776 tons, is 10,687 tons lower than during 1924, and about 3,947,000 tons less than that of the record year 1919, and with the exception of 1922, is the lowest since 1897. The tonnage launched represents $11\frac{1}{2}$ per cent of the total output abroad for the year 1925.

Of the steam and motor tonnage launched, 38,590 tons were built on the Atlantic coast, 50,010 tons on the Great Lakes, and 4,688 tons on the Pacific coast.

The total figures include 1 steamer of 7,057 tons launched on the Atlantic coast, and 6 vessels of between 6,000 and 9,000 tons launched on the Great Lakes.

The motor tonnage launched in this country during 1925 amounts to 3,886 tons; of oil tankers, of 1,000 tons and upwards, only one (1,217 tons) was launched.

The totals also include, as previously stated, 3 vessels with a total tonnage of 2,033 tons which will have oil engines in conjunction with electric motors for the final drive.

Holland

The total tonnage launched during 1925—78,823 tons—is 15,000 tons higher than the 1924 figures. As usual, the figures for this country do not include vessels exclusively intended for river navigation, the total tonnage of which vessels often reaches a high figure.

Vessels launched of over 5,000 tons each, include two steamers, of 5,105 tons and 5,700 tons, respectively, one motorship of 9,297 tons, and another motorship, the Indrapæra, of 10,772 tons.

There were launched in this country during the year 17 vessels, of 31,508 tons, to be fitted with oil engines.

France

The output for the year—75,569 tons—is 4,116 tons lower than the total for 1924, and is nearly 62,000 tons below the average output of the three pre-war years 1911-1913.

The total figures include two motorships of between 5,000 and 6,000 tons each, one steamer of 12,500 tons, and one motorship of 13,000 tons the Pieter Corneliszoon Hooft.

Seven vessels of 24,393 tons, fitted with oil engines were launched in this country during the year.

Japan

The output for this country—55,784 tons—is 16,973 tons less than that in 1924.

The 1925 totals comprise four vessels of between 4,500 and 7,500 tons each, one of which (4,500 tons) will employ turbo-electric propulsion, and two, each of 7,200 tons, will be fitted with oil engines.

Scandinavian Countries

The total tonnage launched in Denmark, Norway and Sweden amounts to 155,823 tons, which total is 35,536 tons higher than the output for 1924. In Sweden, there is an increase of 22,539 tons; in Denmark, an increase of 9,331 tons; and in Norway, an increase of 3,666 tons.

The total figures include 21 motorships of between 4,000 and 10,000 tons, while the largest steamer launched in these countries is of less than 2,500 tons.

The total tonnage of the vessels fitted with internal combustion engines launched in these countries during 1925 amounts to 117,899 tons.

British Dominions

The total tonnage launched in all the British Dominions overseas during 1925, namely 46,078 tons, is about 1,200 tons more than in 1924.

Of the total figures, 20,817 tons were launched in Canada, 17,050 tons at Hong Kong, and 4,286 tons in Australia.

The totals include 5 steamers, of 3,000 tons each and over, of which the largest are the Gleneagles, 8,386 tons, built at Midland, Ont., and 2 steamers, of 4,324 tons and 3,800 tons respectively, built at Hong Kong.

The above Lloyds table gives the number and tonnage of merchant ships of all classes, of 100 gross tons and upwards, building in the various maritime countries of the world on December 31, 1925.

The total amount of world merchant shipping tonnage in hand at the close of 1925 was 2,069,545 tons, the output for 1925 was 2,193,404 tons, a decrease of world shipping in hand at the close of the year of roughly 124,000 tons.

The greatest falling off has taken place in the leading shipbuilding countries—Great Britain and Ireland, and Germany. Great Britain and Ireland had 885,013 tons in hand on December 31, 1925, against a 1925 output of 1,084,633 tons, a drop of 201,620 tons and one of 411,958 tons, when compared with the tonnage in hand a year ago, which amounted to 1,296,271 tons.

Germany had in hand at the close of 1925, 234,145 tons of merchant shipping as her 1925 output was 406,374 tons, this is a decrease of 172,229 tons—the German shipbuilding program at the close of 1925, compared with her 1925 output, had nearly been cut in half.

Italy and France on the other hand show marked gains, Italy at the close of 1925 for the time being actually replacing Germany and ranking second to Great Britain in her amount of shipping in hand, 309,578 tons. Holland had increased tonnage in hand by about 30,000 tons, the British Dominions showed a decrease of about 15,000 tons, the United States one of about 23,000 tons while Japan remained practically stationary.

In connection with British and Irish building at the close of 1925, work was suspended on 97,000 tons of the 885,013 tons in hand, at the beginning of the year only about 60,000 tons were in similar case.

GENERAL STATISTICS

In 1925 the output of Great Britain and Ireland comprised about 50 per cent of the world's output of merchant shipping for that year. In 1924 it was 64 per cent, and in 1923 about 40 per cent.

In 1925 Germany supplied 48.5 per cent of the tonnage launched abroad. In 1924 her percentage was 24 per cent of the tonnage launched abroad, and in 1923, 31.8 per cent.

The United States tonnage of 1925 represents 11.5 per cent of the total tonnage launched abroad. In 1924 it represented 17 per cent of the total tonnage launched abroad.

The output of tonnage of vessels fitted with internal combustion engines is steadily increasing. The tonnage of this type of ship launched in 1925 amounted to 849,629 tons; the 1924 tonnage amounted to 501,798 tons, and the 1923 one to 226,000 tons. The 1925 total of 849,629 tons represents about 65 per cent of the world output of steam tonnage for that year, the 1924 percentage was 29.5.

The tonnage of motor ships building in the world at the beginning of 1926 almost equals the steam tonnage under construction, a year ago, motor ship tonnage under construction only comprised 60 per cent of the steam tonnage in hand.

In June 1914 the total world gross tonnage of sea going steel and iron steamers and motor ships amounted to 42,514,000 tons, in June 1925 to 58,785,000 tons; an increase of over 16,000,000 tons.

Tanker tonnage has increased from 1,479,000 tons in 1914 to 5,384,290 tons in 1925; and motor ship tonnage from 234,000 tons in 1914 to about 2,750,000 tons in 1925.

In March 1925, about 5½ million gross tons of world merchant shipping were laid up, United States tonnage accounting for more than three-fourths of the total.

In March 1925, 604,000 gross tons of merchant shipping were laid up in Great Britain and Ireland, at the close of the year, the total had reached 919,000 gross tons.

On July 1, 1925, American shipyards were building or under contract to build for private shipowners 157 steel vessels of 174,724 gross tons and 30 wood vessels of 10,930 gross tons.

NATIONALITY OF CREWS, 1924 AND 1925

The table here given shows the nationality of the officers (excluding masters) and men shipped and re-shipped before shipping commissioners, during the American fiscal years 1924 and 1925:—

COMPARISON OF OPERATIONS, 1924 AND 1925

	1924	1925

It will be seen that the 1925 gross revenue showed an increase over the 1924 one of $1,063,663.71, and the operating expenses of 1925 over those of 1924 an increase of $570,836.84.

The total deficit from operation in 1925 was $492,826.87 less than in 1924, and $916,239 less than in 1923. During the years 1923, 1924 and 1925, there has been a steady decline in the operating deficits of the Canadian Government Merchant Marine.

As an indication of the value of the fleet to Canadian exporters and importers, the following figures showing tonnages handled during the year 1925 are of interest. They include freight in transit on December 31.

	Tons	Value
Export traffic.....	820,437	$113,250,847.95

Total.....	1,253,556	$170,918,113.42

The company continues to work in close co-operation with the Canadian National Railways, and business is being increasingly developed to the mutual advantage of both companies.

TRADE ROUTES

The West Indies passenger service, established at the request of the Government, in compliance with the Canada-West Indies Trade Agreement, still continues, as was originally anticipated, to be operated at a loss with the steamers, Canadian Fisher and Canadian Forester. The loss in operation for 1925 was reduced to approximately $136,915, of which amount $34,228 is recoverable from the islands served under the terms of the Trade Agreement. The amount of this loss is included in the total deficit shown in the income account. While this loss has been reduced year by year, it is becoming increasingly difficult to make any better showing because the above two vessels are not suitable for the service.

With the continued operation of services to Australia, New Zealand and to Newfoundland the Dominion Government has saved the subsidies formerly paid of $140,000 and $16,500 respectively.

REPORT OF V. F. W. FORNERET, B.A. Sc., M.E.I.C., SUPERINTENDING ENGINEER

The River St. Lawrence Ship Channel commences at the lower outlet of the Lachine canal (Lock No. 1) and extends down to Father Point, a distance of 340 statute miles.

What may be properly called "Ship Channel", the contracted part of the river, commences at "The Traverse", 60 miles below Quebec, which is 220 miles from Montreal by way of the South channel and by way of the North channel (incompleted) 226 miles, Montreal to Goose cape.

This is divided into five divisions as follows:—

	South Channel	North Channel
	Statute Miles	Statute Miles
Division I: Montreal to Sorel.....	45	45
Division II: Sorel to Batiscan (not including Lake St. Peter).....	36	36
Division III: Lake St. Peter.....	20	20
Division IV: Batiscan to Quebec.....	59	59
Division V: Quebec to the Traverse.....	60	..
Division V: Quebec to Goose Cape.....	..	66
Grand total.....	220	226

Between Montreal and Quebec.—The completed channel has a minimum width of 450 feet and on curves from 500 to 800 feet.

Below Quebec.—The completed channel has a minimum width of 1,000 feet.

DREDGING, SEASON 1925

The department having decided to carry on the dredging operations on the river St. Lawrence on a more extensive scale in order to expedite the work of deepening the channel, more dredges were put into commission and the whole dredging fleet was operated day and night (24 hours) with day and night crews in order to obtain as much work as possible with the available plant. This consisted of 8 elevator dredges (working day and night) and attending plant, 1 rock breaker, 1 stone lifter, 1 sweeping steamer and 1 sweeping scow.

Cap a la Roche.—One powerful elevator dredge was employed all the season of 1925 deepening and widening the channel to 30 feet at extreme low water of 1897. This dredge was operated night and day. The rock breaker was also employed in breaking the rock, and a stone lifter was kept employed all season clearing the channel of large stones and boulders left by the dredges and located by the sweeping steamer, sweeping to 30 feet E.L.W.

A new steel elevator dredge is now being built specially for work at Cap à la Roche, at the Government Shipyard at Sorel, and is nearing completion. It is expected to be ready for work early next season. With the addition of the dredge, it is hoped that better progress will be made.

The total number of cubic yards dredged during the season of 1925 amounted to 47,450 at a total cost of $63,314.41, or $1.33⁴³/₁₀₀ per cubic yard.

Champlain Channel.—The usual examination was made by the steamer Detector in the spring, and it was found that very little filling in had occurred. It did not take long for a dredge to clean these sand bars to 30 feet E.L.W. before the low water season.

The total number of cubic yards dredged amounted to 53,400 at a cost of \$28,863, or $54^{\frac{5}{100}}$ cents per cubic yard.

Three Rivers.—One elevator dredge worked here during part of the season, deepening the channel to 35 feet at extreme low water. The material was very difficult to remove, consisting of mostly stones and large boulders embedded in sand or gravel with some clay.

The total number of cubic yards dredged amounted to 27,760 at a total cost of \$60,373.13, or $217^{\frac{48}{100}}$ cents per cubic yard.

Lake St. Peter (Nicolet Traverse).—A large powerful elevator dredge was laid out to work on Nicolet traverse to deepen the channel to 35 feet at extreme low water and widen the channel from 350 to 450 feet. The material to be removed consisted of clay, sand, stones and a few boulders.

The total number of cubic yards dredged amounted to 106,260 at a total cost of \$27,147.60, or $25^{\frac{54}{100}}$ cents per cubic yard.

Ile au Raisin Course.—One dredge was operated here for part of season deepening the channel to 35 feet E.L.W. and widening the channel. The material consisted of clay.

The total number of cubic yards dredged amounted to 120,400 at a total cost of \$49,347.35, or $40^{\frac{99}{100}}$ cents per cubic yard.

Stone Island.—Four dredges were worked here for short periods during the season, deepening the channel to 35 feet E.L.W.

The total number of cubic yards removed amounted to 147,180 at a total cost of \$52,372.44, or $35^{\frac{58}{100}}$ cents per cubic yard.

Contrecoeur Channel.—Two powerful elevator dredges worked on the Contrecoeur channel for part of the season and completed the deepening of the channel to 35 feet at extreme low water.

The total number of cubic yards dredged amounted to 247,040 at a total cost of \$67,070.68, or $27^{\frac{15}{100}}$ cents per cubic yard.

Vercheres Traverse.—Two dredges were employed part of the season deepening to 35 feet at E.L.W. and completed it. The material dredged consisted of clay.

The total number of cubic yards removed was 90,720 at a total cost of \$22,848.90, or $25^{\frac{18}{100}}$ cents per cubic yard.

Cap St. Michel to Vercheres Channel.—One dredge worked on this channel for a short period, deepening to 35 feet at E.L.W. The dredged material consisted of clay.

This channel was completed to 35 feet E.L.W.

The total number of cubic yards removed amounted to 8,500 at a total cost of \$2,508.36, or $29^{\frac{51}{100}}$ cents per cubic yard.

Cap St. Michel Curve.—One powerful dredge worked for a good part of the season deepening the channel to 35 feet at extreme low water and completed it. The material removed consisted of clay.

The total number of cubic yards dredged amounted to 176,500, at a total cost of \$53,207.16, or $30^{\frac{15}{100}}$ cents per cubic yard.

Varennnes Curve.—Three dredges were laid out on the Varennes curve for short periods, dredging to 35 feet at E.L.W. and completed it. The material being clay, sand and stones.

The total number of cubic yards removed amounted to 305,310 at a total cost of \$96,897.18, or $317^{\frac{3}{100}}$ cents per cubic yard.

Ile Ste. Marie Channel.—Three dredges worked on this channel for part of the season deepening to 35 feet at E.L.W., the material being of clay, stones and boulders. Very little is left to complete this channel.

The total amount of dredging done was 344,700 cubic yards at a total cost of \$81,880.19, or $23^{\frac{75}{100}}$ cents per cubic yard.

Pointe aux Trembles Channel.—One dredge worked for a short period and completed Pointe aux Trembles channel to 35 feet E.L.W. depth.

The total number of cubic yards dredged amounted to 16,500 cubic yards at a total cost of $20,358.44, or $1.23³⁸/₁₀₀ cents per cubic yard.

Longue Pointe Curve.—Two powerful dredges worked on Longue Pointe curve for most of the season deepening the channel to 35 feet at E.L.W. and widening the curve from 500 to 650 feet.

The material dredged was exceedingly hard, consisting of hard pan, stones, boulders and some solid shale rock.

The total number of cubic yards removed amounted to 221,425 cubic yards at a total cost of $154,119.57, or 69⁶⁰/₁₀₀ cents per cubic yard.

North Channel (below Quebec).—The powerful new elevator dredge No. 16 was operated all season in the North channel, working day and night like the dredges above Quebec, dredging to a depth of 35 feet at extreme low tide and 500 feet in width.

Next season it is hoped that dredge No. 8, which is being converted into an elevator dredge, will be ready to be placed in commission. With this additional dredge and both working with day and night shifts, the dredging operations of the North channel will be greatly expedited.

The number of cubic yards dredged amounted to 841,625 at a total cost of $216,346.01, or 25⁷¹/₁₀₀ cents per cubic yard.

The material dredged consisted of sand, gravel, clay and stones.

The total number of cubic yards dredged by the whole fleet of dredges above and below Quebec during the season of 1925 amounted to 2,754,770 at a total cost of $996,554.42, or 36¹⁸/₁₀₀ cents per cubic yard.

Total number of cubic yards dredged.....	44,763,231
Total number of cubic yards yet to be dredged.....	28,594,380

The total cost from 1851 to the end of the fiscal year ending March 31, 1926, of the St. Lawrence Ship Channel from Montreal to Father Point, including plant, shops, surveys, etc., is as follows:—

Dredging.....	$18,431,238 08
Plant, shops, surveys, etc.....	10,868,660 94

Grand total..... $29,299,899 02

The total number of cubic yards dredged in the river St. Lawrence Ship Channel from 1851 to the end of the season of 1925, amounted to 125,571,723, the material varying from very hard shale rock to soft blue clay.

SWEEPING OPERATIONS

The annual sweeping of the St. Lawrence Ship Channel was made by the sweeping steamer Detector and no obstruction of a serious nature was found. The usual sand bars were found to have formed at the foot of Champlain channel but the silting was less than usual, which was cleaned up by a dredge in a short time before the low water period.

A considerable amount of proving of dredging was done at 35 feet at extreme low water of 1897 between Three Rivers and Montreal. Some proving was also done below Quebec.

TIDAL SEMAPHORES

Cap à la Roche.—The tidal semaphore at Cap à la Roche (Deschaillons, P.Q.) situated on the south shore of the St. Lawrence river, which shows the available depth of water in the dredged channel, was put in operation on April 23, 1925. The tidal semaphore at Point Citrouille on the north shore, 10½ miles above Cap à la Roche, was put in operation the same day.

These two semaphores are connected by special telephone line to enable the operator at Cap à la Roche to telephone the operator at Pointe Citrouille every three inches rise or fall of the tide, as the case may be. The latter shows the depth in feet by large figures and inches by small semaphores.

The semaphore at Pointe Citrouille enables the pilot of a deep draught vessel outward bound to judge if there is sufficient depth of water in the dredged channel at Cap à la Roche to pass in safety. If not, it gives sufficient time to get ready to anchor below Pointe Citrouille where there is a good anchorage ground and where he waits for the tide to rise sufficiently to enable him to pass at Cap à la Roche.

St. Nicholas.—The tidal semaphore at St. Nicholas point, on the south shore of St. Lawrence river, which shows the depth of water available in the undredged channel over St. Augustin bar, commenced operations April 23, 1925.

Crane Island.—On recommendation made to the department by the Shipping Federation of Canada, it was decided to establish a tidal semaphore on Crane Island wharf to show the depth available in the dredged channel in Beaujeu channel and St. Thomas channel.

The lighthouse on the wharf at Crane island was fitted with arms to show similar signals as shown by the Cap à la Roche and St. Nicholas semaphores.

This semaphore was ready and commenced operations on July 28, 1925, and gave entire satisfaction for the remainder of the season.

DEPTH OF WATER IN THE ST. LAWRENCE SHIP CANAL, SEASON 1925

The following monthly averages taken from the Sorel gauge during the season of navigation, for certain years, go to show that they compare very well with the 1925 monthly averages:—

1925....	5	3	3	9	2	5	1	9	1	0	1	3	1	11	13	4	0	2

During the season of 1925 the water level was low only during the months of September and October as compared with season of 1924; this was caused by the very dry spell during that period.

All gauge readings are reduced to the same datum, viz., extreme low water of 1897.

If one wishes to find out what would be the depth of water in the 30-foot channel, they have only to add 30 feet to the average monthly readings.

ICE-BREAKING, 1925-1926

REPORT OF N. B. MCLEAN, ENGINEER, RIVER ST. LAWRENCE SHIP CHANNEL, ON THE WORK OF THE ICE-BREAKING STEAMERS "LADY GREY" AND "MIKULA" DURING THE WINTER OF 1925-1926.

The winter season of 1925-26 was not especially severe, but was unusually long, the cold weather beginning about the end of November and continuing until the end of April. The ice blocked in the Sorel islands, December 26; at Three Rivers and Port St. Francis, December 29; and by December 30 had backed up to Montreal. During the winter several minor ice jams occurred at Quebec bridge and one at Portneuf, which were easily dealt with by the ice-breakers. A serious jam formed at Portneuf on February 10 and eventually worked back from this point to Cap Madeleine.

The Lady Grey went on ice patrol at the foot of lake St. Peter about the end of November. No difficulty was experienced in getting all the vessels through, the last ship being escorted to Quebec on December 10.

On December 5 the ss. Airdale, outward bound, went ashore at the lower end of Ile aux Coudres. The Mikula and Lady Grey were sent down on December 11 to render any assistance possible. Two days later, December 13, the Airdale wrecking steamer Lord Strathcona, lighters Gaspesia and Miron L, the tug Busy Bee as well as Lightship No. 23 were escorted through the ice to Quebec by the Mikula, Lady Grey and Bellechasse. The Airdale was immediately docked, underwent temporary repairs, and on December 19 proceeded to sea accompanied by the Mikula. Had ice-breakers not been available it is unlikely that this vessel could have been salvaged.

The Three Rivers-St. Angele ferry steamer became caught in the ice at the latter place, and on December 19, the Lady Grey went up and released her, returning to Quebec the next day.

No great difficulty was experienced by the ice-breakers up to the formation of the Portneuf jam on February 10. The Mikula attacked this jam the next day, February 11, and by February 14 had cut through to open water at the foot of the Richelieu rapids, breaking all records by several days for a jam at this point. In the meantime, however, the ice had been backing up above and eventually reached Cap Madeleine. Ice-breaking operations were continued, and by March 1 Three Rivers was reached, with a wide channel everywhere below.

From March 6 to 16 the Mikula was absent on a trip to various points on the north shore. During this time ice-breaking was discontinued above, the Lady Grey remaining at Quebec so as to be able to take care of any jams that might form.

After the return of the Mikula from the north shore the Lady Grey was employed widening above from March 18 to 22. On March 23 the Mikula began opening the channel above Three Rivers, with the Lady Grey widening behind her. By March 31, the cut had been pushed to the head of No. 1 Curve at the upper end of lake St. Peter. No work was done beyond this point, as the Mikula was withdrawn to get ready for patrol work in the gulf and left Quebec for this service April 12.

Never before, since the ice operations had been undertaken, had the work of the ice-breakers been so far advanced or the channel in such satisfactory condition. On the other hand the weather had not been so cold in April for years, nor had the lake ice been so heavy, there being immense areas of packed ice from 4 to 8 feet in thickness.

The Lady Grey alone was not able to do much apart from widening at the lower end of the lake, as it was not safe to send her far up owing to the danger of the ice moving and the vessel being caught.

On April 25 the lake ice moved. The Lady Grey worked steadily keeping it on the run, but owing to the large areas of very heavy ice, it was not until May 1 that the lake was finally clear and she succeeded in getting through to Sorel. On this date the river was clear from Montreal to Quebec.

The Lady Grey proceeded to Montreal and Lachine on May 2, and the next day began the work of breaking up the usual heavy bank of frazil at the foot of the Soulanges canal. By May 5 she had cleared the channel enough to allow vessels to pass up and down, and by the 8th the work was completed and the ice-breaking operations brought to a close for the season.

METEOROLOGICAL SERVICE

REPORT OF SIR FREDERIC STUPART, DIRECTOR

During the past year, reports from 793 observing stations have been received at the Central Office, Toronto, being an increase of six over the previous year.

At 376 of these stations the observer is paid a small salary, ranging from $12 per annum to as much as $2,400 at a chief station.

Also there are 104 storm signal display stations, at which the agent is either paid $75 or $100 per annum, according to the length of the season of navigation.

At 411 of the observing stations the work is performed gratuitously and it is worthy of note that from the inception of this service, the major portion of climatic data obtained and utilized for the benefit of the country have been furnished by voluntary observers.

THE CENTRAL OFFICE

The staff of the Central Office has been increased by one, a machinist's boy has been taken on in the workshop.

The Canadian Service continues to issue storm warnings and daily forecasts to Newfoundland and each month sees an expansion in the dissemination of the Canadian forecasts. Of the daily forecasts issued 88.5 per cent were verified, and of storm warnings 87.9 per cent.

The work at the Central Office includes weather forecasting, atmospheric physics, climatology, agricultural meteorology, terrestrial magnetism and astronomy. This current season in British Columbia, the western provinces and Ontario, this service is endeavouring to perfect a system of forest fire weather forecasting—this in co-operation with the Dominion and Provincial Forestry Departments, where officials supply data to the Central Office: Also the fruit-growing interest in British Columbia, Ontario and the Maritime Provinces are now furnished with the special forecasts covering three or four days to assist them in spraying operations and we are assured that these forecasts are of very great value.

Climatology.—The publication has been continued of the Monthly Record of Meteorological Observations and of the Monthly Map. The former consists of 83 pages monthly, giving observations in detail for some 550 stations. The latter in its new form, gives a graphical summary of the preceding month's weather, together with remarks from correspondents in all provinces upon the progress of farm operations and is published at the end of the first week of the following month. This year by means of wireless reports the scope of the map has been enlarged to take in part of the Mackenzie Valley and the Yukon.

During the year a great number of statements of weather conditions have been issued to railway claims agents, legal firms, engineers, etc. and correspondence regarding climate with farmers, intending settlers, manufacturing firms, physicians and others has been largely increased.

Assistance has been given to various departments of provincial and federal governments in preparing year books and other brochures where questions of climate or weather were involved.

Phenological observations from most parts of Canada have been collected during the year and an analysis of them will be published later.

During what time could be spared from the routine as outlined some research work on the influence of weather on crop production and on the probability of seasonal forecasting has been carried on.

It is hoped that a report on the temperature, precipitation and other climatic features of the province of Ontario, will be published within the year. The prolonged illness of one of the climatologists has greatly retarded the work of his branch.

During the year 221 volumes and 150 periodicals were received: Of the Toronto Year Book 1923, 200 copies were sent out. Each day 472 printed weather maps have been sent out, each month 758 copies of the monthly weather map have been distributed. The Monthly Record of Meteorological Observations has been forwarded to 668 institutions and individuals; numerous pamphlets were received for the library.

ATMOSPHERIC PHYSICS.

Upper Air Investigation.—Pilot balloons for determining the direction and velocity of the wind in the upper air were released from Toronto on 235 days and occasionally from High River, Alta., Cormorant Lake and Victoria Beach, Man., and Camp Borden, Ont. They were also used by the artillery during gun practice at Halifax, N.S. The longest flight at Toronto this year lasted 62 minutes, but on this day there was very little wind. It shifted from South at the surface to northwest at a height of 5,000 feet and then gradually changed back until at a height of 12,500 feet it was Southwest where it remained for the rest of the flight. The highest velocity was 32 miles per hour at a height of 30,000 feet.

The International Commission for the exploration of the upper air designated 21 days (April 14-16, "2 each day"; August 17-22; December 14-19, 1925; January 11-16, 1926), for exploring the atmosphere with balloons carrying instruments which give a continuous record of the pressure and temperature of the air at all heights reached. 24 balloons were sent up from Woodstock, Ont., and 18 from Calgary, Alta., but the recoveries were very poor and so far only 18 have been found, some of them 5 months after being sent up; the records, however, were still legible. The stratosphere, the region of uniform or slightly rising temperature, was reached on 12 occasions. The lowest temperature recorded was -84°F. at a height of 9 miles on April 15, 1925, at Calgary, and the highest ascent occurred on August 17, at Calgary, when a height of 12 miles was reached.

Considerable investigation and improvement in the instruments have been made during the past year. Last year an automatic device for lifting the pen off the record as soon or shortly after the balloon reached the ground was tried. It consisted in wetting a string with a weak solution of sulphuric acid and then in the course of a few hours the acid destroyed the string and released the pen. Sometimes it worked, especially if the weather was dry and warm but at other times it did not work and so was discarded for a device whereby the pen is lifted from the record just before the instrument reaches the ground by means of a trip worked by the aneroid barometer on the instrument. When the pen is allowed to remain on the record until it is found, the beginning of the record is completely lost so that it is not possible to check the calibration with the standard instruments.

The new balloon forms made by the Canadian Porcelain Company of Canada have been tried out and are proving to be much superior to the older forms. To still further improve the balloons, experiments are being made to obtain the best method of making them.

Sea Water Temperatures.—Three of the Pacific boats have been equipped with the mercurial thermographs that give a continuous record of the temperature of the water at the intake to the condensers. Two of the instruments have a range of 50°F., 35° to 85°, and can thus be read to less than 0.5°. They are proving very satisfactory and are now being tried by other Countries. The normals of the temperatures obtained for the last twelve years by the engineers on the Pacific boats are being prepared for every 5° squares.

Earth Temperatures.—Daily readings to 0.1°F. of thermometers at eight depths—Surface, 4", 10", 20", 40", 66", 9' and 15', were taken throughout the year. The minimum and maximum temperatures at each of the depths and the dates on which they occurred are given in the table.

A similar set of instruments is being prepared for Manitoba and will be installed near Winnipeg during the coming summer.

Evaporation.—Observations were taken at Toronto, Ont., and Winnipeg, Man., from April to September of the amount of water evaporated from a surface about 6' square. The greatest amount evaporated in one day was 0.28" on June 9 at Toronto and 0.26" on July 16 at Winnipeg.

Atmospheric Dust.—Observations on the amount of dust in the air at the Meteorological Office, Toronto, were taken on the days selected by the International Committee.

Solar Radiation.—The amount of heat received from the sun was measured with an Angstrom Pyrheliometer on all days sufficiently clear for that purpose. The highest reading occurred on April 20, 1925, when the heat recorded per minute on a square foot of surface perpendicular to the sun was sufficient to heat 5.6 pounds of water 1°.

Wind Instruments.—Either a metal sheet of suitable size or else two of them in the form of a wedge have been almost universally employed for wind vanes to indicate the direction of the wind but the advent of the aeroplane, and the new knowledge obtained of the behaviour of the air on surfaces, have suggested that a stream line form of a vane, like a section of the top surface of an aeroplane wing, might be more efficient and tests that have been carried out at the aerodynamic laboratory of the University of Toronto on the wedge or splayed vane as it is commonly called and a stream lined vane have shown that the latter is about three or four times as sensitive as the former. The stream lined vane has the additional advantage that it is much steadier in gusts than the older form. This form has in consequence been adopted as the standard form for the wind vane.

A new combined anemometer and wind vane has been designed, which has simplified and reduced the size of the first lot that were made and fifty of them are being constructed at a cost of approximately $55 each, as against $120 for the old type.

The anemograph has also been redesigned and five of the new type are now in use, giving good satisfaction. It is intended to still further simplify the design and thus improve the instrument.

TERRESTRIAL MAGNETISM

Continuous photographic records of the magnetic elements were obtained at the Agincourt Observatory during the fiscal year, with only a few hours loss owing to breaking of clock cord. At Meanook continuous photographic records were secured except during the month of September when building of an underground chamber in which to instal the photographic instruments was under way. During the winter months the daily temperature range was about 3 degrees and loss of record owing to stoppage of driving mechanism by the cold was completely overcome.

Large magnetic disturbances were of frequent occurrence, averaging three a month throughout the year. The most noteworthy were recorded on October 22, 23 and 24, January 26, 27 and 28 and February 24 and 25. During each of these storms the magnets were continuously disturbed for much longer periods than usual and the departures from normal were excessive, particularly in the January and February ones, when the range in declination exceeded 2 degrees at Agincourt and 3 degrees at Meanook.

Absolute observations were made as usual throughout the year at both observatories.

Tables showing the magnetic character of the day for Greenwich civil time were prepared and forwarded quarterly to the International Commission on Terrestrial Magnetism. The "selected" days of the commission are used in the analysis of magnetic data for our annual Magnetic Report, in conformity with that of other magnetic observations throughout the world.

At the request of the Surveyor General index corrections for compasses attached to (36) thirty-six surveyors theodolites were determined and the results forwarded to him. Assistance was given to members of his staff in determining the constants of their total force field instruments both before and after their field work.

A special report on the daily variations of the Declination Horizontal Force and Vertical Force for the year 1920 Greenwich civil time was prepared for Dr. Mitchell, Reporter to the Executive Committee of the Section of Terrestrial Magnetism, International Geodetic and Geophysical Union, in connection with his inquiry as to the best method to be used in arriving at a suitable measure of magnetic activity.

Assistance was also given to members of the staff of the Dominion Observatory in standardizing their magneto-meters both before and after their summer field work.

The accompanying tables give a summary of the results obtained at Agincourt and Meanook during the fiscal year 1925-26.

ASTRONOMY

During the year ended March 31, 1926 one hundred and twenty (120) observations for the determination of correct time were made by meridian transits of stars with the 3-inch Troughton and Simms transit instrument. The positions of stars used were those of the British Nautical Almanac or the American Ephemeris. The instrumental constants were controlled by observations of suitable sets of stars about once a month.

Correct time has been furnished to all enquirers over telegraph and telephone and the demand for this service is continually increasing. The usual 11.55 a.m. signal is given daily over the fire alarm system of the city of Toronto, and once a week time is telegraphed to Agincourt Observatory to control the error and rate of their master clock.

During the fall an insulating wall, ceiling and floor was built about the clocks, and the temperature variation is now kept within narrow limits in the clock compartment, resulting in much better control of the errors and rates of clocks and chronometers.

Time exchanges were made with Montreal, Quebec and St. John, N.B. on eleven occasions, with the results shown in the following table.

Observations of sunspots have been continued throughout the year, the sun being observed on 160 days, and on only 20 days was the sun free of spots. The mean relative numbers for the months of the civil year from these observations using Wolf's formula are as follows: January, 4.6; February, 22.2; March, 13.4; April, 25.6; May, 49.2; June, 49.5; July, 37.8; August, 35.3; September, 70.8; October, 88.6; November, 64.2; December, 125.1; yearly mean, 48.8, an increase of 31.8 over the previous year.

An increasing number of requests are being received from all kinds of organizations for permission to view the heavens through the equatorial telescope and as far as possible these requests have been granted.

SEISMOLOGY

The Milne-Shaw seismographs were continued in operation through the year with little loss of traces. The constants have been kept at the usual standards. The calibrating apparatus which had been working very unsatisfactorily, has been replaced by a new device furnished by the maker, which works better than the old one. A minute eclipse of the light has been introduced instead of a two minute one. This gives a much closer degree of accuracy in measuring the various earthquake phases.

The records for the year deal with 318 earthquakes, the large majority of which were small records of distant shocks. Following are the dates of the most prominent recorded: April 11, 16 (Japan), 27; May 3, 5; June 9, 14, 27 (Montana); 29 (Santa Barbara, which caused heavy destruction); February 8 (Costa Rica); March 17 (north of Colombia, submarine); 21 (Asia Minor).

We continue to forward monthly bulletins to a number of seismological stations throughout the world, which are much appreciated, and by requisition had to increase the number lately by twenty-five. We also publish the measurements both of Toronto and Victoria, B.C., in the Monthly Weather Review commencing January 1, 1925. Bromide copies are sent by request of important records to various seismological centres, and the Associated Press and the Toronto papers are furnished with information giving the times of the various phases of large earthquakes, distance and direction when possible, as soon the the records are developed. Correlation of important microseisms with meteorological phenomena has at times been carried out by an examination of the daily weather map. The tabulation of the records are now fairly well up to date.

APPENDIX "A"

The Director of the Quebec Observatory reports as follows:—

The usual meteorological observations have been taken daily without interruption, and the results of the 8 a.m. and 8 p.m. observations were telegraphed promptly to the Central Office in Toronto.

Inquiries respecting the weather conditions were very numerous, and special reports were furnished to the public through the newspapers and otherwise.

Statements and extracts from the records of the observatory were prepared for engineers and other persons, also for members of the legal profession in cases where such information was required.

Barometers and thermometers were compared with our standards and several chronometers and sidereal watches were rated for mariners and land surveyors.

The daily rate of the clocks was obtained by observations of stars and also of the sun.

Time signals were given every day for the noon gun and the time ball has been in operation during the whole navigation season which opened on April 20 and closed on December 10.

The Superintendent of the Experimental Farm, Cap Rouge, having had some difficulty with his registering thermometers, I was requested to visit that station, which I did on May 9. I have given to the person in charge the necessary directions so as to avoid the instruments being shaken by the strong winds, as this appeared to be the source of their troubles.

As per instructions received from your office, I went on board the C.G.S. Arctic several days before her departure for her annual northern cruise, when I gave the necessary instructions to Mr. G. P. Mackenzie, the official in charge of the scientific expedition, with regard to the meteorological observations and placed the instruments in proper positions. I have also given instructions to the staff of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police who were to be stationed at Ellsmere Land and Pagnirtung posts.

Upon arrival of the C.G.S. Arctic in the fall the meteorological instruments were returned to me by Mr. Mackenzie to be stored at the observatory.

On June 9 I had the honour of receiving the visit of Sir Frederic Stupart, Director of the Meteorological Service of Canada.

APPENDIX "B"

The Director of the St. John, N.B., Observatory reports as follows:—

METEOROLOGICAL SERVICE

Throughout the past year the usual meteorological observations have been continued without interruption. Eye readings of the standard instruments made tri-daily serve to check the continuous records of barometric pressure, temperature of the air, humidity, rainfall, direction and velocity of the winds and bright sunshine, from these automatic recording instruments hourly values have been abstracted as formerly reported.

The monthly reports received from all observing stations in the Maritime Provinces have been checked, summed and meaned and copies of all climatic records are kept in our abstract books for ready reference previous to forwarding.

Annual supplies for the various maritime stations have been packed and forwarded. As time and opportunity permitted some stations were visited and inspected. A new wind station at Point de Bute, Westmorland county, N.B., was completed last December, the anemometer and vane installed on a small tower, erected for the purpose, on an outbuilding at Prospect Farm and connected by cable with the anemograph in Mr. Trueman's house. The exposure is a good one and should prove satisfactory for the purpose intended.

The combined three cup anemometer and wind vane installed in November, 1924, continues to give most satisfactory results.

WEATHER BULLETIN

The morning weather bulletin record by wire from the Central Office at Toronto has been printed, published and posted as previously reported. In addition to this a daily and monthly summary is published by the press as well as reports on unusual weather conditions.

During the past year there has been a decided increase in the requests for statements of weather conditions from engineers, claim agents, shipping and transportation companies, the legal profession and others. Frequently these tabulated statements cause delay to our routine clerical work. Telephone calls for the time forecasts and other information continue to increase.

Comparisons of instruments for many purposes have been made with the observatory standards.

The Toronto weather forecasts are broadcast from Canadian National Railway broadcasting station at Moncton each week-day afternoon as well as on Tuesday and Friday nights, by this means many points in the Maritime Provinces are served which would otherwise not have the advantage of the forecasts.

TIME SERVICE

Star observations for determination of errors and rates of the sidereal clocks have been made on clear nights with the 3-inch Troughton and Simms transit telescope. The transit micrometer method has been used entirely, the observations and clock comparisons being recorded on the chronograph as formerly reported.

The time balls at St. John and Halifax have been dropped at one o'clock Atlantic standard time. Under my supervision the master clock in Halifax was cleaned and adjusted in October. It is daily corrected by the synchronizing signal from the standard mean time clock at St. John and through wire connections automatically releases the time ball on the Citadel, fires the time gun and hourly corrects clocks locally in Halifax.

In connection with the electric time service, two loop lines go to the Western Union Telegraph Company's office, one line extending to the time ball on Customs building, one loop to the Canadian Pacific Railway Telegraph office and another to the New Brunswick Telephone Company's office. These wires and their connections serve the purpose of daily disseminating our time signals throughout the Maritime Provinces for dropping the time balls, synchronizing clocks and broadcasting each week morning from the wireless station at Camperdown and on Tuesday and Friday nights from the Canadian Northern Railway wireless at Moncton.

The various clocks of precision in the observatory continue to perform their duties in a most satisfactory manner.

The so-called daylight saving time was adopted in St. John and Halifax but all our observing as well as time signals are made on Atlantic standard time.

APPENDIX "C"

The director of the Gonzales Heights Observatory, Victoria, B.C., reports as follows:—

During the past year the regular observations have been taken and daily weather forecasts issued for the following districts: Victoria, Nanaimo, the Lower Mainland, Kamloops, Okanagan, and Kootenay.

At 10 p.m. daily a special summary of the weather and forecast of the winds is sent out through this office by the Dom. Radió station at Gonzales to Estevan where it is broadcasted to shipping within a radius of 3,000 miles. This information covers the coast region from Alaska to California, and the positions and future courses of severe ocean storms are also given.

Preceding and during the great Fraser river flood of last May river level forecasts were issued to the public and the Provincial Department of Dyking.

From November, 1925, a special wind and weather forecast has been issued daily from this office for the benefit of small craft including the towing of logging rafts to Vancouver and Victoria. These are issued at 8.20 a.m. and are sent by the Government Radio, Gonzales, to the Merchants' Exchange at Vancouver, where they are broadcasted to the small craft owners who recently have been supplied with radio phone receivers. This service is proving very useful as it informs the towing interests when to remain in sheltered waters and when to make the exposed stretches of water particularly when approaching Vancouver from the north. I am pleased to state that beginning with May 1 last we have started issuing a special daily bulletin for the benefit of the Provincial Forestry Department and during the past season which was an exceptionally dry and dangerous one we were able upon numerous occasions to forecast these dangerous dry periods 36 to 48 hours in advance. This information was also radio broadcasted to the lumber camps and the public in general. This marked improvement has been effected by the daily humidity readings we now receive by wire from some of our special observers and others belonging to the Provincial Forestry Department. It is hoped during the coming forest fire season which may be even more dangerous than the past, to be of even greater benefit than in previous years.

Time Service.—The time ball in the city has been regularly dropped from here daily at 1 p.m. The time guns were fired by signal from here at the military barracks, and twice daily the time was sent from here by radio by our automatic sender to Gonzales where it was relayed to Estevan on the west coast where it was broadcasted to a radius of 3,000 to 4,000 miles. These time signals are also received by numerous receiving sets on land.

The clocks and chronometers are giving perfect satisfaction with small errors and steady rates.

By means of a special radio receiving set constructed by the Dominion Radio Service here we are enabled to receive daily the time signals from Washington, D.C.

During the past year our seismographs have been in constant operation. The total number of earthquakes recorded on them was 219 and 48 per cent of these occurred in the summer months, while the smallest monthly number was 10 in January.

This institution is becoming very favourably known and during the past twelve months our list of visitors and students who have been shown through here has grown to nearly 3,500, while in the previous year it was 2,600.

Special lectures on Meteorology and Seismology have also been given throughout this district.

PILOTAGE REPORT

CAPTAIN G. E. L. ROBERTSON, DIRECTOR PILOTAGE

The Honourable the Minister of Marine and Fisheries is the Pilotage Authority for the Pilotage Districts of Montreal, Quebec, St. John, Halifax, and Sydney, and all matters relating to pilotage in these districts are dealt with through the local Superintendents at the above mentioned places.

DISTRICT OF MONTREAL

There were 47 pilots on the opening of navigation, and 15 apprentice pilots in this district. One pilot, however, died during the season, and one pilot was ill the greater part of the season, leaving 45 pilots, who worked throughout the year. This leaves 46 pilots and 15 apprentice pilots on March 31, 1926.

The gross earnings of all pilots was $249,201.21, as compared with $229,006.51 for 1924, $205,320.71 for 1923, and $227,836.61 for 1922. The average earnings of each pilot was $5,357.68, as compared with $4,872.48 for 1924.

The total number of ships piloted inward was 1,787 of a total net tonnage of 4,919,081, and the total number outward 1744 of a total net tonnage of 4,750,487, making a grand total of 3,531 ships of 9,669,568 net tons, as compared with 3,140 of 9,212,824 net tons in 1924. This is an increase of 391 ships and 456,744 tons.

In this district 5 per cent of the gross earnings of the pilots is deducted for the Pension Fund (Montreal Decayed Pilots' Pension Fund), which fund is administered, without charge, for the Montreal pilots by the Department of Finance.

DISTRICT OF QUEBEC

There were 51 pilots and 14 apprentice pilots in this district at the opening of navigation. Two apprentice pilots received their licenses as pilots, and seven new apprentice pilots were appointed. Two pilots resigned at the close of the season, one pilot disappeared following an accident (presumably drowned), and one pilot died. This leaves 49 pilots and 19 apprentice pilots for the year commencing April 1, 1926.

Of the 53 pilots who were on the roll at various times during the season of navigation, 50 pilots worked the whole season. The total earnings of all pilots was $237,337.71, as compared with $229,051.39 in 1924; $198,295.52 in 1923, and $216,167.35 in 1922. The average earnings of the 50 pilots who were employed all season was $4,578.88, as compared with $4,537.27 in 1924.

The total number of ships piloted inward was 1,697 of a net tonnage of 5,051,827, and the total number outward was 1,596, of a total net tonnage of 5,007,492, making a grand total of 3,293 ships of 10,059,319 net tons, as compared with 3,219 ships of a total net tonnage of 10,504,037 net tons in 1924. This is an increase of 72 ships but a decrease of 444,718 net tons.

In this district 7 per cent of the gross earnings of the pilots is deducted for the Pension Fund. This fund is administered by the Quebec Pilots' Corporation, and amounted on December 31, 1925, to $100,631.49. In addition to the pension received from the Corporation certain retired pilots, 36 in number, received an annual allowance from the Government of $300.

GENERAL—MONTREAL AND QUEBEC

Mr. R. A. Wiallard, Montreal, is the Acting Superintendent for these districts, and Mr. F. J. Boulay, Quebec, the Assistant Superintendent.

All expenses for the pilotage services at Montreal and Quebec are paid out of public funds. This amounted, for the District of Montreal to $10,331.41, and to $52,743.53, for the District of Quebec, the latter including the cost of the maintenance of the pilot boat Jalobert.

The pilot tender Jalobert in addition to the pilotage work also attends to the Quarantine Station, doctors being attached to the ship, allowing of pratique being given to ships, provided there is no contagious disease on board. This does away with delays to ships at Grosse Isle.

The Jalobert also lands the mails for all eastern points; this included 4,365 bags and 1,967 large baskets, and a considerable quantity of loose mail during 1925. The Customs officers are also put on board and taken off the ships. Four services are therefore centralized at Father Point, which means a considerable economy to the Federal Government and satisfaction to shipping.

DISTRICT OF HALIFAX

There are 19 first-class pilots, 1 second-class pilot, and 4 apprentice pilots in this district. The gross earnings for 1925-26 was $95,037.08. The total amount of expense, which includes repayment of loan for building of new pilot boat, the payment of up-keep of the two pilot tenders, and the amount paid into the Superannuation Fund was $28,347.08, leaving a balance to be divided amongst the pilots of $66,690. The average net earnings of each pilot was $3,420.

During the year 1926 one of the pilot tenders was sold, and a new pilot tender built at an approximate cost of $26,000, the money for which was advanced to the pilots by the Pilotage Authority.

ANNUAL REPORT ON SABLE ISLAND

H. F. HENRY, SUPERINTENDENT

During the year two ships were wrecked on island: the Labrador and the Harald Caspar; both came ashore on the south side of the northeast bar. Two ships touched island, the American ship Argosy and the American ship West Cohas; the West Cohas touched island while going to the assistance of the trawler Labrador. The Argosy touched south side northwest bar; after getting off she went to Halifax for survey. The Harald Casper broke completely in two, the bow section sinking into the sand by the head, the other section listed to starboard and sank. The Labrador after coming ashore gradually sank into the sand. Crews of both ships were saved.

Various repairs were done at all stations, such as repairing fences, barns, doors and shingling. Had Main Station horse pound removed to what is known as No. 3 Station; had a new pound built at No. 4 Station. The West light was scraped and two coats of paint put on under the direction of E. R. Morrison of the Halifax Agency of Marine and Fisheries. Six glasses were put in at East light by staff with the assistance of G. Goddard of the Halifax Agency of Marine and Fisheries; the Tast light requires six more glasses renewed; one glass was put in West lighthouse.

At Main Station had inside of cow barn, horse barn, and pig house white-washed, outside of surf boat shed whitewashed, outside of blacksmith shop painted. Painted inside of superintendent's house and staffs house and white-washed outside of Sailors' Home; lifeboats at Main Station and No. 4 Station painted inside and out. At all other stations all barns and sheds whitewashed inside and out and dwellings painted inside.

Life boats, surf boats and beach apparatus in excellent condition.

Farming was carried out as usual by all stations but was a very poor year all over the island. The combined crop last fall was 60 bushels potatoes, 30 bushels turnips, 20 bushels carrots, 10 bushels beets, 5 bushels parsnips. The above was what was left after using vegetables for two months. The cabbage was a failure. The first of year expected a good crop of cranberries but it failed on account of frost and the bogs filling with water before they were ready to pick. Main Station cut and stowed 55 loads of hay in barns; 20 loads of those were fine hay. All other stations filled barns with hay as usual.

Cook McGowan left island during a July gale, taking an island dory and sail. He was picked up and eventually landed on the mainland. Know of no reason why this man left island.

Two riggers came to island to work at the Marconi wireless station. They had the use of Main Station staff and teams when required.

Stock killed during year: 2 bulls, weighing 1,150 pounds; 6 hogs, weighing 920 pounds. Stock on hand: 23 head horned cattle, 36 trained horses, 1 boar and 1 sow; about 100 wild ponies. Three cows remain of those sent on from mainland, one at Main Station, one at No. 2 and one at No. 4. The two bulls sent on from mainland are in excellent condition. One barn horse died during year, age approximately 19 years. No Sable Island wild ponies died during the year.

A keg half full of liquor came ashore on the northeast bar. It is believed to have come from the French trawler Labrador.

The population of Sable Island is now 55, comprising the following:—

REPORT OF A. R. TIBBITS, SUPERVISOR OF HARBOUR COMMISSIONS AND PUBLIC HARBOURS AND HARBOUR MASTERS

There are two types of harbour administration in Canada—one is by officers under the direct jurisdiction of the minister of the department, and the other by commissions of from three to five members, each commission being created by a special Act of Parliament, from which it takes its powers.

In each of the following harbours the personnel of the commission is three members, all appointed by the Governor in Council alone: Montreal, Quebec and Three Rivers in the province of Quebec, and Vancouver, B.C.

The respective personnels of these commissions during the year 1925 follow, with the year of original appointment:—

MONTREAL, P.Q.

President.—Dr. Wilfrid Laurier McDougald, 1922.

Commissioners.—Dr. Milton L. Hersey, B.Sc., M.Sc., LL.D., 1922; Mr. Emilien Daoust, 1922.

QUEBEC, P.Q.

President.—W. Gerard Power, 1922.

Commissioners.—*R. E. Beattie, 1922; Samuel Prenter, 1922.

In the harbours of Toronto, Hamilton, Belleville and Trenton, Ontario, New Westminster and North Fraser, B.C., the Governor in Council appoints part of the membership of three or five as the Act may provide, while the municipal authorities appoint the balance. The respective personnels of these Commissions, with the source of their appointment, follow:—

Commissioners—G. C. Maclean, 1924, G. V. Hastings, 1916, W. P. Brereton, 1916, Wm. Douglas, 1921.

Each Harbour Commission is under the jurisdiction of the Minister of Marine and Fisheries in exercising the powers conferred on it by its Act of incorporation. It appoints the necessary officers and staff, including a harbour master, for carrying on the harbour business, and has power to make by-laws for the regulation of movement of vessels in the harbour, and the various other harbour services, subject to the approval of the Governor in Council, on the recommendation of the minister of the department, and to plan and carry out the development of harbour improvements, subject to the same approval.

In 171 other harbours, an officer known as the harbour master is appointed under the provisions of Part XII of the Canada Shipping Act, who has charge of the harbour and whose duty it is to enforce therein the regulations for the government of public harbours made under the provisions of that Act. He receives his remuneration for his services from the fees levied on vessels using the harbour, provided for by the terms of the Act, and operates under the direct control of the department.

All matters in connection with the affairs of harbour commissions and public harbours and harbour masters, come under the duties performed in the branch of the supervisor of Harbour Commissions.

HARBOUR COMMISSIONS

Summarized details of the reports of the larger harbour commissions will be found, under their own heading, in another section of this publication.

With respect to the operations of the three major harbour commissions: Montreal, Vancouver, and Quebec (whose fiscal year, it should be noted, is from January 1 to December 31—the calendar year—and any statistics quoted here will be for the calendar year) the surplus revenue of the Montreal and Vancouver Harbour Commissioners enabled them to pay the interest due on their debentures held by the Government, and to add a substantial amount to the sinking fund these two commissions have established for the ultimate retirement of such debentures. The Quebec Harbour Commission, although showing a surplus of revenue receipts over expenditures, have not paid any interest on their debenture debt to the Government. They have an outstanding issue of 4 per cent debentures held by the public, of $1,150,000, on which the interest amounting to $46,000, annually, has been paid up to date.

The revenues of the Harbour Commissioners of Montreal show a gross increase of $366,985 for the year in round figures, an increase of about 8 per cent. Their operating expenses and salaries for administration and office expenses, however, show an increase of $384,612 over the previous year, or nearly 18 per cent.

The Vancouver Harbour Commissioners' revenues, on the other hand, show a decrease in the gross of $192,052,—from $1,870,520 in 1924 to $1,678,469 in 1925, about 10 per cent decrease. At the same time their operation costs, salaries and office expense, increased some $4,100 or about .004 per cent over the previous year.

The Quebec Harbour Commissioners' gross revenue for 1925 was about $100 less than the previous year, the figures being $568,533 and $568,627, respectively, while their operation costs, salaries for administrative officers and office expense increased by $87,592 from $351,077 in 1924 to $438,669 in 1925, or an increase of over 20 per cent.

Extenuating circumstances may be found to account for these conditions, but the practice of some economy in domestic administration, and the preparation of, and strict adherence to, a budget of expenditures to be met from revenue in regard to maintenance and operation charges, should be urged upon the different boards of commissioners with firm insistence.

Following, in tabular form, are given comparative statistics of the operations of the three commissions who receive aid in the way of loans from the Government for harbour development, and from whom detailed reports of their year's operations are filed with the department each year. Financial statements showing receipts and expenditures of revenue, with reports of tonnage in and out of the harbour, and other details of the commissioners' activities, are submitted annually by each of the other harbour commissions listed above, with the exception of that administering Toronto harbour, where, although the department has made repeated requests for same each year, no financial statements showing in a comprehensive manner the financial position of the harbour, have been received from the commissioners in some years:—

Of the smaller ports, the report of the commission administering the harbour of Three Rivers, P.Q., shows a most creditable condition of affairs existing in that harbour. In 1923 the old Act constituting a commission for administering Three Rivers harbour, which was passed in 1882, was repealed and a new Act providing for a commission of three members to be appointed by the Governor in Council and increasing the powers conferred on the commissioners over those of the old Act, was passed. The personnel of the commission as constituted under this Act is before recorded, and service is in an honorary capacity, no salary being attached to the office. Under this commission, the harbour services have been reorganized, a new local executive has been appointed, and, as a result of better management and increased clerical efficiency, more revenue has been collected and the harbour facilities have been repaired and more efficiently maintained, and there has been a growing increase in the business of the harbour.

The commission does not receive aid from the Government in the way of loans for the construction of harbour works, but they have issued debentures to obtain funds for this purpose, which have been sold to the Public to the extent of $227,500. The interest on these debentures has been regularly met out of the revenues of the harbour and a substantial sinking fund has been set aside for redemption of the debentures at their maturity in the year 1944.

The other smaller harbour commissions, listed above, all show revenue receipts in excess of expenditure, although the business of these harbours is small. The commission form of administration would appear to operate satisfactorily as no complaints have been received from the interests using the harbour.

Legislation is proposed during the present session of Parliament to establish authority for the creation of a harbour commission, to be known as the Chicoutimi Harbour Commission, to administer the area of the waters of the Saguenay river fronting on Chicoutimi and Ha Ha bay, owing to the increase in the development of ocean shipping in this region due to the immense industrial developments now under way there and where it is anticipated a large important harbour will be developed.

PUBLIC HARBOURS AND HARBOUR MASTERS

Outside the harbours that are under a commission form of administration, there are a few important harbours administered under special form of legislation, and which do not come under the provisions of Part XII of the Canada Shipping Act. In this class are the harbours of St. John, N.B., and Halifax, N.S.

In the former, a portion of the waters of the harbour on which the old city of St. John, or St. John East fronts are within the limits of the city boundaries as defined by the charter granted the old city of St. John by King George III, and this portion of the harbour is administered by the city government, who appoint the harbour master and the other officers controlling harbour activities. The developments at West St. John, on the west side of the harbour, are directly under the administration of the department.

In Halifax, the harbour authority is the harbour master appointed by the Governor in Council under the authority of a special Act, this being chapter 42 of the statutes of 1872, entitled an Act for the appointment of a harbour master for the port of Halifax, and amended by chapter 49 of the statutes of 1882 and chapter 78 of the statutes of 1885. This Act, in addition to the provision for the appointment of a harbour master, provides for the making of regulations by the Governor in Council defining the powers and duties of the harbour master and fixes the amount of his remuneration and the manner of its payment by fees to be imposed on ships entering the harbour. The remuneration allowed the harbour master here is $3,000 for his services. He collected $3,186 in 1925; the surplus of $186 was deposited to the credit of the consolidated revenue fund.

In the 171 other harbours previously referred to, the provisions of Part XII of the Canada Shipping Act apply and these harbours are administered under a general set of regulations designed to define the duties and powers of the harbour master and to control the movement and berthing of ships using the harbour, together with some special regulations made in the case of particular harbours, required to provide for individual local conditions. The remuneration allowed the harbour masters varies from $100 to $1,200, the latter amount being the maximum that may be allowed any harbour master under the provisions of the Act. If the harbour master collects the amount provided for as his remuneration, he may retain the full amount, otherwise his remuneration is only the amount he collects. The total amount of collections made by these harbour masters during the year 1925 amounted to $10,335. Of this amount, $7,916 was retained by the harbour masters on account of their remuneration, while $2,149 was paid into the consolidated revenue fund. This latter amount represents collections made by some harbour masters in excess of the amount of the collections which they were allowed to retain as their remuneration. In the smaller harbours, many harbour masters collect only a small proportion of the amount they might retain were their collections larger, as vessels are only required to pay harbour dues twice in one year. The ports which receive calls from vessels in the earlier part of the year make a larger number of collections in proportion to the number of ships using the harbour than those which receive visits from ships which had previously made their two payments at some other port. This makes conditions unequal in different harbours so far as the harbour master's remuneration is concerned, but there is no legislation provided to correct this. The positions, consequently, are more or less honorary in many cases and yet the duties are quite important and the harbour master is quite often called upon to exercise some tact and good judgment; and in many cases the duties are discharged largely from a sense of public service, of which the country receives the benefit, without any tax upon the public treasury.

The following is a list of public harbours that are placed in charge of a harbour master, with the name of such harbour master. New harbour masters were appointed during the year at the following places to fill vacancies caused by death or resignation:—

Work on the new terminals outlined in last year's report, for which a vote of $5,000,000 was sanctioned by Act of Parliament, 15-16, George V, chapter 51, June 27, 1925, was commenced in the autumn of 1925, and completion of this work is expected by November, 1928.

CHIEF ENGINEER'S REPORT

Dredging.—Commissioners dredge No. 2 worked in the estuary of the St. Charles river from May 28 to September 11, material removed consisted of sand and mud and amounted to 293,090 cubic yards, a daily average of 3,531 cubic yards.

Cold Storage Plant.—This plant the main warehouse of which has a capacity of 500,000 cubic feet, and the fish house a capacity of 1,000,000 pounds was commenced in the fall of 1923 and completed in April, 1925, and has been in satisfactory operation since May 1, 1925.

Independent Fire Protection System.—This system started in the fall of 1924 was completed in May, 1925. Details of this system were given in last year's report. In June, 1925, this system was tested in the presence of representatives of the Canadian Fire Underwriters and City Fire Department with most satisfactory results.

Light and Power Supply.—On February 16, the contract with the Quebec Power Company for power supply came into force, the distribution being done by the Commissioners, this has resulted in greater efficiency and economy.

Grain Elevator No. 2.—The earthquake on February 28 caused considerable damage to this elevator, necessitating extensive repairs.

To meet the increase of local grain requirements an extra bagging platform was built on the ground floor of the working house; and some 3,500 square feet of concrete was laid in the yard outside to aid in the movement of teams hauling the bagged grain.

Shed No. 29.—The roof and northern wall of the western bay of this shed were considerably damaged by the earthquake of February 28. Repair work under contract was commenced in November, the concrete wall has been renewed and two sections of the roof next to the walls renewed and replaced by a mill construction roof.

Atkinson's Wharf.—To meet the needs of the fish trade this wharf adjacent to the fish house was rebuilt with 12 inches by 12 inches B.C. fir from two to three feet below high water, and raised for an average of two feet. The surface of the wharf is being paved with concrete. A slipway with inclined gangway has been built on the south side of the wharf in connection with the island of Orleans ferry during the winter months.

Railway Lines.—An additional railway track has been placed on Prince of Wales street, and an additional siding track between the main cold storage and power houses.

Cattle Depot.—Six additional pens were added to the cattle depot (shed No. 27) and minor improvements made. During the past season twenty shipments of cattle totalling 9,129 head were handled.

Indian Cove.—Little work was done on the Long wharf during the past season. A small section of the wharf was brought to coping level, and since stone filling was done.

Wolfe's Cove Terminals.—Preliminary work of surveying, soundings, rock excavation, and quarrying was discontinued at the end of March. On August 13 a contract was given to the Northern Construction Company and J. W. Stewart for the dredging, crib building, and filling of the first section, and work was started shortly afterwards.

In the approach channel to the crib seats 71,163 cubic yards have been dredged by the contractors, a site for a storage yard near the launchways has been prepared, and shops, offices, etc., erected. For the construction of cribs 2,645,709 f.b.m. of B.C. fir have been delivered on the ground.

In August the Harbour Commissioners commenced the building of the rip-rap bank to contain the "fill" at the west end of the work.

A 4 feet by 4 feet reinforced concrete culvert was built to carry the small creek at Wolfe's cove through the fill.

The survey party has been employed verifying soundings, establishing marks for dredging and preparing plans, cross-sections, etc.

Victoria Quarry.—This quarry was reopened and 5,000 cubic yards of stone taken out for filling of cribs.

General.—Central section of shed No. 25 paved with 3-inch deals. Crib-work of north wall in inner basin refaced and dock surface paved. Heating systems of machine shop, carpenter shop, grain elevator, power house, and pump pit connected with steam boiler in power house. Wharf surface on north side of outer basin at berth No. 20 paved with 3-inch deals. South side of shed No. 20 outside platform raised and reblocked.

HARBOUR MASTER'S REPORT

MONTREAL HARBOUR COMMISSIONERS' REPORT

PERSONNEL

The personnel of the Montreal Harbour Commission for 1925 is the same as that given in last year's report.

SOUTH SHORE BRIDGE

The site chosen for this bridge was given in last year's report. After a complete examination of the site and consultation with authorities, it was decided to adopt the cantilever type with a clear span between the main piers of 1,097 feet. This provides a deep water channel 1,000 feet wide with head room above ordinary high water during the navigation season to the under side of the steel work of 163 feet. The high water clearance of the Quebec bridge is 150 feet.

The entire structure including pavilion on St. Helen's island is now under way. All contracts were given upon competitive bids with adequate guarantees.

FINANCIAL

The income on revenue account for 1925 was $4,749,100.69, an increase of $366,985.44 over that of the previous year due chiefly to increased income from the grain elevator system and customs wharfages.

The cost of operation, maintenance, interest, sinking fund, etc. was $4,593,035.33, an increase over that of last year of $352,527.23, leaving a surplus to the credit of revenue account for the year 1925 of $156,065.36.

Paving.—Paving of Ogilvie lane. Paving of Berri street railway crossing.

Railway Construction.—Small spur line at Bickerdike pier.

GRAIN ELEVATOR SYSTEM

The present grain elevator system of the Montreal Harbour Commission consists of four modern grain elevators with a combined storage capacity of 12,162,000 bushels, and a connecting system of conveyor galleries for delivery of the grain to ocean vessels.

From the years 1921 to 1925 inclusive more grain was handled in the port of Montreal than in any other world port.

The statistics of the grain handled by the Montreal elevators for the last three years are of interest as showing the proportion of American to Canadian grain. In 1923, 86,403,459 bushels of Canadian grain passed through the Montreal elevators, of which 64,131,724 bushels was wheat. American grain amounted to 33,704,531 bushels, of which 25,434,339 bushels was wheat. In 1924 the figures were: Canadian grain, 95,054,716 bushels, of which 71,114,269 bushels was wheat; American grain, 68,569,959 bushels, of which 46,817,002 bushels was wheat. In 1925 Canadian grain amounted to 113,378,804 bushels, of which 64,770,611 bushels was wheat; American grain to 48,798,909 bushels, of which 19,130,201 bushels was wheat.

In recent years there has been an increase in the grain carried down to Montreal by boat as compared with that carried down by rail.

In 1923, 1,147 lake vessels carried to Montreal 74,631,578 bushels of grain, and 27,631 cars 45,476,412 bushels.

In 1924, 1,606 vessels carried 112,020,615 bushels, and 28,276 cars 53,118,784 bushels.

In 1925, 1,637 vessels carried 124,827,099 bushels, and 19,554 cars 38,974,626 bushels.

Dried fruits include figs, dates, prunes and nuts. Vegetables stored were potatoes, onions, carrots and celery. Among other miscellaneous articles were furs, woollens, binder twine, and radio sets.

Two extensions of refrigerated space were made to the plant during 1925, and were utilized to capacity as soon as completed.

HARBOUR RAILWAY TERMINALS

During 1925, 251,586 cars were handled, an increase of 26,201 cars over 1924, and an increase of 4,577 cars over the figures for 1918, the best previous year. These figures do not include car handling covering commodities moved on a tonnage basis.

This movement, which includes coal, grain, sugar, and other commodities, amounted to approximately 100,000 tons.

Four new 100-ton electric freight locomotives were operated during the season with very satisfactory results. These were in actual service for 8,350 hours, representing mileage of 27,071 miles.

The total mileage of harbour railway tracks in 1925 was 63.55 miles or 335,564 lineal feet, as against 63.24 miles or 333,934 lineal feet in 1924, an increase in 1925 of 1,630 lineal feet.

POLICE DEPARTMENT

During the season of navigation the Harbour Commissioners' police force, consisting of one chief, three captains, and sixty-two constables, regulated the traffic on the wharves, maintained order, and protected life and property within the harbour.

For the winter season the force consists of four officers and twenty-seven constables.

During the season 141 passenger liners arrived in port, carrying 24,558 passengers from overseas, and the same number of ships sailed with 42,684 passengers. Passengers arriving at the Victoria pier wharves from lake and river steamers numbered 82,201, and 40,000 passengers sailed from Victoria pier for points up and down the river, making a grand total of 193,443 passengers arriving at and departing from the port during the season.

Following upon the series of lectures and demonstrations in first aid which were given the force during 1924, accidents to the number of 101 were attended by constables during the season of navigation.

During the year sixty-four arrests were made within the harbour.

Nine thousand eight hundred and sixty carters, loading at various places on the harbour front, were checked and regulated by the traffic constables.

Fifteen thousand nine hundred and fifty-two taxis and cabs carrying passengers to and from vessels were checked coming on and leaving the wharves. Many articles left in vehicles were recovered by this system of checking taxis and cabs, as the license number of each vehicle is noted, as well as the time they leave the wharf.

SHIPPING—PORT OF MONTREAL, 1925

In 1924, 988 transatlantic vessels, net tonnage 3,597,147 tons, made use of the port. In 1925, 1,040, net tonnage 4,744,793 tons. The average net registered tonnage per vessel in 1924 was 3,640 tons; in 1925, 4,562 tons.

The number of coasting vessels using the port in 1925 was 215, net registered tonnage 359,520 tons. This is a slight decrease from last year's tonnage, due largely to the strike in the Nova Scotia coal mines.

For the past few years the export of grain from the port of Montreal has been about equally divided between tramps and liners, the former generally making the outward trip light. Of late years, however, owing to the importation of British coal into Canada, the tramps have cargoes both ways, to the general advantage of shipping. In 1925 ninety-four tramp steamers came into port with full cargoes of coal and sailed from it with full grain cargoes.

A peculiar development in connection with the port during 1925 was the export of cement from Montreal to Florida for construction purposes. Twenty complete ship loads left the port, aggregating 67,067 tons.

TRADE OF PORT OF MONTREAL, 1925

The total imports and exports for 1925 show an increase of some 700,000 tons over those of 1924.

There was a phenomenal increase in the import of British coal, which reached a total of 440,735 tons, an increase of 100 per cent over the previous season. Raw sugar also showed a large increase, 94,149 tons more than in the previous season. Other chief imports included crude oil, gasoline, sheet glass, sheet iron, manganese ore, molasses, dry goods, salt, sand, sulphur, toys, wire rods, and liquors. Grain formed 76 per cent of the total exports; other principal exports were automobiles and parts, cattle, cheese, canned goods, flour, green fruits, printing paper, refined sugar, tractors, copper matte, iron bars, lard, cured meats, rolled oats, oilcake, and manufactures of rubber.

REPORT OF VANCOUVER HARBOUR COMMISSIONERS

PERSONNEL

During 1925 the Board of Commissioners suffered the loss of one of its members Mr. R. E. Beattie whose death occurred on May 5. No appointment has yet been made to fill the vacancy. With this exception the 1925 personnel of the Vancouver Harbour Commissioners is as it was in 1924.

IMPROVEMENTS DURING 1925

Ballantyne pier No. 1 elevator was renovated and an 800,000 bushel annex to the elevator built.

A jetty to augment Lapointe pier shipping was built.

All accessories to No. 2 elevator capacity 1,650,000 bushels such as switching trackage, car storage and roads completed and put into operation.

BALLANTYNE PIER

Seven regular lines of steamers now use this pier. These are: Canadian Government Merchant Marine Limited, Blue Funnel Line, Furness Pacific Line, Compagnie Generale Transatlantique, Navigazione Libera Triestina, S.A., Yamashita Company, and Canadian American Shipping Company.

The tonnage of general cargo at this pier in 1925 showed an increase of 76,000 tons over the tonnage of 1924.

Eighty-seven more deep sea vessels berthed in 1925 than in 1924, and 440 more coasting vessels.

NEW STEAMSHIP CONNECTIONS

The French line, Compagnie Générale Transatlantique, in addition to its Vancouver-Bordeaux, Havre and Antwerp service, has now opened a Vancouver-Martinique, Nicaragua, Salvador, and Guatemala, route and the Italian line, Navigazione Libera Triestina, connects Vancouver with the ports of Barcelona, Marseilles, Genoa, Naples, Leghorn, and Trieste.

The additions made to these two lines is likely to considerably extend the trade of Vancouver in the near future, as they supply a great variety of commodities.

Other new routes inaugurated in 1925 were Canada-West Indies line to port of Spain (Trinidad) and other W. I. ports; Svea Steamship Co. (Swiss) to Cuban ports; Westfal-Larsen Co. line (Norwegian) to East coast South America (via Magellan).

GRAIN AND ELEVATORS

During 1925, 34,868,192 bushels of grain were unloaded and shipped at the port, in 1924 the grain handled by the commissioners' elevator amounted to 53,240,516 bushels. From the period of August 1, the proportion of "tough" and damp wheat was about 30 per cent and in December increased to 42 per cent, this resulted in the slowing up of the movement of grain in order to conform to the drying capacities of the port, and caused inconvenience to elevator operators, railroad companies, and grain brokers.

The drying capacity of the port was 60,000 bushels per day of 24 hours and as this was taxed to the utmost, it was decided to install a drier plant at No. 2 elevator with a capacity of 1,000 bushels per hour at a cost of $75,000 in order to cope with unusual conditions.

The work done by the drier at No. 1 elevator is deserving of special notice, at it 2,400,000 bushels of tough grain were treated during the months of November and December.

Other improvements in the elevator system included the installation of additional cleaning equipment in No. 1 elevator and the overhauling and enlargement of the dust collecting system.

The gallery system on jetty No. 1 was completed in May, and the first vessel, The Canada, loaded.

The conveyer galleries carry four belts, serving two berths (at present) with a total capacity of 32,000 bushels per hour to the ship.

The inner west berth at this jetty was dredged to 35 feet at low water, involving the removal of 96,394 yards of rock and 29,464 yards of other material, so that there are now three berths available at this jetty.

No. 3 elevator underwent considerable alterations. Improvements were carried out and additions made to the workhouse, the conveyor system was extended, giving it a total capacity of 16,000 bushels per hour delivery to ship.

The renovation and improvement of this elevator, which has a storage capacity of 650,000 bushels, was completed on October 8, and leased to the United Grain Growers, Limited.

An important feature in 1925 was the increased movement of grain by "liners" as compared with tramp steamers. This is largely due to the arrangement at the port of Vancouver by which liners can obtain their wheat cargo at the same pier at which they discharge and load their general cargo saving the expense and loss of time involved in moving from one pier to another.

Some outstanding examples of quick despatch are the ss. Florida Maru, loaded with 300,464 bushels of grain in 12 hours and 57 minutes; the ss. Queenswood 112,000 bushels in 3 hours and 15 minutes; the ss. Peru 44,000 bushels in 2 hours and 10 minutes.

NORTH SHORE DEVELOPMENT

The tidal flats on the north shore of Burrard inlet between First and Second narrows, although eminently suitable for industrial sites, have until lately had no railway connection with the south shore. On November 7, 1925, the Second Narrows bridge connecting the north and south shores of Burrard inlet was officially opened. Besides connecting the north and south ends of the Harbour Commissioners' Terminal Railway system, and being a part of that system, the bridge also provides for vehicular traffic, motor trucks, etc. Provision has also been made for the construction of terminal tracks to meet the expected industrial expansion on the north shore.

An expenditure of about $400,000 has been incurred by the commissioners for the purchase of suitable industrial sites along about 2,000 feet of the water frontage in the central part of North Vancouver, property east of this has also been acquired, as a suitable site for grain elevators; as space on the south shore is becoming somewhat circumscribed, these additional industrial sites will be of value in the near future.

PROPOSED DEVELOPMENT HASTINGS MILL PROPERTY

The commissioners have acquired from the B.C. Mills Timber and Trading Company for the sum of $2,450,000 a site known as the Hastings Mill property, immediately west of the Ballantyne pier site, with an average frontage of 2,050 feet, and uniform depth of about 1,000 feet, and an area of over 40 acres.

The east side of this property will be immediately utilized to provide extra trackage to serve Ballantyne pier and No. 2 elevator.

Other projected improvements in connection with this property are a large pier for general business, a cold storage warehouse, and a terminal for coastwise ships, the terminal to be placed between Ballantyne pier and the proposed new pier and serve both equally.

MINOR IMPROVEMENTS

A concrete pavement, 40 feet wide, was laid at the Ballantyne pier, connecting the main entrance with the sheds. The shipway at the north end of the pier was filled in with reinforced decking, making this area available for the unloading of freight from small vessels.

Considerable improvements were made in the rail and yard system of the Terminal railway, particularly the replacement at the Lapointe pier of 56-pound rail with 85-pound rail. Additional temporary storage tracks were laid at the Ballantyne pier to accommodate thirty-two cars.

During the year inspections were made of the piers and jetties under the commissioners' control, particular attention being given to underwater conditions. In the case of the Lapointe pier, considerable repairs were necessary, and were carried out with the aid of divers.

The high-water mark survey, commenced in 1923, was completed and all plans revised. Soundings were taken at the various piers and jetties operated by the commissioners and harbour charts revised according to results obtained.

BURRARD DRYDOCK

The large floating drydock on the north shore of Burrard inlet, of the Burrard Drydock Company was completed last year, length over all of 556 feet 6 inches, clear inside width 98 feet, lifting capacity 20,000 tons.

CANADIAN PACIFIC COMPANY'S NEW PIER

This structure known as pier B-C, has been completed to deck level, and with sheds and equipment will be in use in 1926. It is of concrete construction, similar dimensions to Ballantyne pier.

ADDITIONS TO BRITISH COLUMBIA COAST SERVICE

To meet increasing passenger traffic, the Canadian Pacific Railway Company and the Union Steamships Limited, have added larger and faster vessels to their fleets.

The Canadian Pacific Railway Company acquired the Princess Kathleen and the Princess Marguerite, sister ships of 5,875 gross tons, accommodating 325 passengers and on day trips 1,500 passengers speed 21 knots.

The Union Steamships Limited in 1925 added to their fleet the Lady Cecilia and the Lady Cynthia, sister ships, 220 feet long, 28 feet breadth, 15 feet depth, maximum speed 16½ knots.

REPORT OF NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., HARBOUR COMMISSIONERS

PERSONNEL OF COMMISSION, 1925

This is as given in the 1924 report.

OPERATIONS OF PORT FOR 1925

The increase of shipping, which has been rapid since 1921, is still well maintained in 1925. One hundred and fifty deep-sea vessels entered the port, an increase of 50 per cent over the previous year.

In exports lumber holds the first place in volume, over 171,000,000 feet (board measure) being shipped to world markets in 1925, as compared with 119,000,000 feet in 1924.

Mineral products also form an important item of the port's exports, zinc concentrates from the Sullivan mine, East Kootenay, and bar lead and zinc from the Trail Smelter.

The total value of deep-sea exports for the year exceeded $7,200,000, as compared with $4,400,000 for 1924.

CHANNEL IMPROVEMENTS

At "King Edward" cut (opposite Steveston) channel was straightened and deepened, and dam and wing dam built to confine flow of water to the proper channel. This work was done by the Dominion Government.

Improvements were also effected at other points. The present minimum depth of water (mean high tide) is 28 feet, and it is anticipated that this will be increased in the near future to 30 feet.

Over the bars in the river estuary there is at present a minimum depth at low water of 18 feet, and 28 feet at normal high water. These bars do not cover a distance of more than two miles and improvement work is under way to provide an uniform depth throughout.

INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT

The policy of the commissioners is to encourage private enterprise rather than the investment of further funds in docks, elevators, etc. During 1925 a number of important companies were established, including The Canada Creosoting Company, The B.C. Gypsum Company, and The International Wood Products Company. They contribute substantially to the tonnage of the port.

This policy of favouring private enterprise has been departed from in one instance. With the approval of the Dominion Government, the commissioners propose to erect a modern grain elevator, with a storage capacity of 600,000 bushels, in the vicinity of Port Mann. The plant, however, will be operated by a private company under lease.

PORT FACILITIES AND SERVICE

Facilities Privately Owned.—Port facilities are all privately owned and operated, a large portion of the waterfront being held under lease from the city of New Westminster.

Docks.—Eastwardly from the foot of Tenth street, New Westminster, there is a continuous line of docks for a distance of approximately 3,600 feet, with good depth of water, including the following for lumber and general cargo:—

	Length	Depth at L.W.
Fraser River Dock and Stevedoring Company's Dock No. 1.....	400 ft.	34 ft.
Fraser River Dock and Stevedoring Company's Docks No. 2 and 3	800 ft.	34 ft.

Dock No. 1 is equipped with a large modern locomotive crane; has 5,000 feet of trackage with spurs connecting with Canadian Pacific Railway and British Columbia Electric Railway, over which other railway companies have running rights; and has 7 acres of open storage space for assembling lumber and other cargo.

Dock No. 2 has 52,000 square feet of warehouse storage space.

	Length	Depth at L.W.
Brunette Lumber Company.....	1,200 ft.	30 ft.
Canadian Western Lumber Company.....	1,000 ft.	30 ft.
Canada Creosoting Company (now Dominion Tar and Chemical Company).....	400 ft.	30 ft.
B. C. Gypsum Company.....	300 ft.	25 ft.

Railways.—Rail transportation is well provided by four railway companies, three of which are transcontinental. The Canadian Pacific following the north shore of the river and the Canadian National on the south shore provide efficient service. The Great Northern gives access to the great transcontinental systems of the United States. In addition, the British Columbia Electric Railway Company serves the rich farming districts of the Fraser valley.

Highways.—Good paved highways radiate in all directions from New Westminster and a large amount of cargo is brought to terminals by motor truck.

Ligherage.—Large amount of cargo is lightered to terminals, the average distance being about 2 miles.

Coaling.—Owing to proximity to the coal ports on Vancouver island, no attempt has been made to provide special coaling facilities for deep-sea vessels, but stocks of good steaming coal are available. Loading capacity 75 tons per hour.

Steamers—231. Tons—366,668. This is a decrease of 40 vessels and 173,616 tons from last year.

EXPORTS AND IMPORTS

Exports of grain and general cargoes show an increase over last year's exports—total amount of grain exported in 1925 was 155,088,244 bushels as against 152,093,979 bushels in 1924. Coal imports from Britain also showed a further increase.

CASUALTIES BETWEEN MONTREAL AND QUEBEC

These are chiefly of a minor character.

June 21.—SS. Canadian Carrier grounded below Richelieu rapids at Cap Sante, floated at high water, making no water, dry-docked for examination.

August 4.—SS. Canadian Aviator grounded off Vickers, refloated, surveyed, apparently no damage.

August 8.—SS. Metagama struck bottom at Point St. Antoine, proceeded to Montreal, discharged cargo and drydocked for repairs.

August 31.—SS. Wheatmore touched bottom at Three Rivers, no apparent damage, proceeded on voyage.

September 24.—SS. Canadian Volunteer grounded off Sutherland pier, floated, no apparent damage.

September 27.—SS. Alderamin, vessel struck bottom at Pointe-a-Basile, floated and proceeded to Vickers drydock for considerable repairs.

October 15.—SS. Frode grounded at Isle St. Ignace, after discharge of part cargo, was floated on October 17, surveyed, no apparent damage, reloaded cargo and proceeded on voyage.

SHIP CHANNEL

The water in the ship channel was slightly lower from June to September than in 1924, which made it somewhat more difficult for heavy deadweight vessels.

REPORT OF SALVAGE SERVICES RENDERED BY THE QUEBEC SALVAGE AND WRECKING COMPANY, LIMITED, FROM MARCH 31, 1925, TO MARCH 31, 1926

1925.

June 7.—British steamer Ariano. Our diver examined propeller, rudder, stern-frame, also part of ship's side and temporarily repaired port side of fore-castle while lying afloat in Louise basin, Quebec.

June 27 to 30.—Canadian tug Ocean King. Diving services rendered in order to try to recover bodies from sunken tug.

June 13.—Canada Steamship Lines steamer Cape Trinity. Diver examined propeller and tightened nut and studs.

August 8 and 9.—Canadian Pacific Steamships' steamer Montrose. Went to her assistance at Lower Traverse, towed her to Quebec. Our diver found rudder carried away and damage to propellers and plating by striking submerged object. We assisted her further into the drydock at Lauzon.

August 17.—Rented two of our pumps to contractor, A. Chevalier, who raised the sunken tug Ocean King.

August 21 to 28.—British steamer Essex County. This steamer loaded at Montreal for British ports and stranded off South point, Anticosti; we went to her assistance and by the use of ground tackle, pumps, etc., salvaged her and brought her to Quebec.

September 20 to 22.—Keystone Transportation steamer Keynor. Lost her propeller off Father point, went to her assistance and towed her to drydock, Quebec.

September 22 to 24.—Keystone Transportation steamer Keywest. This steamer struck rocky bottom to the north of Red island; she released herself and managed to go alongside Tadoussac wharf, shallow water; we went to her assistance and by use of pumps, etc., brought her to drydock, Quebec.

September 24 to 27.—SS. Lord Strathcona towed dredging outfit from Quebec to Bersimis.

October 13.—Norwegian steamer Topdalsfjord. This steamer collided with the Canadian Pacific Steamships' steamer Brandon and returned to Quebec where our diver examined bow and part of port side and plugged seams while steamer was lying afloat in the harbour of Quebec.

October 21.—Italian steamer Sic Vos Non Vobis. This steamer touched bottom in the river below Quebec and returned to Quebec with a heavy list; we supplied one of our pumps and assisted her into drydock, Quebec.

October 13 to November 6.—British steamer Ellerdale. This steamer struck rocks off Bradore bay, Labrador; they tried to bring her down to St. Johns, Newfoundland, for drydocking but met with heavy weather and the increasing leak forced them to go into St. Anthony harbour; we went to her assistance and by the use of compressed air and pumps we succeeded in salving her and brought her to Halifax.

November 20.—British steamer Aylestone. This steamer touched Beauport bank, Quebec harbour, and returned Quebec where our diver examined rudder, stern-frame, propeller and part of bottom while lying afloat in harbour of Quebec.

December 1 and 2, also 4 and 5.—American steamer Lake Fondulac. Towed this vessel from Murray bay to Quebec, thence Montreal.

December 3.—Canadian Government icebreaker Mikula went ashore at Les Ecureuils; we went to her assistance but steamer released herself.

December 6 to 13.—British steamer Airedale. This steamer stranded on northeast point of Coudres island; went to her assistance, jettisoned and discharged part of cargo and by use of our pumps (we made several attempts to tow her off with the Lord Strathcona and government icebreakers Montcalm and Lady Grey without success); the boat floated off herself after sufficient quantity of cargo had been taken out and water brought down in the holds, and we assisted and conveyed her to drydock, Quebec.

The ss. Lord Strathcona, schooner G.T.D., properly manned with all salvage gear, in good order, have been kept in constant commission during the season of navigation to proceed to any accidents or mishaps to ships at very short notice.

November 9 to 12, 1925.—SS. Poleric reported in distress and calling for assistance on the Pacific, four hundred miles from Victoria. Salvage King dispatched to her assistance; when located vessel was found with heavy starboard list, machinery partly disabled, sea rough. Succeeded in putting tow-line on board and towing vessel to Victoria.

December 12, 1925.—SS. Artemisia reported with heavy list and having machinery trouble in Pacific, cargo shifted, and probably requiring assistance. Salvage Queen stood by waiting orders. Vessel was able to make temporary repairs enabling her to return to Victoria. Salvage King towed her from Victoria to Esquimalt.

December 31, January 1, 1926.—SS. Niels Nielson reported disabled off Mendocina point, and calling for assistance. Salvage King proceeded to sea but when off Columbia river was recalled and returned to Victoria.

January 9, 1926.—SS. Mina Brea and oil tanker went ashore at Second Narrows, Vancouver harbour, and was refloated by the Salvage King.

February 9, 1926.—Motor vessel Chapultepec was in distress off Pachena, was towed off shore by Givenchy and brought to Victoria, by Salvage Queen.

March 10, 1926.—Motor vessel Arran Firth disabled off Port Renfrew, and was towed to Esquimalt by Salvage King.

March 14, 1926.—Tug Burrard Chief went ashore on reefs at Flat Top island, and was salvaged and brought to Victoria by Salvage King.

ATLANTIC COAST SURVEY

The C.G.S. Acadia not being placed in commission, operations were carried out from a shore-party and gasoline launch under Mr. J. U. Beauchemin, assisted by Mr. J. L. Foreman.

Lunenburg Harbour.—A survey of this harbour carried on last year by Mr. R. J. Fraser was completed on August 25, the new work covering an area of some 25 square miles and extending nine miles east Lunenburg harbour clearly delineating the passage north and south of Cross island.

Owing to the uneven nature of the bottom in this vicinity the examination of over 100 shoals was necessary in order to lay out a safe passage for steamers. This is especially the case in the passage north of Cross island where the old Admiralty chart shows an average depth of 45 feet where 17 feet was developed.

As a result of the season's work the buoys marking the channel were moved to mark the new shoals discovered where found necessary, and a chart of Lunenburg harbour will be made available to the public during the summer.

Barrington Passage.—Before taking up the survey of this passage, Mr. Beauchemin was detailed to locate the wreck of the Canadian Recruit in the South channel of the St. Lawrence river below Quebec, about three miles below Stone Pillar lighthouse, and make a survey of the locality on a large scale in connection with the grounding of the steamer Montrose.

Owing to the many complaints received from the captains of coasting steamers regarding uncharted rocks in Barrington passage, a resurvey was taken in hand during the latter part of the season. This survey was carried out on a scale of six inches to the mile, covering an area from West head to Clam point, a distance of over eight miles, and an average width of over two miles.

Some thirty-eight uncharted rocks were located and in many cases from five to nine feet of water found where the old Admiralty chart gave a depth of twenty-five feet.

As a result of this survey the buoys marking the channel were adjusted in accordance with the latest information, where found necessary, and a chart of the locality will be available to the public during the coming summer.

LOWER ST. LAWRENCE SURVEY

For a number of years past, this survey, using the C.G.S. Cartier, has carried out a systematic charting of the St. Lawrence river from Quebec east, and on the completion of this work to Pointe des Monts, which may be regarded as the river's mouth, the charting of the waters adjacent to the southern or Gaspé shore and the passage between Anticosti island and cape Gaspé was undertaken, thus covering the route most generally followed by the trans-Atlantic and coast-wise shipping to and from Quebec and Montreal.

In recent years, however, another route, that through the passage north of Anticosti, and known as Mingan strait, offers an alternative track to trans-atlantic vessels entering Canadian waters by way of Belle Isle. This route having the advantage of being seventeen miles shorter than the southern one, the north side of the island may be kept closer aboard than the south, the reefs extending less far out, and upbound vessels can take advantage of the tidal current, where the flood stream runs for about twenty-five per cent longer to the westward than the ebb tide does to the eastward, while at the same time the force of the Gaspé current, with its constant easterly or downstream direction, which must be stemmed by ships using the southern passage, is entirely avoided.

This northern route has, however, one great disadvantage—it is inadequately charted. The existing small-scale Admiralty chart shows but comparatively few soundings, many of which are misleading; the banks and contours are not delineated, and little reliance can be placed by the mariner upon the soundings to ascertain his position.

In addition to this, local magnetic attractions and disturbances of the compass needle have been reported at various times at indefinite localities along this shore, and investigation of magnetics and more accurate knowledge of the actions of the tidal currents in Mingan strait are very desirable.

During recent years with the introduction of the Gyroscopic compass on some of the larger vessels, navigators feel more confidence in attempting this route, and each succeeding season sees more and more transatlantic steamers using this new passage: from May until October, 1925, over 100 large steamships bound to and from Quebec and Montreal were sighted during the hours of daylight by the Cartier's officers.

The Lower St. Lawrence Survey having been instructed to commence the charting of this northerly route through Mingan strait, the C.G.S. Cartier was recommissioned under the command of Mr. R. J. Fraser, assisted by Messrs. Edouard Ghysens, H. L. Leadman, and M. A. MacKinnon, and left Quebec on May 20, conveying a shore-party under Mr. G. A. Bachand, assisted by Messrs. Norman Wilson and R. W. Bent, together with boats and equipment, to Eskimo point, on the north shore, to continue the survey of the Mingan islands. The vessel then proceeded to Ellis bay, Anticosti, thence to Gaspé for fuel and provisions, returning to Anticosti and commencing operations on its northern shores May 27, 1925.

This northern coast of the island is exposed to all but southerly weather; there are no sheltered anchorages for a ship; the limestone reefs make off from one-half to one and one-half miles from the shore with scarcely a break in their continuity. Safe landings for boats are few and far between. The straight shoreline does not lend itself to the ordinary triangulation methods for the purpose of locating survey stations; in consequence, it is impossible to work except in the finest weather, and it was necessary to cover the entire length by a precise stadia traverse.

Owing to the unevenness of the bottom and the necessity for accurate delineation of the contours in this locality, the soundings were taken very closely, the courses run by the ship being from one-quarter to one mile apart across the axis of the main tidal currents. These currents differed so greatly both in direction and strength from those along the southern side, or the northern Anticosti shore, and those running forth from the various channels of the Mingan islands, that the ship's course was seldom the same for more than an hour at a time, its position having to be fixed by sextant observations every six minutes or at half-mile intervals.

Tidal Currents.—In this connection it may be stated that it was originally intended to operate a steamer in this locality solely to observe the complicated tidal currents, which information is absolutely necessary for safe navigation, especially during foggy weather. However, this program was not possible owing to insufficient funds and it is hoped next year that more money will be available.

The excellent results produced by an improved electrically driven sounding machine with wire and pressure-sounding tubes attached made it possible to obtain soundings in depths of from 20 to 100 fathoms at a speed of from 5 to 9 knots per hour, and it was possible to accomplish 1,970 miles of ship-sounding covering an area of over 1,000 square miles. The sounding was carried about twenty miles west of the west point of Anticosti island, the limit of visibility of the land, and eastward covering forty-two miles of the north shore of the island, also extending across the strait to Mingan islands.

From the launches and boats, which covered 510 linear miles, 12,000 soundings were taken, the absolute positions of 3,200 of which were "fixed", 6,400 sextant angles being observed.

A better idea of the arduousness of ship-sounding, together with the accuracy and attention to detail necessary, may be gained when it is pointed out that during the season over 3,900 absolute, or independent "fixes", or observed positions were taken from the bridge, entailing observations of over 7,800 sextant angles, the number of soundings thus obtained from the ship during the season being in excess of 7,900.

Off West point light, Anticosti, at a distance of from 15 to 25 miles, where the Admiralty chart shows depths of from 70 to 100 fathoms, and where Canadian Pacific steamships have recently reported inaccuracies and misleading information in the latter, an uncharted bank of fifty square miles in extent with from 30 to 50 fathoms over it was found, while in the middle of the strait, at the eastern limit of the area covered by the past season's work, an uncharted bank of two square miles in extent was also discovered.

Several dangerous uncharted rocks and shoals in the track of coastwise shipping have been reported to the survey but investigation was impossible during this season.

On September 15, on instructions from Ottawa the Cartier left for Pictou, for dry-docking and repairs to a defective shaft, arriving on the morning of the 17th. On the completion of repairs the ship left Pictou on the 26th, coaling at Charlottetown, and returning to Eskimo point on September 30.

During the progress of the above, a launch-party in charge of Mr. H. L. Leadman carried on boat-sounding in the Magdalens, completing 84 miles under adverse weather conditions.

On October 10 six inches of snow fell, which remaining, made the white-washed survey stations indistinguishable, and all weather conditions pointing to the setting in of winter, the ship left for Quebec on the 16th, conveying home the Mingan islands shore-party, and arriving on the evening of the 17th. The ship was laid up at Louise basin for the winter, the crew paid off, and the party returned to Ottawa.

Weather.—During the season a great deal of fog and rain were experienced, about thirty-five per cent of the time being lost due to this cause, and almost another thirty-five per cent partially lost, the average of bad weather being slightly greater than during the preceding year.

As a result of this, and the preceding season's work the area proposed to be embraced by the new chart of Mingan strait, or from longitude 65° west to 63° west, taking in Carlton point on Anticosti island, is now three-fourths completed and another season's work such as last year's should complete the area and make possible the issue of a complete chart of the whole of Mingan strait to the public.

MINGAN ISLANDS SURVEY

The steamer Bayfield being out of commission again this season owing to lack of funds, and as the survey of the Magdalen islands could not be completed without the aid of a steamer, a shore-party using a gasoline launch under Mr. G. A. Bachand, assisted by Messrs. Norman Wilson and R. W. Bent, proceeded to the Mingan islands to carry on the survey of that district started last season, arriving at Havre St. Pierre on May 22.

Owing to the uneven nature of the bottom it was found necessary to make a very close examination of the district in order to clearly define the contours. Almost invariably less water was found on the banks than shown on the existing Admiralty chart dated 1834, many lying in or near the ship track. In one case $1\frac{1}{2}$ fathoms was found where the chart indicated 13 to 20 fathoms, also $1\frac{1}{2}$ fathoms found where 8 fathoms was indicated, while an uncharted rock with only $\frac{1}{2}$ fathom over it was also located; thus proving conclusively the necessity for a resurvey of this district and the risk taken in relying upon the old charts made by primitive methods.

The base of operations was chosen for its convenient location, in spite of which much time was lost running to and from work and in stemming the strong tidal currents to be met with in this locality.

Examination of some twenty shoals which developed was a tedious operation as the gigs could only be used for about two hours at slack water. Soundings were extended out three to five miles outside the islands covering an area of 170 square miles, including 750 miles of soundings and taking 16,000 casts of the lead. Some 73 stations were built and 80 miles of coastline traversed.

Tidal Information.—A continuous record of the tides was obtained for a period of four months.

A permanent bench-mark was established in the concrete foundation of a new house close to the wharf at Havre St. Pierre. This bench-mark was tied in with that established by the Tidal Survey in 1910. From the records obtained it has been determined that the elevation of the 1910 bench-mark is now about six inches lower than in 1910.

The survey was closed for the season on October 16, the crew paid off and the staff returned to Ottawa.

As a result of the season's operations a chart of the Mingan islands will be issued to the public.

PACIFIC COAST SURVEY

Under the command of Mr. H. D. Parizeau, assisted by Commander J. H. Knight, R.N., Ret'd., and Messrs. L. R. Davies, W. K. Willis, and F. C. G. Smith, Jr., the latter detailed from headquarters for the season, work on this coast was again carried on from the C.G.S. Lillooet and the houseboat Somass, the Restless remaining laid-up for the season.

Leaving Victoria on Monday April 22, the Lillooet arrived in Vancouver the same night and the work of sounding and sweeping the dredged area in First narrows, Vancouver harbour was commenced, being followed by a specially requested survey of Second narrows (Burrard inlet), and several small surveys off the northeast side of Vancouver island including Chatham channel (Johnstone strait), Burdwood bay (Read island): and on the southwest side of the island, Birthday channel, Queen cove (Esperanza inlet), and Quatsino sound, West arm, were carried out. In the narrows of the latter place current observations to determine slack water were taken from May to September, after which the examination of shoals and observation of current directions and velocities in Caamano sound and vicinity were taken in hand.

From the middle of June to the middle of September the party was engaged in a survey of Laredo sound and approaches, carrying the main triangulation through Milbanke sound, after which the scene of operations was moved to Prince Rupert where the harbour was examined for corrections and additions to the existing chart. The survey of Tuck inlet, at the head of the harbour was next commenced and a reef located off Portland inlet.

On the weather becoming too rough for operations in so exposed a locality the Lillooet was moved to Cumshewa inlet, Queen Charlotte islands to complete the survey of that locality, and on the way home a large scale survey was made of Powell river, the ship being laid-up on the 14th of November, and the staff returned to Victoria. During the season 319.9 miles of coast-lining, 640.4 miles of boat-sounding and 307 miles of ship-sounding were carried out, in addition to the following sweeping operations:—

First narrows, Burrard inlet.
Heriot bay.
Havannah channel.
Warren islands anchorage, Call creek.
Carter bay, Queen Charlotte strait.
Queen cove, Esperanza inlet.
West arm of Quatsino sound.
Quatsino narrows.
Caamano sound.
Laredo sound.
Prince Rupert harbour.
Entrance to Portland inlet.

During the year the following sailing directions were compiled and issued to the public as Notices to Mariners:—

West coast of Queen Charlotte islands (from Captain Freeman), Gillen harbour, Estevan island,
Borrowman bay, Aristazabel island,
Barnard harbour, Princess Royal island,
Chatham channel,
Quatsino narrows and eastern portion of West arm
Esperanza inlet, Queen cove and Birthday channel,
Caamano sound and approaches,
Laredo sound,
Cumshewa inlet,
Powell river, and the following copper or lithograph proofs corrected:—

Idol point to Ocean falls,
Vancouver harbour,
Harbours on the East shores of Hecate strait,
Race rocks to Discovery island.

Tidal Observations.—Tidal observations were obtained at Quatsino narrows during 129 days and current observations during 113 days to determine the time of slack water.

The naming of geographical features in British Columbia becoming yearly of greater importance, careful study of the early history of the province has been made in this connection and the charts on the Pacific coast carefully checked and where necessary changes in nomenclature made. In all some 685 names have been submitted to the Geographic Board of Canada, for approval, during the past year, and the officer in charge of the survey deserves great credit for the immense amount of study and time he has given to this subject.

As a result of the season's work the following blue-line prints were published during the year:—

Second narrows, Burrard inlet,
Burdwood bay, Read island,
Chatham channel,
Quatsino narrows and Eastern portion of West arm,
Queen Cove and Birthday channel, Esperanza inlet,
Cumshewa inlet, Queen Charlotte islands,
Caamano sound and approaches,
Laredo sound, and a chart of Caamano sound and approaches will be available to the public.

AUTOMATIC GAUGES DIVISION

During the year thirty-nine automatic water gauges were operated on the Great lakes and St. Lawrence river between Quebec and Port Arthur. With the exception of the gauges in the St. Lawrence river in places where high water in the spring overtops the wharves, and of Coteau du Lac which was unfortunately discontinued April 4th, and Isle aux Peches, all were in working order during the twelve months of the year and are affording very satisfactory and valuable records, the importance of which is increasing yearly, for scientific and survey purposes, especially in view of the present critical low stage of the Great lakes.

The relocation of the gauges at Michipicoten harbour, Fighting island, Iroquois and Port Colborne was found necessary, and while at the latter place a staff gauge showing the depths in feet and inches over the old lock sill of the Welland canal as well as the depths in Port Colborne harbour was installed by special request, proving of assistance to lake vessels loading at the grain elevators.

It has been found that the yearly lowering of the Great Lakes leaves so small a margin of safety for the recording of seiches, a continuation of the same conditions that have held during the last seven years will necessitate the relocation of the gauges at Collingwood and Goderich.

During the year the publication of a monthly bulletin of the water surface elevations of the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence river was inaugurated, and for this there has been a large demand from engineers all over Canada, each issue has been republished by the marine and engineering journals and daily newspapers, as well as by the United States Hydrographic Office, and due credit for the information contained given this department.

This bulletin is issued just previous to the 10th of each month and gives the mean stage of water level for the preceding month as computed from hourly readings and a comparative summary of past stages of importance, for the same month in the preceding years as far back as records are available. In addition to the mailing list established for this publication alone 640 copies are issued monthly to the applicants registered for the receipt of the "Notices to Mariners."

During the year an increasing number of demands for special data, computations, etc., were received, most of which had reference to the critical low water stage of the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence river in general, and approximately 8,538 sheets of prepared information were issued.

Up to the present time the number of months of gauging data obtained each year since the inauguration of this service is as follows:—

Year	months data	Year	months data
1925..	413	1915..	225
1924..	406	1914..	188
1923..	377	1913..	164
1922..	371	1912..	109
1921..	341	1911..	82
1920..	336	1910..	59
1919..	271	1909..	59
1918..	285	1908..	33
1917..	261	1907..	23

and the amount of data now compiled and computed, from a month's record, is considerably more than previous to 1920, entailing an increase in office work and it is impossible with the present small staff, which the same size as in 1922-1923, to compute and prepare the data and reports called for and which should be available to the public.

Staff.—This division is composed of Mr. Charles A. Price with a staff consisting of Messrs. W. J. Miller and H. P. Williams in the field and office, and Mr. A. S. Matthewman in the office, all of whom rendered valuable assistance in this important work.

Attached are tables giving:—

1. Monthly mean water surface elevations of the Great Lakes during 1925.
2. Monthly mean water surface elevations of the St. Lawrence river during 1925.

The work of the Draughting Room was carried out under the direction of Mr. G. L. Crichton, with the assistance of Messrs. F. Delaute, A. J. Pinet, P. E. Parent, H. Melancon and W. L. Andrew, all of whom rendered very efficient service.

During the fiscal year 9 new charts and 11 new editions of old charts were issued, while 10,000 charts were sold, the demand for these consistently increasing. This work is in charge of Mr. Charles McGreevy and has been carried out with dispatch and efficiency.

With the end of this fiscal year I have again to express my appreciation of the good work carried out by the members of the staff almost without exception.

OBITUARY

Just after the close of the fiscal year this office suffered the loss of Mr. LeRoy T. Bowes, one of its younger engineers of great promise. Graduating from Acadia University Mr. Bowes joined the staff of the Canadian Hydrographic Survey in 1913, being detailed for work on the Great Lakes, and later as assistant on the Lower St. Lawrence Survey, in 1921 being in charge of a party on the survey of lake Melville, Labrador, made by this department at the request of the Department of Justice in connection with the delineation of the boundary of Labrador, while during the last few years he was detailed for special work. Mr. Bowes' loss is deeply felt by his contemporaries and the sympathy of the entire staff is extended to his widow.

TIDAL AND CURRENT SURVEY

REPORT OF CAPTAIN F. ANDERSON, M.E.I.C., CHIEF HYDROGRAPHER

During the past year thirteen tidal stations were kept in continuous operation, seven on the eastern coast and six on the western coast as follows:—

Eastern—

Quebec
Father Point
Point Peter
Charlottetown
St. Paul island
St. John, N.B.
Halifax

Western—

Victoria
Vancouver Caulfields
Clayoquot
Prince Rupert
Port Simpson.

The records obtained from these stations were carefully checked and prepared for tabulation, and comparison made with secondary stations where necessary. During the summer all were inspected: the zeros of the gauges checked with permanent bench-marks, and necessary repairs carried out.

FURTHER TIDAL OBSERVATIONS OBTAINED

Eastern Coast.—During the past season additional observations were obtained from temporary gauges installed at the following points: Strait of Canso; at Arichat, Mulgrave and Cape Jack; north shore of the St. Lawrence at Havre St. Pierre.

Western Coast.—Gauges were maintained at Nanaimo and Quatsino narrows: also in the Fraser river at Garry point and at New Westminster.

INVESTIGATION OF TIDAL CURRENTS

Eastern Coast.—During the summer of 1925 investigation of the tidal currents in the strait of Canso was continued, three temporary tide gauges were installed and two current meters employed for this work. A summary of the data obtained in 1922, 1924, 1925 has been forwarded to the Tidal institute at Liverpool, England, for a report on the possibility of making a harmonic analysis of it and future tables of predictions.

Western Coast.—On the western coast slack-water observations were obtained in the First and Second narrows of Vancouver harbour and Quatsino narrows, the results being used in revising the values given in the tide tables. The data obtained in previous years at Turn point, Boundary pass, was carefully compiled and forwarded to the Tidal Institute for analysis. During the next season further observations will be taken in this locality, thus enabling a check to be made on the results received from the Tidal Institute.

OUTSIDE INFORMATION SUPPLIED

The large number of requests for information received from various sources during the year were complied with, many of them necessitating the compiling of special data therefor.

All new information obtained by this Survey is communicated to the Hydrographer of the British Admiralty to afford improvement in the results for Canada in the British Tide Tables.

The United States Coast and Geodetic Survey also received the results from certain ports.

Special information relative to tides in the bay of Fundy was furnished in connection with the power development proposed in Passamaquoddy bay.

PUBLICATIONS

Eastern Coast.—The Tide Tables for this coast are issued in three editions: one is a complete edition containing all tidal information and amounting to 11,000 copies: the other two are abridged editions of pocket size, one for Quebec and the St. Lawrence and the other for St. John and the Bay of Fundy. These amount to 21,000 copies. In addition, tidal information for Quebec and the St. Lawrence is supplied to the St. Lawrence River Ship Channel branch for publication.

Western Coast.—The circulation of the Tide Tables for this coast continues to increase: the complete edition for the coast now goes to 23,500 copies: the abridged edition for the southern part of British Columbia, to 10,000 copies. This abridgment supplies a large demand for local tide tables of Vancouver, the Fraser river and passes in the vicinity.

A total of 66,700 copies of the Tide Table are distributed, and judging by the requests received, this quantity will very soon have to be increased. Letters of appreciation continue to be received showing the great service the Tide Tables render our seaboard population, as well as being indispensable for the navigation of our coastal waters.

PUBLICATION IN GREAT BRITAIN

Tide Tables for eight important harbours in Eastern Canada and the Pacific coast are supplied the British Admiralty for incorporation in their publications.

HUDSON BAY

Tide Tables for Port Nelson are calculated and copies furnished to the Hudson Bay Company and Government engineers.

STAFF

The staff of this division of the Hydrographic office comprises four, exclusive of the outside tidal observers who number seven on the eastern and six on the western coast. In addition to the above temporary observers are occasionally employed during the summer in making special observations.

Mr. H. W. Jones, B.Sc., M.E.I.C., Senior Tidal and Current Surveyor, supervises the work on the eastern coast, inspecting the tidal stations and arranging for the necessary repairs, and superintending the erection of secondary stations, and the current observations in the strait of Canso.

Mr. S. C. Hayden, Senior Tidal and Current Surveyor, supervises the work on the Pacific coast, with headquarters at Vancouver. He inspects the tidal stations of that coast, arranges for the necessary repairs and superintends the erection of secondary stations etc.

Mr. R. B. Lee, Junior Tidal and Current Surveyor, assists in the office work at headquarters as well as looking after the installation of special gauges when required.

Miss L. R. Brown, Clerk-Stenographer, attends to the correspondence and assists in the reduction of computations.

During the winter months the tidal records are checked and reductions made for analysis: five sets of Tide Tables are calculated including both coasts, and the manuscripts prepared for printing. The observations obtained during the summer months are dealt with and special data worked out.

GOVERNMENT COAST STATIONS

“Coast Station” is the term used to designate a radio station established on shore to communicate with ships at sea. Canada’s extensive coast line demands a large number of stations to cover all our territorial waters and the approaches thereto, and the complete system consists of forty-eight stations, located as follows:—

East Coast (includes 6 radio beacons).....	26
Great Lakes.....	8
Pacific Coast.....	14
	<hr/> 48

The Coast Station system consists of two chains, one extending from Vancouver to Prince Rupert on the Pacific and the other from Port Arthur to the Atlantic ocean in the East, and for the purpose of administration is divided into three divisions—Pacific Coast, Great Lakes, and East Coast. The stations of the Great Lakes division communicate with those of the East Coast division, but there is no direct radio connection between the Great Lakes and the Pacific Coast.

Of the above stations, twenty-one on the East coast and Great Lakes are operated by the Canadian Marconi Company under contract with the department, and the balance of twenty-seven on the East and West coasts are operated directly by the department.

The primary aim of the Coast Station organization is to provide facilities whereby any ship within 500 miles of the Canadian coast can establish instant touch with the shore. Constant watch, 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, is maintained at practically all of the stations, which handled a total of 6,335,664 words during the year.

RADIO AIDS TO NAVIGATION

“Safety of Life at Sea” service—that is to say, communication with ships in distress and general aid to navigation service—is provided by all the Coast stations. In addition, certain stations provide special “aid to navigation” facilities as follows:—

Broadcasting Service

Twice daily, at advertised hours, six stations on the East coast, seven on the Great Lakes, and three on the West coast, broadcast information to navigators covering weather forecasts, position and nature of dangers to navigation, etc.

In addition, arrangements are in effect whereby urgent information, such as hurricane warnings, etc., are broadcasted immediately on receipt.

Each Coast station reports all passing ships communicated with, giving name, date and time; this information is available to the public at the terminal stations and is published in the daily press.

Spring Patrol, Cabot Straits

The patrol service maintained in the Cabot straits at the opening of navigation was undertaken this year by the ice-breakers Mikula and Montcalm and commenced on April 12.

Profiting by experience in previous years, some minor changes were made in the radio organization, more particularly in the way of eliminating redundant transmissions.

Briefly, the patrol ships cruise in the vicinity of Cabot straits observing the ice conditions and the senior ship, every few hours, obtains from all incoming and outgoing liners, and from all radio and signal stations, a detailed report on the ice conditions in the different areas. These, in conjunction with her own observations, are compiled and analyzed, and based thereon, a broadcast message, containing a synopsis of location and drift of the ice, together with instructions as to the best route for ships to follow, is broadcast four times daily from the patrol ship and also from Cape Race Coast station.

In addition, every vessel spoken is advised of the location and nature of the ice she may expect to encounter on her particular course, and the best route to follow.

The total number of words handled by the patrol this year was:—

Mikula	29,722
Montcalm	2,967
	<hr/> 32,689

The patrol was discontinued on May 21, 1926.

Radio Direction Finding

Eight Direction Finding stations, seven on the East Coast and one on the West coast, were operated throughout the year. These stations maintain "constant watch" and give bearings to any ships, fitted with radio, requesting the same.

One new Direction Finding station was established during the year at Belle Isle, Labrador, and was placed in commission in October, 1925.

The Canadian Direction Finding stations appear to continue to enjoy a good reputation for efficiency and accuracy, many letters commenting on the same having been received from navigators during the year.

The number of bearings given by the stations varies greatly from month to month, being largely dependent on weather conditions. The average number given continues to increase, and is now about 1,900 per month.

Radio Beacon Service

There are now approximately 145 ships fitted with radio direction finding apparatus plying to and from Canadian ports, and there is little doubt but that in the course of the next few years direction finding apparatus will form a part of the permanent radio equipment of every large ship.

The experimental Radio Beacon system of the department which provides the signals from which these ships take their bearings now comprises six stations located as follows: Cape Bauld, Nfld.; Heath Point Lightship; Cape Ray, Nfld.; Halifax Lightship; Seal Island, N.S.; Lurcher Lightship. No new stations were installed during the fiscal year.

In addition to the above facilities, ships can take bearings from any of the coast stations of our Coast Station system.

These stations, however, are not in all cases advantageously located for this particular purpose and an increase in the number of the Radio Beacon stations must be considered in the course of the next year or two, there being little question that the existing experimental organization has demonstrated its great utility as an aid to navigation.

Commercial Ship Service

Each of our Coast stations handles commercial traffic to and from ships and in addition three of the Direction Finding stations—Belle Isle, Yarmouth and St. John—combine commercial service with their direction finding duties.

The long-distance service to ships is provided on the East coast by the licensed station at Louisburg, N.S., operated by the Canadian Marconi Company, and on the Pacific coast by the Government station at Estevan, Vancouver island. The traffic returns from these stations, as was anticipated, indicate that the route of commercial traffic is slowly shifting from the low power short wave coast stations to the high power long wave stations, the latter being better equipped and more advantageously located for this purpose.

A considerable percentage of the traffic handled is destined to and from points in the United States and there is active competition between the United States and Canadian stations for the same. The shorter haul between the United States Coast stations and destination and consequent lower landline rates gives them an advantage over our stations, and to secure business we have to give a prompt and efficient service.

Radiotelephone service to Tug Boats on the Pacific Coast

The radiotelephone system outlined in last year's annual report has now been installed and in commission for nearly a year with satisfactory results and is being used to a gratifying extent by the tug boats. The telephone stations are located at: Vancouver (Merchants Exchange), Merry Island, Alert Bay, and Cape Lazo.

In addition the four Life-Saving Telephone stations on Vancouver island at Banfield, Cape Beale, Pachena Point and Carmanah are available for ship to shore telephone service. Approximately twenty-four tugs have been equipped to date with radiophone apparatus and a steady increase in this number is anticipated in the course of the next few years. The sets in the tug boats are being operated by the captain or engineer and most of them are installed by an operating company on a rental basis which includes service.

SHIP'S EMERGENCY APPARATUS

The department has in effect an arrangement whereby its coast stations call upon Canadian and certain British ships to exercise their emergency apparatus whilst at sea.

TRAFFIC SECTION

This section of the Radio Branch handles the preparation, rendering and collection of accounts for commercial ship to shore and inter-station messages handled by the departmental ships and stations, and the auditing, rendering and collection of international accounts to various operating companies and foreign administrations for radiotelegrams exchanged by foreign ships through Canadian coast stations, and by Canadian ships through foreign coast stations.

The number of accounts handled by the Branch was 105,000, representing $130,000 in tolls.

Messages handled by the Coast Station Services

The total number of messages and words handled during the year ending March 31, 1926, was as follows:—

	Messages	Words
East Coast.....	152,151	2,525,599
Great Lakes.....	27,639	397,374
West Coast.....	174,176	3,412,691
Total	353,966	6,335,664

The business handled by the East Coast system (operated partly by the Canadian Marconi Company under contract and partly by the department) shows a decrease from last year of 28,968 messages, containing 559,152 words.

The Great Lakes system (operated directly by the Canadian Marconi Company under contract) shows a decrease of 6,488 messages, with a decrease of 103,759 words.

The West Coast system (operated by the department) shows an increase of 1,117 messages, but a decrease of 22,110 words.

REVENUE

The radio revenue accruing to the department during the year amounted to $180,940.76, against $152,888.48 in 1924-25, an increase of $28,052.28. This revenue is apportioned as follows:—

1925-26

The East coast traffic shows an increase of $362.29, the Great Lakes a decrease of $106.03 and the West coast an increase of $1,703.37. Net traffic increase $1,959.63.

The license fees show an increase of $25,993.15 and the examination fees an increase of $99.50, or a total "other revenue" increase of $26,092.65.

INSPECTIONS

The administration of the Radiotelegraph Act has been carried on as usual and no evasions or attempted evasions of section 4 of the Act, calling for compulsory equipment of radiotelegraph apparatus on board certain steamers, have been reported.

Three new inspectors were added to the permanent staff during the year, located at Vancouver, Winnipeg and Hamilton, and inspection establishments are now maintained at Victoria, Vancouver, Winnipeg, Toronto, Hamilton, Ottawa, Halifax, Montreal and St. John (winter).

Inspectors, in addition to inspecting all ships and licensed stations in their district, also undertake the examination of operators for Certificates of Proficiency. All land stations are inspected at least once a year and all ships when they visit Canadian ports. Supervision of broadcasting comes under their jurisdiction and comprises a large part of their duties.

The policy of utilizing the services of qualified radio amateurs as "part time" inspectors to look after small localities or areas, continues to prove satisfactory. These "part time" inspectors are paid a nominal salary of $10 or $15 per month, and are located at the following points:—

Nova Scotia.—Halifax (Dartmouth), Glace Bay and North Sydney.

Prince Edward Island.—Charlottetown and Summerside.

New Brunswick.—St. John, Moncton (vacant).

Quebec.—Montreal, St. Lambert, Quebec, Sherbrooke and Three Rivers.

Ontario.—Brantford, Fort William, Port Arthur, Hamilton, Kingston, Kitchener, London, Peterborough, Sarnia, Toronto (2), Windsor, Chatham, North Bay (vacant), and Sault Ste. Marie.

Manitoba.—Brandon and Winnipeg.

Saskatchewan.—Moose Jaw, Regina and Saskatoon.

Alberta.—Calgary, Edmonton and Lethbridge.

British Columbia.—Vancouver.

Yukon.—Dawson.

Six new "part time" positions were created during the year at Dartmouth, N.S., Moncton, N.B., Montreal, P.Q., Chatham, Ont., North Bay, Ont., and Dawson City, Yukon.

The number of inspections carried out during the fiscal year was:—

EXAMINATIONS FOR CERTIFICATE OF PROFICIENCY IN RADIOTELEGRAPHY

The safety of life and property at sea demands the employment of competent operators on ship and at shore stations, while interference problems necessitate a similar requirement in the case of amateur and land stations. As a result, the radio regulations provide that all operators must satisfy the Minister as to their ability to operate the class of station on which they are working. In the more important classes of service the operators must be the holders of First, Second or other prescribed class of certificate, while in the case of stations of lesser importance, not likely to become a source of interference, the operators must satisfy the radio inspector that they are capable of handling their equipment in an efficient manner.

One hundred and forty-one operators were examined for Commercial Certificate of Proficiency in radio during the year, including sixty-two re-examinations; seventy-three candidates were successful and sixty-eight failed.

Fifteen holders of certificates were examined on additional types of equipment; twelve were successful, and three failed.

Ninety-five candidates for Amateur Radio Certificates were also examined, of whom ninety-two were successful and three failed.

One thousand, seven hundred and twenty Certificates of Proficiency in Radio have been issued by the department up to the end of March, 1926.

RADIO BROADCASTING

Licenses

Radio reception conditions were good in the fall and early winter of 1925, but suffered a severe setback during the first four months of 1926. In spite of this there are more radio receiving sets in operation to-day than ever before, and the administration of broadcasting is becoming increasingly important.

Seventy-one licenses for broadcast transmitting stations were issued during the year, a reduction of nine from last year, as follows:—

Active stations, including 10 "phantom" stations.....	53
Inactive stations.....	18
	<hr/> 71

(A "phantom" license is one which authorizes the licensee to use the apparatus of an existing station.)

The number of licenses issued for receiving sets during the fiscal year was 134,486, as against 91,966 in the previous year, and the net revenue from broadcasting license fees, after deducting commissions to radio dealers and the Post Office Department for the sale of licenses, and the subsidy paid to the Provincial Government of Manitoba for their station in Winnipeg (50 cents per license issued in that province), amounted to $124,011.25.

Cost of Administration

The cost of the administration of broadcasting, including printing, stationery, advertising, legal fees, clerical staff at headquarters, inspectors, interference electricians, purchase and maintenance of interference trucks and equipment, etc., amounted to $58,657.49. In addition the sum of $31,351.48 was expended on the purchase and installation of C. W. transmitters at the following Coast stations:—Point Grey, B.C.; Point Edward, Ont.; Port Arthur, Ont; Montreal, P.Q.; and St. John, N.B.

A proportion of the above amount is directly chargeable to broadcasting in that the old apparatus, while 12 years old, was not completely worn out and were it not for the advent of broadcasting would not have been replaced for at least three or four years to come.

WAVELENGTHS

The broadcast band of wavelengths in North America continues to be the waves between 200 and 545 metres. This was confirmed at the Radio Conference held in Washington in November, 1925, a proposal to extend the band down to 150 metres being rejected by the conference on technical and economical grounds. The following channels are now being used by Canadian stations:—

Wavelength	Kilocycles
291.1	1030	(Exclusive)
312.3	960	"
329.5	910	"
410.7	730	"
434.5	690	"
247.8	1210	(Shared)
250.0	1199	" (Amateur broadcasting)
267.7	1120	"
322.4	930	"
336.9	890	"
475.9	630	"
516.9	580	"

In the meantime the United States Department of Commerce has notified this department that it has lost an action against the Zenith Radio Corporation of Chicago whereby they sought to compel the Zenith Company to keep off the exclusive Canadian wave of 329.5 metres, and that pending the enactment of further legislation, the powers of the department in regard to allotment of wavelengths for broadcasting stations is greatly curtailed. As a result the Canadian stations no longer enjoy the freedom from interference which existed under the inter-departmental arrangements in effect. Every effort is being made to remedy this very unsatisfactory state of affairs.

INDUCTIVE INTERFERENCE SECTION

This section was organized in February, 1925, to deal with radio interference from power line and electrical apparatus, and a staff consisting of one engineer and three electricians was appointed.

The preliminary work has been largely of an experimental character, following up the investigations already conducted by the Research Council and this department, and working out a practical application of the results then obtained.

An automobile truck was equipped with special apparatus and sent on tour in Ontario and Quebec. In three months two radio electricians carried out investigations of interference in 100 towns and villages. 203 sources of interference were investigated, 124 of which were immediately eliminated, and most of the others were later eliminated as a result of follow-up correspondence from headquarters and co-operation between broadcast listeners and the owners of the electrical apparatus causing the interference.

During the year three further trucks were purchased and put in commission. One is detailed to western Ontario, headquarters Toronto; one to eastern Ontario, headquarters Ottawa; and the third to the Province of Quebec, with headquarters at Montreal.

Hundreds of cases of interference have been submitted to the department by broadcast listeners, radio dealers, radio clubs and others, and advice given to enable them to locate the source of interference and remedy the same.

This interference suppression service was primarily organized for the benefit of the broadcast listeners, and, as far as we know, is unique, in that no other country has, as yet, attempted any organized effort along these lines. The letters received to date, indicate that the results of the work so far accomplished, have been greatly appreciated by the broadcast listeners, radio dealers and the public utilities affected.

Radio dealers have reported that in districts where inductive interference has been reduced or entirely cleared up, they have been able to increase their sales considerably, while public utilities have found that the location of faults on their distribution systems by the portable radio method have enabled them to locate faults in the early stages before valuable plant was damaged, with consequent saving in expense. As a result, many of these companies are equipping themselves with portable receivers for this purpose. In every case the department has received the greatest possible co-operation from the public utility companies, including power, telegraph and telephone.

In May, 1925, the Radio Branch published Bulletin No. 1 "Radio Inductive Interference," which was distributed to radio clubs and officials of public utilities free of charge and sold to the public at 15 cents per copy, and as our knowledge of means of dealing with interference has progressed, multigraph circulars have been issued from time to time, describing improved means of locating and eliminating causes of interference.

An organization whereby a radio club may deal with local interference in an organized manner, has been worked out, and the clubs throughout Canada have been encouraged to adopt the same. Many of them have taken it up and have been uniformly successful in improving local conditions for reception. They deal with the minor troubles themselves and refer the cases of more obscure character to the department to be dealt with by our experts.

The department receives, from time to time, suggestions from broadcast listeners regarding the necessity of legislation to enforce the owners of electrical apparatus to take steps to eliminate interference caused by its operation. This question has been given very careful consideration and the opinion of the department is that it is not necessary at this moment. Probably 75 per cent of the sources of interference arise in the distribution system of the public utilities and the attitude of these companies has universally been "show us the exact source of the trouble and we will fix it at once." This policy, on their part, is wise; in the first place it ensures the good-will of their customers, the broadcast listeners, and in the second place, the trouble may be some minor defect in an expensive piece of apparatus, which, if left to develop, would cost them a considerable amount of money to repair.

In the case of privately owned electrical apparatus, such as Violet Ray machines, farm lighting plants, electrical signs, and the many hundred other sources of interference, it is found that rarely does any person desire to be a nuisance to his neighbour and in nearly all cases they either agree to cease using the apparatus during the broadcast hours, or, if the interference is preventable, to instal suppression devices which the department provides at cost. In some cases the local listeners affected have subscribed the cost of the device. These usually cost only a few dollars and are easily installed by an electrician.

Advertising signs and apparatus of similar character are of little value to their owners if by their operation they lose the good-will of their customers, and in all such cases we have only had to bring the matter to their attention to have the necessary suppression devices installed at once.

The work accomplished by the Interference Section is considered to have amply justified both its establishment and its continuance on a more extended scale. During the coming year it is proposed to recommend an increase in the personnel to provide an interference electrician in each large centre, such as Toronto, Montreal, Halifax, Vancouver, etc., and to provide each centre with the necessary properly equipped interference truck.

INTERFERENCE FROM RADIATING RECEIVING SETS

A review of reception conditions would indicate that interference from radiating receiving sets is less prevalent than last year. There are undoubtedly just as many radiating sets in operation as heretofore, but the listeners would appear to be adjusting them with some regard for the feelings of their neighbours. One, however, has only to listen in on a poor night to an important broadcast, such as the European tests or other event of international importance, to appreciate the number of radiating sets there are in every community, and the amount of trouble they can make when a listener is trying to get five-tube distance on a one-tube set.

As a sign of the times, it is noted that one or two prominent manufacturers advertise the fact that they no longer manufacture radiating sets.

During the year the department issued a circular letter on the subject and a copy was sent to the holder of every license in the hope that it would help him to realize what trouble an improperly operated equipment of this nature can cause, and in this reference it might be remarked that a standard 201A receiving tube, carefully adjusted to radiate the maximum amount of energy possible, has been heard over a distance of more than 7,000 miles (Alberni, B.C., to Adelaide, Australia) to appreciate the possibilities of interference from this source. Fortunately the average radiating set can only be heard over about one-quarter mile, but in a city there may be several hundred receiving sets in this area.

INTERFERENCE FROM FOREIGN STATIONS

Negotiations with foreign countries with a view to having the ship stations of all nations cease using any wave in the broadcast band when within 250 miles of the Canadian shore line have been energetically followed up and agreements have been entered into with the following countries: Sweden, Denmark, United States, Newfoundland, Great Britain, Northern Ireland, Belgium, Portugal, Spain, Holland, and Germany.

The situation in regard to the French Colonial Administration station at St. Pierre and the French trawlers on the Grand Banks is, I regret to report, as heretofore. We have been unable to arrive at any arrangement with France in regard to the elimination of this interference which is such a serious source of annoyance on the East coast.

GREAT LAKES

An agreement was entered into with the United States Department of Commerce, effective midnight July 15, 1925, whereby the standard wave length on the Great Lakes was raised from 600 to 715 metres with an alternative wave of 875 metres for traffic. This arrangement was duly placed into effect on the above date without any hitch and has resulted in a material reduction of interference in the many cities adjacent to these waters.

INTERFERENCE FROM CANADIAN COAST STATIONS

Following up the program of gradually replacing the spark sets at all the Government stations, particularly those adjacent to large cities, five more C.W. transmitters were installed during the year and the following stations are now so equipped: Prince Rupert, B.C.; Victoria, B.C.; Vancouver, B.C.; Point Grey, B.C.; Dead Tree Point, B.C.; Alert Bay, B.C.; Estevan Point, B.C.; Port Arthur, Ont.; Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.; Point Edward, Ont.; Toronto, Ont.; Montreal, P.Q.; Quebec, P.Q.; Belle Isle, P.Q.; St. John, N.B.; and Yarmouth, N.S.

ADVERTISING

Under the old regulations direct advertising was permitted by any broadcasting stations during the daytime up to 6 p.m. Practically no stations were taking advantage of this concession and after careful consideration it was decided to cancel the same. All licenses issued to broadcasting stations now forbid any direct advertising, except with the specific consent of the minister in writing. This consent is only accorded in the case of advertising for a charitable or similar organization.

NEW CONSTRUCTION, ADDITIONS AND ALTERATIONS

WEST COAST

Alert Bay.—An R3-a, 50-watt, radiophone transmitter was installed and tests carried out with ships, lumber camps and canneries situated in the inlets around Alert Bay. The normal day range was found to be approximately 60 miles. This set is now in operation and communication is carried on with tugs, camps and forestry department boats fitted with radiophone apparatus. A 32-volt battery and charging generator were installed as source of power for the radiophone transmitter. The old 10-horsepower engine and 1.7 K.W. spark set were replaced by an improved 8-horsepower horizontal engine and a 5.5 K.W. 240-cycle generator, suitable for operating the 4 K.V.A. valve transmitter. A new six wire cage serial of $\frac{7}{18}$ wire was erected and a type 707 receiver installed. All buildings and masts were painted. The tramway was improved by replacing old wooden rails with steel rails and renewing a number of ties, and a considerable amount of brush was burnt and clearing done on site.

Bull Harbour.—All buildings and masts were painted.

Dead Tree Point.—The interior of the operating house was altered and a complete new 4 K.V.A. valve type 6.W. and I.C.W. transmitter and 707 receiver were installed. The old mast was scrapped and a new 180-foot mast, aerial and ground system were installed. The water and drainage systems were improved by running a pipe to a fresh water spring near the station, and providing pumping arrangements. Charging arrangements for filament batteries were also fitted.

Digby Island.—The power cable between the island and the mainland was interrupted and had to be lifted. Two faults were located and repaired. An experimental short wave transmitter and receiver were made up and tests carried out between Gonzales Hill and Digby. Tests indicate that good communication can be had the year round with comparative freedom from atmospherics and interference.

Estevan Point.—A type 707 receiver was installed.

Gonzales Hill.—An addition was built to the operating house and a 4 K.V.A. valve type C.W. and tonic train transmitter installed. A type 707 receiver was also installed. Interference to broadcast listeners in Victoria has been materially reduced since the installation of the new transmitter.

Merry Island.—An R3-A, 50-watt radiophone transmitter and an R-4 receiver were installed in the fog-alarm building together with a type Z charging set and battery as source of power. A two-piece 120-foot mast was made up and erected. This station communicates directly with the Vancouver City station and with ships fitted with radiophone apparatus.

Pachena Point.—As the well supply of fresh water had proved to be unsatisfactory a small spring was located at the face of the cliff and temporary tanks put in to collect this water. The pumping engine and pump were moved close to the spring and water is now pumped to the elevated water tank near the buildings. A pipe connection was also made to the lighthouse dwelling. An ample supply of better water is provided by this arrangement. New water cooling tanks for the engine cooling system were installed. A rebuilt 6-horsepower engine was sent to Pachena to replace old engine which required repairs and replacements.

Point Grey.—An addition was built to the operating house and a 4 K.V.A. valve type C.W. and tonic train transmitter and type 707 receiver were installed. The old 3 K.W. Admiralty arc transmitter was dismantled. The buildings and masts were painted and rigging overhauled.

Vancouver City.—A complete new coast station was installed at Vancouver in the Merchants' Exchange building, and has relieved Point Grey of the ship to shore service. The antenna is suspended from a 40-foot steel pipe mast erected on the top of the Post Office building. A 4 K.V.A. valve type C.W. and tonic train transmitter and type 707 receiver were installed. An R3-A, 50-watt point to point radiophone transmitter, and an R-4 receiver were installed for telephone communication with Merry Island and ships.

Life-Saving Stations.—In addition to the general inspection and overhaul of radio apparatus at the Banfield, Cape Beale and Carmanah Life-Saving stations, a new operating house for the radiophone set was erected at Banfield and a new 60-foot pipe mast made up and shipped to Cape Beale ready for erecting. A new submarine telephone cable was laid between Lennard Island and Low peninsula and landline connection made between the cable end and the Life-Saving station at Tofino. Telephone connection between the Lennard Island lighthouse and Tofino Life-saving station was established.

GREAT LAKES

Point Edward.—A 4 K.V.A. valve type C.W. and I.C.W. transmitter was installed together with a type M.S.T.2 Receiver.

Sault Ste. Marie.—A 4 K.V.A. valve type C. W. and I.C.W. transmitter was installed together with a type M.S.T.2 Receiver.

Port Arthur.—A 4 K.V.A. valve type C.W. and I.C.W. transmitter was installed together with a type M.S.T.2 Receiver.

EAST COAST

Chebucto Head, N.S., D.F.—A 3½ K.W. engine generator charger unit was installed and the main batteries can now be charged at their normal rating reducing the total hours of running. The Western Union telegraph connection was replaced by the Canadian Pacific Railway, and the buildings and masts were overhauled and painted.

Canso, N.S., D.F.—A new 3½ K.W. engine generator charging unit and a filament battery charging set, together with separate charging board were installed. A new gasoline storage tank of 500 gallons capacity and Bowser pump were added to the station equipment, and site in vicinity of station cleared of all shrubbery, reducing fire hazards.

St. Paul Island, N.S., D.F.—The aerial system and rigging were overhauled and buildings repainted. A shed for coal and oil storage was erected. Alterations were made to one half of the superintendent's dwelling to accommodate the single operators. Inter-communicating telephones between the operating house, bungalow and power-house were installed.

Red Head, N.B., D.F.—The new type aerial suspension gear was erected. All buildings and masts were painted and all standing rigging overhauled. The station was later calibrated.

Yarmouth, N.S., D.F.—The station was recalibrated and some minor repairs were carried out to the type Z6-horsepower engine.

Belle Isle, D.F.—This station was taken over from the Canadian Marconi Company and converted into a double service station, commercial and direction finding. The construction staff landed on Belle Isle, June 15, 1925, the operating staff leaving Quebec for Belle Isle on August 23. A new power-house was built and modern plant installed including a 4 K.V.A. valve type C.W. and I.C.W. transmitter and one 2 K.W. spark transmitter with rotary gap discharger; the old receiving apparatus was replaced by a modified type 12-A direction finding receiver and a Marconi type M.S.T.2 receiver for stand-by work. A dwelling was built for the accommodation of the operating staff and all construction work completed in time for the construction crew to leave by the last boat, the C.G.S. Aranmore, on October 17, 1925.

Cape Bear, P.E.I.—This station has been closed to commercial traffic since 1922, when the masts were left standing. These were lowered this year as the anchorages of the guys were in danger of being washed away by the sea.

Quebec.—A 2 K.V.A. valve type C.W. and I.C.W. transmitter was installed together with a type M.S. receiver.

Montreal.—A 2 K.V.A. valve type C.W. and I.C.W. transmitter was installed together with a type M.S. receiver.

SPECIAL ASSISTANCE RENDERED TO SHIPS DURING THE YEAR BY GOVERNMENT RADIO SERVICE

WEST COAST.

Digby Island.

U.S.S. Boxer.—At 5.45 a.m. on March 6, 1926, the Digby Island station received a request from the U.S.S. Boxer for a Government steamer to pull her off rock at White Cliffe island, stating that she was unable to obtain assistance through Ketchikan. The marine agent was communicated with and reported that ss. Newington would leave Prince Rupert at 7.30 p.m. to assist. The Newington failed in an attempt to pull Boxer off next high tide, but stood by until relieved by United States Government vessels Unalga and Cygen. These vessels stood by until Boxer was refloated at 11.30 a.m. on March 10. Boxer proceeded to Prince Rupert under own steam.

Estevan Point.

Launch Swastika.—At 23.55 on February 17, 1926, the s.s. Goldengate reported to the Estevan station that the launch Swastika was ashore on Entrance island, Quatsino sound, sea too rough to do anything. At 00.34 on 18th, Estevan advised the Thiepval, but as latter would require eighteen hours to reach Entrance island, a launch was requested from Port Alice. This launch together with the s.s. Rochelie made search but without success. Wreckage of Swastika found several days later by police; crew of two lost.

Pachena Point D.F.

SS. Iyo Maru.—At 03.20 on October 15, 1925, the Pachena Direction Finding station received a distress message from the ss. Iyo Maru advising grounded near Carmanah lighthouse at 03.20, and requesting services of tug. Pachena, while endeavouring to obtain services of tug and assistance of Government vessel known to be in vicinity, was advised by Iyo Maru that vessel afloat, request for tug cancelled and assistance of C.G.S. Givenchy, which had been informed, not necessary. The Iyo Maru arrived at Victoria, B.C., under own power.

M.S. Chapultepec.—At 11.40 on February 9, 1926, the lightkeeper at Carmanah lighthouse advised the operator on watch at Pachena that a vessel close in shore was flying distress signals. Pachena advised the commanding officer of patrol vessel Thiepval, who reported he would proceed to investigate as soon as steam raised. The Thiepval got under way at 13.12 and took schooner in tow at 16.20. The Thiepval handed vessel over to the ss. Salvage Queen at 02.34 on 10th, which towed her to Victoria, B.C.

Launch J. B..—At 15.20 on March 10, 1926, the Pachena Direction Finding station observed a boat about a mile off shore flying white flag at masthead, apparently in trouble. The Bamfield Life-Saving station was informed by radiophone at 15.22, the lifeboat taking launch in tow at 17.13. The J.B., whose engine had broken down, was towed to Bamfield, B.C.

The West Coast radio stations were also of assistance to the ss. Mogul, Princess Beatrice, Canadian Miller, tug Imbricaria, Eemdyk, tug Hope and Mina Brea.

The Zeeland proceeded to position given but could see nothing of distressed vessel. Camperdown advised marine agent, Dartmouth, and Lloyds agent, Halifax, and broadcasted distress signal with position given and endeavoured locate vessel in distress, without success. Lloyds agent requested Camperdown to ask ss. San Gil to keep lookout; this was done at 9.55 a.m. While close watch was kept and broadcast made at frequent intervals, nothing further was heard until 1st May on arrival of ss. Clackamas in Halifax, when it was ascertained this vessel was responsible for S.O.S., having run down a sailing vessel the night before, amateur operator on board being unfamiliar with proper procedure for handling distress message.

Camperdown stood by and assisted in exchange of messages between the West Cohas and the ss. Winona County and Hatteras proceeding to assistance. Camperdown was advised that the ss. Venosta had put a line on board the West Cohas at 6.05 p.m. on July 21, the West Cohas was towed off by the steamers Winona County and Hatteras and proceeded on voyage to Glasgow. The Chebucto Head Direction Finding station had given cross bearings to the West Cohas prior to going ashore which put vessel very close to Sable island. The West Cohas was skirting the beach in an effort to locate the Labrador ashore on Sable island.

This message was broadcasted for two days on each 2400 C.W. period, and for a further two days giving new position "16th, lat. 52.54, long. 40.22". London advised broadcast discontinued October 21, 1925.

This information was broadcasted on each 2400 metre C.W. period until advised that ss. President Harding had gone to assistance. At 11 G.M.T. on October 21 the Ignazio Florio was abandoned in sinking condition, in lat. 49.50 N., Long. 37.46 W. Crew safe on board President Harding.

Ship listed 30 degrees, loaded with wheat helpless, lifeboats smashed, please quick assist Captain." Chebucto endeavoured obtain bearing on Raifuku Maru immediately but was unsuccessful owing to interference, the Halifax wireless officer was then advised. A bearing 153 degrees was obtained at 11.18 which was broadcasted by the Camperdown station. At 15.20 bearings Chebucto 156 $\frac{1}{4}$, Canso 187 $\frac{1}{2}$, sent s.s. Homeric proceeding to assistance. At 16.15 Homeric alongside Raifuku Maru but unable rescue crew account heavy sea. Vessel foundered with all hands.

Chebucto took a bearing on next transmission 1606 vessel bearing 55 $\frac{1}{4}$ ° which put her on Shut-in shoal. This bearing was passed to Camperdown for transmission to Moldegaard, the Halifax wireless officer was also advised. At 1630 Moldegaard reports "according to W/T bearing we are on Pennant point." Chebucto took readings on each transmission, bearings 55 $\frac{1}{4}$ and 248 $\frac{1}{2}$. On May 2, the crew of Moldegaard were taken off by the C.G.S. Stanley.

REVIEW OF THE FISHERIES OF 1925

The total production of the fisheries of Canada during the year under review was greater than during the preceding year and the marketed value was almost $3,500,000 greater.

In the following table will be seen the marketed value by provinces with a comparison of the previous year:—

	1925	1924
Nova Scotia.....	$ 10,213,687	$ 8,777,251
New Brunswick.....	4,798,589	5,383,286
Prince Edward Island.....	1,598,119	1,201,772
Quebec.....	3,044,919	2,283,314
Ontario.....	3,436,412	3,557,587
Manitoba.....	1,466,939	1,232,563
Saskatchewan.....	479,645	482,492
Alberta.....	458,504	339,107
British Columbia.....	22,414,618	21,257,567
Yukon Territory.....	15,370	18,773
	47,926,802	$ 44,534,235

The increased value for Nova Scotia of about $1,500,000 is accounted for by the greatly increased catches in cod and lobsters.

In the province of New Brunswick decreases are noted in the catches of cod, sardines, and smelts, with a corresponding drop in the value.

The catches of cod, herring and lobsters in the province of Prince Edward Island were larger in 1925 and caused the value to be higher.

There was a considerable increase in the catch and value of cod in the province of Quebec, while the salmon and lobster catches were also greater.

In Ontario and Saskatchewan the catches were about the same as in the preceding year, while in Manitoba there were greater catches of whitefish and tullibee. The increase in Alberta was due to greater catches of pickerel, pike and whitefish.

British Columbia shows an increase in value of over a million dollars which is accounted for by a larger catch of herring and an increase in the marketed value of salmon.

ATLANTIC COAST

Cod, Haddock, Hake and Pollock.—There were 2,872,281 cwts. of these fish taken, compared with 2,433,234 cwts. in 1924. Each of these kinds, with the exception of hake, shows an increased catch in Nova Scotia. In New Brunswick the cod catch shows a decrease, but in the other three kinds an increase. Prince Edward Island and Quebec returns each give an increased catch of cod of about 50 per cent. The quantity marketed in a fresh state (including fresh fillets) was 306,860 cwts., compared with 331,421 cwts. in the previous year, while there were 103,116 cwts. of smoked prepared (including smoked fillets), compared with 78,287 cwts. in 1924.

The Lunenburg banking fleet had a very successful season. There were ten more vessels added to the fleet during the year. There are now ten steam trawlers operating out of Nova Scotian ports, and these supply mainly the demand for fresh fish.

Mackerel, Herring and Sardines.—The catch of these three kinds amounted to 1,428,155 cwts., as compared with 1,600,179 cwts. in the preceding year. A drop of some 60,000 cwts. in the catch of herring in Nova Scotia was more than offset by increases in the other three provinces so that the total catch of 923,428 cwts. is greater than that of 1924 by 78,967 cwts. The quantity of herring smoked again shows an increase, some 89,404 cwts. being prepared in this manner as against 71,366 cwts.

The catch of mackerel was 187,661 cwts., which is less than that of the previous year by 27,929 cwts. While the total catch was less, the catch for Nova Scotia was the second largest since 1910. The marketed value of the catch was poor owing to the American market being well stocked by their own fishermen.

There were 158,533 barrels of sardines taken, compared with 270,064 barrels in the previous year. There was a heavy run of these fish on the Maine coast which were sold by the Maine fishermen at a comparatively low price; hence the demand for Canadian fish was not as keen as it otherwise would have been.

Other Sea Fish.—There were 21,767 cwts of halibut taken, which is a slight decrease from the previous year. The catch of swordfish was 4,551 cwts., which is less than in 1924. Some 16,606 cwts. of tomcod and 11,893 cwts of flounders were caught. This is a slight increase in the case of the former and nearly double the quantity in the latter instance.

FISHERIES BRANCH

Shellfish.—The increase in the catch of lobsters is very noticeable. There were 340,838 cwts. taken compared with 272,213 cwts. in 1924. The catch and its disposal by provinces was as follows:—

1925	Catch	Catch in shell	Marketed canned
	cwt.	cwt.	cases
Nova Scotia.....	170,698	63,525	53,745
New Brunswick.....	65,894	10,991	27,236
Prince Edward Island.....	78,570	10,272	34,121
Quebec.....	25,676	1,313	12,395

1924
Nova Scotia.....	115,275	34,550	40,831
New Brunswick.....	68,303	26,024	23,548
Prince Edward Island.....	65,893	6,650	26,814
Quebec.....	22,742	1,025	10,925

There were 19,960 barrels of oysters taken compared with 27,319 barrels in the previous year.

Clams and quahaugs also show a falling-off, some 28,459 barrels being dug compared with 40,327 barrels in the preceding year. There were 17,718 barrels of scallops landed which is an increase of 7,368 barrels.

River Spawning Fish.—The catch of salmon was 57,352 cwts. compared with 57,561 cwts. in the previous year.

The quantity of smelts taken dropped from 88,296 cwts. to 75,457 cwts. The catch of these fish in New Brunswick shows a big decrease.

There were 56,781 cwts. of alewives taken, compared with 31,401 in 1924. The catch in Nova Scotia was more than double that of the previous year, while that in New Brunswick gives a good increase.

INLAND FISHERIES

The catch of whitefish was 186,648 cwts., compared with 167,706 cwts. in 1924. The province of Ontario was the only one to show a decrease in the catch.

There were 86,877 cwts. of pickerel landed, compared with 101,610 cwts. in the previous year. In addition, some 34,453 cwts. of blue pickerel were landed in the province of Ontario. This quantity is slightly greater than that landed in 1924.

Some 45,555 cwts. of herring were landed in Ontario, compared with 125,013 cwts. in the year previous.

PACIFIC FISHERIES

The fishing industry on the Pacific coast, which produces nearly half the total value for the whole of Canada, was again successfully prosecuted and the results show an increase of about a million and a quarter dollars.

Salmon.—There was a catch of 1,873,376 cwts. compared with 1,965,159 cwts. in 1924. The number of cases canned was 1,720,622, compared with 1,747,505 in the year previous. Owing to higher prices obtaining, however, the value of the production in this one variety was $14,973,885 or nearly two million dollars more than in 1924.

There were 392,545 cases of sockeye packed, or an increase of 22,944 cases. The largest pack was that of chums 607,337 cases compared with 570,497 cases in the previous year.

Halibut.—The catch of halibut was 318,240 cwts., which is somewhat less than that of the year previous, when some 331,382 cwts. were landed. The value of this fishery declined considerably due chiefly to the cold storage holdings, the latter having been held for the close season with the expectation of considerably increased prices, which failed to materialize.

Herring.—There were 1,437,875 cwts. of herring landed, compared with 1,157,625 cwts. in 1924. Of the catch there were 1,083,174 cwts. dry salted. This is the largest pack on record for the Pacific province.

Pilchards.—The catch was 318,973 cwts. compared with 27,485 cwts. in 1924. The large increase is due to the fact that pilchards were allowed to be processed in reduction works' plants for the first time. There were 495,653 gallons of oil and 2,083 tons of meal produced on the west coast of Vancouver Island from these fish.

Whales and Seals.—The operations of the whaling company were not as successful as in 1924, the number of whales caught falling from 415 to 351. The number of fur seals taken was 4,465 compared with 2,232 in the previous year.

INSPECTION OF FISH

The inspection of certain kinds of fish, and the packages in which they are marketed, is carried on under authority of the Fish Inspection Act. The Act makes it necessary for packers to have both fish and barrels in accordance with its requirements and empowers Inspectors to examine such whenever and wherever it is necessary and convenient.

The work was carried on during the year 1925-26 with a staff of two permanent and twelve temporary inspectors on the Atlantic coast and two temporary inspectors on the Pacific coast. On the Atlantic coast during the year there were inspected over fifty-two packages of various kinds containing salted herring, mackerel, alewives and salmon. There were also inspected 62,000 boxes of smoked herring which were prepared for export. In addition to these 80,000 empty barrels were examined to ascertain whether they were up to the standard required by the Act before they passed into the hands of the packers.

On the Pacific coast the large and very important trade in dry salted herring between British Columbia and China was supervised by the department's inspectors. Provided the container is of standard size and filled to capacity with fish that are properly cured a certificate to that effect is issued by the inspector to the shipper of each shipment and the inspection system is now so satisfactory to shippers that they would not think of making a shipment without the official certificate. During the year under review 290,000 boxes of dry salted herring, each containing four hundred pounds, were inspected.

Under this system of inspection the quality of the cured articles on both coasts is being rapidly improved. The greatest and probably the most important improvement of all is in the quality and strength of the barrels that are now being made all over the Atlantic coast, which alone would seem to justify the institution of our inspection system.

INSPECTION OF CANNERIES AND CANNED FISH

The inspection of fish canneries of all kinds throughout Canada, the raw material to be used therein and the process of canning the product and the labelling and marking of the cans was carried on during the year 1925-26 as previously under the provisions of the Meat and Canned Foods Act. This inspection is carried on by the department's staff of fishery overseers as part of their regular duties. There are between six and seven hundred canneries, large and small, canning fish of various kinds on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. As a result of the inspection that has been conducted for several years there is a marked improvement not only in the conditions under which canning operations are carried on from the sanitary point of view but in the quality of the canned product as well. Defective buildings and equipment are being constantly rectified and improved at the instigation of the inspecting officers.

FISHERIES INTELLIGENCE SERVICE

Under this service there was carried on during the season of 1924:—

1. The collection of monthly statistics of the sea fisheries, and the compilation of such in a summarized form for publication through the press each month.
2. The publication of a quarterly bulletin containing the statistics in detail. The bulletin is distributed to the trade and all directly concerned. The statistics are practically all collected by the regular fishery officers while performing their other duties as such and at very little additional cost.
3. The collection of information concerning supplies of bait day by day along certain stretches of the coast during the spring and summer months. The information is gathered by the officers of the department, who send it by telegram daily to certain ports where it is posted up for the information of masters of fishing vessels and those looking for bait.

FISHING BOUNTY

Under the authority of "An Act to encourage the development of the Sea Fisheries and the building of Fishing Vessels," the sum of $160,000 is appropriated annually by the department and paid to fishermen of the maritime provinces. The bounty is distributed under regulations made from time to time by the Governor in Council.

For the year 1925, payment was made on the following basis:—

To owners of vessels entitled to receive bounty—$1 per registered ton, payment to the owner of any one vessel not to exceed $80.

To vessel fishermen entitled to receive bounty—$8 each.

To owners of boats measuring not less than 13 feet keel—$1 per boat.

To boat fishermen entitled to receive bounty—$6.30 each.

There were 9,979 bounty claims paid. In the preceding year there were 10,104 bounty claims paid.

The total amount paid was $159,984.80 allocated as follows:—

To 540 vessels and their crew.....	$ 41,948 30
To 9,439 boats and their crew.....	118,036 50

FISH CULTURE

Canada since confederation has always held a foremost place in fish culture, and at the present time its fish cultural service is second only to that of the Federal Government of the United States. It is operating thirty-three main hatcheries, six subsidiary hatcheries, four salmon-retaining ponds and one eyeing station.

The output from these establishments during 1925 was 707,273,319, as shown by the species in the following statement:—

NORTH AMERICAN COMMITTEE ON FISHERIES INVESTIGATIONS

This committee continues to perform excellent services at practically no cost to the Governments represented thereon. The committee was created in 1921 and now consists of three representatives each of the fisheries services of Canada and the United States and one each of Newfoundland and France. Its duty is to determine what general fishery investigations should be undertaken in areas in which two or more of the Governments represented are interested and to arrange for co-operation in carrying such out,—thus avoiding needless duplication,—and co-ordinating and correlating the results. It usually meets twice each year, once in the spring when the work to be undertaken during the summer is decided upon, and once in the fall, when the results are considered and arrangements are made for their co-ordination and correlation. The spring meeting of 1925 was held in New York and the fall meeting in Montreal.

The work mainly conducted during the year was a continuation of the study of the life-history of cod, haddock and mackerel. A large number of fish, principally cod and mackerel, were tagged in both Canada and the United States, in order that their movements might be followed. Ocean temperatures and currents and their effect on the movement of fish both directly and indirectly are also being studied. Intensely interesting results are being obtained and it is anticipated that detailed reports on some of these matters will be published shortly.

PACIFIC HALIBUT TREATY AND INTERNATIONAL COMMISSION APPOINTED THEREUNDER

Off the Pacific coast of this continent there is what is by far the greatest halibut fishery in the world, though its potentialities have been seriously minimized by overfishing. The fishery from both Canadian and United States ports still continues to produce from fifty to fifty-five million pounds, dressed weight, per year.

This fishery was begun in a commercial way in 1888, when a fishing schooner from Gloucester, Massachusetts, lured by reports of abundance of halibut on the Pacific coast, made its way to Seattle, via cape Horn. During the first few years the industry had a struggle for existence, not because of lack of fish, as they proved to be in great abundance, but owing to inadequate and expensive marketing facilities, the markets of importance all being east of the Mississippi river. By 1892 these facilities were greatly improved, and the business began to grow rapidly. The first fishing was conducted off cape Flattery and the west coast of Vancouver island, but it soon was extended to Hecate strait, where fish of the very best quality were found to be so wonderfully plentiful that a vessel could take a full load of 300,000 pounds in two or three days of favourable weather. At that time only the fish of desirable size were retained. As Vancouver offered equally good rail facilities for shipping fish to the eastern markets, as did Seattle, and as it was considerably nearer the fishing banks the New England Fish Company, which for some time had been operating from Seattle, established a base in Vancouver in 1894, and the fishery from that port expanded rapidly.

Owing to its attractive appearance, its flavour, firm texture, excellent keeping qualities and the slight waste as well as little trouble in handling it in a retail way the demand for halibut grew rapidly both in Canada and the United States. Hence the fishery became more and more intensive and by 1914 all the nearby areas showed the result of overfishing. Consequently new producing areas were being sought and the fishery was extended more and more to the north and west, until now it is conducted as far west as Shumagin islands. Every move westward, however, increases the length of the voyage, which involves greater cost of production as well as a longer time from when the fish are caught until they can be marketed.

As halibut banks extend from off the coast of Oregon at intervals all the way to and into Bering sea, it might at first glance seem that the producing area is so large that exhaustion should not be probable, but it must not be overlooked that the continental shelf on the Pacific coast is quite narrow, so that the producing area is not nearly as great as would appear from its length.

While the fishery on this side of the Pacific is engaged in only from Canadian and United States ports, owing to the fact that it is largely carried on beyond territorial waters neither country alone could control it. At the same time it is highly in the interests of both countries that the fishery should be permanently maintained in a flourishing condition. Hence the question of finding an adequate method of dealing with the matter was one of those that was referred to the Canadian-American Fisheries Conference that was appointed in 1918 by the Governments of the two countries to consider a settlement of outstanding fishery questions between Canada and the United States. The conference, after taking evidence on the different sections of the coast, unanimously recommended that for the purposes of conservation and for the following other reasons there should be a close season for halibut fishing from the 16th of November in each year to the 15th of February following, both days inclusive, and that the two countries should arrange for a joint investigation into the life-history of the halibut:—

1. The weather conditions are then at their worst, and all or nearly all of the serious loss of life and vessels in this fishery has occurred during this time.
2. It is during this period that practically all the loss of fishing gear takes place, and such loss is then enormous. It is claimed that 50 per cent of the gear of every vessel is lost or has to be cut away during this time. When it is stated that the larger vessels "set" what is equal to 48 miles of line per day, and that hooks are fastened to these lines at intervals of about ten feet, what this loss of gear means in the aggregate will be realized.
3. Apart from the monetary loss involved in the destruction of gear, which in itself is exceedingly heavy, this widwinter fishery tends to drive the fish from the grounds. As the fish bite with avidity during the spawning season, it is reasonable to assume that when this gear is left in the water fish will become impaled on most of the hooks and will eventually die and decompose.
4. The evidence shows that 15 per cent of the annual catch is made during these three months, but in addition thereto it is estimated that 10 per cent of the total catch is taken and destroyed on this lost gear.
5. The fish caught at this time are in a very inferior condition from a food standpoint and should not be marketed. They are thin, their flesh is flabby, and they are known to the trade as "slabs."
6. Three months in the year are needed to properly overhaul and prepare the vessels, so that these three months would be used to advantage.

While there was little or no division of opinion as to the wisdom of the above course on either side of the line, as it became part of a proposed agreement for the settlement of several questions on which action was being delayed, Canada proposed in 1922 that the halibut question should be considered by itself. This was agreed to and resulted in the Treaty of the 2nd of March, 1923, for the protection of the Pacific halibut, which is the first treaty that was signed on behalf of Canada by a representative of the Canadian Government only. The treaty was ratified on October 21, 1924, and became effective on the first of the following month.

It provides,—

- (a) For the appointment of an International Commission of four members—two from each country—which commission is to exist as long as the treaty remains in force. The commission is to make a thorough investigation into the life history of the Pacific halibut and to report to the two Governments; and
- (b) For a close season for halibut in the North Pacific from November 16 in each year to February 15 following, both days inclusive. This close season is to remain effective at least three years, at the end of which time it may be modified by agreement between the two Governments on the recommendation of the International Commission.
- (c) The Treaty is to remain in force for five years and thereafter until two years after either party has given notice to the other of its wish to terminate it.

The personnel of the Commission are:—

Canadian Members,—W. A. Found, Director of Fisheries; J. P. Babcock, Assistant to the Commissioner of Fisheries for British Columbia.

United States Members,—Henry O'Malley, Commissioner of Fisheries for the United States; Capt. Miller Freeman, Publisher of Pacific Fisherman and other periodicals (Seattle).

The commission held its inaugural meetings at Seattle and Vancouver in November, 1924. Keeping in view the magnitude and peculiar difficulties of the investigation with which it was entrusted it decided on the following methods of procedure:—

1. The employment of a competent man as Director of Investigations.
2. The appointment of an honorary scientific advisory council, with which not only the Commission but the Director of Investigations could consult, and to which would be submitted the plan of investigation proposed by the Director, and such expansions thereof as would from time to time be found feasible.

This council consists of two members from Canada and two from the United States, viz.:—

From Canada.—Dr. A. McLean Fraser, Professor of Zoology in the University of British Columbia, and formerly Director of the Marine Biological Station at Departure Bay, B.C.; Dr. W. A. Clemens, Present Director of the aforesaid Marine Biological Station.

From the United States,—Professor John N. Cobb, head of the Fisheries College of the University of Washington; N. B. Schofield, in charge Department of Commercial Fisheries of California, San Francisco.

As above indicated the only compensation the members of the Council expect or receive is the personal satisfaction of assisting in a work of great value to both countries.

As Director of Investigations Mr. W. F. Thompson, a graduate of Stanford University, and who at the time was Director of the California Fisheries Laboratory, was engaged. Mr. Thompson had already spent two seasons in investigating the life-history of the halibut—1914-1916—when he was employed by the Fisheries Department of British Columbia. He had proved himself to possess the qualifications for which the commission was seeking. He entered actively upon his duties early in the year 1925, and since that time the work of investigation has gone on continuously. He has now a staff of five assistants, and the commission expects that as contemplated by the Treaty the investigations will be sufficiently advanced to enable the Commission to submit a report to the two Governments at the end of the three year period provided as a minimum for the close season.

The work is being carried out on a statistical and biological basis. A thorough statistical survey since the beginning of the industry has been nearly completed, and will be finished during the coming year. Also good advancement has been made towards determining the migration, growth, racial characteristics, etc. of the halibut. This side of the work will be greatly developed during the approaching season.

MARINE BIOLOGICAL BOARD

The Biological Board, which operates under the control of the department, was created in 1912 by Act of Parliament. It carries on purely scientific researches at two stations, one located at St. Andrews, N.B., and the other at Nanaimo, B.C. For ten years the membership of the board consisted entirely of scientists, two of which were nominated by the minister and the others by universities in which biological research was being carried on. In 1923 the Act was amended with a view to bringing the board into closer contact with the practical problems of the fishing industry. Under the amended Act the board now consists partly of scientific men and partly of men familiar with the industry's practical side. With this new organization there have been established on both coasts stations at which it is intended to apply to the everyday economic problems of those engaged in the industry, the results of previous and current scientific researches.

The new Atlantic station is located at Halifax, N.S. It was made ready for occupancy in the summer of last year, and in that short time a considerable amount of work of much economic value to the fishing industry has been accomplished.

The new Pacific station is located at Prince Rupert, B.C. Work at this station has not yet advanced so far as at the Halifax one, owing to some difficulty that arose over a site which is being provided by the Provincial Government, in addition to about half of the cost of the building that is to be erected thereon. The matter has now been satisfactorily settled, however, and the work is proceeding. In the meantime facilities have been provided by some of the fishing companies of Prince Rupert for the carrying on of experimental work, particularly with regard to refrigeration.

In addition to conducting the ordinary work of the stations, the board, during the year, provided short scientific and practical courses for fishery officers and fish hatchery officers. It also, at the request of the department, instituted a systematic plan of investigation covering a period of years into present fish cultural methods, through the agency of a committee of the board, known as the Research Committee.

The composition of the board and its various committees during the year 1925 was as follows:—

Dr. A. P. Knight, Chairman, Kingston, Ont.
 Mr. J. J. Cowie, Secretary-treasurer, Ottawa, Ont.
 Dr. Philip Cox, University of New Brunswick, Fredericton, N.B.

A detailed report of the activities of the board's staff of workers will be found at appendix No. 2 of this publication.

NATURAL HISTORY OBSERVATIONS

During the summer and fall of 1925, the department's naturalist carried on investigations, as follows:—

A study of the American oyster, chiefly in regard to the development of the sex elements within the gonad;

Tidal observations at Buctouche and vicinity in relation to where oysters can live in the winter, the food of the oyster and parasites which infested it;

Observations as to how oysters are locally distributed at certain parts of the strait of Northumberland;

Observations of the mussel and soft-shell clams;

Observations of the present condition of the scallop at Mahone bay;

Observations of the value of Jumbo lobsters as reproducers;

Observations of the spawning habits of smelt.

At appendix No. 3 of this report, the naturalist's observations on the value of the Jumbo lobster will be found given in full.

I regret to report that twenty-nine fishermen lost their lives during the year in pursuit of their calling—twenty on the Atlantic coast and nine on the Pacific coast.

I am, sir, your obedient servant,

A. JOHNSTON,

Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries.

APPENDIX

REPORTS OF INSPECTORS OF FISHERIES

REPORT OF WARD FISHER, CHIEF INSPECTOR OF THE PROVINCE OF NOVA SCOTIA, FOR 1925

The total landed catch for the year was 249,000,000 pounds, an increase of 28,000,000 pounds, as compared with the catch of 1924.

The total marketed value of all fish and fish products was $10,213,687, or $1,436,436 greater than 1924.

The above is evidence that the fisheries, generally, were operated with satisfactory results to both fishermen and dealers. The conditions were favourable from the opening of the season, the weather being mild, and the coast free from ice, consequently the inshore spring operations began about two weeks earlier than for some years.

While the mackerel catch of 11,799,000 pounds was the second largest since 1910, the fishermen profited little, as the American markets were flooded by the extraordinary large catches taken off the coast of that country. Similar conditions affected the fishery during the previous year, when the catch was nearly equal to that of the past season.

There was a very considerable increase in the catch of flounders and skate, which fish, previous to 1924, was largely waste. Markets, however, have been found in Great Britain, to which country the greater portion of the catches are shipped. Nearly 700,000 pounds of skate were landed, having a marketed value of $23,380.

The catch of scallops was 12,404 barrels, an increase of nearly 5,000 barrels over the previous year. In the comparatively new area of the Bay of Fundy district the catch was 8,187 barrels, as compared with the catch of the old and well-known fishery of the Chester district, where the catch was only about one-half that taken in the Bay of Fundy region. The development of these new areas is the more evident when it is noted that there were only thirty-five licensed scallop fishermen operating, as against nearly 200 in the Chester district. Other areas of considerable extent are known to exist in the Bay of Fundy waters, and investigations have shown that many other places along the eastern coast have deposits of this valuable shellfish. The markets are being extended and an excellent price was received for the available supplies.

Among the more outstanding features of the year were:—

SUCCESS OF THE LOBSTER FISHERY

As the catch for 1924 was the smallest on record, it was quite generally feared that the fishery was suffering a serious decline and that drastic action would have to be taken to safeguard the fishery.

Happily, however, the catch for 1925 showed a substantial increase over the previous year, being 170,698 cwts., as compared with 115,275 cwts. for 1924, an increase of 55,423 cwts. With few exceptions the increase was general throughout the district. Also, the prices received by the fishermen were higher than the previous year.

The following totals show the catch, and the marketed values, as compared with 1924.

The increases, as noted above, are largely responsible for the substantial increases in the total marketed value of the fisheries as compared with that of 1924. The quantity shipped alive to the United States and Canadian points, continues to increase from year to year, and undoubtedly affects the quantity packed. Over 63,000 cwts. were shipped alive last year, which is nearly 20,000 cwts. greater than since 1921. From the western district alone about 25,000 cwts. were shipped to the United States by steamers from Yarmouth, and, in addition, over 12,000 cwts. were shipped by smacks. The total quantity used for canning in the western district was 35,000 cwts., or less than the quantity shipped alive.

THE COD AND HADDOCK FISHERIES

The cod and haddock fisheries are so closely related, particularly with respect to the fresh, smoked, and dried fish markets, that they may be considered under the one head. The past year was a most successful one, the total catch being the greatest for any season during the past five-year period. The catch was 173,195,600 pounds, cod being responsible for 140,823,800 pounds, and haddock 32,371,800 pounds.

The following totals will reveal certain developments with respect to the disposal of the catches that will be of interest:—

COD

	Catch	Fresh	Smoked	Dried
	cwt.	cwt.	cwt.	cwt.
1921.....	1,415,190	74,620	16,456	319,660

HADDOCK

	Catch	Fresh	Smoked	Dried
	cwt.	cwt.	cwt.	cwt.
1921.....	259,195	114,247	39,917	10,741
1922.....	298,593	112,931	49,281	15,109
1923.....	297,023	132,202	51,481	12,551
1924.....	320,804	144,915	45,386	19,052
1925.....	323,718	148,935	45,103	16,818

It will be noted that during the five-year period the quantity of cod, smoked, has increased more than three-fold, while the quantity of haddock, smoked, has remained nearly stationary. On the other hand, the quantity of haddock marketed in a fresh state, which include fresh fillets, has increased from 11,424,700 pounds to 15,123,300 pounds.

The increase in the fresh and smoked fish trade, which also includes herring and mackerel, has been coincident with the excellent advertising of our sea products, backed by a very great improvement in the quality of the goods marketed. The improvement is particularly noteworthy with respect to fresh and smoked fish. Improved transportation facilities have done much to extend the markets.

The response to the efforts of the dealers to expand the markets is evidenced by the fact that notwithstanding the large increase in the catches, the orders from Canadian and American markets have exceeded the supply during a considerable portion of the year.

The extent and value of the fresh and smoked fish trade may readily be seen by noting that about 1,000 carloads were forwarded from Mulgrave and Halifax alone. In addition, large quantities were shipped in less than carload lots, and over 7,000,000 pounds by express.

The possibilities for continued expansion are excellent.

THE SUCCESS OF THE LUNENBURG FLEET

The Lunenburg fleet of seventy-four vessels had the most successful season on record for the number of vessels engaged. The total catch was 264,725 quintals, an average per vessel of 3,577 quintals. The "high line" was the schooner W. E. Knock, Captain William Deal, with a catch of 6,418 quintals.

What the success of the fleet means is readily seen when it is noted that the average price per quintal was $7.25, or a total of over $2,000,000. Rarely, if ever, in the history of the fleet, have the rewards been as great as during the past year.

The year also witnessed the result of the revival of the interest awakened by the success of the operations of 1924, when the fleet of sixty-four vessels had a very profitable year. The revival is indicated by the increase of twelve new vessels, and the continued activity of the shipyards. Some twenty new schooners were launched from the yards of the south shore west of Halifax. About ten more were on the stocks at the end of the year, and sufficient orders were on hand to keep the yards busy during the whole of 1926. About seventy-five per cent of the twenty new vessels were constructed in Lunenburg county yards, these adding greatly to the prosperity of the county.

It should, however, be pointed out that the satisfactory and remunerative marketing of any increased catches will only be possible by improving the present curing and processing methods. This is necessary in order not only to hold the markets which the Lunenburg cure has had control over many years, but also to enter new markets and successfully compete with the product of other countries. Lunenburg is becoming alive to the necessity of this course, and the coming season will see the result of the interest manifested in this regard.

COLD STORAGE EXPANSION

With the expansion of the fresh and smoked fish trade, it became quite evident that the present storage and handling facilities are wholly inadequate to properly care for the products. Halifax, which is fast becoming the great centre of the industry has prime need of greater and improved facilities. Negotiations are now in progress for the establishment of a large and modern cold storage plant, which will not only be of direct advantage to the Halifax trade, but will greatly assist the business of the whole coast.

The Maritime Fish Corporation intends constructing a plant on the Dartmouth side of Halifax harbour, in order that the demands of the fresh fish trade may be met more expeditiously and profitably than from the present plant at Canso.

THE STEAM TRAWLER FLEET

To meet the demands of the fresh and smoked fish markets, particularly during the winter season, the steam trawler fleet of six steamers was increased to ten, by the addition of the Viernoe operating for the National Fish Company, and the Lord Beaconsfield, Lord Shaftesbury and Lord Darling for the Maritime Fish Corporation. The ten trawlers are of British or Canadian registry.

PROBLEM OF THE SHORE FISHERMEN

It is quite apparent that the new conditions arising from the remarkable expansion of the fresh and smoked fish trade are changing the whole trend of the industry. It is evident that the isolated fisherman is not in a position to take advantage of the markets. Nor is he, along a large portion of the coast, in a position to take care of the catches. Without capital, and without equipment for drying or pickling, he is sadly handicapped while his more fortunate brothers at Lockeport, Liverpool, Yarmouth and other buying and curing centres, are disposing of their catches direct from the boat for cash without any of the labour of caring for and curing the catch.

Operating methods have been greatly changed. In the earlier days 80 per cent of the catches of cod, herring and mackerel were marketed in a dried or pickled condition by the fishermen, the process occupying a large share of their time. These methods have quite generally been superseded, owing to the rapidly growing demand for fresh fish with the result that fishermen along a considerable portion of the coast dispose of their catches fresh from the boats, traps, and nets, and usually at a price so low as to make the business unprofitable, except at points where the large buyers may be easily and inexpensively reached. To put it in a plain way, the reason so many of our fishermen have quit is that they have found it impossible to earn a comfortable living under the conditions that have obtained the past ten or more years.

The introduction of motor power, and other modern methods have out-distanced many of the fishermen scattered along the coast. In 1882 the number of small boats, row and sail, was 12,000, employing over 22,000 men. At present nearly 6,000 gasoline boats are employed, representing an investment of nearly one and a half million dollars. The total value of the 12,000 boats in 1882 was only $328,000.

The row and sail boat is too laborious an equipment to suit present-day conditions. The fathers, hard-working, simple-living, were not affected by the love of easy living, quick return, and bright lights, all of which are essential to the children if they are to keep step with the enterprise of prosperous life.

The loss of man-power has been more than made up by the adoption of better equipment, better processing of the catches, larger rewards and quicker return. The cod catch, for instance, has increased from 61,000,000 pounds in 1882 to 113,000,000 pounds in 1924, and the catch of haddock doubled.

While the loss in our fishing population is to be deplored, the industry is in a much more promising condition than in its history, due largely to the creation of fresh fish centres. The demand for sea food is growing more insistent, and notwithstanding the growth in storage and processing establishments, and the introduction of a fleet of modern steam trawlers, the demand is difficult to meet, particularly during the winter season.

It would appear that the problem of the shore fishermen can be solved in two ways only. First, by the employment of the smaller deck boat of 10 tons or more, and of the larger schooner of from 40 to 70 tons, thus enabling the grounds to be fished for several successive days before returning home. Or, second, employment of many of the shore fishermen in connection with the larger centres, or with the schooner fleets. For instance, during the past year the Lunenburg fleet has had to engage about 400 fishermen from Newfoundland, in addition to the number previously employed, to make up the necessary quota to man the vessels. It is not easy for many of our fishermen to break old customs. For generations they have been their own masters, largely independent of outside influences, and therefore they do not take readily to employment either on the fishing fleets or on shore.

With particular regard to the necessity for larger boats and vessels, and improved methods, the following statistics covering the landings at Lockeport the past year will be of interest, as that port has built a fleet of small schooners and large motor boats able to operate the whole year:—

LOCKEPORT 1925

	Cod	Haddock	Inshore	Offshore
	lb.	lb.	lb.	lb.
January.....	213,500	164,000	377,500

August.....	511,000	3,600	244,600	270,000
September.....	284,500	141,000	352,500	73,000

	4,080,500	1,652,000	4,042,800	1,668,500

The above shows that nearly five and three-quarter million pounds of cod and haddock were landed at Lockeport, over four million pounds from the inshore grounds. In addition to the total quantity shown, considerable catches by the larger vessels were landed at Halifax, Liverpool, and other ports.

LOSS OF LIFE

The hazardous calling of the fishermen has been poignantly revealed by the loss of life the past year. "What Price Fish" has been distressingly brought to the families and friends of the eleven following men who were drowned while engaged in their calling:—

(1) Ernest Brown, Stoney island, Cape Sable island, lost March 11, while fishing from small boat in Barrington bay.

(2) Kenneth Brown, Stoney island, Cape Sable island, lost March 11 from small boat off Stoney island.

(3) Carl Neilson, washed overboard from the National Fish Company's trawler Lemberg, during a heavy gale while the trawler was on her way from the fishing bank to Halifax.

(4) Richard Schnare, East River, Lunenburg county, lost March 14, from the schooner Mary H. Hirtle, while fishing on Western Banks.

(5) Freeman Feener, Lunenburg, lost April 27, from schooner Jean Smith, while fishing on Western Banks.

(6) William Newport, Garnish, Newfoundland, lost May 6, from schooner Vera P. Thornhill, while fishing on Quero Bank.

(7) Charles Grundy, Garnish, Newfoundland, lost May 5, from schooner Vera P. Thornhill, while fishing on Quero Bank.

(8) Belden Cox, south side, Cape Sable island, lost May 6, while fishing from dory off Spectacle island, Yarmouth county.

(9) Bernard Cox, south side, Cape Sable island, lost May 6, while fishing from dory off Spectacle island, Yarmouth county.

(10) Richard Hynick, Blue Rocks, Lunenburg, lost August 21, from schooner Douglas J. Mosher, while at Queensport harbour, Guysboro county.

(11) John Cook, South Ingonish, Cape Breton, drowned December 8, when dory upset in heavy gale while attempting to reach the schooner Julia F. C.

FISHERIES CRUISER SERVICE

The past year the patrol was undoubtedly the most important of any reported for many years. The winter season was particularly difficult, hazardous and strenuous. Ice conditions and gales were unusually heavy. Both Captain Barkhouse of the Arras, and Captain Cousins of the Arleux deserve commendation for the zeal and vigilance which characterized their work. A digest of the logs will reveal the nature of the service, and show a record of outstanding efficiency.

CRUISER "ARRAS"—CAPTAIN BARKHOUSE

The Arras was placed in commission at Liverpool, N.S., on May 21, and was undergoing her annual refit.

June 9. Proceeded to sea, cruising on station arriving in Halifax for supplies on June 10.

November 11. Took up station on the south coast of N.S., cruising between Halifax and Shelburne to assist vessels and keep the harbours free from ice. Continued on this station until March 31, 1926.

During the winter the Arras assisted fifty-three schooners and two steamers from ice, and kept the harbours open when needed for the safe movements of shipping.

During the year there were thirty-seven American fishing vessels on the stations on which the Arras was working; these we boarded fifty-three times.

There were very few complaints about illegal fishing by foreign fishing vessels, and not one complaint of interference by beam trawlers on the Grand Banks of Newfoundland.

During the year the Arras steamed 13,993 miles, being at sea 1,546 hours, and consumed 1,107 tons of coal.

Arleux patrolling between Richibucto and Miramichi Bay, destroying a large number of lobster traps and gear. A great deal of illegal lobsters are smuggled in to factories operating in other districts where open season is on. This smuggling could be stopped to a great extent if a fast motor boat was attached to the Arleux while on this patrol, as the water on this coast is very shallow, and the ship is obliged to remain so far off shore. A great deal of the smuggling is carried on close in shore.

The Arleux remained in this district until September 30, when she returned to the western coast of Nova Scotia.

FISHERIES PATROL SERVICE

MILDRED MCCOLL—CAPTAIN WILLIAMS

Patrol boat Mildred McColl was placed in commission April 30. She was engaged in patrolling the waters of Halifax and Guysboro counties during the months of May, June and July, preventing illegal lobster fishing and assisting the local overseers in the performance of various duties. In June and July, also again in November, she was called upon to render assistance in Lunenburg county—an adjoining district.

On August 3, she proceeded from Halifax to Pugwash, Cumberland county, to supervise lobster fishing in the Fall fishing district, Northumberland straits. En route, various patrol work was performed along the coast. Arriving at Pugwash, before the opening of the season, buoys were taken on boat and the line dividing the spring and fall seasons was marked off. The work done by the Mildred McColl in this district kept illegal fishing at a minimum. This fact is well recognized by those interested in the industry.

Daily patrols were made along the lobster fishing boundary line and amongst the fishing boats.

She also assisted in scallop dragging investigations in the vicinity of Wallace.

At the close of the season the boundary line buoys were landed and she proceeded on October 20 to Halifax to take up further work in Halifax county. She was laid up at the Dockyard, Halifax, on January 20.

PATROL BOAT "A"—CAPTAIN BAKER

Patrol boat "A" commenced the usual patrol on June 9. This boat gave very satisfactory service during the last year, and kept up a steady patrol along the shore between Pubnico and the head of the Bay of Fundy, and was of great assistance in keeping down illegal lobster fishing.

The total marketed value of the catch is $1,854,792, against a valuation of $2,022,373 for the catch of 1924.

COD

There was a considerable falling-off in the catch of cod as compared with the previous year—19,364 cwts. were taken as compared with 29,124 cwts. for 1924. However, the catch of cod for the present year was well up to the average—the 1924 catch was exceptionally large.

HADDOCK

Haddock were quite plentiful. The catch was 16,539 cwts., while 14,892 cwts. were taken during 1924. The haddock catch was the best for many years.

HAKE

A very large catch of hake was made, the total yield being 59,643 cwts. as compared with 49,356 cwts. for the previous year.

POLLOCK

There was a very satisfactory increase in the catch of pollock as compared with the previous year—28,804 cwts. were taken, while 8,391 cwts. only were taken during 1924. The catch for the present year was practically the same as the 1923 catch. This fishery was practically a failure during 1924, and it is reassuring to be able to report a satisfactory increase in the catch for the present year.

HERRING

The catch of herring was 171,812 cwts. Most of these fish were smoked by the fishermen at Grand Manan. While these figures show a fairly large catch, the supplies in the weirs were practically unlimited. The catch represents the quantity that the fishermen were able to make use of. A very large pack of smoked herring was made at Grand Manan, and is being marketed at rather unsatisfactory prices. The market opened with the boxed herring selling at a price equivalent to $3\frac{1}{4}$ cents per pound for the cured article; later the price dropped to $2\frac{1}{4}$ cents per pound. It is to be regretted that there is not a larger market for our smoked herring. These fish are put up in the best possible manner, and ready market should be found for a large pack. However, whenever a large pack is made, the market becomes glutted, prices drop, and the fishermen generally get a less amount in the aggregate for a large pack than they do for a small one.

SARDINES

One hundred and fifty-eight thousand two hundred and fifty-nine barrels of sardines only were sold, as compared with 269,643 barrels in 1924. These figures have no relative bearing as to the quantity of sardines that were sold in the weirs. There is no question but that there were more sardine herring in the weirs during the past year than in any other year in the history of the industry. Sardine herring were also exceptionally plentiful along the coast of the state of Maine. The state of Maine fishermen offered their catch at a less price than the export price on our side—$10 per hogshead—and as a result of the same, sold their own packers a much larger portion of the supply than during any previous year. It must not be inferred from this that our weir fishermen were the actual losers by the "sale for export" price condition in the licenses, because if there had been no such restriction, it is not at all likely that the price would have been over $2 per hogshead. Consequently, while our fishermen would have sold a much greater quantity during the year if there had been no such condition in the licenses, at the same time they would have received less money than what they obtained from the quantity that was sold.

SALMON

There was a satisfactory increase in the salmon catch for the present year—3,150 cwts. being taken as compared with 2,750 cwts. for 1924.

CLAMS

Eleven thousand five hundred and seven barrels of clams were taken, as compared with 23,907 barrels for the previous year. The quantity of clams sold during the year is governed altogether by the demand for this fish. During 1924 the market for canned clams was good and the cannery, on both sides of the international boundary line, bought considerable quantities from our fishermen. This year the market was not very good, with the result that a limited amount only were bought.

SHAD

The spring run of shad was exceptionally good; 3,600 cwts. were taken by the fishermen at Lorneville and St. John Harbour. This is the largest catch that has been made for a great many years. The fishermen made good money during the short time they were employe at this branch.

ALEWIVES

There was a slight increase in the alewife catch as compared with the previous year—17,800 cwts. were taken, as compared with 15,000 cwts. for 1924.

LOBSTERS

There was a slight falling off in the lobster catch; 5,701 cwts. were taken, against 6,022 cwts. for the previous year. The price, however, was better than that for 1924 and $195,153 was realized as compared with $173,969 for the previous year.

REPORT OF INSPECTOR A. L. BARRY, DISTRICT No. 2, NEW BRUNSWICK, FOR 1925

This district covers that part of New Brunswick bordering on the bay Chaleur, gulf of St. Lawrence, and Northumberland strait, and including the counties of Restigouche, Gloucester, Northumberland, Kent, and the strait side of Westmorland county.

The total marketed value of the fisheries for 1925 was $2,909,562, as compared with $3,327,738 for the previous year, a decrease of $418,176. The following table shows the comparison of this year's fishing to the previous year:—

COD

There was a decrease of 43,862 cwts. in the catch and a corresponding decrease in value. Cod were very plentiful in bay Chaleur but owing to the rough weather of July and September full advantage could not be taken of the large run. The price has held up right through the year, the fishermen receiving as high as $8 per quintal and with the demand good.

HERRING

There was a decrease both in the catch and value of herring. The spring run was a little late, which made it inconvenient for the lobster fishermen who were in need of bait, but on the whole, they were very plentiful around our shores and had the weather proved favourable a much larger catch could have been taken.

MACKEREL

This shows an increase both in catch and value. More boats were fished than during the previous year.

ALEWIVES

The catch of alewives was more than double that of the previous year with a large proportionate increase in value. There was a good demand all through the fishing season.

BASS

It is to be regretted that the bass fishing is losing its importance in this district. In the Miramichi river the catch has fallen away to practically nothing. The fishermen lay the blame to the smelt nets, over two thousand of which are set in the Miramichi river and bay alone. Although most of the fishermen obey the regulations and throw the small bass back into the water, in real cold weather, they do not revive once the frost strikes them.

SALMON

There was a slight decrease in the catch of salmon, but the price held up well throughout the year and they were always in good demand. The net fishing along bay Chaleur was very good during the early part of the year but the drifters off the Miramichi had a very lean year. Great destruction was also caused by the seals, one drifter having reported fifty salmon heads in his net after one night's fishing. The shipment of frozen salmon overseas always insures the fishermen a ready market for their catch.

SMELTS

The smelt catch for 1925 was about two-thirds of the catch for 1924. The December catch for 1925 was real good and the decrease of the year is accounted for by the failure of the January and February catch for the 1924-25 smelt season. There was a decrease in the number of fishermen this year, owing probably to the fact that so many had lost money the year before. The introduction of the box-net at Cocagne and Buctouche has improved the fishing by doing away with a large number of spearing shanties which were operated by spearmen who were too poor to provide themselves with a bag-net. These shanties were operated on the ground that was very favourable for the use of the box-net and as a result many of the former spearmen have provided themselves with this excellent equipment and are doing well.

SMELT GILL-NET FISHING

Considerable opposition is developing among the fishermen to the use of the gill-net before the opening of the bag-net season. Gill-nets were blamed for the scarcity of the smelts at Richibucto and Shediac. The fishermen believe that they scare the smelts off the fishing grounds. It is a well-known fact that seals and gulls have a daily feast out of these nets and as the fish thus taken are generally large, the cream of the catch is destroyed. The fishermen at Buctouche voted almost to a man to do away with the gill-net fishing and their request was granted. It is expected the same thing will occur at Richibucto next fall and it is hoped to soon do away with the early gill-net fishing in the entire district.

LOBSTERS

The catch was slightly under the previous year, as well as the value. The catch differed greatly in different parts of the district. The spring fishing which is done in the northern part was very successful, whereas the fishing in the southern part of the district which does not begin until the middle of August was somewhat of a failure. The number of lobster packing canneries decreased from 143 to 138, but each year shows a great improvement in the canneries, three new steam boilers and four retorts being reported in the district of one overseer alone. The prevention of illegal fishing and packing of lobsters is still a great problem which we have to contend with in certain parts of this district, and the blame must rest with certain dealers who continue to buy illegal catch and pack. Until they make up their minds to stop this illegal traffic they need not complain about the scarcity of the lobsters.

HADDOCK

There was a considerable decrease in the catch and value of haddock. This, however, is not one of the important fisheries of this district.

HAKE AND CUSK

About the same as last year as to catch and value.

EELS

Quite an increase was made in the catch of eels, mostly from the Big Tracadie river. They were reported scarcer on Eel river and the reason is laid to the fact that the cranes and herons are destroying the smaller ones.

SHAD

There was a decrease in the catch of shad.

TOM CODS

About the same quantity of tom cods were taken and the value is less than that of 1924. The introduction of the box-net at Cocagne and Buctouche has led to the working up of quite a tom-cod industry there, where formerly there was none.

TROUT

The catch of trout was about the same as the year before.

CLAMS AND QUAHAUGS

The lack of a ready market for these shell fish caused a falling off in both the catch and value. A start was made in canning the latter in the southern part of the district. The fish seem to be quite plentiful but the fishermen could hardly make a day's wage at the price offered.

OYSTERS

The catch of oysters also fell off with a proportionate decrease in value. Buctouche and Malpeque oysters still find a ready market but their high standard is being destroyed by oysters being shipped indiscriminately as these brands. It would seem that some provision for standard barrels with the name of the shipper on the outside would be an improvement toward the betterment of this industry. There is no lack of fish and all it needs to make a good financial return to the fishermen is the proper grading of the oysters before shipment.

SCALLOPS

No great steps have yet been taken to develop this fishery, the beds of which are without doubt very extensive in bay Chaleur. One fisherman has intimated that he intends to operate on a large scale during the coming year and it is hoped that if the fishery turns out as he expects others will follow.

With the exception of poaching for lobsters and salmon on the Miramichi rivers the fishery regulations have been pretty well adhered to. Prosecutions dropped from 42 in 1924 to 17 in 1925. A number of stiff fines for illegal salmon traffic on the Miramichi is expected to have the desired effect toward the protection of the salmon going up to spawn. The prosecutions for the year were as follows:—

Illegal fishing, 9. Having illegally caught fish in possession, 3. Fishing with illegal mesh, 2. Neglect to remove pickets from river, 1. Interference with a fishery guardian, 1. Bringing berried lobsters ashore, 1.

Confiscations, however, arose from 97 in 1924 to 111 in 1925. This increase is accounted for by the increased activity of the guardians in clearing out the illegal salmon rigging in the Miramichi rivers.

There was a great demand among the fishermen of the southern lobster district for an early opening of the lobster fishing season. This being refused by the department they proceeded to take the law into their own hands, and as a result much rigging was set out and a large number of lobsters taken. The prompt work on the part of the officers who seized nearly all of the first catch (about five tons) when they were laying in floats to be taken up, put a stop to any further activities until the opening of the season. Seizure of much lobster gear was also made when the fishermen persisted in setting out after the close of the fishing season in the northern district.

About twenty new boats were added to the vessels already in operation, although considerable damage was done during the storm of June last, and it is regretted that in bay Chaleur one boat was lost with all hands, numbering four, aboard.

I am pleased to report that the owners of the saw mills are taking the necessary steps to keep the refuse from getting into the streams. No wilful negligence has been reported and all seem to take kindly to the suggestions of keeping the streams unpolluted.

The fishways are all in fairly good working order, with the possible exception of the one at Kouchibouguac, which was promised attention by the directors last fall.

Last July, for the first, an attempt was made to destroy the seals which prowl about the mouth of the Miramichi river causing great destruction to the salmon and salmon nets. A Lewis gun, a couple of rifles and a considerable amount of ammunition was received from the Department of National Defence and with the aid of an ex-service Lewis gunner considerable destruction was caused to the groups of seals sunning themselves on the beaches in low water. The results were soon observed in the scattering of these groups. In all about 5,000 rounds of ammunition were expended. It is hoped, that during the coming year, the work will again be taken up only at a much earlier date so as to meet the large flocks of seals when they are first coming up the bay. This destruction must not be allowed to cease as the seals are getting more plentiful and bolder each year. What were once valuable fishing stands down the bay are now useless as the fishermen cannot afford the destruction of their nets.

REPORT OF INSPECTOR H. E. HARRISON, DISTRICT NO. 3, NEW BRUNSWICK, FOR 1925

District No. 3 comprises the counties of Kings, Queens, Sunbury, York, Carleton, Victoria and Madawaska.

Practically all fishing in this district is carried on during the open water months, consequently, the quantity of fish taken through the ice is not of much account, usually. The larger waters in this district shed their coats of ice rather earlier than usual. The St. John river opened about the first of April, and a steam boat reached Fredericton from St. John the 5th of that month. The weather during that month was cloudy and rather cold, and the spring freshet reached its highest point the first week in May, and the surplus water had run off by the last week of May, but heavy rains in July brought it back again to a considerable height.

The first fresh fish seen in the Fredericton market was on the 4th of April, which were alewives taken in the Oromocto river, near Fredericton. A few shad were taken in the lower St. John river by the 15th of May, and there was a fair run of salmon by the 24th of May. Shad do not ascend the Southwest Miramichi river above tide water; alewives do not reach the water of my district until about the first of May, and salmon and sea trout little before the 20th of May.

The quantity and value of alewives taken was a little better than in 1924. The local demand for this fish was better than for some years previous, but, because of the absence of a market of any value during recent years the fishermen had allowed their nets to deteriorate, and they were not in a position to supply a very large quantity, as most of them have been catching only about enough to supply their own homes with fresh, smoked and salted alewives. Alewives were reported as being very plentiful in the lower waters of the St. John river and tributaries; a fair run in the central waters, and a very large run in the Southwest Miramichi river.

The bass fishery was of no importance in 1925. Just at the close of the year there is evidence that this fish made its appearance in fairly large numbers in the Belleisle bay district, and it is probable that the catch of 1926 will show better results, judging by the number of licenses issued after the 1925 season was about over. It is twelve years since a respectable catch of bass was made in the St. John river waters, and that length of time, or longer, since a previous good catch was made. Why these periodical fairly good runs I cannot say.

There was a slight decrease in the quantity of eels taken, with a comparatively large increase in value. If the fishermen could always obtain the price that they did for eels in 1925, it is probable that they would prosecute the fishery vigorously, to the advantage of themselves and the shad and salmon fishermen, as eels destroy many netted shad and salmon. The St. John river waters appear to be polluted with eels.

This fishery for mullets was prosecuted vigorously during 1925, and the increase in both quantity and value was proportionately good. This fishery has developed during recent years, and I trust that it may continue. The catch is shipped to the United States markets, as there is very little use for this fish, in my district, other than to feed to the farmers' hogs.

There was a shrinkage of about 50 per cent in the quantity and value of pickerel taken and sold during the year. The only reason given me for this is that the fishery was not prosecuted as steadily as during 1924 because of less demand for pickerel. It may be that certain consumers' tastes turned from this fish to mullets. Because of the comparative inactivity in the pickerel fishery during 1925 it ought to be better when again taken up, as the fish will have a chance to grow and to multiply.

It is very gratifying to me to be able to report another fair increase in the quantity of salmon taken this year. While the increase is not so great as that of 1924 over 1923, it is considerable, and, it seems to me, is fair evidence that we are receiving considerable benefit from the hatcheries that are making it possible to place large numbers of young salmon in the different waters, and, possibly, evidence of fairly efficient protection for the growing and grown fish on their ascent to the upper waters to reproduce. At times we are told that the fishery officers and guardians do not do their duty, and that salmon are illegally killed in large numbers. Such reports come usually from persons who have not had unusually good success in salmon angling, and because of that condition it is assumed that some persons have recently cleaned out the waters with a net or a spear. No fishery officer would, or should, be so foolish as to suggest that some salmon, possibly a considerable number in some instances, are not killed illegally, but, considering the number of men employed and the great area of waters to be protected, it is a wonder that many more salmon are not taken by other than legal methods. While it is true that there was a considerable increase in the number of licenses and permits issued in 1925, no doubt encouraged by the fairly successful season of 1924, and the fact that it costs only three cents and a sheet of paper and an envelope to secure a license or permit, if the applicant is entitled to such, several persons secure a license or permit, and if they do not wish to use it, or, if after trying their luck for a short time they do not have any success, the operation is discontinued and the fishery is not damaged. I am advised by my officers that such is the case in many instances, and that the larger issue of licenses and permits is not evidence that excessive salmon fishing is carried on. The increase is fully accounted for in the two more important sub-districts—Kings and York counties,—so far as the increased catch is concerned, while the increase in the number of licenses and permits issued was in the counties of Kings, York and Carleton, with some decrease in the counties of Queens, Sunbury and Victoria. It is interesting to note that the average weight of salmon taken was considerably better than that of recent years. A large percentage were from ten to twenty pounds per fish; a considerable number from twenty to twenty-five pounds and some from twenty-five to thirty-two pounds, which to a large extent accounts for the increased total weight. Fishermen complained of the unfavourable season, while the fishery was in operation, but it appears to have been fairly successful, and was good enough, considering the fact that it is the duty of the department's officers to see that a fair percentage of fish reach the breeding waters, and it appears to me that this is being accomplished. I should like to repeat what I have stated on previous occasions that I think it would be the part of wisdom to require that the meshes of salmon nets be not less than 6-inch extension when in the water, as I feel that it would allow more of the small fish to escape the nets for another year, or longer, and eventually benefit the fishermen, and there would be less complaint from the salmon anglers about salmon taken by them being "net-marked."

The catch of shad in 1925 indicates one of two things, either that fishery is in a very healthy state at present, or the nets and weirs in St. John harbour were not able to get a fair proportion, but I understand that the harbour fishermen did have a very large catch, consequently, it would appear that the fishery is in good condition. I am sure that all hope it may continue so. The catch in 1924 was nearly 100 per cent greater than that of 1923, and the 1925 catch was more than 25 per cent more than that of 1924, while the respective issue of licenses for the years 1923-24 and 1925 was 219, 221, and 230. The districts where notable increases were made are the extreme south and north of the St. John river waters, viz., the Kennebecasis river and the St. John river at the Grand falls. In the former area the increase over 1924 was more than 100 per cent, and in the latter area it was more than 250 per cent, while in the central area, viz., Queens, Sunbury and York counties (Carleton county has not any shad fishery), the catch was a fraction less than during 1924. Shad appeared in the lower St. John river waters the first week in May, ten days to two weeks earlier than usual, and the quantity taken during the season was such that Overseer Bell reported that the fishermen ceased operations before the season ended or the run was over, as the market seemed to be glutted with fish, and, when the water gets low and warm, eels become very troublesome, and, fishing as they do in these waters with stationary nets, a great many shad are destroyed before the fish can be removed from the nets. A somewhat like condition, so far as a market for shad was concerned, prevailed in Overseer Robertson's district, notwithstanding only four nets were operated, and the season there was very short—it was June before the fish reached the Falls and the season was very late—the catch was proportionately large and the fishermen found it difficult to dispose of a portion of their catches.

It is possible that some of the shad taken at the falls had spawned before they were taken, and quite probable that all were quite soft after having travelled so far from the sea to spawn, so that they would not be as firm and fine flavoured as when taken from the lower river waters, and particularly from the cold salt water of the harbour.

The sturgeon fishery shows a still further decrease; more than 30 per cent less than in 1924 and 50 per cent less than in 1923. More nets have been operated during the past three years than in many former years, and it may be that production is not able to keep up with destruction. There is a great number of small sturgeon in these waters, fish running from 18 inches to 3 feet long, but they appear to grow very slowly, and these are considered of no value, even if it were legal to kill them. The quantity of eggs, or caviar, taken was very little, and the fishermen said they were not offered any price for it, consequently none was sold.

The total weight and value of the commercial fishery of this district during the years 1924 and 1925 are as follows:—

Year	Cwt.	Value.
1924	3,716	$33,698
1925	3,975	34,235

an increase of 259 cwt. and $537 for the year 1925.

FISHING MATERIAL USED

Year	Value.
1924	$15,676
1925	14,425

DOMESTIC FISHERIES

Year	Cwt.	Value.
1924	473	$8,845

a slight decrease in both weight and value in 1925.

It appears from the reports of the local officers that trout were not so plentiful, in some districts at least, as they were the previous year. While this may be correct, it is not to be accepted as proof positive that trout were as scarce as the contents of the fish basket might indicate. Trout anglers reported to me that fish seemed to be scarce, while at the same time they complained of weather and water conditions. The weather was cold and the waters were unsteady in levels, therefore, it is quite possible that trout were not easily tempted with either bait or artificial fly. If the latter should prove to have been the trouble it was a good thing for trout, and should be better for the anglers this year, should conditions be favourable for angling. It appears to me that there is not as much trout fishing after the month of June, in some districts at least, as in former years. The reason for this is that some new salmon pools have been found, or some salmon have been taken on certain waters, and in such districts the little trout is left alone after the end of June and the salmon angling fever takes hold. This also is a good thing for the trout, as the salmon is pretty well able to take care of himself, so far as red and line fishing is concerned. The St. John river itself does not furnish any trout fishing, neither sea nor speckled trout, but there are many tributaries, particularly of the Upper St. John river, where very good speckled trout fishing may be enjoyed.

Salmon angling on the St. John river, on those parts where this sport is followed up, was very fair in some districts and indifferent in others. It is sometimes difficult to account for such—the anglers usually account for it by stating, and spreading it broadcast, that the fishery officers are not doing their duty and that salmon are allowed to be slaughtered with net and spear—but it is well known that salmon will not take a fly or artificial lure nearly as well under some conditions as he will under others, or, take two pools with an equal number of salmon resting in each and one may produce fair or good angling and the other may not produce any on certain days, while the reverse may be the case on another day. While salmon angling was not good at a certain pool near Fredericton in 1925 it was excellent in 1923, but it was not good on pools farther up the St. John in 1923, but it was very good in 1925, and the fish that were taken on the pools farther up the river had to pass through the pool near Fredericton, therefore, it is mostly a matter of weather and water conditions when the fish are resting, or passing through the pools, it seems to me. Conditions were very similar in the Tobique and Miramichi rivers districts, but in the latter part of the season angling was very good on part of my water of the latter river, but the fish did not reach the upper waters before the season closed, but large numbers went up late in the fall, as the water was very high. The members of the Tobique Salmon Club rather feel that they do not get a fair portion of the salmon that ascend the St. John river, and the Tobique river to spawn. I do not know how to remedy this condition, unless it be to practically stop all salmon netting between Fredericton and the mouth of the Tobique river. If we had more assistance in the way of guardians it might be that we could save a few salmon from illegal killing, but I think that aspect is not serious during recent years. The number of salmon killed by the members of the club referred to is not large, but, I understand that this club does practically all of their angling in the months of June and July, with none, or very little in August, and their camps are closed August 15 every year, therefore, it will be observed that their season is short, whereas other anglers carry on until the last of August and the 15th of September, and some to the last of September to their discredit, as there are not any clean and bright salmon in the rivers at that time. I should like very much if the salmon angling season were to end not later than the 15th of September, and it might be better if it were to end the last of August, and I should like to see all netting for salmon end the 15th of August in each year. It seems to me that both net fishermen and anglers ought to be satisfied with a reasonable period of fishing.

FISHWAYS

The fishways on the different rivers and streams are in good condition, but several of them are of minor value. Most of them have been built to assist salmon in reaching the upper waters of certain streams, but these streams are not what they were in olden times, and very few salmon try to ascend these waters now. Some were built to assist trout in passing obstructions, but I have yet to learn that they are of any benefit in that respect. Some concrete work was done at the lower end of the fishway (also of concrete) on the Nashwaak river at Marysville last season, and it is hoped that all of this work is of a permanent nature, so far as it is possible to make it. A run of salmon in the fall—apparently the only time they ascend the Nashwaak river—now has no difficulty in passing the dam. The dam at Forest City, York county, was rebuilt last season and the fishway was also rebuilt by the owners of the dam—"Eastern Pulpwood Company"—and it is believed that there is now a very efficient fishway at that place, at least it is pronounced so by an officer of the New Brunswick Government, Department of Lands and Mines. This fishway is said to be required to allow the landlocked salmon of Grand lake to descend to the waters below the dam to spawn, and later return to the lake, which is large, and where the fish remain during the rest of the year.

PROSECUTIONS

Prosecutions during the year numbered nineteen, of which seven were for water pollution and the balance for illegal fishing, two of which, one for pollution and one for illegal fishing, were dismissed by the magistrates. Fines of $400 were imposed of which $275 was paid to the Receiver General of Canada; $15 to the Tobique Salmon Club as complainant and prosecutor; $90 in suspended sentences, and one fine of $20 still unpaid.

CONFISCATIONS

There were twenty-six confiscations of materials of an approximate value, placed at a low value, of $95, $68 of which has been collected in sales, with a small amount of the materials still to dispose of, when possible, and materials, such as spears, torches, torn nets, etc., to the approximate value of $35 destroyed.

REPORT OF S. T. GALLANT, INSPECTOR OF FISHERIES, PROVINCE OF PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND AND MAGDALEN ISLANDS, FOR 1925.

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND

The total marketed value of the fisheries for the province of Prince Edward Island for the year 1925 was $1,598,119, an increase over that of 1924 of $396,347.

The following table is interesting as showing the comparison between the catch and its marketed value for 1925 and that of the preceding year:—

Codfish were plentiful early in May, which is unusual for this part of the coast, but as practically all the fishermen were engaged in lobster fishing, this fishery could not be taken advantage of until the month of June. Fishing was then carried on very successfully, and there was an increased catch and an increase in the marketed value.

HADDOCK

There was an increase both in the catch and in the marketed value.

HAKE AND CUSK

There was a decrease both in the catch and in the marketed value.

HERRING

Fishing opened early in the season and lobster packers succeeded in securing a plentiful supply of bait. There was an increase in the catch and in the marketed value.

MACKEREL

Mackerel were scarce and fishing was not carried on as extensively as in other years. Prices were poor, and there was a decrease in the catch and in the marketed value as well.

SALMON

This fishery was carried on only at St. Peters, and there was a marked increase in the catch. I am anticipating a further development of this fishery in Richmond bay and Alberton bay.

SMELTS

The season opened for gill-net fishing on October 15, and good catches of smelts were made until December 1, when the ice began to make on the rivers and interfered with fishing.

The bag-net fishing season opened on December 1, and in some localities some of the largest catches in the history of the province were taken.

There was an increase in the catch and also an increase in the marketed value.

LOBSTERS

In 1924, to unfavourable weather conditions, which continued during the month of May, was attributed the reason for such a small catch, but in 1925, with favourable weather conditions from the outset, a large catch was expected; yet, as you will see from the above table, the increase was not very great. My honest opinion is that the supply of lobsters is gradually on the decrease, and I attributed said decrease to the fact that the work since the war has been scarce and lobster fishing, as a means of livelihood has been prosecuted to a much greater extent than in former years. It would, therefore, seem as if over-fishing is the cause of the gradual decrease that has taken place in the last two seasons.

It has also been noticed that on certain parts of the coast a very large quantity of lobsters from four to six inches in length are being packed; if this practice is pursued it can produce only one effect, viz., a decrease in the catch from year to year, as there will be very few lobsters left to mature. There was a large increase in the catch of jumbo lobsters, but I may say that it has only been during the last two or three years that these large fish were taken in any quantities. What effect this will have on the future of this our best fishery is difficult to foreshadow.

I believe steps should be taken at once to make "size limit" one of the regulations. I do not think there would be any great objection on the part of the fishermen or packers if a six-inch limit were established as a beginning; if this were done, an increased catch would result in the course of a few years, and I am of the opinion that the fishermen would then ask for a size limit of seven or eight inches. Good results are sure to follow if a size limit be adopted.

OYSTERS

There was a decrease in the catch and in the marketed value as well. Although there was a decrease in the quantity taken, this does not mean that the supply is being exhausted but may be attributed to the fact that the buyers have taken special care in selecting oysters that would meet the demands of the markets, and as a result, Prince Edward Island oysters were in demand up to the end of the season and good prices were realized, both shippers and fishermen being well paid for their efforts.

Never in the history of the province were East river and tributaries, West river and tributaries, Seal river and Vernon river so well stocked with small oysters. Special mention might be made of an oyster area at Cranberry wharf, East river, which was cleaned in the summer of 1924, and which is now literally covered with oysters of this summer's set. The cleaning of this area was largely an experiment, but it has proved a great success.

In Richmond bay, one man was successful in securing four barrels of good-sized oysters at a place called Bideford river, a tributary of Richmond bay. Some oysters are to be found also at the heads of the tributaries; it would appear from this fact that the spring freshet cleans the upper part of the rivers, giving the spat a chance to set, but it is different in the bay proper, which in years gone by was highly productive, and on these areas no live oysters are to be found.

A man, who has kept in close touch with the oyster fishery in Richmond bay for the past twenty-five years, writes as follows: "Personally I do not believe that the oyster beds will ever be productive until they are cleaned. There is now in Bideford river a sufficient quantity of oysters to seed all the oyster areas if the beds were cleaned to allow the spat to set."

Cleaning should be done in the month of June, as oysters extrude their eggs in the month of July.

FISHERIES PROTECTION SERVICE

The usual attempts at illegal lobster fishing were made and we were forced to employ two additional patrol boats.

The total number of confiscations for various violations of the fishery regulations during the year were 34.

The total number of prosecutions were 9.

The following seizures of lobster gear were made:—

Year.	Rope. (fathoms)	Traps.	Anchors.

PROTECTIVE SERVICE BY PATROL BOATS "RICHMOND," "DAISY," "UPPERHAND," ETC.

The patrol Richmond was in charge of Captain Baglole and Assistant Fred McKinnon; patrol Daisy in charge of Captain Costain, and the patrol Upperhand in charge of Captain Henry Doyle. The captains and their assistants were most zealous in the discharge of their duties and did all in their power to suppress illegal fishing.

REMARKS

During the summer fishways were built at Laird's milldam, at the head of Morell river; in Campbell's milldam, at head of New Glasgow river; at Dixon's milldam at DeSable; and in the milldam at the head of Vernon river. This will permit the fish to ascend the head of the streams to spawn, and it is expected that these fishways will increase inland fishing in the streams above mentioned. Should they prove as successful as is anticipated, many of these fishways will have to be built in different parts of the province.

MAGDALEN ISLANDS

The total marketed value of the fisheries of the Magdalen islands for the year 1925 was 714,250, an increase over that of 1924 of 124,753.

The following table gives a comparison between the catch and marketed value of 1924 and that of 1925:—

COD

There was a good demand for cod and this fishery was prosecuted to a greater extent than last year. There was an increase in the catch and in the value.

HERRING

Herring were very plentiful, and there was an increase in the catch and in the value as well. A large part of the catch was smoked, and as the fish so treated were of a superior quality, the demand was constant and good prices were realized.

MACKEREL

There was an increase in the catch and a decrease in value. On account of transportation difficulties it is impossible to market these fish in a fresh condition; consequently, they have to be split and salted, and as the catches taken are unusually large it is practically impossible to prepare them properly. As a result the fish are of an inferior quality and can command only a low price.

CLAMS

There is an increase in the catch and in the marketed value.

LOBSTERS

There was an increase in the catch and in the marketed value as well.

At the request of fishermen and packers the opening date of the lobster fishing season was changed from May 1 to May 10, and from interviews with both packers and fishermen I learn that the above change has been satisfactory to all.

REMARKS

The mail boat Lovatt made her first trip to the Magdalen islands on April 12, the earliest crossing in years. This boat affords splendid passenger accommodation, and the public is well satisfied with the service given. The captain and his crew are very obliging and most attentive to their duties.

REPORT OF J. B. SKAPTASON, INSPECTOR OF FISHERIES, PROVINCE OF MANITOBA, FOR 1925

The total production of all fish for 1925 shows an increase of 12,342 cwts. over 1924, for an increased market value of $234,376.

1923		1924		1925
Quantity	Market value	Quantity	Market value	Quantity	Market value
cwt.	$	cwt.	$	cwt.	$
154,090	1,020,595	177,898	1,232,563	190,240	1,466,939

This increase may be almost entirely ascribed to the increased number of fishermen operating. While there has been a noticeable increase in some varieties of fish, such as whitefish and tullibee, this has been offset by shortage in pickerel catch. This is not confined to any one lake, every lake in the province is relatively alike in this manner.

MARKETS

Market conditions have been good in most lines, and, over the whole, production show an increase of over half a cent per pound over 1924. Of the more important varieties, pickerel shows the largest percentage of increase in price, three cents per pound. This is offset by the heavy drop in production of 13,533 cwts.

Tullibee shows an increase in price of but a half cent per pound. If, however, a comparison were drawn between the two winter seasons 1924-25 and 1925-26, the difference in price would be much greater. In the former year tullibee was a drug on the market and much of the production had to go into cold storage, and was not actually marketed until the following summer. While the present winter season shows exceptionally good demand and prices, more than double in some instances, three times that of the previous season, but as the bigger part of November and December catch is not marketed until after the 1st of January, this difference in price reflects only partially to the benefit of the 1925 production.

The only species of fish to show a definite decrease in market value is sturgeon, which took a drop of 9 cents. This was caused by large importations of Russian sturgeon during the year for the American markets. It may be stated here that this is not likely to affect the market another year, as the quality of the Russian product is not considered in a class with Manitoba sturgeon and does not meet the requirements of the market.

The following are comparative prices of the chief or most important varieties of commercial fish as marketed in the last three years:—

Catfish..... per pound	10.0	11.1	10.6
Goldeyes, fresh.....	5.0	4.4	4.2

The Pas Sub-district, comprising all waters north of Lakes Winnipeg, and Winnipegosis and includes the Big Saskatchewan river.

The winter production while considerably increased in whitefish, shows in common with other waters a material decrease in pickerel production. On the whole the catch is slightly smaller per man operating as against 1924. Moose lake produced the greater part of the catch, and those operating there had a good winter.

Clearwater lake, fished for the first time since it was closed in 1913, was a disappointment, there were five men fishing on the lake and they did not secure the 25-ton limit. The supply did not appear to have improved during the twelve years it was closed for commercial fishing.

Cold lake or Kississing lake, was fished for the first time. This lake is situated 120 miles north from The Pas. Fishing was good but a freight charge of 3 cents a pound took a big toll, and only the exceptionally high prices for fish made it a paying venture.

A very limited summer operation for whitefish was entered into on Moose lake, but natural difficulties of navigation (a sand bar across the channel entering the lake) proved an insurmountable barrier to a successful operation. The sturgeon operation on the Nelson was carried on much the same as in previous years, with one additional operator, Skuli Sigfusson. The catch fell considerably short of the previous year. The area between Cross lake and Kettle rapids with a limit of 100,000 pounds all of which was taken early in August, 1924, this year only produced 65,000 pounds. This is ascribed to two causes, the first a late spring which did not permit of commencing fishing until much later than usual, and then an early rise of water in the Nelson with accompanying debris and dirt which made it impossible to keep the nets clean, and as a result all nets were lifted early in July. Purvis Bros. and S. Sigfusson took 21,000 pounds in the Playgreen area.

On the Big Saskatchewan river, Cumberland and Cedar lakes the sturgeon fishing was not as good as in previous years, there were not so many men operating, and the catch per man was smaller. This is partly accounted for by flood waters and resulting dirt and debris, but the local Fishery Officer is of the opinion the fish are diminishing, and should another season show corresponding decreases, steps should be taken to close these waters for a few years.

Lake Winnipegosis shows a sharp decline in production for the year, 7,489 cwts., of all fish. This is distributed pretty evenly amongst all the chief varieties the lake produces. Whitefish, pickerel and jackfish (pike) show a decrease of about 15 per cent as against 1924. The higher prices more than recouped the operators for the short catch. With a drop in production of three-quarters of a million pounds as against 1924, the fishermen actually received $11,076 more for their production.

The area of the lakes that seems to have suffered most is that from the north of Duck bay to the south end of the lake. It is in these waters summer pickerel fishing has been carried on since fall of 1921, and many ascribe the light catch, which really has been gradually becoming more noticeable, particularly in regard to pickerel, for the last three or four years, to this cause and advocate absolute closure of the lake for the summer.

The summer whitefish season on lake Winnipegosis is from the opening of navigation until the 15th of August, with a limit of 1,000,000 pounds. No attempt was made by any of the operators to take any part of this limit.

Lake Manitoba.—The total production is slightly higher than 1924, accounted for by 126 additional operators. There is a decline in both pickerel and perch, but all other varieties show a substantial increase. The decline in the pickerel catch is no greater than that of other lakes; it may, therefore, be said that the lake is fairly well holding its own in spite of the exceedingly heavy fishing it is subjected to. While the winter season 1925-26 commenced very favourably with an early freeze up and a good run of fish from the start, a storm and a break-up of the ice on November 26 caused the loss of nearly 3,000 nets in the south part of lake Manitoba. This not only was a great financial loss to the fishermen, but it delayed and disorganized their operations.

Lake Winnipeg, Summer.—The whitefish operations show marked improvement in catch over 1924, and when it is considered that one of the five companies, amongst which the 3,000,000 pounds limit of summer whitefish is distributed, did not operate. It may be said to almost equal the season of 1922.

The following are comparative figures for five years:—

1921	1922	1923	1924	1925
cwt.	cwt.	cwt.	cwt.	cwt.
29,270	24,724	14,554	12,311	20,195

In previous reports mention has been made of apparent increased showing of whitefish in what is known as the inner lake, from Swampy island south. This was well maintained during the summer and fall fishing of 1925. It will be seen there is a difference of 3,135 cwts. between the total summer catch of whitefish as recorded in the statistical returns and the above figures. That difference is accounted by whitefish taken in the south end of the lake during pickerel fishing operations.

The lake records another heavy slump in pickerel production, with many more men operating the catch is almost cut in half, 19,530 cwts. in 1924, reduced to 10,626 cwts. in 1925. This follows a drop of 40 per cent in 1924 against 1923. It has been mentioned that all the lakes of the province record a shortage in the pickerel catch. Lake Winnipeg has suffered this to a greater extent than any of the others.

Sturgeon fishing carried on in the bays in front of Berens and Pigeon rivers as well as Travers bay shows a decline in production of nearly 25 per cent, with many more fishermen operating. It is felt the time will soon come when it will be found necessary, in order to safeguard the perpetuation of the sturgeon in the lake, to again close it for a period of years.

Of the winter operations, the large increase in tullibee is outstanding. While the catch was much better, it was only partly responsible for the great difference in the two years' results. Another reason is the much earlier freeze-up last fall, which allowed of a greater percentage of the current winter fish to be brought to railhead before the end of the year. The tullibee operations during the winter season 1924-25 were the worst in years both as to prices and catch. The present season promises much better; the catch will be above the average and prices exceptionally high, even rivalling the prices obtained in the later war years.

There is a marked increase in the attraction our waters hold for non-residents, as indicated by the recurrent annual increase in angling licenses issued. Lakes Killarney and Rock, a short distance from the American border, are the two lakes most frequented.

The following is a record of increase in non-resident angling permits for five years: —

1921-22	1922-23	1923-24	1924-25	1925-26
18	22	37	118	249

Restocking of lakes in the southern and western areas of the province with pickerel fry from Gull harbour hatchery was continued as in former years. Lake Killarney also received an allotment of 600 small-mouthed black bass, obtained in exchange from the Fish and Game Commission for North Dakota.

There were fifty-three prosecutions in the province for various offences against the fishery regulations; 16 for use of illegal nets; 5 fishing without licenses; 1 fishing in prohibited area, St. Andrews locks; 13 possession in close season; 8 fishing in close season; 10 fishing in restricted area, lake Winnipegosis.

Fines collected, $567.

Ninety-three confiscations, included in which are 182 gill-nets.

Proceeds of sales of confiscated articles, $353.76.

Mr. Wm. A. Found, Director of Fisheries, visited the district early in September. One day of his stay was devoted to a meeting with all the fishery officers of the province, who had been called in for the purpose. The second day was entirely taken up with meeting fishermen and company representatives.

The meetings were most satisfactory and resulted in exchange of ideas and clarification of views.

REPORT OF INSPECTOR G. C. MACDONALD, PROVINCE OF SASKATCHEWAN, FOR 1925

During the year 1925 there has been a total commercial production of fish from the province of Saskatchewan of 61,971 cwts. This is an increase over the previous year of 1,286 cwts. There has been an increase of 2,585 cwts. of whitefish, 307 cwts. of trout, and a decrease of 660 cwts. of pickerel and 1,140 cwts. of pike, with small changes in the coarser species. The increase of whitefish is made up by 254 cwts. on Jackfish lake, 2,381 cwts. on Ile a la Crosse lake, 319 cwts. on Dore lake, 1,026 cwts. on lac la Ronge, 160 cwts. on Green lake, and 667 cwts. on Peter Pond lake. Decreases in whitefish are shown on Pierce lake of 447 cwts., Makwa lake 128 cwts., Turtle lake 629 cwts., Waterhen lake 529 cwts., Okemasis lake 282 cwts., Cream lake 134 cwts., and Lowes lake 289 cwts. The catch of trout increased on Ile a la Crosse lake 32 cwts., La Plonge lake 127 cwts., lac la Ronge 358 cwts., and decreased 181 cwts. on Pierce lake and 59 cwts. on Cream lake. The decrease in the production of pickerel and pike is reported due to the early freeze-up of lakes in November which allowed the fishermen to operate in deeper water at the opening of the winter fishing season.

WINTER SEASON

During the winter commercial fishing season the production was 57,587 cwts., with a market value of $438,668. This is an increase of 2,126 cwts. of fish, with an increase of market value of $2,618 over the previous season. The production of whitefish increased 3,454 cwts. and trout 347 cwts. This increase is largely on Ile a la Crosse lake, Peter Pond lake and lac la Ronge. There is a decrease of 656 cwts. of pickerel and 1,183 cwts. of pike.

SUMMER SEASON

During the summer commercial fishing season the production was 4,384 cwts. of fish with a market value of $40,977. This is a decrease from the previous year of 840 cwts. with a decreased market value of $5,465.

MARKETS

The markets during the winter season might be considered as being favourable. Only a small amount of fish were stored during the spring and have since been moved. The December market was fairly good and a higher price is being obtained for trout. Most fishermen are grading their catch of whitefish according to size which is found to be profitable to them. During the summer season the market opened favourably but dropped considerably during the early part of June when most of the fishermen ceased operations, but again resumed them later in the season when the markets improved. A considerable amount of green fish were shipped during the winter season which commanded a higher price than the frozen fish.

EQUIPMENT

The total value of all equipment used for commercial purposes during the year was $82,727, being a decrease of $6,874 from 1924. There has been a decrease of 182 gill-nets, 33 hoop-nets and 7 gasoline boats. The decrease in gill-nets is largely accounted for on Lowes and Turtle lakes, where fewer men operated. The decrease in hoop-nets is due to less fishing on the Saskatchewan rivers, and the decrease of 7 gasoline boats was on Lowes lake where fewer fishermen operated during the summer.

CONDITION OF FISHERIES

Considerable summer commercial fishing has been carried on in Lowes, Turtle, Jackfish and Okemasis lakes. The summer limit of 200,000 pounds on Lowes lake was reached on July 4 and the limit of 100,000 pounds on Turtle lake was not reached. The catch on Jackfish lake was about average. Summer operations were not carried on as extensively on Okemasis lake as in the previous year.

The winter limit of 100,000 pounds on Lowes lake was not reached owing to the short catch of whitefish and a portion of the lake considered good whitefish ground being included in the restricted area. On Turtle lake where the winter limit is 125,000 pounds, all commercial fishing ceased on January 31 when the limit was reached.

The catch during the winter on Jackfish lake was about average and on Okemasis lake it was not quite as good as in the previous season.

Dore lake, which has been extensively fished for a number of years, is beginning to drop slightly in the production, although the quality of the whitefish has improved considerably.

The production on Ile a la Crosse lake is some above the average and practically half the catch of whitefish would average over four pounds.

On lac la Ronge the catch has been about average. The whitefish are small and would average 65 fish to the hundred pounds. The percentage of trout taken has increased considerably.

It is expected that new waters, such as Snake and Sucker lakes will be opened up in the near future. At the present time one of the fish companies is cutting a trail to Snake lake from the Big river side.

DOMESTIC FISHING

A total catch of 15,583 cwts. of fish was taken during the year under domestic license. This is an increase of 942 cwts. over the previous year. There has been an increase of 1,895 cwts. of whitefish, 56 cwts. of tullibee, 53 cwts. of pickerel, and 6 cwts. of trout, with a decrease of 2,142 cwts. of pike and slight changes in the other species. During the year 960 domestic licenses were issued, an increase of 28 over the previous year. The total catch per license has been 1,604 pounds compared with 1,571 pounds during 1924.

ANGLING

There is an estimated total of fish taken by anglers during the year of 24,328 cwts. This is an increase of 1,280 cwts. over the previous year. Of this increase pickerel show 276 cwts., pike 853 cwts., goldeyes 14 cwts., perch 50 cwts., and mixed fish 87 cwts. The average catch per angler has been 62 pounds of fish as compared with 63 pounds the previous year. The estimated number of anglers is shown at 39,682. This is an increase of 2,892 over 1924. During the season 493 special angling permits were issued to non-residents of the province. This is an increase of 117 over 1924.

REGULATIONS

During the year there were 90 prosecutions and a conviction secured in all cases resulting in fines amounting to $396.50 being imposed, with additional court costs to the defendants of $248.45, as follows:—

Fishing during close season.....	45
Fishing with illegal apparatus.....	31
Fishing without a license.....	11
Illegal possession of fish.....	3
	<hr/>
	90

There were also 84 confiscations made during the year, as follows:—

Legal apparatus.....	33
Illegal apparatus.....	29
Illegally caught fish.....	22
	84

There were 52 sales of confiscated articles made amounting to $260.60.

FISHWAYS AND DAMS

There has been a new fishway constructed in Pasqua dam to replace the one washed out by the spring freshets. Minor repairs have been made on the fishway and dam on the Turtle river near Dulwich. The dam at the north end of Cowan lake has been taken over by the Department of Public Works and considerable improvements have been carried on by them. A new fishway has been constructed in the Canadian Pacific Railway dam south of Melfort. All dams and fishways in the province are now reported to be in serviceable condition.

REPORT OF INSPECTOR R. T. RODD, PROVINCE OF ALBERTA,
FOR 1925

INCREASES

In the commercial fishing for 1925 there is an increase in the total fish shipped of 1,059,900 pounds of fish with a value over that of 1924 of $119,397. This is due chiefly to the summer coarse fish fishing increase at Lesser Slave lake, and also to the resumption of operations at lac la Biche. Although the limit of production of 1,500,000 pounds at Lesser Slave was reduced to that of 650,000 pounds and the seasons changed, it will be noticed that the enormous increase in coarse fish practically amounts to 500,000 pounds which more than covers the decrease in the whitefish. The fishing was excellent for pike and pickerel at Lesser Slave but poor for whitefish. At lac la Biche where the limit was reduced to that of 300,000 pounds the fishing for whitefish was extremely good, the catch for coarse fish formerly preponderant in this lake being light. The district around lac la Biche also produced heavily in whitefish as well as the coarser varieties. A large increase will be found from lac Ste. Anne, a lake that has been heavily fished in the early years of the province because of its accessibility, and I am glad to report the comeback of this lake. Other lakes such as Wabamun, Sturgeon, Moose and the small lakes around this district gave a steady production. The winter operations show an increase from Winnifred lake, where fishing was resumed after some three years rest, and where the production during the first three weeks was over 150,000 pounds of whitefish, the entire catch being shipped in a fresh state. Pigeon lake, which, in spite of heavy fishing for many years past because of its proximity to the thickly settled districts between Edmonton and Calgary, still continues to produce heavily.

DECREASES

I beg to report that the production of fish from Cold and Primrose lakes shows a decrease in the catch of whitefish. This was caused mainly by the limit of production being placed on the lakes. The catches on these lakes are, however, reaching the limits imposed long before the end of the season, and I am convinced that they will never be depleted so long as the present limit is observed. A slight decrease in trout from Peerless lake was more than balanced by an increase in whitefish. Other lakes in the Lesser Slave district were steady in production of whitefish. Summer fishing for trout commercially at Cold lake is to be discontinued by authority of the department, owing to the increase in the amount of angling now carried on.

MARKETS

The market for fish was decidedly better during the past year, and good prices prevailed both for fishermen and operators. Particularly was this to be noticed in the market for coarse fish. There is now a good demand for filleted jackfish and the refrigerator plant at Faust ran to capacity. The production of fresh fish, however, which has increased greatly, being produced at a large number of lakes, several car loads even being brought in from Peter Pond lake a distance of about 80 miles has affected the market for frozen whitefish somewhat. Several new companies have been formed on a co-operative basis by the fishermen themselves and one operating at Winnifred lake got good results. Retailers in the larger cities report a good year. There is a very healthy and optimistic outlook for the present year all around.

TRANSPORTATION

Assistance from express companies has been good and no trouble received in obtaining all the cars needed. The companies are keen for the business, although the rates are discriminating from an Alberta viewpoint. Trails and roads were cut into Winnifred lake at some considerable expense, and the trail to Peter Pond lake further improved. Some trouble prevailed at this point during the winter season January-February with considerable loss of fish, owing to the complete thawing of snow by Chinook weather.

EQUIPMENT

There has been a decided improvement in the equipment used, in spite of the heavy loss caused at Lesser Slave and lac la Biche through unusually heavy mid-summer storms. The latter interfered seriously with the fishing at Lesser Slave lake. A new smoke house has been started at Edmonton and is doing particularly well, at this plant small whitefish are smoked, and also smoked fillets of jackfish, the latter being a particularly well finished article. This plant, together with the refrigerator plant at Faust will handle any surplus of coarse fish that may be caught and can now be profitably marketed. Further developments on these lines may be expected during the coming year. New cabins are being built for summer operations at lake Athabasca and it is expected that refrigerator barges and re-icing plants will be built this spring. Several new gasoline launches and boats were used for the anglers at Cold lake and new hotels were also built at this resort. New cabins for the fresh fish business costing around $2,000 have been built for the Peter Pond district, as also many new ice-houses. The Government has built a large wharf costing around $15,000 to $20,000 at lac la Biche for the grain trade. This will, however, also be used by the fishermen of this lake and will be a decided improvement.

OBSERVATIONS OF THE REGULATIONS

The number of prosecutions from the 1st of April was 39, an increase of 16, and the confiscations numbered 27, an increase of 7. A great deal of assistance was given by the various Fish and Game Protective Associations particularly from the Northern Alberta Fish and Game Protective Association. The number of honorary guardians number 57, some of whom gave valued assistance during 1925. Below is detailed the offences against the Fisheries Act:—

1	prosecution under section	7 (excess of nets).
2	"	24 (c) (fishing in prohibited water).
6	"	1 (fishing without license).
3	"	32 (fishing without permit).
15	"	20 (a and b) (fishing in close season).
7	"	29 (Fisheries Act) illegal possession of fish.
1	"	83 (Fisheries Act) assisting those fishing in close season.
2	"	77 (Fisheries Act) fishing in closed waters.
1	"	75 (Fisheries Act) pollution of water.

IRRIGATION SYSTEMS

During the summer considerable investigations were carried on regarding the destruction of fish in the Lethbridge Northern Irrigation System with a final and thorough investigation when the water was being shut off in October. The loss of fish in this system is very small, while there is every possibility of excellent coarse fish fishing being developed in the Keho reservoir, in a few years, through being stocked by fish passing through the main canal from the Old Man river. In the Chin reservoirs on the Southern Alberta Irrigation System, Lake Newell in the Brooks district, Chestermere lake in the Calgary district, all in Canadian Pacific Irrigation Systems, and lake McGregor on the Canada Land Irrigation System, good angling is now the rule.

DAMS AND FISHWAYS

A new dam and fishway was built by the Canadian National Railway on the Blindman river at Burbank to replace that constructed the year previous, and which was carried away by the ice and high water in the spring. The National Railway has also under construction a fishway in their dam at Waskatenau on Waskatenau creek. The Canadian Pacific have just completed a large dam in the Pipestone creek, near Wetaskiwin, and have installed, at considerable expense, a fishway 36 feet long, with a return section, which brings the lower end or opening back to the foot of the dam. This fishway is strongly constructed and built to scale and should function properly. All other dams and fishways previously reported are in good repair.

EXAMINATION OF LAKES AND STREAMS AND STOCKING THEREOF

Nine lakes in the Edmonton district were examined during the season. Six were found suitable for stocking. Four lakes in the district west of Edmonton were stocked by transfer, with perch and pickerel. During September, streams in Buffalo, Prairie, Jasper park and Obed lakes, west of Edson, were stocked with Rainbow trout fry. Some assistance was given the Superintendent of the Banff hatchery in the stocking of the streams tributary to the Red Deer river. The stocking of streams in the southern part of the province was handled entirely by the hatchery superintendent with some assistance from the overseer of that district.

ANGLING

Excellent catches of lake trout were obtained at Cold lake during the summer, 22,437 pounds of trout being taken by 280 anglers, the largest trout taken weighing 53½ pounds. The angling in the Athabasca and its tributaries was poor, very few good catches being reported. Numerous reports have been received of the excellent fishing for rainbow trout that was obtained in these streams before and during the construction of the Canadian Northern and Grand Trunk lines. The general opinion is that all methods of fishing were resorted to during the construction of these lines, nets and dynamite being used largely, with the above result. It was also reported that fishing was not good in the Jasper park waters, the fish being plentiful in Pyramid lake only, but difficult to catch. These waters require intensive restocking if good fishing is to be expected. Very little angling was carried on in the Red Deer, although a few good catches were reported. Angling in the Bow river and streams south to the International boundary was generally very good, and especially so in the Highwood river, Willow creek and the Bow river at certain points. Good catches of large rainbow trout were taken from the Bow river thirty miles east of Calgary. Reports have been received from expert anglers stating that the fishing was never so good or such good sport obtained before as was the case in the Highwood river last season, and it has also been reported that the fishing in Willow creek was better than it has been for twenty years. At least 25 per cent of the catch in the Highwood river was rainbow trout placed there from the Banff hatchery, introduced for the first time into this stream in 1919. Previous to this the only trout indigenous to this stream was the native cutthroat trout. Fishing in some of the streams tributary to the Old man river was excellent, while in others only fair, the result of over-fishing during the previous year. Angling for pike in the irrigation reservoirs continued good. Fishing for grayling was reported by the overseer to be the best ever known in and around Calgary. A small amount of goldeyes were reported caught in the Bow river below the C.P.R. irrigation dam at Bassano. Great scarcity of this species was reported from the Red Deer, where in former years good catches were always obtained. Good catches were reported in the lakes around Edmonton from an angling point of view in perch, pickerel, and pike.

REPORT OF CHIEF INSPECTOR MAJOR J. A. MOTHERWELL, WESTERN FISHERIES DIVISION (BRITISH COLUMBIA),
FOR 1925

It is with much pleasure that I report another excellent year in the fishing industry of British Columbia. Generally speaking, market conditions have been better and both the fishermen and the owners of the packing establishments have had a prosperous year.

SALMON

On reference to statement No. 1, it will be found that only in the year 1924 has the pack of salmon exceeded that of 1925, and only then by 26,883 cases.

The pack of sockeye exceeded that of 1924 by 23,042 cases, and is the largest pack of this variety since 1915. In view of the small quantity packed in 1921, considerable apprehension was felt as to this year's prospects. The satisfactory figures are largely the result of the extraordinarily good run to Rivers and Smiths inlets, 201,186 cases being taken from these two areas. This is by far the largest pack on record. The next biggest run was in 1915, when a total of 162,651 cases was packed. In practically every area, apart from the Naas river and the Fraser, there was an increased run of sockeye, and in spite of the large pack the spawning areas were found to be well seeded.

At the Naas river the total pack of 20,351 cases of sockeye is a fairly satisfactory one in view of the fact that the brood years of 1920 and 1921 were so poor. The runs to the Naas river, however, are obliged to run the gauntlet of the numerous traps and seines in Alaskan waters, and it is difficult to intelligently understand the significance of the pack figure.

On the Skeena river it was not expected that the pack would be large in 1925 owing to the small runs in the main brood years of 1920 and 1921. The showing, however, is a satisfactory one in view of the conditions.

The run to the Fraser produced only 31,523 cases on the Canadian side and 106,064 in Puget sound. These figures are very similar to those of the brood year of 1921. The quality, particularly of the Fraser sockeye this year, was unusually good.

The pack of cohoes in the whole province shows a very considerable increase since 1920, but as in the case of pinks and chums, the intensity with which this variety has been fished has depended altogether on the market conditions. In 1925 the demand for cohoes was unusually good, largely due to the favourable terms of the treaty with Australia, which gives Canadian salmon approximately $1.50 preference over that of other countries.

This being an off year for pinks in the Queen Charlotte islands, the total for that district is fairly small. On the Fraser it was the big pink year and there was an excellent run. Owing to the fact, however, that the pink run passes through the waters of Puget sound before reaching the Fraser river the Canadian fishermen have to be satisfied with what the American fishermen leave. By the statement enclosed it will be observed that although the Puget sound can-neries packed 555,848 cases of pinks the Fraser river canneries only received 99,800 cases although the very large percentage of the pinks coming into Puget sound waters are on their way to Canadian streams.

The chum pack was a record one with a total of 607,904 cases. In addition there was a sufficient number of chum salmon dry salted to make 229,111 cases more. It is felt to be very doubtful if the supply of salmon can stand such an annual strain.

With the considerable increase in the amount of fishing gear in the water, particularly purse-seines, which have increased by 87, the pack shows that there was not nearly as good a supply of fish available as during the previous year. It is felt that in order to maintain the supply of all the varieties of salmon, we must, in view of the more intensive fishing, take some measures which will conserve our salmon for posterity. There is a pack limit which it is unsafe to exceed, and if the fishing operations are to increase in intensity as they have in the past two or three years there must be no hesitation in placing in force such restrictive measures as will adequately take care of conservation. There would appear to be little prospect, under present conditions, of depleting the sockeye runs. The situation in the case of the pinks and chums is a very different and difficult one. The industry must expect that very drastic measures will be taken if found necessary to take care of the situation.

HALIBUT

This was the second year of the period covered by the International Halibut Treaty and there was again enforced a close season of three months, from November 15 to February 15. As will be seen by perusal of statement No. 7, there was a falling-off in the quantity landed in British Columbia ports of 13,142 cwts. In addition to the closed period there were other factors which resulted in a short catch in spite of the increased amount of fishing equipment used. The prices obtained were not as attractive as those during the previous year, due to several reasons. One undoubtedly was the fact that during 1924 the cold storage plants had laid in large stocks of the frozen variety, expecting to unload during the closed season. These plans, however, did not work out, and the result was that when the season opened again on February 15 there was a large quantity of frozen halibut still held and which prevented the expected demand for all the fresh variety that was brought to port. As the closed period was expiring all the fishing equipment went to the banks at practically the same time and the result was that unusually large quantities were offered for sale and which the market was not in a position to absorb. On February 26 fifteen American and four Canadian boats arrived at Prince Rupert with approximately 493,000 pounds of fresh fish. Due to the quantity which had already been purchased since the opening of the season, the highest price offered at Prince Rupert was 7 cents, which the fishermen on that day refused to accept. Six of the American boats immediately left for Seattle, hoping to obtain better prices. It is interesting to note that the decrease in the quantity of fresh halibut landed at Canadian ports during the year was accounted for entirely by the operations of Canadian vessels, the quantity landed by Americans being larger than the previous season. Undoubtedly this condition is due largely to the closed season during the winter months. Previous to the Halibut Treaty the Canadian boats during the winter, due to weather conditions, could only fish in the waters near the Canadian ports. The operation of the treaty regulations prevents this winter fishing by Canadians.

In August the United States Tariff Commission held a hearing at Seattle for the purpose of discussing the report prepared by its experts who had been working during the previous year in the collection of statistics of all kinds as affecting the halibut industry in relation to the American tariff. An opportunity was given all interested to express themselves in order that the recommendation which the Tariff Commission was making to the President of the United States looking to a possible reduction or increase in the 2 cents per pound duty, would only be made after the fullest opportunity had been given everyone concerned to place facts before the commission. At this date it is not publicly known what the recommendation to the President was, but any action resulting therefrom will be looked forward to with very great interest by Canadian halibut operators particularly.

A development of some interest during the year was the shipment by a Japanese firm of Kobe, Japan, of 860,000 pounds frozen halibut consigned to Vancouver per the ss. Haruna Maru, which arrived at its destination during the latter part of August. This consignment was frozen by the brine freezing method, but it appears that the fish were not properly glazed or properly handled while in storage before reaching the Canadian side. As a result their exterior presented an appearance which operated against their profitable sale. The prices obtained for this shipment, which was on consignment, would appear to have been not sufficiently attractive to justify further attempts, although nothing is known of the future intentions of the consignors.

HERRING

By statement No. 8 it will be observed that the year's pack of dry salted herring was the largest on record, although the fall run to the Barclay sound area on the west coast of Vancouver island was a very poor one. In fact for four weeks there were hardly any herring at all caught. The run on the east coast, however, more than offset this scarcity.

The dry salting branch of the fishing industry, owing to the department's policy of eliminating the Oriental, will shortly be practically entirely in the hands of Canadian whites and Indians.

PILCHARDS

The pack was 37,182 cases, compared with 14,898 the preceding year. In addition, owing to the fact that pilchards were for the first time permitted to be processed in reduction plants, 495,653 gallons of oil and 2,083 tons of meal were produced on the west coast of Vancouver island. These operations were more or less of an experimental nature and it is felt that the results obtained have been sufficiently encouraging to warrant a considerable expansion in the reduction works industry.

WHALING

Whaling operations again during the year showed a falling-off, with a total catch of 351, as against 415 the preceding year. The station at Rose harbour, situated at the south end of Queen Charlotte islands, obtained the most satisfactory results, with 176 whales. In this connection it is interesting to note that the whaling companies in Alaska had a most successful season.

FUR SEALS

There were 4,465 fur seal skins taken by the Indians operating as usual in canoes and with spears. The previous season only 2,232 were obtained. The price averaged $10 per skin.

DESTRUCTION OF SEA LIONS

The sea lion hunting expedition met with even better success than the preceding season and accounted for 1,658 adults and 1,169 pups, a total of 2,827. This is the largest bag so far obtained. Operations were conducted on the Virgin islands and Pearl rocks opposite the Rivers and Smiths inlets. An interesting feature observed was the paucity of yearling lions, not more than 50 being observed on both the Virgins and Pearls, which would appear to show conclusively the results of the preceding year's killings.

The gratitude of the gill-net fishermen was again demonstrated by the liberal presents of cigars to the crews employed in the destruction of sea lions and demonstrates the attitude of the fishermen who stated that it was now observed outside of Rivers inlet that the sockeye schools are not broken up as heretofore but run steadily to the inlet. The largest catches of sockeye were made during the worst two weeks of bad weather the preceding year, which was quite unusual.

It is hoped that facilities will shortly be available which will permit the extending of the sea lion operations to include other points where they gather in large numbers on the rookeries and where they could be fairly easily killed.

PATROL SERVICE

In the protection of the fisheries during the year, a total of 91 boats was used, 26 of these being the property of the department and 65 being chartered. In addition there were three seaplanes stationed at Prince Rupert and a fourth one was available at the Seaplane Station in Vancouver on call. During the year the C.G.S. Malaspina logged 19,956 miles, and the Givenchy 15,164 miles. With the fishing operations becoming more intense each year the work of the patrol boats continues to increase and it is imperative that the two large steamers particularly be kept constantly on patrol. Their work is seriously interfered with by lifesaving duties and calls from other departments.

The flying boats consumed 296 hours 40 minutes as against 152 hours 8 minutes, the previous year. It is felt that without the aid of the Air Service the protection of our salmon would be a matter of very grave concern indeed. Even under the best of conditions it is not possible to provide a 100 per cent efficient service. Without the planes the number of boats chartered would require to be increased and the service obtained from them would not give the same results as are produced by the flying force.

REGULATIONS

The sum of $3,164.20 was realized from fines and sales during the year as a result of 138 prosecutions. With the increased demand for British Columbia salmon there is a greater incentive to disregard fishing boundaries and closed periods. This naturally results in a greater number of prosecutions, which is regrettable as it is far more desirable to prevent violations than penalize operators for breaches of the regulations.

The number of salmon purse-seines issued has increased from 92 in 1912 to 329 in 1925 but on the other hand I am glad to be able to report that in the same period the number of salmon drag-seines has been reduced from 193 to 37.

REDUCTION IN ORIENTALS

The department's policy of eliminating the Oriental from the fisheries of the province with a view to placing the entire industry in the hands of white British subjects and Canadian Indians appears to be working out well as is shown by statement No. 10, which covers a very large proportion of the total number of licenses issued which Orientals were permitted to hold. In the salmon gill-net operations the Orientals during the year 1925 held only 24 per cent and in the salmon trolling 10.5 per cent of the total number issued in the province.

In the herring dry salting operations a further reduction of 25 per cent was made during the year, making a total of 50 per cent, and in the case of salmon dry salting a first reduction of 25 per cent went into effect and it is the intention to continue this percentage each year until these industries are entirely in the hands of Whites or Canadian Indians.

SCIENTIFIC INVESTIGATION

In March a meeting was called in Seattle of executive officers of the Fishery Departments of the Dominion of Canada, the province of British Columbia, Alaska, and the states of Washington, Oregon and California, with a view to the co-ordinating of the work being conducted separately looking to an improvement in the present fish cultural operations and the obtaining of information which would result in a better understanding of the salmon fishery conditions as affecting the whole Pacific coast of the continent. An association was formed known as the International Pacific Salmon Investigation Federation. One of the outstanding results of this conference was the tagging operations in connection with the runs of spring, coho and sockeye salmon, which provided some extremely interesting information with regard to the destination of the several varieties passing a number of points. The tagging operations should be extended to cover all varieties of salmon during all stages of the runs and in as many localities as is possible and with the information obtained therefrom conservation measures could be much more intelligently arranged. A more detailed report will be forthcoming from the Biological Board and will be found elsewhere in this publication.

POWER BOATS IN SALMON GILL-NET FISHING, DISTRICT NO. 2

Although since the year 1923 power boats have been permitted in District No. 2 in salmon gill-net operations, it is interesting to note that out of a total of 2,866 licenses, only 242 were fished by means of power boats, as is shown by statement No. 11.

REMOVAL OF OBSTRUCTIONS IN SALMON STREAMS

During the year the sum of $4,210.49 was spent in the above work but this of course does not represent the quantity of work performed by the engineering staff. A detailed report of Senior Engineer J. McHugh appears elsewhere in this report and will be found to be of considerable interest.

WAREHOUSE AND MARINE WAYS, FRASER RIVER

The construction of the accommodation at Poplar island, Fraser river, for the purpose of storing fisheries equipment and stores and repairing the patrol boats, was completed during the year and has proved most efficient and economical. In addition to the annual overhaul of the boats of the Fraser river and Vancouver district all but one of those used in District No. 3 are brought down each year to Poplar island and the saving to the department has been very considerable and well justifies the expense of providing the accommodation. While the ways and machine shop were not completed in sufficient time to take care of our boats for the annual overhaul in the spring of 1925, the estimates of the cost of the repairs to be undertaken in the spring of 1926 will show a saving of approximately $2,262.

CONDITIONS ON SPAWNING GROUNDS

Queen Charlotte Islands.—Generally speaking this is not a sockeye district although there is a small run each year to the Naden and Yakoun rivers. It is only in the even numbered years that the large run of pinks occurs and in the odd numbered years the operators depend practically altogether on the supply of chums although on the east coast there is a fair quantity of pinks, even for an off year. The department has spent considerable money during the past few years in clearing the Yakoun river of obstructions and the result has been that now all salmon can easily ascend. The spawning grounds generally, apart from some of the east coast streams, show a satisfactory quantity of spawning chums.

Naas River.—In this area was found the largest number of spawning sockeye that has been observed for years and conditions at the fishway at Meziaden lake were found to be eminently satisfactory. The salmon have no difficulty whatever in passing up and at the time of inspection this structure was found to be full of fish on their way to the upper reaches. The run of spring salmon was also a very satisfactory one and the cohoes were found to be ascending in considerable quantities..

Skeena River.—There has always been a run of sockeye to the Exstahl river but owing to the character of the country, which makes the inspection trip of a very hazardous nature it was not until this year that an inspection was made. It would seem that this area is not as important a one from the standpoint of sockeye salmon as the Lakelse or Babine districts but quite a fair supply of this variety of spawning fish was observed. Conditions on the spawning beds would seem to justify the impression that the Exstahl district is an important one from the standpoint of the spring salmon.

In the Lakelse area a splendid run of sockeye was found and all the spawning streams were well seeded in addition to over eleven million eggs being taken at the hatchery.

In the streams entering into the Babine lake, which area is the most important one with relation to the Skeena river, a most satisfactory supply of sockeye salmon was found and the inspecting officer estimates that conditions were 20 per cent better than in the previous season. Pinks were also very numerous in this area and the beds usually resorted to by this variety are well stocked.

Central Division.—On the whole there was a satisfactory run of sockeye to the streams in this division although the fishery officers were somewhat concerned on account of the dry season which resulted in the salmon in many places having difficulty in passing up the streams. However, an adequate proportion of the run seems to have succeeded and the conditions on the spawnings beds are reasonably good. Owing to the low water the fall varieties, particularly the pinks, were obstructed for some time and while not as many reached the spawning beds as could be desired at the same time it is felt that on the whole the seeding was fair.

Bella Coola.—The supply of sockeye on the spawning beds of the Bella Coola river was found to be the best for some years. The quantity of springs was only fair and a small supply of pinks and chums was observed. The number of cohoes was satisfactory. In the Kinsquit river the supply of sockeyes while not a heavy one was fairly good. The runs of springs, pinks and chums were light although an adequate showing of cohoes was observed. In Dean river while the spawning area at the present time is limited due to a fall there was quite a fair run of springs and cohoes noticed on the spawning beds. Speaking generally of the whole district, while the fishing was intensive, it is felt that a reasonable proportion of the runs of the several varieties succeeded in reaching the spawning areas.

Rivers Inlet.—The report received from the inspecting officer in this district is an unusually satisfying one and shows that large quantities of parent spawning sockeye salmon were present on practically all the spawning beds. In addition the hatchery was easily filled to capacity in a short period and the quantity of sockeye packed at the canneries operating was much the largest in the history of the district. The hatchery operations together with the work done in the way of keeping the streams clear of obstructions has undoubtedly been of immense benefit to this river.

Smiths Inlet.—At this point, in spite of a pack of 33,764 cases of sockeye, there were great quantities found on the spawning grounds.

Alert Bay.—The principal sockeye stream in this area is the Nimpkish river. Notwithstanding the fact that there was more fishing equipment in the way of purse-seines and drag-seines operating at this point than ever before, the escapement of sockeye to the spawning grounds was such as to provide for a most excellent seeding. Only four days a week fishing was permitted from the first of the season and this fact no doubt is largely accountable for the good supply of salmon passing. There was also an excellent run of cohoes as well as spring salmon although that of pinks was light. A plentiful supply of chums also ascended the stream.

At Glendale cove, into which flows the second best sockeye stream in the district, the supply this season was one of the best for years. The runs of pinks and chums were also quite satisfactory. In such rivers as the Tsulquate, Nahwitti, and Wakeman the supply of pink salmon was very good. The quantities of pinks found on the spawning grounds over the balance of the district, however, was only fair. Generally speaking the supply of chums through the district was satisfactory. This cannot be also said of the cohoes with the exception of such points as Thompson sound, Qualate river, Howea sound, Call creek and Adams river.

Quathiaski District.—This is not a particularly good sockeye area and the supply at Hayden creek was only fair. The same applies to Phillips river. Apart from the chums no variety of salmon was very plentiful on the spawning grounds although there was a satisfactory quantity of cohoes at Salmon river, Phillips river and Homalko river. At Campbell river, which is well known for its excellent Tyee (spring) salmon sport fishing, there was an adequate supply of this variety.

Comox.—This is not a sockeye area and 1925 was an off-year for pinks. The supply of cohoes on the spawning grounds was found to be very light with the exception of Little river and French creek. This also applies largely to chums although there was a good run at Coal creek, Waterloo creek and Big Qualicum river.

Pender Harbour.—There was practically no sockeye in this area apart from Sauch-en-Auch creek. For some reason the quantity observed on the spawning grounds was very unsatisfactory although the fishway installed at this point is quite efficient. The run of pinks on the whole was fairly good. The streams in the Jervis inlet area were particularly well seeded. A satisfactory portion of the cohoes and chum runs reached the spawning grounds.

Nanaimo.—This is not a pink area. The quantity of cohoes was only fair. In the case of the chums, apart from the Nanaimo river, the spawning areas were not found to be very well stocked.

Cowichan.—There are no sockeye in this sub-district. The spawning beds of the Cowichan, Koksilah, and in fact practically all the streams show a plentiful supply of cohoes salmon. Chums ran in considerable quantities to the Cowichan and Koksilah and the spawning areas were well seeded.

From a standpoint of sporting fish the seeding of the beds by the steelhead and the cutthroat trout has been quite good.

Sooke.—In the Sooke river and Muir creek a good run of cohoes was observed. The supply of chums generally was also most satisfactory although Demanuel creek showed fewer in proportion than other streams.

Alberni.—Apart from the Somass and Stamp rivers, the Anderson river, and a few in Nitinat, there are no sockeye in this area. The supply of this variety to the Anderson river was only fair although the usual take of eggs was effected at the Anderson Lake hatchery. The spawning grounds around the Somass lake were plentifully supplied and the run which reached as far up the Stamp river as the falls seem to be somewhat larger than usual. Owing, however, to the condition at the falls these salmon are practically all prevented from reaching a larger area. It is hoped that some means can be devised in the near future whereby a more extensive spawning district can be opened to this run. The supply of cohoes at Stamp river was excellent and owing to some assistance being given by means of reducing the falls practically all reached the good spawning area above. At the Sproat, San Juan, and Gordon rivers there was a plentiful supply of this variety also. The Alberni district is not a pink area. The run of chums, apart from the San Juan and Gordon rivers, was not particularly satisfactory.

The Nitinat area does not appear to have yet recovered from the extremely intensive fishing of some years ago.

Clayoquot Sound.—Sockeyes only run to the Kennedy and Medgin rivers. The spawning beds in the former district were very well seeded and there was also a satisfactory supply at the latter. With regard to cohoes, on the whole the supply was good, particularly at Hesquot river, North and East bay, Atleo river, Bauden bay, Trout river, Tronquile creek, and Deer creek. This is not a pink area. The chum run was quite good and the spawning grounds were practically all found to be abundantly seeded.

Nootka Sound.—This is not a sockeye or pink district. An inspection of the spawning beds did not show a satisfactory supply of cohoes, but on the whole the supply of chums was sufficient to provide a good return for future years. This applies particularly to such streams as Conuma river, Deserted creek, Sowand river, and Espinosa river.

Kyuquot.—There are no sockeye streams in this sub-district and there were few cohoes found on the spawning beds. This also applies to chums.

Quatsino.—Sockeye are few in this area and they are of the creek variety. A fair supply was observed at Marble river and a few at Mahatta river. Satisfactory conditions were found with regard to the supply of cohoes, generally speaking, and this applies also to the chums. There were few pinks to be found.

FRASER RIVER WATERSHED

In the Stuart Lake district the return of parent sockeye salmon this year has been the largest since 1909. The result of the intensive planting of eyed sockeye eggs on the natural spawning beds in this area could first be expected to appear during the run of 1925, and judging from the most satisfactory showing of returning fish there would appear to be every justification to feel that the fish cultural operations as being conducted at present are responsible for the satisfactory conditions as found this year on the spawning grounds. The superintendent of the hatchery at Stuart lake states that in several of the streams visited he observed as many as 500 or 600 spawning sockeye, although only a portion of each stream was inspected. The Indians took at least 1,200 sockeyes for their winter food purposes. While of course 500 or 600 fish would not go very far in seeding such a large area as the Stuart lake system, at the same time, when it is remembered that for years past there have been hardly any sockeye at all seen, this year's conditions are decidedly encouraging.

The Bowron Lake district showed practically no sockeye, the dozen or so observed being hardly worth mentioning. In the Quesnel district the local officer estimates that about 500 ascended the Upper Horsefly and McKinley rivers. A thorough inspection was not made of the other Quesnel lake tributaries, therefore no information is available. The conditions are estimated to be very similar to those of four years ago.

The local officer reports that he found the sockeye run to the Chilco river the best since that of four years ago and he feels that it is slightly better than that of the previous cycle year.

In August Mr. C. W. Harrison, the Inspector of Hatcheries, made a thorough inspection of Chilco lake and its tributaries. The impression prevailed that this was one of the main spawning areas for the sockeye passing above Hells Gate. The inspecting officer, however, found that while there does exist a limited suitable spawning area, in his opinion Chilco lake has not been a very great factor in the large sockeye runs of previous years. It is possible, however, that Chilco river itself and Whitewater river and lake may have been used extensively by these salmon, and it is expected that a thorough examination of these waters will be made by Mr. Harrison during 1926.

In the Anderson-Seton lake area, for the first time in a considerable number of years, comparatively fair quantities of spawning sockeye salmon were observed. The few thousands observed of course are only a very small fraction of the runs which used to ascend this system, but it is sufficient to be encouraging. It has been suggested that these were fish which were on their way to the upper reaches of the Fraser river watershed but which on account of being held up, at least temporarily, at the canyon in the Fraser river just beyond the junction with Bridge river, have dropped back the five or six miles to the Seton lake system. This suggestion has been investigated as thoroughly as is possible and the writer feels that such a conclusion is not warranted.

For the preceding four years particular attention has been given to the upper reaches of the Anderson-Seton lake system from the Pemberton hatchery and considerable quantities of both eyed sockeye eggs and fry have been planted each year under the best of conditions. There would appear to be little doubt but that the returning fish this year are the result of fish cultural operations. This is borne out by the statement of Guardian Mr. T. E. Scott, who has had a considerable number of years' experience in the district. He states in part as follows:—

"In reference to Seton creek run of sockeye—knowing the difficulty at Bridge river and this being the first time that salmon of this species have appeared in any quantities for years. I reported on October 9, 1925, that it might be that salmon had drifted down and gone up Seton creek. My next visit sockeye had increased greatly, and in good condition, so of course this idea exploded. I followed the course of sockeye from Seton creek to Gates creek or Anderson creek, a distance of over thirty miles. It is out of the question to think for one minute that salmon, weak and battered, could drop back to the Fraser river eight miles and go over thirty more."

It is certainly not at all likely that fresh run fish would be appearing in the Seton system if they were headed for points above Bridge river canyon, but it is far more likely that any fish which had dropped back after fighting the canyon for some time would be considerably battered.

At the Bridge River canyon the Indians have been in the habit of taking their food supply from the salmon which are gathered in the safe resting places at the foot of the fast water. It is discouraging to find that after the best return of parent sockeye salmon in years to the upper reaches of the Fraser some 7,000 should have been taken by the Indians at this point. It will be appreciated that these fish when they have already reached a point so far up the Fraser river are of immense value from a standpoint of natural reproduction on the spawning grounds in the upper reaches of the watershed.

In the Shuswap-Eagle river district a better showing of sockeye salmon was observed than usual. At the Adams and Little rivers the local guardian estimated that he had seen approximately 20,000 spawning sockeye. There were very few observed in Eagle river.

A considerable improvement was observed in the run of salmon to the Thompson river watershed. This applies to the spring and sockeye varieties.

At Hells Gate the conditions were very similar to previous years, and although salmon were delayed at certain times for short periods they eventually were able to pass beyond this point.

To the Birkenhead river again this year there was a splendid run of sockeye. Forty million eggs were collected at the hatchery and large numbers of sockeye spawned naturally. There is no doubt but that the run to this stream is being well maintained. At Harrison lake no unusual number of fish was observed. A fair number spawned in Morris creek and in the rapids at Harrison river.

At Cultus lake a fair supply of sockeye passed up to the spawning beds and all were permitted to spawn naturally. The run, though satisfactory, was not as large as that of the preceding year.

At Pitt lake conditions continue to be excellent and the quantity of spawning parent sockeye ascending the upper streams is being well maintained.

In the Nicomekl and Serpentine rivers, which are two of the chief sport fishing streams in the vicinity of Vancouver, the supply of fish was found to be very satisfactory and with the present conservation measures there would appear to be no doubt but that good fishing will continue indefinitely.

In the Howe sound and Burrard inlet area the principal commercial streams such as Indian river and the Squamish river received an excellent seeding by pink salmon, this, of course, being the big year. A certain amount of difficulty was experienced for a time owing to an unusually dry season. The supply of chums to these streams was only fair.

In the Capilano, Lynn and Seymour creeks, in spite of the intensive fishing by anglers, the supply of the several varieties, and particularly the steelhead, keeps up in a most satisfactory way. It is remarkable that such excellent fishing can be obtained practically in the city of Vancouver.

The year 1925 was the year of the big pink run to the Fraser river district. The run this year was excellent and all the pink spawning areas were well seeded. Unfortunately the Canadian fishermen obtain a very small proportion of this run owing to the intensive fishing to the south of the international boundary by means of purse-seines and traps. Gill-nets only are permitted on the Canadian side and by the time the fish have run the gauntlet of the Puget sound fishermen few are left for Canadian operators, although the spawning grounds are on the Canadian side.

GENERAL

The season 1925 was a most difficult one owing to the lack of rain. The season was the driest for many years and this resulted in there being not sufficient water in the streams for the salmon to pass up to the spawning areas in many cases. In such instances every effort was made by means of increased closed periods, extension of the prohibited areas, and early final closing to the end that a proper proportion of the runs would be enabled to spawn in the usual areas. There have been instances during the year, however, when pinks and chums deposited their eggs close to the salt chuck and it is a question as to whether such spawning will be productive of good results.

APPENDIX 2

REPORT ON ACTIVITIES OF MARINE BIOLOGICAL BOARD FOR 1925

By J. J. COWIE, Secretary-Treasurer

The board is charged with the control of the various Biological stations and the investigations undertaken thereat. It meets once a year at Ottawa, and at such places and times as may be found absolutely necessary for the carrying on of the work of the board.

A committee called the Executive Committee is charged with the supervision and carrying out of the undertakings involved in the policies formulated by the board. A sub-executive on the Atlantic, and another on the Pacific coast, has immediate supervision, under the executive committee, of the local activities of the board's staff of workers at the stations.

BIOLOGICAL STATION AT ST. ANDREWS, N.B.

The Station at St. Andrews, N.B., provided accommodation or field facilities during the season of 1925 for twenty-seven investigators, who continued their investigations during the following winter at their respective universities. There were from the various universities the following numbers of investigators: Western (London), three; Toronto, eight; Queen's (Kingston), four; Montreal, one; McGill (Montreal), four; New Brunswick (Fredericton), two; St. Francis Xavier (Antigonish), one; Dalhousie (Halifax), three; and Manchester (England), one.

The subjects investigated were as follows: abnormal development of fish eggs, lethal temperatures of various organs in fishes, algae of Passamaquoddy bay, factors for diatom maxima, life history of cod, ecology of periwinkle, effect of light on marine crustacea, lethal temperatures for molluscs, culture of entomostraca, temperature needs for oyster development, chemistry of haddock muscle, effect of light on growth of algae, temperature and salinity needs for mackerel development, biological interpretation of fisheries statistics, rigor mortis of fish muscle, digestion in Cladocera, lactic acid in fish muscle, blood sugar levels in certain fishes, physiology of the spleen and other organs in fishes, temperature behaviour of connective tissue of fishes, hydrography of Halifax and St. Andrews regions, copepods in the food cycle of the sea, life-history of the shad, physical requirements of the shipworm (in co-operation with National Research Council), character of Mackerel schools. A survey was made of the Caraquet oyster-beds, and a general biological survey of Halifax harbour, including Bedford basin. A start was made with the program for the tagging of cod, haddock, and mackerel. Certain laboratory facilities were provided for collectors of the Royal Ontario Museum of Zoology, and laboratory accommodation and facilities were provided for Dr. L. H. Almy of the U.S. Bureau of Chemistry for an investigation of the "rotting" of "feedy" sardines. The U.S. Bureau of Fisheries gave Dr. A. H. Leim, Assistant Director of Atlantic Biological Station, facilities at Gloucester, Massachusetts, for a study of the physical needs for the development of cod, haddock and pollock.

The following is a list of the Investigators who worked at the station, and the problems tackled by each:—

EXPERIMENTAL STATION AT HALIFAX

The Atlantic Experimental Station for Fisheries was established at Halifax, N.S., in the spring of 1925, on a portion of the King's wharf, made available by the Department of Militia and Defence. Old buildings were converted for the purpose of the station so as to furnish experiment, work and demonstration rooms, biochemical, bacteriological, and special laboratories, library, offices, and board room in the main building, and a smoke-house in one of the out-buildings. Committees were formed of men in the fishing industry and of representatives of Dalhousie University and the Nova Scotia Technical College as follows: a general advisory committee, a committee on the smoking of fish, a committee on fish refrigeration.

On the educational side there have been the following: Publication of a bulletin on the prevention of blackening in lobster canning. Preparation of bulletins on the processing of dried fish and on the smoking of fish. Addresses by the Director in Halifax, Moncton, Yarmouth, Lunenburg, Liverpool, and Canso. Answering of queries concerning methods of fish curing. Collection of data on present methods in the fishing industry. Public exhibit in Halifax of foreign and domestic cures of dried fish. Scientific and practical course for hatchery officers held at Truro, N.S., under the Chairman of the Board as Acting Educator.

Technical service was furnished the industry in the following directions: effect of icing on subsequent drying of fish, comparative deliquescence of various grades of salt; analyses of fish meal.

On the experimental side the station was asked by the General Advisory Committee to take up the subject of the smoking of fish. Six experienced investigators were employed during the summer of 1925 and two of these were continued during the following winter season. In addition to general experimentation in smoking, special attempts were made to ascertain the scientific principles on which the successful preparation of smoked fish under varying local or atmospheric conditions could be based. In this connection the following reports have been prepared.

Experiments on the production and the chemistry of wood smoke, in connection with the fish smoking industry, by J. A. Dauphinee, M.A.

Investigation into the tensile strength of fish muscle before and after treatment, by J. C. Forbes, Ph.D.

Effect of smoke on the tensile strength of fish muscle, by J. C. Forbes and J. A. Dauphinee.

Influence of smoke and its constituents on the bacteria in the smoke-curing of fish, by Ernest Hess, M.A.

The Micro-organisms responsible for the spoiling of fish muscle, by A. H. Gee, M.A., Ph.D.

Protein changes in pickled and smoked fish, by N. B. Dreyer, B.A.

Other reports are in preparation.

These investigations have among other things brought out the following. The sheen desired in smoked fish is an extreme example of case hardening through rapid surface drying, a thin skin about one-four-hundredths of an inch in thickness being formed. The drying cannot be too rapid for this. Early smoking affects unfavourably the smoothing of the surface of the skin, and late smoking ensures its permanence. The strength of the fish to stand handling and to keep from dropping when hung is improved by brining, by drying, and by the application of smoke. Weak acid emphasizes the action of brining, but, when alone, acid is objectionable in this regard. The substance in smoke, that is important for strengthening the fish is formaldehyde. Both brining and smoking give the final product longer life, that is better keeping qualities. This is through the disinfectant action of the salt and certain constituents of the smoke on the bacteria of spoilage. This disinfectant action is continued for a time after the fish are removed from the smoke. The principle substance in the smoke for disinfectant action is formaldehyde. The yellow or amber colour of the smoked fish is due to an oxidation-product of pyrogallol, which is present in the smoke. Smoke from wood heated away from air is very ineffective in colouring the fish. The colour is enhanced by previous treatment of the surface of the fish with a weak alkali by the presence of formaldehyde, and by exposure of the fish to air for some hours subsequently to smoking. Formaldehyde applied in the form of vapour acts on the fish, so as to give, after cooking, a definite and agreeable flavour. Smoke from wood heated away from air gives a distinctly disagreeable flavour to the fish. Increase in the amount of air reaching the heated wood results in a decrease in the amount of acetic acid and an increase in the amount of formaldehyde in the smoke.

Experiments in the development of an economical commercial quick freezer for fish have been continued. These have demonstrated that a comparatively cheap and very effective apparatus for brine-freezing fish can be connected up satisfactorily with the brine-system of an ammonia refrigerating plant. In previous experiments an efficient salt and ice apparatus had been developed.

The station has been in receipt of considerable assistance and courtesy from various men and firms in the fishing industry, and from Dalhousie University and the Nova Scotia Technical College, as well as from various members of their staffs.

BIOLOGICAL STATION AT NANAIMO, B.C.

Special attention was given to the collection and naming of all marine animals and plants of the coast and studies of their life histories, distribution, etc. This information must form the basis of experimental and economic work. Drs. O'Donoghue, University of Manitoba, and Fraser, University of British Columbia, have carried this work forward as well as Mrs. Berkeley, Messrs. Wailes, Cornwall and Fee.

Work in marine bacteriology has been commenced by Mr. Berkeley.

Biochemical studies of fish, clams and crabs have been carried on by Dr. Collip, University of Alberta, and his assistant Dr. Clark.

Studies of the anatomy of fish and other forms have been made by Dr. O'Donoghue, Dr. Craigie, Mr. Bolton and Miss Mather.

Scale studies of sockeye salmon have been carried out by Dr. Clemens, partly in association with the Department of Fisheries of British Columbia.

A comprehensive study of the life-history of the ling cod and the economic phases of the fishery is being conducted by Mr. Wilby of the University of British Columbia.

A considerable amount of data is being collected relating to the life histories of herring and salmon.

A continuous record of temperatures, specific gravities and hydrogen-ion concentrations is being obtained at Departure bay and of temperatures at William head, near Victoria. (It is planned to commence extensive oceanographical studies this year. This will include the collection of temperature records, salinities, etc., along the coast and quantitative samples of plankton microscopic plants and animals.) All this information is necessary in studies of fish distribution and movements and in connection with problems connected with the propagation and conservation of such animals as crabs, oysters and clams.

The Biological Board is co-operating with the international Fisheries Commission which is studying the problem of the conservation of the Pacific halibut.

The board is also taking an active part in the international Pacific Salmon Investigation Federation which has as one of its main objects the co-ordination of scientific studies of the various species of Pacific salmon.

EXPERIMENTAL STATION, PRINCE RUPERT, B.C.

Fish Refrigeration.—Mr. D. B. Finn, B.Sc., in charge. Carried out researches on Atlantic coast for about four months. Visited refrigeration plants on Atlantic coast, Montreal, Port Dover, Winnipeg and Vancouver. Has established temporary quarters at Prince Rupert, pending erection of station building and will carry out experimental work in plant at Canadian Fish and Cold Storage Company, at Prince Rupert. Mr. Roger Reid, B.Sc., assistant in fish refrigeration, has prepared bibliography on refrigeration.

Fish Oils.—Mr. H. Brocklesby, University of Manitoba, has been studying fish oils, especially that of dogfish livers and will spend next summer on Pacific coast.

Salmon Movements.—Dr. H. C. Williamson in charge. Tagged spring salmon during period of six weeks off west coast of Vancouver island. Results showed southerly movement of these fish to Fraser river, Puget sound, Columbia river and a few to Sacramento river, California.

Tagged spring salmon off west coast of Queen Charlotte islands over period of about four weeks. Result showed generally southerly movement to Fraser river, Puget sound and Columbia river, but a few went eastward to the Skeena. Tagged sockeye salmon at Wales Island near Alaskan-Canadian boundary. Results showed majority of these fish went to Naas river, some southward into Skeena river and some northward into Alaskan waters. Tagged sockeye salmon near Seymour Narrows east coast of Vancouver island. Results showed that practically all these fish went to the Fraser river and thus definitely established that a portion of the Fraser river run comes in from the sea around the north end of Vancouver island.

Dr. Williamson will continue the salmon tagging work next year and will tag throughout the fishing season on the west coast of Vancouver island.

Sockeye Salmon Races.—Dr. Williamson has been making a special detailed study of the races of sockeye salmon occurring in the Fraser river.

Next summer it is planned to carry out special studies of clams, crabs and oysters on Pacific coast.

FISH CULTURAL INVESTIGATIONS

In view of the doubts publicly expressed as to whether the results from artificial fish culture were such as to justify the expenditures being made on that service, the department in the end of the year 1924 asked the board for some authoritative opinion thereon. The board at a special meeting carefully considered the matter and came to the conclusion that there is at the present time insufficient knowledge to enable it to say that the present fish cultural work of the department is or is not justified by economic results; that a thorough scientific investigation be immediately commenced covering a period of years to furnish the basis of knowledge for economically successful artificial fish propagation; that pending these investigations the Department give more attention to assisting the natural propagation, and that the existing hatcheries be maintained so far as in the opinion of the department they may be justified. The board was, therefore, authorized to formulate plans for such investigation and to go ahead with it. Consequently, in the spring of 1925 a Research Committee of the board was formed for this purpose. The Research Committee considered that two courses were open. The first to do away with the present system of artificial propagation and build up a rational practice based strictly upon investigation and experience. The alternative to continue the present system and steadily modify it on the basis of investigation and experience. This latter course has been adopted, and is to be continued until it shows sufficient promise of success. With this end in view, the Research Committee has in hand intensive investigations at Cultus lake, B.C., which will ultimately determine the results from artificial propagation of sockeye as compared with natural propagation of that species of salmon. With the same end in view, investigations are going on in Eastern Canada with a view to determining the value of the artificial propagation of trout.

In addition to these investigations during 1925, the Research Committee carried on investigations in the Jasper Park lakes and other lakes of the West.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

During the first half of August, 1925, the board provided a course of instruction for fish hatchery officers of Eastern Canada. The course was held at Truro, N.S., under the direction of Dr. A. P. Knight, Chairman of the Board. Those assisting him were Professor Barteaux, of Truro Agricultural College; Professor Harlow, Truro Agricultural College; Mr. George Jeffers and Mr. H. C. White, employees of the board. Thirteen of the hatchery superintendents attended the course. The principle on which the program of study was made up was the same as that followed in scientific schools and universities, viz., that the teaching of physics and chemistry should precede the teaching of the other natural sciences, because a knowledge of physics and chemistry forms the necessary foundation for a knowledge of the other sciences. Besides elementary physics and chemistry, parts of biology and fish culture were also taught. The biology was limited to a brief outline of the anatomy and physiology of the trout. The fish culture was limited to a study of limnology, or that science which treats of ponds, lakes, brooks and rivers, and the substances for fish and fry which are found in them.

APPENDIX 3

OBSERVATIONS ON THE AMERICAN LOBSTER (Homarus Americanus)

By Mr. ANDREW HALKETT, Naturalist

Early in the present year Mr. J. J. Cowie recommended that during the lobster fishing season in the portion of the strait of Northumberland where large lobsters known as "jumbos" are brought to the canneries, I should be instructed to investigate into the matter from the viewpoint of the value of those large lobsters as reproducers.

On the strength of his recommendation I was notified to undertake the work, and therefore gave it close and varied attention.

There was no way, however, owing to promiscuous circumstances attending the bringing in of the lobsters to the canneries or in their being passed on to the boilers, for me to pursue a regular systematic course of investigation, and I was, therefore, subject to whatever opportunities presented themselves when visiting the canneries or in seeing lobsters where for the time being they were moored in crates.

Nevertheless by persistently observing whatever was on hand to observe, I ascertained to the satisfaction of my own mind that the taking of those mature and full grown lobsters is a detriment and injury to the welfare of the industry.

In fact I concur in the judgment of intelligent and experienced canners that no lobsters over 13 inches should be allowed to be taken. The canners, as a rule, do not want large lobsters, let alone so called "jumbos" as they entail loss to the industry. A manager of a cannery told me that the expenses for one season for large lobsters stood 25 per cent. Earlier in the season I saw at Cote Ste. Anne a boiled lobster, 16 inches, $8\frac{1}{2}$ pounds when alive, 8 pounds when boiled, for which the manager paid \$1.06, and which he did not want. The trouble is with the fishermen who are blind to their own interests.

There are fishermen who say that the great big overgrown, covered-with-barnacles, lobsters are males, and in that assertion, if taken by itself, there is a measure of truth in what they say. But such fishermen do not look further nor get anywhere near what is involved in destroying mature, reproducing lobsters, whether males or females, and these valuable lobsters, irrespective of sex, may, on account of their size, well be termed the real reproducers.

The story is therefore not all told when fishermen speak as they do. Well do I know beforehand on hearing that there is a big "jumbo", with enormous claws and all covered with barnacles upon its coarse, rugged shell, to be shown, that I am going to see a male. But these are merely secondary matters, masculine lobster characteristics. But there are corresponding feminine characteristics. A large female lobster is not tempered as coarsely as a male, and does not present as formidable an appearance.

It is perfectly true that there are far more enormous males than there are enormous females, in my recent observations the percentage was about $87\frac{1}{2}$ in the former and about $12\frac{1}{2}$ in the latter in about 60 large lobsters, but as is known from past determinations the percentage of the sexes stands about 50 to 50, so that the large females, although as a rule, not attaining to the huge dimensions of the males are equally as valuable as reproducers.

Something more direct may tend to show this.

I came across a female $18\frac{1}{2}$ inches, 8 pounds, which had a new, still pliable shell. Practically there was little or no meat in this lobster, and its value lay in the eggs that would have been. But this lobster was for the boiler.

Another female, $14\frac{1}{2}$ inches, 4 pounds, showed indications of being ready to extrude her eggs, and had long hairs for the purpose on the swimmerets; and another, 14 inches, $3\frac{1}{2}$ pounds, had a new shell, with only one claw, and there were indications that eggs would soon have been extruded.

Another female 16 inches, 5 pounds, had a new pliable shell and little or no meat.

These instances I produce to show the waste that is going on, and there are many such.

The value of the "jumbo" males lies in the enormous number of sperms which they possess. These were magnified and compared with the sperms of an $8\frac{1}{2}$ inch male and a $10\frac{3}{4}$ inch male, and the sperms of all three were essentially the same, the vital difference in the "jumbos" being that the number of sperms were, owing to their greater size, enormously greater.

In any sized lobster the sperms under the microscope can be seen in great masses, in plate II, figure 10, I have spread a few of them out so as to convey an idea of their shape and apparent size when magnified 500 diameters.

The investigations were made at Cape Spear, Cape Tormentine, Borden, and Point Traverse.

On the New Brunswick side of the strait Overseer Prescott greatly facilitated my work through having attended to preliminaries against my arrival in his district, and helped me much when I was in it.

On the Prince Edward Island side Inspector Gallant and Overseer Square-briggs facilitated my work greatly. Inspector Gallant was with me during one whole day, when as everything was favourable much information was gained.

I have also to express indebtedness to managers at canneries who courteously gave me every access in examining lobsters, in having them retained for me until examined, and in other respects aided me besides.

There is one question that I can hardly deal with. It concerns the dimensions of the entrance spaces to the traps. Canners seem to be averse to having any change in that respect, and emphasize that a regulation should simply prohibit the bringing in of lobsters of sizes as determined by law. They seem to maintain that a smaller entrance space, to be enforced, might only lead to complications, but they seem to be as a rule desirous to have the large lobsters conserved and that to bring them in should be strictly prohibited.

While at Cape Tormentine I received a telegram from the Department to go to Charlottetown to deliver an address before a Lobster Packers' meeting. The address was given extemporarily as I had no time to prepare a paper, and seemed to be well received.

The maps (represented in blue-prints) and a facsimile of Mr. Watson's graph are by Mr. C. C. Bruce, Chief Engineer of the Fisheries, the tabulations were prepared from my manuscripts under his supervision, and the plates with their figures (represented in blue-prints) are my own.

APPENDIX 4

REPORT ON FISHWAYS AND REMOVAL OF OBSTRUCTIONS,
BY CHAS. BRUCE, FISHERIES ENGINEER

The following report furnishes in detail information regarding inspections, construction of fishways and removal of obstructions to the ascent of fish.

NOVA SCOTIA

1. Tusket River, Yarmouth Light and Power Company, Limited.—As intimated in the previous annual report, extensive modifications to the power dam were carried out during the last year, thus rendering the fishway, which had only recently been completed, ineffective. An inspection and survey of requirements for modifying the fishway were made and plans for the completion thereon served on the company.

2. Salmon River, Yarmouth County.—

(a) A dam owned by Samuel Durkee, Pleasant Valley, Yarmouth county, was inspected and information secured for the design of a fishway therein.

(b) A dam owned by Parker Eakins & Company was inspected and information secured for the design of a fishway therein.

3. Clyde River, Shelburne County.—The fishway constructed in 1924 by the Clyde Pulp Company, Limited, at Queens was inspected and found to be in good order. The diversion of practically the entire discharge of the river through the power canal to the pulp mill at critical periods during the ascent of salmon and sea trout proves the most serious obstacle to the entire success of this fishway.

4. Broad River, Queens County.—An inspection of a fishway in a small dam at the mouth of this river was made and suggested alterations to improve the passage for fish discussed with the owner, who agreed to carry out the necessary work. Broad river has a fair run of sea trout entering it, which makes an adequate fishway desirable.

5. Mersey River, Queens County.—In view of the fact that there was in prospect extensive development on this river, including the construction of paper and pulp mills, information was sought as to the possible effect of such development on the fisheries.

While nothing definite could be learned owing to the uncertainty at the time as to just what form development of the water-power might take, it seemed reasonably certain that provision for the ascent of salmon could be made.

6. Medway River, Queens County.—Owing to the fact that it was very difficult for alewives to ascend the fishway through the pulp mill dam at Salter's Falls, particularly at high water, and that numbers of them were being killed, it was decided to make certain modifications. A survey revealed that it would be impossible to accomplish the desired results by using the existing fishway, owing to excessive grade. It was accordingly necessary to reroute the fishway entirely, the work involving extensive blasting and concrete construction.

As this work was an alteration to an existing fishway, which had been built by the owners of the dam, it was done by the department under subsection 4 of section 31 of the Fisheries Act at a cost of $505.49.

7. Branch Brook, Lunenburg County.—Representations having been made that this brook should be cleared for the passage of alewives, an inspection was made. The brook was found to be of very little importance and small in volume. As it would have required probably $300 to make it reasonably passable, in addition to the fact that the owner of the small dam located on it would have to build a fishway, it was not considered advisable to incur any expenditure.

8. LaHave River, Lunenburg County.—The two fishways in dams on this river immediately above tide water were inspected and found to be effective. Last year the fishway in the second dam was blocked by the logging operations and notice was served that such would not be permitted in future unless an adequate fishway were provided.

As the main LaHave is obstructed by a falls and two dams below New Germany, the falls being practically insurmountable, it was decided to direct attention to the north branch which enters the main river below these falls. The following obstructions on this branch were inspected and information obtained whereby fishways could be built, viz:—

- (a) Dam owned by Fred DeLong.
- (b) Dam owned by Messrs. Rhuben Keddy, Wm. Caldwell, Daniel Veniot, Rufus Feindel and Amos Ernst.
- (c) Indian Falls, a natural falls the total height of which is about 20 feet.
- (d) Dam owned by Hulbert Millbury.

9. East River, Lunenburg County.—Falls or rapids on this river which prevented ascent of salmon, except during high water, were inspected. Work which included blasting to confine the flow of water into a narrow defined channel was done at a cost of $115.51.

The fishway in the Chester Light and Power Company's dam on this river was inspected and directions given the manager for certain modifications to make it more effective.

10. Martin River, Lunenburg County.—Obstructions to the ascent of salmon into lake Spondo were removed, including the improvement of the channel at the site of an old dam at a cost of $188.16.

11. Benery Brook, Halifax County.—Obstructions consisting of jams of logs and debris were removed at a cost of $50.

12. Sackville River, Halifax County.—Improvements of the passage for salmon through an old abandoned dam were made at a cost of $5.

13. White Lake, Halifax County.—Arrangements were made to build a fishway in the dam at the outlet of this lake, but owing to high water the work was not completed.

14. Gays River, Halifax County.—Investigation of the necessity for a fishway in Cook's dam on this river was continued. Evidence so far obtained indicates that no good purpose would be served by requiring its construction.

15. Tangier River, Halifax County.—Repairs to the fishway in the Tangier Gold Mining Company's dam, which included putting in a new type of partitions, were completed. As this involved alterations to an existing fishway the work was done by the department under subsection 4 of section 31 of the Fisheries Act at a cost of $91.76.

16. Newcombe Brook, Halifax County.—An unused dam owned by George Monk was inspected. Owing to its condition the construction of a fishway was not feasible, but the owner was notified to provide an opening in the gate to permit the passage of fish.

17. Ship Harbour River, Halifax County.—Fishway in the John Lewis Company's dam was inspected and directions for certain repairs given to the manager of the company.

18. Liscomb River, Guysboro County.—Representations having been made that a passage for fish should be provided at the dam on this river owned by the Goldenville Mining Company, an inspection of the condition at that location was made. Owing to the fact that an impassable falls, the construction of a fishway through which is practically impossible, exists immediately below this dam, it was not considered that any action to require the owners of the dam to provide a fishway therein was necessary.

19. St. Mary's River, East Branch, Guysboro County.—A dam being built by the Sonora Lumber Company at Fisher's Mills was inspected and plans for a fishway furnished to the company.

20. Salmon River, Guysboro County.—Dam owned by John McPherson on this river was inspected and information for the reconstruction of the fishway, which together with a portion of the dam had been destroyed by heavy ice, given the owner. As the reconstruction involved alterations to the original design one-half the cost of the new fishway was paid for by the department, under subsection 4 of section 31 of the Fisheries Act, amounting to $100.

21. Benacadie River, Cape Breton County.—Inspection of obstructions which included diversions of the main channel and accumulations of debris was made and remedial work carried out at a cost of $149.95.

22. McIntosh Brook, Cape Breton County.—Inspection of obstructions was made. This stream was so seriously obstructed for a distance of some two hundred yards that it was considered advisable to open up an entirely new channel. Remedial work was completed at a cost of $200.

23. Cochrane's Brook, Cape Breton County.—Obstructions extending over about a mile of this stream and consisting of jams of old logs and debris were inspected and the removal of the same effected at a cost of $100.

24. Black Brook, Cape Breton County.—A channel was blasted through a ledge of flat rock across the river to confine the water to a deeper and more defined stream so as to permit the passage of fish at a cost of $30.

25. North River, Victoria County.—An inspection of a falls on this river was made and directions given for blasting out a passage through them so as to permit the ascent of salmon. The work was completed at a cost of $298.91.

26. Hatchery Brook, Inverness County.—Obstructions to the ascent of fish consisting of jams of old logs, roots and debris were removed at a cost of $89.

27. River Inhabitants, Inverness County.—This river was obstructed at three points by jams of old logs, roots and debris which had accumulated during freshets. The removal of all obstructions was effected at a cost of $135.75.

28. O'Law Brook, Inverness County.—Obstructions consisting of old log and debris forming a jam were removed at a cost of $24.90.

29. Prairie Brook, Inverness County.—The removal of an obstruction to ascending fish, consisting of old logs, roots and debris, was removed at a cost of $49.50.

30. Shinimecas River, Cumberland County.—A dam about three miles from the mouth of this river was inspected and information for the design of a fishway obtained. Owing to the fact that several miles of this river above the dam did not show any evidence of being suitable for spawning grounds it was decided to defer action on the fishway pending a more comprehensive examination of the upper waters.

31. Maccan River, Cumberland County.—A dam on the upper waters of this river was inspected. Owing to its rather unstable condition it was not considered feasible to build a fishway without seriously endangering it. As there are several miles of good spawning grounds in this river below the dam as well as two or three good tributary streams coming in, it was not considered advisable to have the fishway built.

32. River Philip, Cumberland County.—Fishway at Oxford Light and Power Company's dam was inspected and instructions issued for a slight modification to make it more effective. A heavy wire screen was placed over the fishway to prevent poaching. Rocks were placed in the tailrace and wastegate channels where poaching is most difficult to control and accumulations of debris cleared away. The cost of work was $128.71.

33. Gaspereau River, Kings County.—The fishway in the power dam was inspected and found effective.

34. Nictaux River, Annapolis County.—

- (a) As large numbers of salmon were retarded below Nictaux falls in this river during low water, channels were blasted and concrete wings built to provide a passage at a cost of $464.67.
- (b) The fishway in the town of Middleton's electric power dam was inspected and instructions issued for certain modifications to make it more effective.
- (c) The control dam owned by the town of Middleton was inspected. Gates in this dam were kept open and there is no necessity for a fishway while the present arrangement is maintained.

35. Annapolis River, Annapolis County.—The dam on this river at Lawrencetown was inspected and the fishway found to be effective.

36. Salmon River, Digby County.—Obstructions to the ascent of salmon consisting of jams of old logs and debris were inspected. The removal of these obstructions was effected at a cost of $56.25.

37. Milton Pond, Yarmouth County.—The fishway was inspected and instructions issued for certain alterations to the lower end thereof to make it more effective, which were completed at a cost of $19.53.

NEW BRUNSWICK

1. Wheaton Lake, Charlotte County.—A screen to prevent the escape of bass into the outlet stream of this lake has been maintained for some years. Repairs and renewals were made during the season at a cost of $47.40.

2. Magaguadavic River, Charlotte County.—

- (a) A complete instrumental survey was conducted of the falls at the mouth of this river for the purpose of designing a fishway to admit the passage of salmon, at a cost of $61.39.
- (b) An inspection was made at the second falls and information for improvement of the passage for salmon obtained.

3. Pocologan River, Charlotte County.—An inspection of obstructions which retarded the ascent of salmon, thus leading to poaching, was made and work to remove such obstructions, together with the clearing of brush at several places adjacent to the river, was completed for $392.85.

4. New River, Charlotte County.—Inspection of this river was made and no obstructions found with the exception of one old dam through which there was a small opening. Instructions were given to have this opening enlarged.

5. Musquash River, St. John County.—An inspection was made at the dams of the New Brunswick Hydro-Electric Commission dams on the east and west branches. Owing to the conditions created by the development of the power, it was not considered feasible to install fishways.

6. Black River, St. John County.—An inspection of conditions for the ascent of salmon in this river was made. Arrangements were completed for having some blasting done to improve the channel at one point, but owing to high water occurring at the only time when the services of the Departmental Foreman were available, the work was not completed.

7. Nashwaak River, York County.—The construction of a concrete wing in the river immediately below the dam on the Nashwaak Pulp and Paper Company, Limited, in order to improve the channel for the passage of salmon into the fishway was completed at a cost of $55.66.

8. Nashwaaksis River, York County.—Inspected a dam on this river owned by the Hawkins Lumber Company. Owing to the unimportance of the stream it was not considered that the owner should be required to install a fishway.

9. Tobique River, Victoria County.—

- (a) Inspected Fraser Companies' dam at Plaster rock and found fishway to be in good condition and effective.
- (b) Consulted with Mr. Donald Fraser regarding the company's proposal to build a dam at Red rapids. Nothing definite had been decided upon for that season, and Mr. Fraser stated that it was now quite possible that the dam would not be built.
- (c) As representations had been made regarding the condition of the river at Riley's brook, and the department urged to do some work, an inspection of the location was made. It was ascertained that the principal concern of those making the representations was that freshets were changing the gravel bars in the river, thus spoiling some of the angling pools. As there was no evidence that the passage of salmon was in any way impeded, action to meet the wishes of those interested was not recommended.

10. Salmon River, Victoria County.—An inspection of the fishway completed in Joseph Cote's dam on this river in 1924 was made. It was found to be in good condition and effective.

11. Meduxnekeag River, Carleton County.—An inspection of the dam at the mouth of this river was made and a survey conducted for the construction of a fishway therein. A notice was later served on the owners of the dam to construct the fishway.

12. Nepisiquit River, Gloucester County.—Representations having been made to the department that a dam on this river, owned by the Bathurst Lumber Company, was proving a deterrent to the passage of salmon an inspection was made and in consultation with the officials of the company advice was given for the improvement of this condition. The company agreed to have the necessary alterations to its dam made.

13. Madawaska County.—As the Madawaska Fish and Game Protective Association had requested that the department cause fishways to be built in a number of dams in that county, a meeting of that association was addressed, pointing out that owing to the location of all the rivers in question above Grand falls on the St. John river, nothing would be gained by installing fishways as no migratory fish could return to them owing to the falls.

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND

Fishways in dams on Prince Edward Island to permit the ascent of sea trout, and in some cases salmon, to the upper waters of the rivers have been persistently urged for several years. There are no crown lands on the island and all mill ponds and streams are on privately-owned lands. It would accordingly be within the rights of the owners to either lease the fishing privileges or to restrict them to such extent as they might desire. Moreover, all the dams on the larger streams have been in existence for a great number of years and in no instance was it found that the present owner was the original one. There had never previously been any fishways in dams on the island and the present owners had acquired the properties without knowledge of the requirements regarding them. As it did not appear equitable to require the present owners of the dams to build fishways therein at their own expense, the department adopted the policy that it would build and maintain them in dams on desirable streams after such had been approved, on the condition that a proper understanding was procured in each instance that the public would be allowed so long as the fishway was maintained by the department, to fish in the streams, subject to the regulations of the department.

Under this policy the following fishways were built in 1925:—

1. New Glasgow River, Queens County.—Fishway in the New Glasgow Rolling Mills' dam, at a cost of $272.87.

2. Vernon River, Queens County.—Fishway in the Ross dam, at a cost of $314.39.

3. Desable River, Queens County.—Fishway in the Dickson dam, at a cost of $362.49.

4. Morell River, Kings County.—Fishway in Laird's dam, at a cost of $368.80.

It is pleasing to note that the effectiveness of these fishways was definitely ascertained in two instances immediately after completion, sea trout being seen to pass through them in some numbers as soon as they were opened up.

5. Dunk River, Prince County.—An inspection of a dam on this river was made, but owing to extensive repairs being made on the dam it was not considered advisable to proceed with the construction of a fishway until a later time.

6. Montague River, Kings County.—An inspection of the Montague Electric Light Company's dam was made and information for the design of a fishway obtained.

MANITOBA

No fishways were built in this province during the year.

SASKATCHEWAN

1. Cowan River.—Plans for the construction of a fishway in a dam on this river were made and submitted to the Department of Public Works, which has supervision over the dam.

ALBERTA

1. Waskatenan Creek.—The Canadian National Railways completed a fishway in its dam on this creek under the direction of the department.

2. Pipestone Creek.—Arrangements were made with the Canadian Pacific Railway to build a fishway in its dam on this creek.

3. Oldman River.—A thorough investigation regarding the need for a fishway in the dam at the headworks of the Lethbridge Northern Irrigation District was conducted. As a result of information obtained, it was decided not to require this fishway. The question of providing screens was also fully investigated and decided against as no practical scheme for maintaining them could be devised.

GENERAL

Periodical inspections were maintained by each fishery overseer of the fishways in his subdistrict, throughout the open water season.

BRITISH COLUMBIA—REPORT OF J. McHUGH, RESIDENT ENGINEER

Major obstructions to the ascent of fish were removed from the following streams during the calendar year of 1925, the amounts expended in each case being bracketed with the name of the stream:—

(1) Yakoun river, (Queen Charlotte islands).....	$ 610 25
(2) Birkenhead river, (Mainland).....	487 98
(3) Demanuel creek (Vancouver island).....	454 76
(4) Dean river (Mainland).....	432 83
(5) Stamp falls (Vancouver island).....	405 32
(6) Kwaye river (mainland).....	300 00
(7) Atnarko river (mainland).....	263 95

1. Yakoun River, Queen Charlotte Islands.—The expenditure on this stream was necessary for the purpose of clearing away an accumulation of debris from the mouth thereof and for a distance of five or six miles along its course, such debris having accumulated since the heavy expenditure some two or three years ago. As was pointed out in the detailed report concerning obstructions on this stream, there should not, in the ordinary course of events, be any necessity for further large expenditures here, if a certain amount of labour be performed by the men on patrol at Masset inlet during the season, or at the close thereof, and arrangements were made, whilst on the ground, by the supplying of an outfit of tools for this purpose, to have this work done by the resident officer from year to year. It is further noted in this detailed report that the most impassable log jams become loosened and disintegrated during certain freshet periods and heavy expenditure might be, at times, avoided when necessity for immediate clearance is not paramount. Pink salmon in enormous numbers frequent this stream.

(2) Birkenhead River, Mainland.—Work on this river was more in the nature of protection work to prevent further erosion of a portion of the banks, thereby depositing additional log refuse in the stream and at the same time endangering the stability of the Pemberton hatchery, which is located on the banks of the river in this vicinity. This work consisted of excavating a dry channel in the bed of the stream, opposite the bank where additional scour was feared, and the construction of crib work protection along this bank. The results have been quite favourable, although it was not, at the time, possible to excavate the new channel to the depth desired owing to a rapid rise in the river. This condition is being taken care of during the present calendar year, at low water season. Sockeye salmon in particular frequent this stream.

(3) Demanuel Creek, Vancouver Island.—Work on this creek consisted of the removal of a huge log jam, 14 yards wide by 150 yards long, and 10 feet or more in depth in places, which was all cut, piled, and completely and successfully burned clear. Cohoe salmon and steelhead frequent this stream in large numbers.

(4) Dean River, Mainland.—The work on this stream consisted of the construction of a by-pass about 40 feet in length around a fall in the bed of the stream which at high water created conditions of great difficulty. It is confidently hoped that as a result of the work performed, salmon will be able to pass this fall without undue delay in future.

(5) Stamp Falls, Vancouver Island.—The work on Stamp falls was performed in an endeavour to remove certain protruding rocks from the crest of the main falls, and the excavating of a series of pockets in the rock on the extreme right bank for the purpose of assisting the ascent of fall salmon into Great Central lake. Some years ago, surveys were made and estimates prepared for the construction of a fishway around these falls, that would safely take care of all varieties of salmon entering Great Central lake, but owing to the heavy cost of the proposal, and the desire of the Provincial Government that the development of the water-power on Stamp falls should not be hindered by any restricting fishery regulations, the work was never proceeded with. The work done this year was for the purpose of temporarily alleviating a condition of extreme gravity when large numbers of fish were observed dying around Stamp falls. Efforts made were successful as far as the passage of the coho and steelhead are concerned, but it cannot be hoped that sockeye salmon can ever reach Great Central lake until the larger and more comprehensive scheme is executed, and it is not likely that the objections to this, which have been registered by the Provincial Government, will ever be removed.

(6) Kwaye River, Mainland.—The work done on this stream was mainly occasioned by the extremely dry season, which did not give ascending fish a chance to take full advantage of the work that was done in previous year. Owing to the fact that enormous numbers of salmon were observed to be dying as a consequence of their inability to ascend, a channel was excavated in a suitable place around the falls, which enables the salmon to pass by. This stream is noted for the exceedingly heavy run of pink salmon.

(7) Atnarko River, Mainland.—The work on the Atnarko river consisted of the removal of the various log jams which from time to time accumulate in this stream after the annual freshets, and which are removed each year after they have formed, by the overseer for the district and such men as he can conveniently arrange to take in with him. All this work has been done in the interests of the various species of salmon which frequent this stream.

In addition to these larger expenditures, other small obstructions, costing as shown, were removed from the following streams, for the purpose of assisting the salmon to their spawning grounds:—

Granite bay.....	$ 25 40
Crawford creek.....	95 00
Kimsquit river.....	164 52
Skutz falls.....	27 10
Salmon river (Kamloops).....	136 10
Capilano river.....	30 75
Bridge river.....	40 35
Camp river.....	133 50
Hells gate.....	20 20
Louis creek.....	13 12
Mann creek.....	35 13
Sweltzer creek.....	121 75
Englishmans river.....	85 48
Hyas creek.....	87 55
Deep Bay cove creek.....	131 75
Sucker creek.....	10 00
Quatsi river.....	54 00
Lardo river.....	42 20
General account.....	1 50

The entire list of obstructions removed during the year under review comprises twenty-five separate pieces of work, scattered through the length and breadth of the province, each requiring its own particular inspection and treatment.

There has been no fishway construction during the year, neither have any reports appeared pointing to defects in any of the existing fishways in the province.

The sum of approximately $3,000 was expended on the creek which supplies water to the Rivers Inlet hatchery, Meadowse creek, which during the fall months, when in freshet, tore away banks, undermined the hatchery and partially assisted in demolishing the boat house, and washed away a portion of the pipe line. It was necessary to redirect the water of the stream back to its own channel and to reinforce the banks of the creek with rock and brush in order that the buildings might not further be endangered. In addition to this the sum of $1,200 was spent on repairs and renewals to the wharf and boathouse, $200 for repairs to the hatchery foundations, and approximately $500 for repairs to the pipe line. This stream will always be difficult to maintain on account of the extreme violence of its freshets, and a certain amount of protection work will be necessary every year in order to protect the buildings which are in use at this point.

During the months of June and July extensive repairs to the walls and foundations of the Babine Lake hatchery were performed, costing approximately $1,500. The Babine Lake hatchery is an old log building, constructed almost twenty years ago. Owing to decay the foundations had become impaired, and the walls of the building were bulging badly. Very satisfactory repairs, however, were performed on the building, new logs being introduced in places, and it is now in shape for many additional years of service.

During the months of August and September the old hatchery establishment at Cultus Lake, which had outlived its usefulness as a temporary structure, was torn down and a new hatchery and dwelling house for the men constructed on the same ground. The hatchery itself consists of a frame building measuring 34 feet by 56 feet, containing thirty-nine troughs and having a capacity of 5,000,000 sockeye eggs. The hatchery is of frame construction, 2 by 6 studs, unlined inside, covered with shiplap, tar paper and cedar siding on the outside, and rests on an 8-inch concrete wall, stretching clear around the building. The floor consists of the original dirt floor, having a 2-foot passage in between the rows of troughs, laid with duck boards in convenient sections for handling and removal. All troughs are new, together with their trestles, outlets and head tank. The roof is supported on four timber trusses, consisting of 6-inch by 8-inch tie beams, 4-inch by 6-inch principals, 4-inch by 4-inch purlins, 4-inch by 4-inch struts and 1½-inch truss rods. These trusses are spaced evenly throughout the building, which is lighted by eight 50-candle power lamps suspended from the tie beams on counterweights, the current for same being procured from a Belco lighting system operated by the Chilliwack Parks Board close by. The total cost of this building, including all its equipment, light and power line, painting, etc., was considerably under $3,000.

The men's quarters consists of a frame house measuring 28 feet by 26 feet, and provides a combined living and dining room, two bedrooms, each with a clothes cupboard, a good-sized kitchen and bathroom. The house is plastered inside and provided with full plumbing services, hot and cold running water in bathroom and kitchen, fully wired and lighted by electricity and heated by a large heater in the living room. The place is extremely comfortable, and cost slightly under $1,600.

In addition to this work, many inspections were made by the engineering staff during the year, including the Kimsquit and Dean river obstructions, Bridge River rapids, Granite creek, Valdez island, Prospect lake and Fraser River canyon, together with the inspections incidental to the removal of obstructions in the various streams.

The construction of the Cariboo road, Fraser River canyon highway, through the Fraser canyon in the vicinity of Hells gate and China bar, has necessitated conferences with the Provincial Government and various inspections for the purpose of assisting in minimizing, as far as possible, possibilities of further damage to the Fraser river in this vicinity, incidental to the highway construction.

Finished plans were prepared for the proposed new sheds at Digby island and work was completed on the warehouse and marine ways at Poplar island, Fraser river. It was necessary to give much time to the work of the Biological Board during the year, and several visits were paid to the biological station at Departure Bay for conferences with the director of that station. In collaboration with the Provincial Government plans were prepared for the proposed Biological Station at Prince Rupert, which, owing to certain unfortunate circumstances in connection with the location, was not commenced during the year. It is hoped, however, to have this establishment completed during the early part of the year 1926.

A new seven-room bungalow was constructed for the Director of the Biological Station, Nanaimo, B.C., at a cost of $5,250, and a new five-room bungalow for the use of the Biological Board at Cultus Lake was constructed at a cost of $3,500. Both of these buildings were constructed under contract, and excellent value was received from the contractors in each case. Plans and specifications for both of these works were prepared in this branch of the department, which likewise provided the necessary supervision during construction.

Construction was also commenced on a fence, approximately 170 feet long and 14 feet wide, across the bed of Sweltzer creek, which drains Cultus lake into the Vedder river. This fence is being constructed for the purpose of endeavouring to obtain an exact count of the number of sockeye yearlings and fry which migrate from Cultus lake in the spring. This is a work required by the Biological Board in the course of its investigations, and plans for the fence were completed in this office in collaboration with both Drs. Clemens and Foerster, of the Biological Board staff. The fence consists of a platform of 2-inch planks, 14 feet wide, laid on sills at suitable intervals which in turn rest on piles driven into the bed of the stream, both up and down stream faces being sheet piled with 2 by 6 tongued and grooved sheet piling to prevent scour and undermining. On this platform are to be erected panels of heavy closely woven wire, which will divert migrating fry into six counting pots, each 10 feet by 8 feet, which have been constructed on an extension of the aforesaid platform. The wire screens will consist of moveable panels each 10 feet in length, moving in slides like window sash. Each panel is in duplicate, so that when one clogs its counterpart can be lowered into place while the clogged screen is lifted and cleaned. Fry will be diverted by this fence into the counting pots, which are to be fitted with a device permitting regular exit and counting. All the work necessary on this fence was completed during the fall months while the water was at its lowest ebb. The wire screens will be inserted early in 1926, when the first trial count will be made. The numbers of parent sockeye salmon entering Cultus lake last fall were carefully counted, and if the operation of the fence proves to be successful, much valuable data will be procured.

In addition to the foregoing the large scale maps have been kept up to date and a considerable amount of new material added to them as a result of the various investigations and inspections made by officers of the department from time to time during the year.
